Western Leaders Say Reds Block Road To Summit

U.S., Britain and France All Send Similar Notes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western leaders accused Russia today of having disrupted diplomatic preparations for a summit conference.

President Eisenhower said this "cannot but cast doubt" on Soviet intentions toward a top level meeting.

His accusation was in a letter to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev made public here. Th. communication paralleled similar messages from leaders of British and French.

The Western officials told Khrushchev:

1. They consider a summit meeting desirable if it would provide an opportunity for serious East-West discussion of major problems and for reaching important agreements.

2. Charges by Khrushchev that the Western powers are trying to prevent a summit meeting by proposing unacceptable issues, are unwarranted. No proposals were made such charges in letters June 11. Earlier allegations from Moscow said U.S., British and French messages had been delivered to the Soviet government office by the embassies of the three Western powers.

Khrushchev's June 11 letter and an annex attached to it provided the basis for the Soviet premier's charge that the Soviet government had broken off diplomatic negotiations on a summit conference. Prior to June 11 those preparations had been under way at Moscow for more than a month.

Eisenhower said the Soviet government is apparently unwilling "to negotiate seriously on concrete points" in the task of preparation for a summit conference. He added, however, that in spite of this "the Western powers do not propose to abandon hope or to relax their efforts to seek solutions of the major outstanding problems."

On the Soviet action in releasing confidential material on the Geneva talks, Eisenhower said:

"The Soviet government . . . has disrupted these discussions in Moscow by taking upon itself to publish with selection of warm extracts from an attempt at consultation the documents exchanged between it and the Western powers, including diplomatic documents originating from the Western powers.

"This action is scarcely consistent with the spirit of serious preparation in which the Western powers entered into these diplomatic exchanges. It cannot but cast doubt on the intentions of the Soviet government concerning the proper preparations for a summit meeting."

The text of the message of the Khrushchev letter appeared to be aimed to take the whole out of the hands of diplomatic negotiators and transfer it back into the direct exchanges between himself and the leaders of the Western powers.

'It's Horrible' Queen's Verdict On Painting

EDINBURGH (AP)—Young art student James Mackay startled the Queen with painting of a fruit salad and a bottle of wine.

"It's horrible," she gasped in an unusual burst of royal candor.

Then she added quickly: "I mean, it must have been very difficult. The perspective is very tricky."

The Queen and Prince Philip were touring a boy's school near here, Tuesday and had paused in the art class.

Hospital Busy As Walkathon Takes Its Toll

STURGEON FALLS (CP)—The hospital in this town 23 miles west of North Bay was kept busy Tuesday by citizens celebrating Canada's birthday with a walkathon designed to test the stamina of hardy northerners.

Of those that managed to trudge the 23½ miles around a half-mile track in the finish line at the annual event, 16 were admitted to hospital for oxygen treatment. Ambulances were called as many more contestants forced to drop out from the race.

Jim Yusko, 17, of Espanola led the field by two minutes, making the trek in two hours and 45 minutes. Second was John Argo, 24, of Mattawa Township, who was a time of three hours, 52 minutes. In third position was Cedar Scarf of Sudbury, six minutes behind the winner.

COAL AND POWER POLICIES GIVEN GREEN LIGHT

Non-Confidence Motion Defeated

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons spent Dominion Day at work, mostly discussing the economic ailments of the Nova Scotia coal industry.

The outcome: The big Progressive Conservative majority won, by 137 to 42, what was in effect a vote of confidence Tuesday night in the Conservative government's coal and power policies in the Maritimes.

Today the Commons resumes its budget debate with a vote scheduled on a Liberal non-confidence motion. It accuses the government of inadequate measures to meet the recession and of moving toward greater trade restrictions counter to a free - trade trend in the Western world. The eight-day debate is due to end Thursday.

The House gave some recognition Tuesday to Canada's 91st anniversary of Confederation. It opened two hours later than usual due to a colorful military parade on the Parliament Hill lawn, and began its proceedings with the singing of O Canada—in French and English — and God Save the Queen.

RESUMES DEBATE

Then it picked up the threads of a two-day debate on a Liberal non-confidence motion charging the government's "failure" to avert a five-week shutdown of the surplus - plagued Nova Scotia mines of the Dominion Coal Company.

The motion put forward Monday by H. J. Robichaud, Gloucester, also said the government has "failed to carry" from its commitment to promote Atlantic area industrial development and especially from its "specific undertaking" to ensure use of Maritime coal to serve the area's thermal power plants built with federal aid.

The debate centred around the Dominion Coal Company's mines which have layoffs in Nova Scotia mines, and the government's announced plan of helping to finance carrying charges on a huge 4,000,000-ton coal stockpile to prevent even more extensive layoffs among 9,000 coal miners.

The debate ended with defeat of the Liberal motion.

Revenue Minister Bowlen, Nova Scotia's cabinet representative, said that "in the foreseable future" he would go to Maritime power plants not burning Maritime coal.

Opposition Leader Pearson called this "quite inconsistent" with a Monday statement by Fuels Minister Alvin Hamilton that it would be against the coal interests of Nova Scotia to have coal being used in thermal plants built with federal aid.

PM To Open CNE

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker will open the Canadian National Exhibition on Aug. 28, it was announced today.

Chamoun Sees Revolt's End If Two Attacks Beaten Back

BEIRUT (AP) — President Camille Chamoun says Lebanese rebels under Syrian command may launch a strong attack on the northern port of Tripoli at any moment.

But if this attack and one from the area southeast of Beirut are "beaten completely, the armed rebellion will collapse as a military movement," the pro-Western president said.

He was interviewed Tuesday as government jet fighters, armored cars and artillery turned back an attack from the southeast toward the Beirut international airport. Chamoun claimed this assault was part of an all-out attempt to capture Beirut and overthrow his government.

In Tripoli, where riots May 10 opened the rebellion, government artillery was active Tuesday. The rebels said 22 persons were killed but this figure appeared high. Chamoun said he had reports from Tripoli that Syrian officers had taken over military command there after rebel leader Raschid Karami and his lieutenant, Abdul Magaed Rafini, had a falling out.

The president said he had conclusive information that the rebels around Tripoli have been promised heavy mortars from Syria with Syrian artillerymen to man them. When these arrive, he continued, an attack may be launched, "but we expect the (government) defence to be very strong."

Chamoun said that, before asking for a United Nations police force to seal the Lebanese-Syrian border, he would give the UN observers a little more time to see if aid his government claims the rebels are getting from the United Arab Republic. He will not ask for U.S. or British intervention, saying as Lebanese forces are able to fight successfully.

Diefenbakers Escape Injury When Team Bolts at Show

SASKATOON (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his wife narrowly escaped injury Tuesday night when four horses bolted forward, catching them against the open door of a carriage.

The prime minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker were knocked forward on their feet before a driver pulled the horses to a halt. Mr. Diefenbaker was opening the Non-Fix, a five-day show re-creating Saskatchewan's pioneer times.

Neither fell and only a handful of people standing nearby realized anything out of the ordinary. There were 8,000 people at the show.

The Diefenbakers brushed themselves off and stood erect while the huge RCAF station Saskatoon finished playing O Canada.

The prime minister, who left later by plane for Ottawa, spoke a few minutes after the incident but did not mention it in his address.

Nameless Lake Grows Rapidly After Big Blast

Cornwall, Five Miles Away, Feels Effect

CORNWALL (CP) — Seaway Valley is getting its face washed and lifted today.

A nameless lake is growing with startling speed after 63,000 pounds of nitrose ruptured a river plug and launched a relentless 75-hour flood in the valley.

The blast tore two gaps in a 600-foot cofferdam at 8 a.m. EDT Tuesday to release the pent-up waters of the St. Lawrence, Canada's greatest river.

The shock was felt in downtown Cornwall, more than five miles from the blast. Force of the explosion sent tons of earth more than 200 feet into the air and hurled rock boulders more than 1,000 feet.

The controlled flood is changing this valley, a picturesque site settled first 174 years ago by United Empire Loyalist soldiers.

A ghost land of 36,000 acres is being submerged to form a 100-square mile lake that will be a key component in the 1,184,000 kilowatt hydro-electric dam.

Dr. Otto Holden, 67, chief engineer for the project, threw a switch or button to detonate the nitrose. The explosion touched off a series of debris and smoke, ripped two holes in the cofferdam and sent a tidal wave 20 feet high lands to launch the flood.

BEHIND POWER DAM

Muddy water foamed through the gaps and swept on for miles to the high, curving power dam just three miles west of downtown Cornwall, Ontario's 18th largest city. And then it began to back up slowly behind the dam. By nightfall, more than 12 feet of water covered formerly dry land.

"When the blast went, a great cloud of earth shot 150 to 200 feet in the air," said Dr. Holden. "Some rocks went at least 1,000 feet into the air and buried themselves 18 inches deep when they hit the ground again."

At the flood team feared that only half the 3,100 cans of nitrose buried in rows in the dam had detonated, leaving the plug like a loaded powderkeg.

But when the dust up and looked at it, it had gone just as planned. Jean Pare, 28, Montreal, who helped prepare first plans for the Cornwall dam more than 20 years ago.

Thousands watched with strange fascination. The long-heralded flood that forced 6,500 people to move seven old river front towns to higher land had finally started.

Alaskans Toss Biggest Party Since Gold Strike

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Alaskans caught their breath today after tossing the wildest celebration since gold rush days. The celebration packed history as the biggest state in the U.S.

They poured it on Monday night, with whistles, sirens, horns, bells and fireworks and they cheered news of the Senate's passage of the statehood bill. Street dances followed parades. In Sitka, one-time capital of Russian America, a mock funeral was held for the territorial government.

At Fairbanks, the Chena River turned golden as wildly happy residents poured dye into the stream near where one of Alaska's big gold strikes lured pioneers and sourdoughs at the turn of the century.

At Skagway, the gateway to the big Klondike gold rush of 1898, housewives paraded in the streets wearing embroidered badges that read:

"Bigger than Texas, better than California, Alaska—God's country."

Full Security Clearance Given Col. Nickerson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army is restoring full security clearance to Col. Frank Nickerson, missile officer convicted last year of leaking military secrets to Alaska Senator Bob Bartlett, a longhouse job to which he was demoted.

Orders were disclosed Wednesday appointing Nickerson, 42, as chief engineer of the U.S. Army Caribbean Command with headquarters in the Panama Canal Zone.

The army said Nickerson's assignment will start July 8, the day after completion of that part of his court-martial sentence which deprived him of command authority for one year.

He has spent the last year in a routine job at Fort Amador, Canal Zone, supervising construction work.

Nickerson's leak- of what was technically secret information was aimed to promote the army's side in a service squabble with the air force over missiles.

Family of Canada Geese Sets up Housekeeping on Palace Lake

LONDON (CP) — Without so much as a by-your-leave from the royal occupants, a Canadian family has set up housekeeping on the grounds of Buckingham Palace.

The squatters are a bad-tempered lot whose boorish manners are a constant source of irritation to the palace staff.

Lured by the tiny artificial lake that adds a delightful country atmosphere to the 27-acre plot surrounding the palace's rather grim exterior, a pair of Canada geese literally dropped in. With their offspring, currently numbering six, they soon made it plain that the Canada goose's claim to the Englishman's home, is his castle.

"The parents sometimes cause quite a disturbance," said a harassed palace spokesman. "They are very fierce if any one approaches the goslings."

Canada geese were first introduced to the lake in 1965 at the request of the Queen. This compliment to the Commonwealth's senior dominion turned out to be something of a mixed blessing.

Four geese, presented to the royal parks by British ornithologists after following a visit to the James Bay and Hudson Bay area of Canada, were trapped on the lake by their wings.

At first, all was serene. The geese were on their best behavior and were a special favorite of Prince Charles and Princess Anne, who fed them regularly with bread and grain, sometimes by hand.

In 1956 nine goslings appeared and the parents, more ambitious than ever, decided to add to their original trouble-makers who have become a homesick for their native surroundings. In any event, they were observed nesting this spring.

The geese aren't inclined and the visitors, including many of the rather obstreperous guests will leave of their own accord as soon as goslings, now eight weeks old, are able to fly.

Two Out-of-Town Workers Drowned in Quinte Area

Two young out-of-town workers in the Belleville area for only a few days, were drowned Tuesday afternoon in separate swimming accidents, one in the Bay of Quinte off Zwick's Island, and the other in a Prince Edward county north of the city.

Drowned at Zwick's Island was Gerald Ernest Stinnett, 21, German immigrant who had been in the city only a week working for a sewer contractor doing tank repairs for an oil company.

The other young man to lose his life in an effort to beat the afternoon heat, was 20-year-old Arthur Sweeny, Six Nations Indian from R. R. 3 Ohsweken, in the Brantford district. He was drowned in the McFarland stone quarry on No. 14 highway north of the city.

Zimmer, out from Germany about 18 months, had gone wading off Zwick's Island with a friend, Eugene Binkina, and stepped into a deep hole. He was unable to save himself.

Police and firemen found dragging operations difficult due to high waves whipped up by the strong winds — but would end an RCAF crash boat had to be called ed in. The young German's body was not found until nearly two-and-a-half hours after he went under. The search had not lopened about two o'clock.

The Foxboro Road drowning took place while dragging operations were still underway off Zwick's Island.

WORKING IN AREA

In the Belleville area, where he was said to be working as a construction painter, the Brantford district youth went swimming in the quarry and soon was in difficulty.

A companion tried to save him and the two were seen by lifeguard lookers who thought they were wrestling in the water. It was only when the one swimmer came ashore lone and the other had disappeared that it was realized the pair had been in trouble.

The youth's body was recovered in little more than five minutes and Belleville firemen gave him artificial respiration for nearly half an hour before he was pronounce dead by Dr. E.G. Kennedy.

The young German immigrant had only completed the day old Zwick's Island had lived in Toronto until he came to Belleville about a week ago. He was staying at 103 Front Street and expected to go to Belleville's industrial area about six weeks. His parents still live in Germany.

The youth's brother had returned to Toronto for the holiday and his last night had not been contacted by police who expected to see him when he returned to the city today.

Mayor and Aldermen Tell Of 'Growing Pains' at Rotary

Belleville's "growing pains" was the subject of a panel discussion before the Belleville Rotary Club had as its guests at the regular weekly meeting in Mayor Gerald R. Hyde, and three aldermen.

The panel, under the chairmanship of Rotarian Alderman Jack Ireland, discussed some of the problems resulting from annexation which becomes effective January 1, 1958. They included traffic problems, the proposed river from parking lot, the Lane-Link project and the ending of the zoning by-law to include the annexed area.

Besides his Worship, the panel was composed of Alderman Harry Digby, chairman of the Planning Committee: Bob Templeman, chairman of the Traffic Committee, and Ralph Graham, chairman of the Parking Committee.

Following the panel discussion, a question-and-answer period was held in which interested Rotarians quested the panel on questions brought up during the brief addresses given by each of the panel members.

Belleville, after January 1, 1958, will have until 1961 or two times its present size and will have an increase in population of 15,000 to 20,000 or six thousand people, Mayor Hyde stated.

The "new city" will have an area of 5,795 acres, as compared to its present size of 2,160 acres and its population will jump from 21,077 to approximately 27,000, Mayor Hyde revealed.

The mayor also stated the tax assessment, this year amounting to $21,000,000, is expected to reach $28,000,000 next year. The addition of eight police officers and eight firemen is also anticipated to meet the city's growing needs, he said.

TRAFFIC PROBLEMS

Alderman Bob Temple spoke briefly on the traffic problems resulting from annexation and the lack of an access road east of the city off highway 401. He mentioned street lighting on new streets to be installed as required, and that the Cannifton entrance on Highway 37 has been designated as the business section entrance.

Police will appreciate any problems being brought to our attention and will deal with them as best we can, he stated.

Alderman Graham, in speaking of the parking front parking area said: "We are just beginning to see our way clear to making use of it."

Mr. Graham said negotiations for the acquisition of this land should be completed next week and it is expected the lot will be paved in summer and parking established on a meter basis.

Alderman Digby discussed the Land-Use Plan which will be implemented with the introduction of a zoning by-law for the new areas. The townships of Thurlow and Sidney will be zoned, and by areas will be designated for maximum economic use", he stated. "Council has engaged planning consultants, who are now working on a survey of the city."

He explained a temporary zoning by-law for the new areas will be passed after January 1 to give council control until a final document has been planned.

Public meetings will be held to give citizens an opportunity of voicing any objections. Once the Land-Use Plan has been ratified, a new by-law will be introduced which must be passed by the Ontario Municipal Board, following a public hearing, he explained.

The possibility of introducing a sub-division control board by-law will be discussed by committee of the summer recess he stated.

QUESTIONS ASKED

During the question-and-answer period, the question of whether or not the zoning by-law could be ratified without the approval of the majority of the citizens affected was brought up.

Councillor Digby explained that following ratification by city council, the bylaw will have to be approved by the Ontario Municipal Board which will hold a public hearing.

"It is not the policy of the Planning Committee to introduce a bylaw affected by objection to area or against the wishes of the majority of citizens," he stated.

The question of whether city Council could rescind any by-laws passed prior to January 1 by the townships to be annexed was put to the panel.

Mr. Digby explained Council has no direct control over the concerned areas until January 1, and that any bylaws passed by the township council prior to that date could not be changed.

The question of who should pay for the paving of Victoria Avenue east of Herchimer St., was answered by Mayor Hyde who stated in future the opening of streets will probably be charged to the city regarding these streets.

The question of how traffic will move from Highway 401 to Highway No. 2 was put to the panel. It was explained the department of Highways will decide which route will be designated an access road.

The question of diagonal parking on the municipal parking lot on Pinnacle Street was brought up. It was explained with diagonal parking only 56 cars could be parked, while parallel parkment allows 86 cars to be parked.

COLOMBO (Reuters)—A member of Ceylon's House of Representatives has called for the independent state within the Commonwealth to be formed by Ceylon's Tamil minority as solution to Ceylon's grave communal problem.

An official report of parliamentary proceedings issued here said that an independent member, C. Sunthralingam, a Tamil, called for the immediate legal and other steps to constitute a new Tamil state to be called Eelam.

He said that since the present government was set up seven years ago the Ceylonese nation had "disintegrated."

Tamils numbering 2,000,000 and are generally Hundu. The Sinhalese number 8,500,000 and are mostly Buddhists.

Government officials released no figures on the death toll in the communal riots but conservative estimates put the number of dead at 300.

Flooding Following Blast Is Like Creeping Paralysis

CORNWALL (Staff) — Inundation Day here on Tuesday gave birth to a number of rumors before cofferdam A-1 to the St. Lawrence River was detonated.

One rumor circulated that as soon as the cofferdam was demolished a wall of water, nearly two feet high, would sweep in from the river and endanger the Robert H. Saunders generating station — which stood thousands of people, 12,000 feet away.

Nothing did happen, though. One newspaper reporter described the blast and subsequent flooding as being like creeping paralysis, slow but sure.

Estimates of the crowd that witnessed the explosion ranged anywhere from 10,000 to 55,000, the latter being the estimate voiced by HEPC chairman James S. Duncan at a press conference at noon Tuesday.

Canadian Press staff writer Robert Rice impressed the more than 100 newspaper, radio, television and magazine representatives with his devotion to duty.

Rice, along with a number of other newsmen, heard a rumor that all of the 30 tons of explosive used to explode cofferdam A had not exploded. He ran the rumor down to its source (not a simple task), and got the facts straight.

According to Dr. Otto Holden, HEPC chief engineer, the man who triggered the explosion, all of the nitrone did explode. Few of the other newsmen thought the rumor was of any importance.

Something like a miracle happened just before the cofferdam exploded.

At that time minus one second a slight drizzle was falling and a light ground mist made the cofferdam almost invisible from the Robert H. Saunders generating station. At exactly blast time, the drizzle ceased, the mist dispersed, the sun shone and the sun-split from behind heavy cumulus clouds.

Dr. Otto Holden, chief engineer of the HEPC, said the day in the vicinity of Cornwall is "ideal for making cofferdams" like the one that blew up Tuesday morning.

He said that the specific gravity of the water packed with almost the same as the specific gravity of the same volume of concrete.

Dr. Holden is rated as one of the world's top engineers. He was the engineer who made a tunnel at Niagara Falls, Ont., one of the wonders of the world. He built a tunnel under the Niagara River near the Sir Adam Beck generating station and altered the flow of the river to make it straighter. The velocity of the water or interfering with natural forces, the tunnel simply "crossed" the natural currents in the river. He explained that the swiftest and the stronger current to a position where it would do more work.

An unofficial report estimated that $35 million has been spent by the HEPC to build the new townsites of New Iroquois, Ont.

Mrs. Maida Parlow French, a novelist who is writing a series of books about the Cornwall area said: The Ontario Intelligencer: "About 200 acres of the land that is being flooded belonged to my great-great grandfather, Lawrence Parlow. He got them in a deed from King George III in 1784.

"I didn't get emotional this morning when I saw the plug blown. I was past that stage. Four years ago, when the first sod was turned to start the power project, I cried and cried because I knew my family was losing something that it had had for many years. It was wonderful, just the same."

Among the Canadian officials who were at the scene were George Hees, minister of transport, Premier Frost and James Duncan, HEPC chairman.

Newsmen were billeted at the Century, Paragon and Carnation motels and at the Cornwalls Hotel in Cornwall.

James Duncan said, that to his knowledge, there was no contest to see which was the last ship past the powerhouse before navigation was halted on Monday. There is a prize though for the first ship up after navigation re-opens.

Dr. Holden said the water level at Prescott had dropped one foot in less than 24 hours due to the explosion. Depth of the water in Montreal harbor was kept constant by a chain of smaller dams.

Council Approves Purchase Of Flusher for Town Streets

TRENTON—Councillor Charley Hilton, chairman of the Sanitation and Waste Removal Committee, has been given permission by council to go ahead and purchase a machine to flush down the town streets.

The subject had apparently been brought up at a recent "committee-of-the-whole" meeting and was approved.

Many stores along the business sections of town have complained, and at times bitterly, of the dust which has blown from the streets into their stores. It has been their contention that although the present method of "men with brooms" do a very good job of keeping the streets clear of scrap paper and other debris they are unable to sweep up the dust. This dust is thrown up and into stores during the night hours, chiefly when the big transports go through town and cause store owners and their staff a considerable amount of extra time in the morning to clean it up.

Councillor Hilton, who is presently looking for prices on the various machines, says he wants one which is versatile and can serve the town in more ways than just flushing down the streets.

There are, apparently, various types of flushers and the councillor is seeking would serve three purposes. In the summer time it would be used to flush down the streets with its high pressure flush-nozzles or could be used to sprinkle water on dusty streets which are not paved.

With its tank of about 1,200 gallon capacity it can also be used to fight grass fires or other fires, where hydrants are not available. With the machine will be attachments to enable the operator to connect fire hose for this purpose.

Its third use would be in the winter when then the huge truck could be converted into a snow plow. The necessary attachments will be built on the front and, come winter and heavy snow, the plow blade can be readily attached and the machine can then work with the town crews in keeping the streets cleared of snow.

It will be a year-around piece of machinery.

Nearly $85,000 Channelled for New Machinery

TRENTON — Because the town has been more or less forced into the position of the biggest majority of its road building and improvements this year the public works committee, along with the sanitation and waste removal committee, has the opportunity to replace many of their older machines as well as buy new ones and build the money into their existing sheds.

Nearly $85,000 has been channelled through these lines with most of the money going into purchasing new types of ships now plying the Great Lakes.

Trenton is the Lakeland Gas Tower who will be tearing up streets to lay the natural lines and run feeds into the homes.

Because of this the councillors who sit on the two committees felt it would be folly to do a lot of improvement work on the town streets only to have them disrupted soon after for the laying of gas pipelines.

New machinery bought, and to be bought, for the town department of streets is as follows: grader, $13,000; truck, $5,000; flusher, $12,000; aerial ladder truck, $35,000 and a new police cruiser, $4,000.

In addition to the town sheds on the corner of Ontario and Meyers Streets will be about $12,000.

All the above prices are approximate and in the cases of the new grader and dump truck there will be additional charges affected.

Downer said any vessels designed specifically for service on both the lakes and the Atlantic would be at best a compromise. It emphasized restrictions on dimensions because of the size of the proposed seaway locks.

TRY CLEANING IDEA.

NEW YORK (AP)—The latest idea in subway vending machines: Put a quarter in a slot, put your dirty clothes in a locker, come back on your way home, put some more money in the slot and find your clothes cleaned and pressed. The idea is being tried for three months at a Brooklyn subway station.

Expect Fmishing Of Town Sheds In Two Weeks

TRENTON — Speed and efficiency is the keynote of the Albert Defosse Construction Company in the building of the addition to the town sheds on the corner of Ontario and Meyers Streets.

Construction work which began only a few weeks ago, is expected to be finished within another two weeks and will be put into immediate use by the Public Works Department and the Sanitation and Waste Removal Committee.

All that appears to remain to be done is the installation of the four huge doors on the electrical work and the laying of the cement for one-half the floor.

The floor will slope from the centre and ends to the two drains which are in the centre of each end wall. The electrical work has been started and will be completed on the main building but will have the various switches and fuse boxes of a separate circuit.

The four doors face into the yard of the lot and it is expected they will have some glass in them for added light. For other parts of the lights, smaller windows have been placed at various points on the side and front of the extension and near the top of the wall.

The roof, which is now finished, is flat, and the water will drain off through the two drains in the floor and on out into a tile filled ditch through the roof is a network of steel girders.

It is expected part of the building will also be used as a temporary garage, that there will be necessary to station a truck on the east side of the town. This will happen during the fall when the town bridge will undergo repairs.

Normally it will be used to store the various municipal vehicles overnight. The extension is 40 by 80 feet and is built of cement blocks. It cost about $12,000 to build and will be heated by an extension from the rest of the building.

Start Last Steps In Construction Of Bridge

TRENTON — Work on the huge 401 bridge across the Trent River and the highways to both the east and west is gradually coming to an end as the last steps in its building has been started.

The sides of the bridge and the steel work under-neath the deck have been painted and the planking which held the deck while the concrete was poured has been removed.

The only visible work left to be done on the bridge itself appears to be the installation of the lights and the painting of the hard service in the two laneways. An indentation between the two lanes has been left for this purpose. Down the centre of the bridge a traffic island will be placed and on each side will be a "walk".

The ends of the curbing has been finished on the approaches to the bridge and Highway No. 2 on the cloverleaf there has been filled and graded and appears ready for the coating of asphalt.

At the other end of the bridge the cloverleaf is also in the stage of cut-off the 401 at Sidney St. has been completed with concreting and hard surface applied.

It is expected the bridge will be ready for travel in another month, at the most, although it is possible for cars to pass over the bridge in the next few weeks.

The second bridge near Trenton on the 401 is where the new highway crosses over the Wooler Road. Here building has gone into various stages of speed and has been slowed down considerably. The reported bridge-builders have been in some phases of steel fabrication plus the fact of the cement being poured for most of the two large abutments and piers have to be allowed to cure before the steel girders can be put in place.

It is also being reported there is a set date when the bridge is to be finished but an extension of time may be allowed due to the unforeseen delays.

CONSTABLE INJURED

Constable David Camp of Trenton's force broke ribs on the left side as well as a sprained wrist and knee receiving when he dropped over a low wire while chasing two persons. The constable was in the act of jogging across the lawn at the St. Peter school when he had to cut to one side to avoid the low strung wire and tripped. His chest was trapped by the wire but he did not miss any tour of duty because of the injuries.

TO HOLIDAY IN B.C.

Mrs. Ethel Bowerman, 75 First Avenue, will be leaving next Monday for a one month visit with her son, Mr. and Mrs. Percy F.C. Mrs. Larry will be making the trip on the CNR's "Canadian" and may stop over in Calgary, Alta., to see the finale of the Calgary Stampede. Mrs. Larry will be taking her son, Pat, 9 and her daughter Penny, 4 to visit with her.

REPAINT FLOOR

The town firemen have repainted the floor of the fire station. They worked over the holiday.

Using rollers and brushes they have given it a lighter shade of dark gray border around the hall and a lighter gray in the centre portion. They also painted the steps and small room at the back of the hall. The work had been moved outside and under the shelter of an overhanging roof on the police station.

GIANT-SIZE SLOGAN

Carved into a massive rock on the island of Quemoy, only four miles from the Communist mainland, a giant slogan encourages the forces of Chiang Kai-shek. The carving, a representation of Chiang's own handwriting, reads "Remember what happened at Chu," and refers to an ancient battle in which Chinese defeated an overwhelming enemy. It reminds the 10,000 free Chinese on Formosa that the Communists can be defeated.

Wholesale Conversion of Blacks Seen Way to End Racial Strife

TORONTO (CP) — Christianity has been recommended to save South Africa from its racial problems, says Rev. K. L. G. Tudor, secretary of ministerial education for the Baptist Union of South Africa.

Attending the fifth Baptist World Youth Conference here, he said in an interview a government commission in South Africa has suggested wholesale conversion of Negro youth.

"The commission worked for three years investigating the condition of Negro peoples and it reported the Christian religion had miraculous power which had radically affected the lives of the Negroes.

"The commission proposes an attempt at conversion of the whole of the Bantu (Negroes) to Christianity to enable them to secure a more spiritual foundation and fixed course in life," he said.

PROVIDE MISSIONARIES

Mr. Tudor said Baptists in South Africa are providing as missionaries as possible.

The men are supported by the white areas of the country and many Negro pastors working under the supervision of white ministers.

"The Bantu are in various stages of development. Some are much more akin to professional doctors and lawyers.

"The race problem of South Africa will take years to solve."

Mr. Tudor reported the Baptist church in South Africa had protested against introduction of a new Act which discriminates against white churches except by government permission.

While Ottawa had assured Negroes they could attend white churches if they wished, but few Negroes did not attend because they had Baptist churches of their own.

District Survey Needed by Commission

TRENTON — Another phase in the work of a Provincial Board was revealed recently in a letter from the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

The letter was addressed to O. W. Larry, town clerk, who is also secretary of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board. It was signed by Terence Hunt, research and Statistics Division of the O.H.S.C. and reads as follows:

"In connection with a survey recently being carried out by the Commission, we have been engaged in estimating the present and future economic situation in the province. Unfortunately, a good deal of the information required for this purpose is of a particular nature, and cannot be obtained from the economic reports published annually by the Department of Economics.

"In view of this, I was wondering if your planning board would be kind enough to assist us by giving us much of the additional information for your specific region as possible.

"The principal industries and products in the area.

2. The gross value of production by industrial grouping.

3. The number of people employed in each industrial group.

4. The location of industrial operations.

5. The volume and value of production (by county, if possible) in each industrial group, especially wood products, paper products, forestry, manufactures.

6. The relative importance of each industry to your province.

7. The future of industry: especially any contemplated expansion and ensuing population changes.

8. The volume, value and outlets for retail trade in the area.

9. Factors affecting the future of retail trade in the area.

10. The importance of tourist trade, and the tourist attractions and approximate number of tourists per year.

"This information is most significant to us when it can be presented on a county basis. However, it is realized that such a breakdown is not possible in a number of instances, and any help you can give us will be deeply appreciated."

Macmillan Home After Talking To Gen. de Gaulle

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan returned home Monday night following a "very full discussion" of world problems with Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

The two leaders wound up a 24-hour meeting in Paris with an announcement that they were in "complete agreement" on the defence needs of the Western world.

"I cannot remember — and I speak quite sincerely—any conference of this kind that I have had in France which has been so successful," Macmillan said on his return.

It was the first meeting between Macmillan and de Gaulle since the general took office on May 29 following a military and civilian coup in Algeria.

British observers and sources said both leaders had agreed that attempts should be made to get an end to the Algerian conflict under way soon, although they also had doubts about its chances of success.

Macmillan said the talks were not limited to matters of "specific agreement" with France, but rather to wider East and Western Secretary Selwyn Lloyd to make personal contact with the new French leaders.

Want Hawaii To Join Alaska As New State

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and other leading Republicans have called on Congress to admit Hawaii to the statehood approved Monday for Alaska.

Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland of California Tuesday urged Democrats to show interest in Hawaii after he and other Republican congressional leaders paid their weekly visit to the White House.

Knowland said those attending felt Democrats would continue legislative action on Alaska's 49-year dream of statehood and Hawaii's 39-year hope.

The Senate Monday night overwhelmingly voted to admit Alaska. The House of Representatives previously had approved, and has refused to act on a bill to sign the legislation in another day or two.

The statehood "fight is not yet over," Seaton told a press conference in Juneau. He was accompanied by Alaska's Governor Mike Stepovich.

Stepovich said reporters he has not yet determined what political party he will join in the tandem statehood.

He predicted Republicans would capture one of the two Senate seats from Alaska—"that's for sure."

He also predicted Alaskans would accept by a big majority the conditions they must vote on before formally gaining admittance as the 49th state. The processes of acquiring active statehood will take about six months.

Deportation Called Shocking, Not in Contempt

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A federal judge has ruled that all U.S. immigration officers Bruce Barber's "abortive" order secretary of state Dulles to Finland "shocks the conscience," but cannot punish Barber in contempt of court because of a technicality.

Heikkila claimed Barber, district director of immigration, was later pledged no letup in efforts to seize on a San Francisco street April 18 and having him put on a plane, even though deportation proceedings still were pending.

Lloyd Burdine, attorney for Heikkila, 52, had obtained a restraining order from another federal judge to keep Barber and the one - armed draftsman who whisked to Vancouver without notification.

Judge Edward P. Murphy, in dismissing Heikkila's contempt charges Monday, held he could not hold Barber in contempt on the basis of a court order that was issued after Heikkila actually was seized.

Barber had no authority to release him once he was out of the United States, Murphy said. Heikkila was in Vancouver when the restraining order was issued.

"AN ABORTIVE THING"

The judge said Barber's conduct was "somewhat futile" and that the deportation "was at the best or at the worst an abortive thing."

"A more patent example of official bad faith would be difficult to conjure," Judge Murphy said. "Were his actions shocking? Certainly with so much peril to the rest of us, it would border on the criminal indifference."

Judge Murphy continued in finding that the commissioner of immigration service from again deporting Heikkila pending possible appeals from another hearing or settlement of an appeal from the deportation order issued 11 years ago because Heikkila was once a member of the Communist party.

Heikkila's attorney caused an international stir when immigration officials in Washington ordered him returned from Finland April 17.

SHAKESPEARE, MUSSOLINI AND GENGHIS KHAN

With the Stratford Festival in full swing once again, this is the season for praising the Immortal Bard. Some even go so far as to toss the mantle of infallibility over his wit and wisdom. Occasionally, though, he pulled a real booboo and none of these was greater than the inference in his query "What's in a name?" As any five-year-old named Algernon can tell you, hell hath no torture worse than a fond parent's tribute to gentility, unless a pair of tough little fists can transform the tag into "Butch" or "Buck."

High on the list of these people whom we would not expect to have shown greater insight into this fact than did Shakespeare is Benito Mussolini. Strangely enough though, Il Duce did understand that there is a lot in a name. Perhaps it was because he was named Benito, instead of the Italian equivalent of William. Anyway, back on July 9, 1939, just before the start of the Second Great War, he approved a law which forbade Italian parents to bestow on babies foreign or foreign-sounding names.

As one might have guessed, there was a political reason for this decree. Immediately after World War One, many Italian babies had received English and Russian names, the latter including such as Trotsky, Stalin and Lenin. Just why the Red-hating Mussolini had not taken some action long before 1939 about Italians named after leading Communists, we do not know. Anyway, the law was passed and it is still on the statute books. It has just been evoked to prevent Giorgi Garbini calling his newborn son Genghis Khan.

It looks as if, again contrary to William Shakespeare, in Mussolini's case the evil that he did was interred with his bones, while the one good law he approved lives after him.

It is, however, not an ideal law. While it protects Italian babies from such monikers as Lenin and Genghis Khan, it exposes them to the danger of being called Benito and other equally offensive tags with an Italian flavor.

IN NO POSITION TO CRITICIZE

There is an old saying amongst editorial writers that, when a blob of white space has to be filled, there is one safe subject. Nobody objects to a tirade against road conditions, perhaps judging by the amount of editorial space given of traffic to viewing with alarm the proposed "bloodless" fight at Lindsay, Ont., there is now an acceptable substitute for sharks.

Amongst all the editorial comment we have noted only two exceptions to the general theme, which is that there is no place in Canada for bullfighting.

The exceptions were editorials in the Peterborough Examiner and the Ottawa Journal. We do not have the Examiner's editorial before us, but our recollection is that its main theme was that many people are always ready to protest when any Canadian individual or organization suggests departing from the rut of the routine. The Journal's argument seems to us more valid. The writer says that he has watched bullfights in Spain and in Portugal, where the bull is not killed, and that "in senseless cruelty they differ only in degree, in the Spanish 'moment of truth' when the bull is killed - - - - before ended." Having thus placed himself clearly on record as opposed to bullfights, "bloodless" or otherwise, the writer then assails a letter in a Toronto newspaper which says the Lindsay exhibition will "contaminate the finest traditions of sport which exist in this country." He then proceeds to say that "we permit young men to go into the ring and batter each other's brains out," that "under the same 'finest traditions' of sport we have 'brave hunters' and 'sportsmen' licensed by law to shoot down defenceless deer" and that "we have that glory of sport called 'wrestling' where cruelty is applauded hysterically even when it is faked."

There are things in life almost as unlovely as cruelty," he concludes. "Among them is boastfulness over a virtue that is non-existent - - and the ugly sin of hypocrisy."

After a warning-like that, a writer who hunts, occasionally watches wrestling and regularly watches boxing does not feel qualified to criticize Lindsay.

Letter To The Editor

Practical Nurses Form Association

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Are you aware that approximately three thousand women have been graduated from schools for practical nurses in Ontario in the last three years? That they, the schools, are authorized to, and do, conduct classes and yet have not been approved by the Department? That the Department of Health was approached by them for approval but they were told, "We have no list of qualifications for such schools!" These schools have an excellent training program. Granted they are commercial schools, but what of schools outside our Department of Education schools are not commercial schools. Their's have an excellent curriculum and give fine instruction. I speak from experience.

Five-sixths of the women who take this training are mature and most are widows or married. They are tying to provide a means of support for those within the sphere for which they have educated themselves. They do not wish to take the place of a registered nurse. Many doctors are pleased to have them. They do not wish to be public recognize their ability, even to the point that they are told to "live and let live." They know we are sincere in our desire to serve in our chosen calling. Many of these women have not had training for any other line of work or are over age for that work. If you could only talk to them or see the real attention paid to doctors and nurses who lectured our classes and examined them, and how advised written examinations, you too would know that they are sincere in their desire to take practical nurses.

Many questions come not only from Ontario. Saskatoon Sask., to Truro, N.S. were represented in the gathering. We contribute to the people of the rest of Canada think of the opportunities for these schools to operate, women to spend large sums to learn the practical nursing that they could they have no standing?

We have a strong program for health payments being introduced into our province soon and there are not enough trained nurses to take care of the people who will flood into hospitals and nursing homes to be treated. Civil defence is another program where we could be of great value.

The graduates of the May class of September, of practical nursing have banded themselves into an association called the Graduate Practical Nurses' Association, and we hope to call all practical nurses to a meeting, to desire our schools to be licensed and approved by the Department of Health. Any registered nurse who has been trained for her work is to be allowed to practice her profession at her own level in hospitals or elsewhere as needed.

Any G. P. N. or other who may wish to know more may contact me by writing or phoning.

Respectfully yours,
Blanche Blake

Speeding warrants and jail terms will be assessed poll tax delinquents in the City of Belleville unless the offenders meet their city tax obligations forthwith, His Worship Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., ordered in today's police court when only one of five men who had been summoned to appear for non-payment of their poll tax, answered his name. A distress warrant was issued against him and in default a term of five days in the common jail. Speaking of those who had not appeared in court when summoned, the magistrate said: just what do those young men think our courts of justice are for? Unless they pay their taxes before July 31st, Jesus warrants for the arrest of these young men on charges of contempt of court.

"Note 1938) This tax was $3 and applied to all single men aged 21 years of age who were not taxable in the general tax assessment. The tax was abolished several years ago.

Oshawa Times-Gazette

We are happy to report that Britain has not changed very much. We had opportunity recently to glance through a recent copy of the Sunday Times from London, and it pleased us no end to see that the Britons still are ready to write to The Times.

Some of the letters have a major importance, and these make interesting reading, but what delights us most is the little things that makes way for a flood of correspondence.

One writer has been recalling the mislearning of a simple prayer in school and this evoked a number of letters speaking of similar situations. One correspondent noted that in his younger days, he was convinced the line in the hymn read:

"God, America doth provide: All our wants by Thee supplied."

Later in life he found it should read: "God our Maker, doth provide."

Another correspondent interpreted the line, "Pity my simplicity, suffer me to come to Jee." She thought the mental image of taking tea with a kindly man in a long robe, wearing long hair and with long whiskers.

As a further contribution to the mixup of young children, a correspondent wrote as follows: "When teaching my godchildren to say their evening prayers reciting 'Gentle Jesus,' she once muddled the prayers with a reference to the Good Samaritan and started 'Gentle Jesus, spick and span.'"

It is delightfully refreshing reading, and we are happy to see that the Londoners have not lost their droll sense of humor, and original trouble by adding a domestic problems that perhaps Canadians have not lost their sense of humor, and if so, surely it is indeed a great loss.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

WITH SKIN IRRITATIONS, SELF-TREATMENT CAN CARRY PENALTIES

"Dear Dr. Molner: I wrote for some of your leaflets but forgot to ask this question: What can one do for itchy, scaly ears on inside, that is? Doctors have given me oily solutions for help. Is it advisable to use pure alcohol ever? I have heard that recommended. — P. W."

There are at least four major factors of this condition, and what is good for one may not help another.

Here are the main ones: Irritation due to wax in the ears — wax, while not as a rule a serious matter, has a higher nuisance value than is generally recognized; second, fungus infections; third, chronic germ infections; fourth, allergy or local or cosmetics that may get into the ears. This last cause is probably more under-estimated than any of the others.

Dilute alcohol may be used or may be tried, that is, because there is no garantee that any particular treatment will necessarily be successful. A half-and-half mixture of alcohol and boric acid solution also may be tried.

However, remember that, because of the varied possible causes, thorough study is required. If it is a bacterial infection, an antibiotic or other appropriate treatment may be the only possible answer. If the trouble is due to fungus (or perhaps an infection caused by virus or some sort) the antibiotics will do a help for you.

I would, however, firmly suggest that you make every effort to determine the true cause, and for a piece of advice that I think holds true for just about every time except broken legs. Find the cause!

DON'T HIDE BASIC TROUBLE

Indeed, with skin irritations self-treatment can carry certain penalties if you don't happen to guess right the first time — and that is the time when doctors, devices and medications which are good for some conditions, may make others worse and, more annoying still, tend to mask the original trouble by adding a superate irritation on top of the basic one. I've heard dermatologists repeatedly tell how much difficulty this sometimes causes, and the longer a person has fooled around, and the more salves and medicines he has tried, the harder it is to get down to the basic trouble.

And another thing and itching be from allergy, then an antihistamine may be the proper ticket; that, or simply ceasing to use whatever it is that incites the allergy. That's why I'm so emphatic about finding the cause and not confusing matters by trying a lot of patent remedies that cured somebody else's itch. To make an analogy pun, "to itch his own" But it's true. What you want is something that cures your itch, not what cures somebody else's.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told the gas in my stomach is caused by swallowing air. How can one overcome this and will it be? — M. F."

It's the most common cause of "gas" and swallowing air is just a habit some people acquire, usually by not watching their food. It's a natural habit to acquire, especially if used doing it when drinking from the bottle. That's why you "burp" a baby. It is easy to stop this habit of which, you aren't aware, but it will be very useful when eating and drinking to avoid gulping, and to eat a little more slowly. It is also conscientious attention to break the habit.

Mrs. M. B. G.: There isn't anything that is serious in the product you mention — but neither is there anything that would overcome even close to living up to the claims made for them, My best answer is that most people won't be harmed by the product, you are going to be sensitive, or allergic perhaps, to something in it. It just doesn't fit the facts in the case of treatment presented to you, that there is a "poison" in the body to be cleaned out", and it will take so many days to do it, is nonsense.

Want to lose weight? It can be done if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "The Low Calorie Breakfast Diet." For a copy, write to me in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article thirty - six in a series contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society).

DOMINION DAY

Canada's Birthday is celebrated differently today than it was in the 19th century.

Before the advent of the automobile made it possible for local residents to spend the day far away from the city, community celebrations were common.

In 1896, for example, the 15th Battalion of the Argyll Light Infantry sponsored the local celebration. The Battalion's bandmaster, Professor Col. W. N. Ponton, was chairman for the committee appointed by other Battalion officers: Major J. L. Biggar, Paymaster; Captain J.F. Walmsley, Adjutant; Captain Quartermaster; and Lt. T. W. R. McKee, Aidjutant.

The Dominion Day program on Wednesday, July 1st., 1896, opened with a parade at 2 P.M. with a morning baseball game between the Kingston "Granites" and the Belleville "Tigers." This was followed by a horseshoe match, and a hammer - throwing contest.

In the afternoon, visiting city battalions, together with a mounted squad of Royal Canadian Dragoons from Toronto, paraded through the city to the Agricultural Park on the West Hill, where the bulk of the day's program was held.

Included in the afternoon's agenda were a march past and general salute by all troops, a tug-of-war open to eight - man teams from the battalions, and bicycle races. (Bicycling was one of the main attractions in the 1890's. So popular was it in fact, that a commanding officer of the Militia in a neighboring municipality claimed that he could not get together a sufficient number of men to drill in June because of the "wheeling craze").

Other events in the afternoon were foot races (with a first prize of $3.00 awarded to a ambulance race and rescue contest (which featured a silver cup, the winning four-man team). The familiar egg and spoon races, favorites of children, were also held, also held for both mounted and dismounted men.

The feature of the program was the exhibition put on by the Battalion Detachment of Royal Canadian Dragoons under Major F. J. Lessard, in part on a jumping display, lance exercises, and their famous Musical Ride, operated on the lines of the RCMP's Musical Ride).

Throughout the afternoon, the various bands in attendance performed, and in the evening there was a grand concert by the united bands of the 15th. (Belleville) and 38th (Peterborough) Battalions.

A military parade was also held in the evening and a mock battle was staged, much to the delight of children and adults alike.

The climax to the whole day's program was a display of "Grand Display of Fireworks".

Thus was Dominion Day, 1896, celebrated in Belleville.

HELP ONE ANOTHER

The erosion of beaches along the extensive coastline of this country is becoming a great national problem. Beaches are being washed away and twenty-five to fifty feet a year. The government and many thousands of property owners have for a generation or more been working to stop this erosion.

But it has been discovered that the best method of saving property is not concrete walls or any own beach ends up by not saving it at all. The project has to be carried on much more extensively. People have to combine to help save one another's beaches. The man who tries to go it alone is lost.

Jesus once said that whoever tried to save his own life would lose it, but whoever would lose his life for His (Christ's) and the gospel's would save it. Whoever works just for himself comes out in the end with nothing. Whoever goes further and joins the great project of God for human betterment which we call Christianity, finds every satisfaction he " looking for.

If we give our attention to our own little interests and stop there, the end will be dismal failure. We must help our neighbor save our beaches. We have to help o n e another's strength over life's difficulties and save our souls a n d theirs.

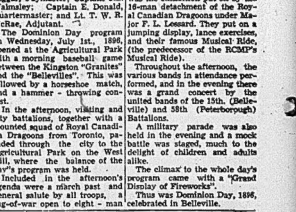
A BROTHER'S COMPLAINT

Whenever the telephone rings we know
It's for sister.
Dad mutters: "To answer it I will not go;
It's for sister."
And mother exclaims: "There's another call;
Have those young fellows no sense at all?"
While even the children begin to howl:
"It's for sister."

We've learned when the telephone rings at night
It's for sister.
At breakfast it's cry is now stale and trite:
"It's for sister."

Young men and young women, the truth to tell,
Keep one girl busy upon our bell;
And every hour you can hear us yell:
"It's for sister."



Nobody ever calls ma or pa;
We're thankful for that.
We sigh: "What nuisances they would be,
If it's for sister."
They call her from breakfast and lunch and tea,
And nobody answers it now but she.
For we're weary of shouting:
"Hello," then "Gee!
It's for sister."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my friends has just completed the rebuilding and modernization of his summer cottage, and a beautiful job it is. In place of the old wood range, new propane stoves. Instead of the old ice box, a gas refrigerator. Electric lights replace the oil lamps to which he had been faithful f o r forty years.

But I was surprised to observe that in the general clean-up of the surroundings of the attractive new cottage, the old ice house was still stood fast, though empty; and the woodshed, an open structure, still angled to the side. And it was still packed tight with well-cut hardwood. On examining the i c e house more closely, I discovered it was not empty. The old i c e wood apparently, explained the owner, "I don't much trust electricity up here in the sticks, because it is liable to go off in the next thunder storm or a gale of wind that might blow trees down. And I don't forget that in the big blizzard last year, the first thing they cut off was our oil, gas and other supplies to the war effort. No, sir. I'll live modern with my new son. But I'm hanging onto my old wood stove, my ice box, my woodshed a n d, available if needed, the ice house."

Bowling Notes

Five mixed rinks made the journey to Kingston on the holiday to enjoy the tournament sponsored by the Kingston Bowling Club and a rink composed of Mr. and Mrs. William Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Mitts of Trenton, won the major prize consisting of Brownie movie cameras and flashlight lamps. The only Belleville rink to get in the money was that of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watkin, who were fourth three-game high winners.

Other rinks to visit Kingston from the local club were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vince and Mrs. Charles Mott and Mr. "Shorty" Davidson; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham and Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith; Mrs. Winnie Smith and Robert Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price and Mrs. Ella Lloyd, Wally Lavergne, Mrs. Grace Clapp and Claude D. Tice. Most of these rinks won at least two games excepting the last named, which failed to get on the scoreboard. Inclement weather was ideal and the bowling greens keen, so all the competition was right at all times.

Art Armstrong and his rink from Kingston Wright and, in second place, while George Martin with his rink, also of Kingston, was in third spot.

In the two-game high, Ed Demsher and Dick Reeves of Kingston rinks, won the two piece while William Piercey and Jim Smith, also of Kingston, won the one-game high prize. Walter Cadell of Kingston, was chairman of the tournament.

Mother Skunk Takes Charges Across Highway

There is truth in the saying that discretion is the better part of valor, as more than a score of motorists proved yesterday afternoon at Bayside.

R. F. Miller, 24 Dundas St., reported today that at least 25 cars travelling east and west on Highway 2 came to a screeching halt in the middle of the township road when a mother skunk led her five babies on a journey across the road.

Mr. Miller was first on the scene after traffic had been halted for a short time. With only one vehicle left in the centre of the road, some motorists thought, perhaps, that it was harmless. Traffic started up, the cars veering politely around the big wildered small fry standing on the white centre line.

Witnesses to Mr. Miller's report were his wife and, Mrs. Frank Miller and Mr. and Mrs. J. Simpson.

All motorists apparently went on their way unscathed. So did of the polecats.

June Colder Than Year Ago

The filtration plant on the Trent Road reported today that this past June was colder than June 1957. Highest temperature recorded last month was 85 degrees, low 39, and the mean temperature, 60.1 degrees.

June 1957, however, brought a high of 89 degrees, a low of 42 degrees, to make the mean temperature 66.9 degrees.

Rainfall last month was less than during the same period in 1957. Only 1.96 inches of rain were recorded last month compared to 3.64 inches the previous June.

Someone must have thrown some ice cubes in the Bay of Quinte, because its temperature last month was noticeably colder than a year ago. High temperature of the bay last month was 68 degrees and the low was 61 to give an average temperature of 64 degrees. June 1957, though, saw the bay warm up to a maximum 77 degrees, cool to a low of 68 degrees to give an average of 70.3 degrees.

The 10 year average of mean air temperatures was 65.1 degrees and the average rainfall over the same period was 2.2 inches.

UNVEIL PLAQUE TO MARK FIRST GOLD MINE

An aluminum plaque commemorating the first Ontario gold rush in Ontario back in 1866, at Eldorado, six miles north of Madoc, was unveiled Monday afternoon. Wording on the plaque notes that in August, 1866, Marcus Herbert Powell, clerk of the division court and part time prospector, discovered a vein of gold on the farm of John Richardson. Shown admiring the plaque are H. C. Millsap, deputy Minister of Mines; Ernie Richardson, grandson of the original mine property owner, and Mrs. John Thompson, president of the Eldorado Women's Institute.

Unveiling Eldorado Plaque At Site of First Gold Mine Highlights Madoc's Reunion

An exciting part of Hastings county's mineral mining past was commemorated at Eldorado site of Ontario's first gold mining rush — on Monday when a plaque marking the location of the first mine was unveiled by the Historical Sites Department of the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity.

The plaque was unveiled by H. L. Rickaby, deputy minister of mines, with county and other dignitaries recalling the gold rush which brought hundreds of prospectors to Eldorado back in 1866.

PART OF REUNION

The plaque marking the site of the first mine at Eldorado was unveiled in conjunction with the Madoc Old Boys' Reunion, which for four days brought swarms of visitors to Madoc, self-styled "hub of Hastings."

Chairman of the unveiling ceremony atop a cedar studded knoll, immediately to the west of Eldorado, was A. V. McMurray of Gilmour, while Reid Richardson, Woodstock, grandson of John Richardson, owner of the farm on which the first mine was located, told of high family hopes with the discovery of gold.

He related his father recalling the discovery of gold on his grandfather's farm. His grandfather had been plowing at the time and was excitedly told to "unhitch the horses, we've found gold."

MINES NOT PROFITABLE

But although the Eldorado discovery attracted many prospectors to the area and "dozens" of hotels sprang up, the mines did not prove profitable and eventually they were abandoned.

Today only a few old shaft workings on the cedar-crested hilltop and the broken walls of the former mill structure of the Richardson mine remain.

Mrs. John Thompson, president of the Eldorado Women's Institute, noted that only one building in the village proper still remains to remind villagers of the gold rush days.

Clarence Robson, M.L.A., for Hastings East, complimented the residents of Madoc and Eldorado for the part these centres had played in early county history.

Mr. W. H. Cranston, representing the Historical Sites and Monuments Commission said he hoped that the erection of the plaque concerning Ontario's first gold mine would help to make a contribution to tourism in this part of Ontario.

Mrs. Thompson noted that the township council and the Eldorado Institute would combine to create a picnic area at the site of the old mine.

Other speakers included Mr. C. I. Ross, president of the Madoc Chamber of Commerce, Hastings county warden Lloyd Price, and Allan Robinson, a member of the Madoc township council.

After the unveiling ceremony was the focal point of a cavalcade of cars which started earlier at Madoc. Following the ceremony the visitors were taken to the old Potters Mill, to Deloro, and to the Bethlehem Mines at Marmora.

MADOC JAMMED

Downtown Madoc was literally "jammed to the ears" Tuesday as the Old Home Week proceedings were continued with a calithumpian parade, featuring three bands, floats, clowns and drum majorettes. Old time transportation had its part in the parade with old model autos, horses and wagons and the once famous top buggy with the horse's dinner of hay roped to the rear deck.

Out-of-town floats included one from Belleville and another from Stirling, this one advertising their own Centennial party in August.

During the afternoon a program of sports was held at the ball park. Featured during the afternoon was the Havelock Pipe Band and two ball games.

Tuesday evening saw a big street carnival featuring professional artists in a variety show, round and square dancing, games, bingo and refreshment booths.

Reunion activities got underway on Saturday with registration and a circus performance at the arena. Sunday morning special church services were held with Masonic and L.O.L. church parades, followed by the laying of a wreath at the Cenotaph.

Sunday afternoon Madoc Legion staged a drumhead service attended by veterans of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. The service was conducted by Rev. T. H. Good of Kingston with Hon. Sidney Smith, Minister of External Affairs and Hastings-Frontenac constituency representative at Ottawa, as the guest speaker.

Sunday evening there was a special Old Boys' Reunion church service at St. John's Anglican Church and a Sunday morning former students of Madoc public school and former teachers gathered at the school to renew acquaintances.

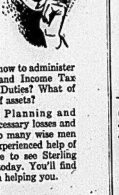
In London, Prime Minister Macmillan told Khrushchev today that Russia appears more interested in demanding a summit conference than in seeing one succeed.



In a firmly worded letter to the Soviet premier, Macmillan said the U.S.S.R. and the Western powers "have two totally different objectives."

"Yours is to simply convene a summit conference.

"Ours is to negotiate a settlement of some of the differences which divide us.

"How can a negotiation be successful and result in a real detente (accord) if the two sides are unable even to agree on what they are to negotiate about?"

Toronto Man Held by Police On Theft Charge

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford police, with the assistance of OPP Cpl. Archie Eady of the Campbellford detachment, arrested a 55-year-old Toronto man, Frank Cohen late Saturday night and charged him with theft of an article valued at less than $50.

Cohen is alleged to have entered a Campbellford drug store operated by Roy Bennett. While in the store Cohen picked up a film, and according to the proprietor, attempted to steal it. Cohen offered to pay for the film, but Mr. Bennett locked the front door of the store while he went to the back to telephone police. Cohen apparently decided not to wait for the police and charged out through the plate glass door. He ran west on Bridge street and disappeared after crossing the Bridge over the Trent River.

Following an investigation, police arrested Cohen at a cottage on Trent River near the town, and charged him with the theft. He is to appear in Campbellford police court on Thursday. Following his arrest and release on bail, Cohen was detained overnight in the Campbellford Memorial Hospital where he was treated for lacerations to his left hand, suffered when he leaped through the door.

PortageAvenue Scene of Pitch For Salvationist

WINNIPEG (CP)—A collection box, a dark blue uniform, and an 83-year-old woman are a familiar sight to Winnipeg citizens on Portage Avenue.

For 43 years Mrs. Elizabeth Davidson has made this her collecting spot for funds for the Salvation Army. No matter what the weather, she is there. Most of the downtown crowds collecting a weekly average of $50.

Although the Salvation Army has adopted an annual collection week, Mrs. Davidson is a confirmed hardy veteran refuses to give up.

"Retire," she exlaims, "and die!"

She finds her most generous donors coming their way to their cars from the liquor stores.

"The young people aren't very kind to the old things," she said.

Mrs. Davidson joined the Salvation Army in the 1880's when she was a girl in Scotland.

Time has taken its toll and she has given up playing the tenor horn in the band.

"Not got enough wind now," she said in an interview. But she still is a member of the choir.

When a new collection box is here recently for the corps, Mrs. Davidson was presented with a medal for 50 years service and two additional 10-year bars to the decoration.

"You probably collected enough money to pay for the citadel," said Major W. R. Shaver at the presentation.

DOMINION OF CANADA

T and T set before the typewriter this week. Dominion Day. Maybe "wondering" would be a more apt term than thinking. We do a lot of thinking about Canada, our native homeland. What does it mean to be a Canadian? To become overwhelmed and a little enmeshed with the thought. If a Canadian knows, if he or she has paused to ponder what Canadianism means to each individual. There is the term New Canadians. What does Canada mean to them? Can it mean all the things in equal depth to them as it does to fourth, fifth or sixth or even older generations of Canadians? Can T and T for instance, whose ancestry goes back several generations, grasp what our dominion means to? let us say, a Hungarian who has come to this land as the result of a terrible accident in the history of his native land? All this is a confusing mental interrogation, but one to which maybe Canadians of all ages, and regardless of generations, could profitably devote thought. There is one thing which is undeniable and to him or her who may deny it, Canada has no place—our individual responsibility of citizenship to this land is indivisible and a common denominator.

What does Dominion mean? We turned to the Oxford dictionary. The first definition offered was: "The power or right of government and controlling; sovereign authority, rule, control." There is no sentiment or romanticism about this authoritative definition. We have rule, control and sovereignty from the Pacific to the Atlantic. The meaning of the word leaves no doubt and it is really a splendid word implying the responsibilities its definition confirms. Yesterday was Canada Day marking the 91st anniversary of our sovereign authority, rule and control of our destiny which, fortunately and, has been our destiny within the framework of the greatest family of nations ever conceived and nurtured by man. Today we Canadians commence a new year in the most challenging days the world has ever experienced. Canada has the right to command and require of each of us our undivided loyalty to this Dominion with each citizen, regardless of race, creed or color, has the duty to defend his country's sovereignty within our own family of nations and throughout the broader community of peoples in the world. Citizenship is no sinecure; neither is loyalty a convenient luxury. Yesterday the coffer dams of temporary strength were blown sky-high with a great noise. The cement and superstructure of the permanent dominion must hold to make it strong and great, a land of peace, comfort, and power. Likewise the cement and superstructure of Canada must be constantly reinforced with the moral fibre of faithful citizenship. The St. Lawrence Seaway is industrialization and our Canadian nationalism must be kept from Seaway or internationalism, an outlet and an inlet in a world of iron curtains.

You have read about the great Baptist Youth Congress which has been held in Toronto for the first time the world congress has been held in North America. It is being held in Toronto when the invasion of youth from many countries was at its highest momentum. The lobby of the hotel where we had an appointment was flooded with boys and girls of every color and, it seemed, every nationality. We overheard a solicitous hotel man apologizing to a harassed looking business man for the inconvenience. The business man said he had been harassed but his sense of judgment was untouched. He replied "think nothing of it. Why, they are wonderful gatherings." That was no, floor 13 people who condemn youth could be here." On the way up in an elevator, we stood by a girl from India, another from the deep south and a group of red and white boys and girls. Here are some comments: "Ah'm from Alabama, where you'all from?" "I've only been here a few hours but Toronto is wonderful" "You'all is right, the people are friendly." One girl noticed that there was no floor 13 on the elevator indicators so she asked the operator. The southern drawl exclaimed "You'all superstitious here?" One lad explained that he was from Missouri ah mean, south, Missouri for sure." The accompaniment was a Canadian who is president of a British firm in New York. He could not help but catch the spirit of the spirited youth congregated in the hotel lobby. Dominion Day was the theme of many of the songs; also of a flag drill, recitations and essays.

Presentations of necklace and carving sets were made on behalf of the pupils and teachers, to the popular teachers leaving this year, Mrs. K. Ellis, and Mrs. R. Peebles, by Elaner Pound and Beth Graham.

Following the distribution of report cards, ice cream was served to all.

Woman Elected Lord Mayor Of Dublin

DUBLIN (AP)—The unpredictable Irish did it again.

Two years ago they elected a Jew lord mayor of Dublin—sometimes called the world's most anti-Semitic city.

Monday night they elected a Scots-born Irish, slight, gray-haired Mrs. Catherine Byrne. She is a Roman Catholic.

"This is the biggest shock I have ever had in all my life," she gasped breathless with excitement.

Mrs. Byrne won on the fourth ballot in the city council voting after a neck-and-neck race with Robert Briscoe, leader of Dublin's Jewish community who was mayor two years ago.

Mrs. Byrne is in her late 50s and has two grown daughters. She polled 23 votes to 17 for Briscoe who ran as the nominee of Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail party.

The outgoing mayor, James Carroll, 84, declined renomination, but was never a contender.

Mrs. Byrne is no novice in politics.

She sat in the 45-member city council for nine years as a representative of the Fine Gael party, main opposition to the Fianna Fail.

MOSTLY CEREMONIAL

The mayor of Dublin carries a yearly salary of £2,500 ($7,000). Mrs. Byrne's duties will be mostly ceremonial. Nowadays the capital is administered by a city manager under the direction of the council.

Mrs. Byrne is the second woman in the distinction of Dublin's first citizen since the office of lord mayor was created 500 years ago.

The other lady lord mayor was Mrs. Kathleen Clarke, widow of Tom Clarke, who was executed for his part in the Sinn Fein uprising in Dublin in 1916.

Mrs. Byrne was born in Edinburgh but has spent most of her life in Dublin. She was a teacher for many years and active in civic affairs with her husband a city councilor. When he died a year ago she was elected to his place on the council and has won every election since.

Farewell Gifts Presented To Teachers

A large number of parents and former pupils attended the closing exercises at Cannifton-Corbyville Public School on Friday.

Eddie Karkheck, a member of the graduating class, acted as chairman, and, on behalf of the grade eight pupils, spoke in appreciation of the guidance they had received while enrolled at Cannifton.

Mrs. Dorothy Reilly, music supervisor, accompanied the pupils in several musical selections, in which pupils of all grades participated. Dominion Day was the theme many of the songs; also of a flag drill, recitations and essays.

Presentations of necklace and carving sets were made on behalf of the pupils and teachers, to the popular teachers leaving this year, Mrs. K. Ellis, and Mrs. R. Peebles, by Elaner Pound and Beth Graham.

Following the distribution of report cards, ice cream was served to all.

PRETTY DISTRICT WEDDINGS ARE PERFORMED

NAUGLER — WHITEHEAD

Baskets of white and yellow feathered chrysanthemums and ferns formed a lovely background in St. John's Anglican Church, Point Anne, on Saturday, June 7th, at 2.30 p.m. when the Reverend L. Arthur Page, rector of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, united in marriage, Diane Violet Whitehead, of Point Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Whitehead, to Roy Hillington Naugler, of Consecon, Nova Scotia, son of Mrs. A. F. Naugler.

Miss Esther Juby, Point Anne, presided at the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Glenda Dunning, of Point Anne, in her rendition of "The Lord's Prayer," during the ceremony, and "The Wedding Prayer," while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Arthur Whitehead, the bride was radiant in her ballerina-length bridal gown of white taffeta featuring a molded bodice with lily point Mandarin collar, three-quarter sleeves, empire waistline, buttoned to the nape of the neck, and chapel type headdress and short, circular veil of tulle illusion, and carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses surrounded by white, feathered "mums."

Her attendants included Miss Janet Whitehead, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, attired in aqua with overskirt of white appliqued organza, wide cummerbund and large back bow. Her headdress was matching aqua with bandeau design, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Miss Byrne's bigest shock I have ever had in all my life," she gasped breathless with excitement.

WOODS — WRIGHT

A pretty summer wedding was solemnized at Otters Creek on Saturday, June 21st, in Stirling when June Clara Wright, daughter of Mrs. George Haggerty and the late Albert Wright of Stirling, became the bride of Mr. Merritt Charles Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wood of Frankford. The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreen and orange blossoms, Pink and white streamers and bells and baskets of pink and white peonies completed the home decorations.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, conducted the ceremony and the traditional wedding music consisted of "O Perfect Love" and "O Promise Me" by Lohengrin's Wedding March.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. George Haggerty, the bride was radiant in a ballerina-length gown of white dotted Swiss nylon over taffeta, with boat neckline. She wore a matching veil with lace edge and her headdress was adorned with opalescent sequins. She carried a white Bible with deep pink Sweetheart roses with streamers and love knot of pink ribbon.

The maid of honor was Miss Marilyn Wright, sister of the bride in a floor length gown dress of mint green dot Swiss nylon over taffeta, sister of the bride's. She wore a white and green floral headdress, carried a bouquet of pink carnations with a deep pink rose in the centre and wore a pink locket.

Miss Carolyn Merrick, cousin of the bride, was flower girl in pink Swiss nylon dress made on similar lines as those of the bride and maid of honor. Her headdress was of pink flowers and she carried a nosegay of white carnations with deep pink rose in the centre and green lace ribbon.

Mr. Harold Wood, Frankford was his brother's groomsman.

At the reception, the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, adorned with pink and white bells and silver decorations and a miniature bride and bridegroom in a lighted setting. Silver candelabras and pink candles completed the table setting.

The bride's mother received her guests in a gown of navy spun rayon with white polka dots, fashioned on princess lines with navy accessories. She wore a corsage of American Beauty rosebuds. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother in a dress of ice blue spun rayon, fashioned on similar lines with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Sheri Allen presided at the guest with-es were given by Rev. W. H. V. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Mr. W. Wood and Messers. Harold Wood and Thomas Bedford, all of Stirling.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, N.Y., and other points in the States, the bride chose a two-piece dress of orange and white cotton print with white accessories and a heart-shaped corsage of carnations.

On their return they will reside in Stirling.

Out-of-town guests present from Toronto, Belleville, Peterborough, Trenton, Frankford and Stirling.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored at showers given by her aunt, Mrs. Herbert Smith, and her co-workers at the Bell Telephone Company, Belleville, and with a presentation of a hammered aluminum tray from the Bank of Commerce.

MacDONALD — WELLMAN

A lovely-double-ring wedding was solemnized on Saturday June 14, at 3:30 p.m. in Carmel United Church by Rev. W. B. Merrick, assisted by the Rev. R. J. Johnston, when Glenda Lee Nora Belle, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Wellman, of Point Anne, became the bride of George Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard MacDonald, of Point Anne.

Mrs. Merle Robinson, church organist, provided the wedding music and the soloist Mrs. Percy Johnston, Foxboro, sang the ceremony "The Wedding Prayer" and during the signing of the register, "O Blessed Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked radiant in a four-tier gown of white lace featuring a fitted bodice and jacket of Chantilly lace with Peter pan collar and long sleeves very pointed over the wrist. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was edged with rhinestone and sequin headdress and she carried a crescent of pink roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Beverley Ursula, of Toronto, cousin of the bride, made a dainty flower girl in her pink frock similar to that of the bride's maid of honor, all wearing white accessories.

Little Teddy Kelly, of Foxboro, nephew of the bride, made his white jacket and navy trousers and blue carnation boutonniere made a natty ring-bearer carrying the rings to the altar on a white pillow.

Mr. Gordon Green, Point Anne, attended the bridegroom, and ushers were Gerald Ellis Wellman, of Holloway, brother of the bride, and Kenneth Donald, brother of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Carmel Church parlors, where the bride's mother received, wearing an aqua marine lace over taffeta sheath with white accessories and corsage of rose carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a navy, corded-silk dress, with white accessories and pink carnations.

The bride's table was appointed with white satin, centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom and flanked by all-ver candelabra with tall, pink tapers. The bridal bouquet lent a pretty nuptial note.

Both the church and hall were tastefully decorated with spring flowers.

Those who served were Mrs. Bill Kelly, of Foxboro.

MATTHEWS — DRACUP

CAMPBELLFORD— A pretty wedding was solemnized at Wellman's United Church near Harold on Saturday afternoon, when Annie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Dracup became the bride of Kenneth Matthews, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Matthews of Campbellford. The Rev. W. G. Fletcher officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz-length gown of tiered white lace and net over satin. The lace bodice was trimmed with sequins, and the headdress was sequin covered with a beaded edge. Her veil was of imported illusion. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Margaret Dracup, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, wearing a waltz-length gown of pink nylon over pink net, with a pink feather headdress. She carried a bouquet of mixed flowers.

The groomsman was Mr. Donald Matthews, and the ushers were Lloyd Dracup, brother of the bride, and Arnott Matthews.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home, where the bride's mother received wearing aqua nylon with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bridegroom's mother also received in a blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For travelling to the United States on her honeymoon trip, the bride wore a blue duster ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. On their return, they will live in Baltimore, Ontario, near Cobourg.

Out-of-town guests attended from Peterborough; Lakefield; Toronto; Campbellford; Cobourg Harold and Moira.

BOOTH — CURRY

TWEED — Miss Doris Curry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward John Curry, 29 Rednor Avenue, Tweed, became the bride of Mr. David Booth, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Booth of Toronto, at a lovely wedding in Bethel Baptist Church, Toronto, recently.

Bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and white carnations decorated the church for the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Harold Knapp.

The bride was gowned in white organza over taffeta with satin sequins and the headdress was fashioned with a satin sequin and bead veil fell from a white flowered cap headdress, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of white Sweetheart roses and white snapdragon with baby's breath.

She was attended by Miss Barbara Graham, maid of honor, gowned in green silk organza, and Miss Phyllis Curry, sister of the bride as bridesmaid, in yellow chiffon. Both were yellow headdresses of short veils and white accessories. They carried nosegays of yellow baby mums.

Mr. Lloyd Gower was groomsman and Mr. Gordon Graham, William Booth, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Earl Curry, brother of the bride, ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, with Mrs. Curry receiving the 50 guests in a navy dress with white trim and with matching picture hat and accessories. The mother of the bridegroom assisted, in a similarly designed gown in blue shades.

For the wedding trip to Virginia Beach, the bride donned a blue ensemble with matching jacket, white clocks hat and white corsage of gardenias. On their return the young couple will make their home at 1003 Bedford Road, Bellevue.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Morgan Curry, Bancroft, and Peterborough.

The bride is a graduate of Bancroft District High and is a teacher's degree in Arts and has been on the U. of T. staff in the Department of Nutrition, School of Hygiene.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP:
ON CONSIDERATION

Was a very wise person who said, "The basis of good manners is a fine and unfailing instinct to consider other people." It's a good idea to think seriously about this.

WHO PAYS WIDOW'S SECOND WEDDING EXPENSES?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter, who has been a widow for three years, has just married for the second time. Her first wedding was a large one, and her father paid all the expenses, also giving her a nice gift. But this time the wedding was outside our town, and the reception-supper was in a hotel. Now who pays for this, and also the wedding rings, announcements and so forth? I am a widow now myself, and my daughter and I are in about the same moderate financial status. We have four children, and I help with them. I would like to be clear regarding this question of who pays the expenses of a widow's wedding. I would like your opinion. Mother

The widow marrying for the second time, usually, and properly, makes all the plans for her wedding and pays all the expenses. Generally she gives the reception in her own home, in which case she, as hostess, of course pays all expenses; if she gives it in a hotel, she also pays all expenses. She also pays for all incidental expenses, such as the wedding cake, and announcements. Naturally it is her responsibility to plan the kind of wedding and reception she is able to pay for . . . she hasn't the right to expect financial help from any member of her family or anyone else. (Of course it's proper for her to accept financial help from her family if they can afford it, and offer it without any "hinting" whatever, from her.)

ANNOUNCING HER ON-OFF-OFF-AGAIN ENGAGEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Three years ago I was engaged to a young man, and my mother, a widow, announced the engagement in our two local papers. About six months afterward the engagement was broken, but this was not announced. Several months ago he returned from his Army service in Europe, we began to date again, and we've become engaged again. Now please tell me if it would be proper for my mother to announce our engagement in the newspapers again. Engaged

It would be proper for your mother to send this announcement of your engagement to the newspapers, but I suggest that, under the circumstances, it might be wise not to send this until she can, the engagement announcement, announce the date of the wedding.

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Roberta L. — My father is ruining my life.

Mrs. F. L. — I don't know how to change his ways.

Roberta L. — What can a girl of 17 do to make her father understand that he could ruin her life and others in the family as well by his antisocial attitudes?

My father just plain doesn't like people. He is very gro by a n d never smiles at people and has never made any friends. He is unfriendly that sometimes my friends have asked me, "Why doesn't your father like me?" How can I explain he acts like that to everyone?

The worst of it is that I don't make friends easily myself and I feel if my parents had friends I could be friends with their children.

I have only had a few dates in my whole life and I don't know what will become of me if things go on this way. Sometimes I feel there is no use in living if you are going to be an old maid.

Mrs. F. L. — I have had a long, hard struggle with my husband trying to change his ways. I used to be a very social person myself, but gave up when it just became impossible for the two of us to go out socially and to entertain friends like normal couples.

Roberta's problem is terrible and she has taken to crying constantly about it. I have tried to reason with my husband, explaining he is ruining her life, but I can't seem to make a dent in him.

My husband loves the children, but just ignores me or says it's nonsense when I point out to him the harm he is doing.

He retreats into his shell behind the papers or in front of the TV set every night and says everyone should do what he likes best.

The rest of the family can just go hang as far as he is concerned.

T h e Council: It is doubtful whether pleading and constant arguments have ever changed anybody. Certainly, they are unlikely to change a mature m a n who states flatly he has no intention of changing.

Roberta and her mother should recognize, however, that Roberta's problem is somewhat separate and is not as strongly influenced by Mr. F. L.'s behavior as they believe.

Roberta's concern about winning friends and a husband is a normal teenage anxiety. It is a problem she alone will have to solve, and she should realize that even teenagers with very friendly fathers and parents who have an active social life suffer from this anxiety. They simply go to work at solving the problem as well as they can.

In this country the best of fathers do not find dates and husbands for their daughters. The only attempt to do so usually meet with failure because the majority of young men resent pressure of this kind from their seniors.

Mrs. F. L. seems to be encouraging her daughter to p l a c e blame for her failure on h e r father. Possibly Mrs. F. L. is trying to use this situation as a wedge against her husband.

But she is doing Roberta a great disservice. As long as the girl can put the blame on somebody else she will not be about solving her problem. Her tears deserve little sympathy a n d should not be encouraged.

Roberta should be told in no uncertain terms that she must dry her eyes, screw up her courage and get out and rustle up those friends if she learns to make herself well liked, her friends won't notice her father very much.

Back Interest

The fashion news is in the back of this navy crepe daytime dress. From a square collar the banding continues to border a bloused yoke in back which buckles to below the waist. To offset all this detail, the front is simple and fitted with a square neckline. A belt extends from the side front seams, disappearing under the bloused back.

'It Depends What You Mean By...'

It took seven years to solve a problem sent her by a West Indian girl, said Mrs. Margaret Wigfield in a recent BBC broadcast. Mrs. Wigfield and her husband have for many years enjoyed entertaining visitors from India, Pakistan, Africa and the West Indies at their home in Malvern, and when Dorothy, a West Indian girl, said that she missed the West Indian dish of rice and peas, Mrs. Wigfield immediately offered to cook it. "Not those green English peas!" exclaimed Dorothy. "Jamaican peas are red."

Mrs. Wigfield wrote to friends in London asking them to search for these peas. "They found yellow peas, split peas, Chilean lentils, parched peas, red beans, white and black Italian beans — but no one could find me a single red pea," she said. "Long after Dorothy had gone back to the West Indies I was still searching for red peas."

Then last year the Wigfields had a young man from Jamaica to stay, and one day the conversation turned on the question of whether octopus existed in Caribbean waters. The young man thought not, but when shown a photograph, said, "Oh yes, we have those, but we call them pussies." A further comparison showed that what the English call a frog, the Jamaicans call a toad; the English kidney - shaped beans, she buzzard is to them a crow, and so on. Suddenly Mrs. Wigfield rushed to her larder and took down a large jar of bright red call these peas." That night they had rice and peas for dinner. handed the jar to her guest. "Don't tell me," she said. "You

75 Canadian Girls to Curtsy Before Queen

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Seventy-five Canadian girls will curtsy to the Queen this month, ensuring themselves a special niche in social history.

The Canadians are among the lucky girls selected to be presented to the Sovereign in this last official royal debutante season. Buckingham Palace announced last November that this presentation party would be the last. In future, socially prominent young ladies will be invited only to the mass garden parties held each summer on the palace lawns.

The announcement touched off such a flood of applications for presentation that the Queen is holding five presentation parties this year instead of the normal three. The Canadians are being presented at the two Commonwealth parties July 10 and 17. English debutantes had their turn earlier this year.

The number of Canadians being presented this year is almost double the usual number. Last year only 44 made their curtsies to the Queen.

SOCIAL GULF

The decision to end the presentation parties is in keeping with the Queen's expressed desire to create opportunities for wider contacts with her subjects. The parties have often been criticized on the grounds that they perpetuated class distinction, creating a social gulf between girls who had, and who had not, been presented.

Since 1951, 250 debutantes have been presented annually in the white and gold ballroom at the palace, before joining several thousand other guests on the palace lawn for afternoon tea.

Each debutante must be sponsored by a lady who has herself been presented to the Queen. By custom, girls from overseas Commonwealth countries are presented by the wife of their country's high commissioner in London.

The presentation parties are believed to owe their origin to Queen Elizabeth I, who used to stroll and chat with selected members of the public admitted to the long corridors of the old Greenwich Palace. The early Georges held boisterous stag parties for men, while their queens entertained the ladies at more sedate gatherings in another part of the palace.

WARTIME HALT

The present form of party, in which the debs are presented in turn, began during the reign of Queen Victoria. King Edward VII moved the parties from the afternoon to the evening and called them "evening courts." They continued in this form until 1939, when the Second World War brought such court activities to a halt. The parties were revived as afternoon affairs in 1951.

Spectator Sports

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

White sharkskin, so easy to take care of, makes a charming spectator sports dress that should see plenty of service from now on. Shaped bodice, extend grace-fully from the cuffed, banded neckline. The folds below the waist give a curved, soft hip-line. The bloused bodice is detailled by a double row of white pearl buttons.

Stresses Need For More Trade At Dinner

LONDON (CP) — Byrne Hope Sanders, former editor of Chatelaine magazine, said Tuesday night that Canada's young people are taking an increasing interest in politics.

"More than 80 per cent of the people voted in the last election," she told 220 members of the Canadian Women's Club at a London Day dinner.

Miss Sanders stressed the need for more trade between the United Kingdom and Canada. Canadian women could help to foster trade with Britain by buying more British goods.

One - third of Canada's labor force consisted of married women, she said. "Most are working to increase their standard of living and to give their children a better education and home."

Other speakers at the dinner included Joyce Grenfell, the British comedienne, and Lady Eccles wife of the president of the United Kingdom Board of Trade. Lady Eccles, a native of Tunis, Mrs. George Drew, wife of Canada's high commissioner in London and Mrs. R. A. MacMullen, wife of the agent-general for Alberta, received the guests.

APPRECIATES WOMEN

NEWPORT, Wales (CP)—Percy Jones, 56-year-old High Sheriff of Monmouthshire, gave his first official luncheon here for women only. It was his own way to "express the honor and appreciation the community owes its women."

Women's Activities

FRANKFORD W.M.S.

FRANKFORD—The Women's Missionary Society of Frankford United Church met recently in Rose Lowery Hall. The meeting opened with Mrs. Fred Charlesworth playing quiet music.

Mrs. Charlesworth read the scripture from Isaiah and a poem as an opening thought for the day. She also welcomed the members and visitors.

The secretary, Mrs. C. B. Reid, gave her report and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. C. D. Powell, who read a poem on "Christian Stewardship" called "The Reaching Arms".

The correspondence was read by Mrs. George Montgomery, followed by the business period.

For the October meeting, the Frankford W.M.S. will entertain neighboring W.M.S. societies.

Mrs. Milton Grills conducted the worship service and program.

Mrs. D. Mallory gave a temperance talk and Mrs. George Spencer a talk on "What the Lord Requires of Us."

Mrs. I. V. Riddell spoke on "Hands" and rendered "My Faith Looks up to Thee" voice and then duet and Hawaiian language.

The theme for the worship was "Christian Giving", encouraging Tithing. Mrs. M. Grills and Mrs. J. Morris assisted by other W.M.S. ladies took part, with a reading by Mrs. J. Bleecker, "Giving is Living".

The hostesses, Mrs. Grills, Mrs. Bleecker, Mrs. Morris and Mrs. I. J. Riddall served refreshments.

In the classroom suitably decorated for Dominion Day by the pupils, the morning session began with the issuing of the report cards that revealed the following promotions:

David Bush and Keith Russell to Grade II; Gary Bentley and Robert Gifford to Grade IV; Gerald Russell to Grade V; Sandra Halvorsen, Linda Bentley, Barbara Bentley to Grade VI; Alison Taylor and Sandra Russell to Grade VII; Richard Bentley to Grade VIII; Hildor Halvorsen and Allan Russell to Grade IX.

The program that followed really put Canada in the spotlight with the singing of O Canada, a prayer, synopsis of some of the outstanding men of Confederation, the saluting of the flag, and a piano instrumental of the Maple Leaf Queen.

The bountiful lunch furnished by the ever-helpful mothers played no small part in the whole affair. There were evidences of its being Canada's birthday even in the get-up of the food. One cake was topped with a red-white-and-blue Union Jack.

Holidaygoers Watch Parades, Ball Games, Honor Dead in Celebrating Dominion Day

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Solemnity and gaiety were all a part of activities as Canadians celebrated the country's 91st birthday.

Dominion Day holidaygoers watched parades, went to ball games, bet their money on the favorites and flocked to parks, lakes and summer cottages.

The July 1 holiday was celebrated under summer skies, with hot weather in east and pleasant temperatures in the west.

From coast-to-coast the ceremonies marked the federation of the united provinces of Upper and Lower Canada (Ontario and Quebec) with Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in 1867.

SPECIFIC SIGNIFICANCE

And for Newfoundland, which joined in 1949, British Columbia in 1871, and Quebec City, the celebrations had special significance.

It was Dominion Day 1916, that the Royal Newfoundland Regiment left in the Battle of Beaumont Hamel in France. Only 86 of the 800 men answered roll call after many of the bloody fighting against German entrenchments.

Wreaths were placed Tuesday at Newfoundland war memorials and graves in Canada and on the graves of former servicemen as the nation paid tribute to the dead of the two world wars and the Korean conflict.

Quebec City celebrated its 350th birthday with a parade of 80 floats and 30 bands and folk dancing.

Celebrations in British Columbia were linked with the province's centennial observances. Boys competed in the western version of soap box derby finals near Vancouver, city police held a track and field meet and a statue was dedicated at Fort Langley where British Columbia was first proclaimed 100 years ago, a night-time fireworks display lit up the sky over Vancouver.

TROOPING OF COLORS

At Ottawa, the 1st Battalion Canadian Guards trooped the color before Governor-General Massey, His ministers, representatives went back to work in a night sitting of the first session of Canada's 24th Parliament.

The biggest noise of the Dominion Day celebrations was heard near Cornwall in Ontario where a blast of 30 tons of explosives touched off a charge to remove a lease a flood of water from the St. Lawrence and create a new lake.

The lake will serve the Ontario Hydro-Electric power station being built along with the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Firemen's Union Threatens CNR With Strike

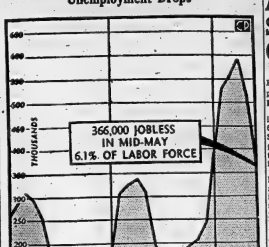
MONTREAL (CP) — The railway firemen's union says it is ready to strike against Canadian National Railways to back its demands in the long dispute over the future of firemen on freight and yard diesel engines.

W. E. Gamble of Montreal, C. Canadian head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC), said Monday he is confident the union could win a strike against the CNR, largest railroad in North America.

The union is battling the government - owned railroad's proposal to obtain sole discretion over whether firemen should be used on freight and yard diesels.

A CNR official in Montreal described the statement as "scare tactics which I am sure the public go more than they fool us."

UNFAIR TO PUBLIC



W. T. Wilson, CNR's vice-president of personnel, said: "It is unfair to the Canadian that the responsible head of the firemen's union should indulge in muscle-flexing at a time the whole question is being considered by the federal government conciliation board, where both sides have every opportunity to air their views in the fairest possible manner."

A federal conciliation board ordered private hearings that ran mid - June between the railroad and the union. They were later adjourned to Aug. 15.

The union lost out in a three-day attempt to tie up the Canadian Pacific Railway in a strike last May over the same issue.

The CPR had proposed that firemen be eliminated from the diesel freight and yard diesels. The company won acceptance by the union of a principle that no more firemen should be laid off than firemen come out of service gradually.

Unemployment Drops

A spring-time job pickup has brought the level of Canada's unemployment down to 366,000 in Mid-May from a post-war high of 590,000 in March.

This graph traces the monthly fluctuation in the numbers of persons without jobs and seeking work from the beginning of 1956.

The figures for May show that 6.1 per cent of the country's labor force of 6,031,000 were out of work. (CP Newsmap.)

All-Canadian Seaway Theme Of Frost's Talk

CORNWALL (CP) — Premier Frost says this country should proceed with an all-Canadian St. Lawrence seaway.

He spoke at a luncheon marking the breaching Tuesday of a 600-foot cofferdam to flood the Seaway Valley. He said he offered the suggestion as a boost to the Canadian ego on the country's 91st birthday, Dominion Dy.

Mr. Frost told several hundred luncheon guests Canada has already invested $14,000,000 in facilities to make an all-Canadian seaway possible. He referred presumably to a closure structure which carries the old Cornwall Canal through the seaway dike.

The present international seaway project, built in co-operation with the United States, runs down the south channel of the St. Lawrence and across the U.S. mainland through two locks and a channel into the pool for the St. Lawrence power project.

Surely, said Mr. Frost, the completion of an all-Canadian route is not too great an objective, not too great a price to pay for such an addition to the Canadian ego.

He paid tribute to the late Robert Saunders, former Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission chairman killed in a plane crash in January, 1953, after seeing the seaway and power projects launched.

PUT THEM TOGETHER

Said Mr. Frost:

"All the dreams, all the materials, all the ideas and all the knowledge were available on the St. Lawrence when he arrived on the scene. But no one else in either country could put them together before Bob Saunders to put all the pieces together."

James Duncan, present Ontario Hydro chairman, referred to completion as "a project conceived in a day, but which has been able to turn a profit on either power project for the two countries. It is true, said Mr. Duncan, it has been a co-operation in their dedication to doing the best possible job.

He announced that a large granite block will be placed beside the international boundary in the St. Lawrence power house, with an inscription read ing:

"Let this stone bear testimony to the common purpose of two nations whose frontiers are the frontiers of friendship whose ways are the ways of freedom and whose works are the works of peace."

Boom Community in B.C. Now Awaits New Lift and Rumors Fly Thick and Fast

TAYLOR, B.C. (CP)—Taylor is a boom community awaiting a new boom.

It is a rumor alley, populated with friendly people who will tell you it is ideally located to become the major industrial centre of the B.C. Peace River Block.

Their faith in the future here is as strong as their argument that no other place in the area has so many natural advantages for industry — the nice River and its fischaustible water supply, natural gas fields and forests for raw materials and energy, and now a railway to the Pacific Coast.

ROYAL VISITS

Its modern gas processing plant, at the head of the natural gas transmission line to Vancouver, is one of the places to be seen by Princess Margaret on visit to the Peace River country.

With a population of about 600 persons who have come here from across Canada, Taylor is at Mile 52 on the Alaska Highway, about 10 miles south of Fort St. John and 35 miles west of Dawson Creek.

It first gained prominence and boom developing in 1955 when Westcoast Transmission Company chose Taylor as the site for a gas processing natural gas from the Fort St. John field, for piping to Vancouver and the Pacific Northwest United States.

In the last year, it has been the centre of national news storm-in, first when the 2,100-foot, 94-metre Peace River suspension bridge — longest on the Alaska Highway — was opened to traffic muddy waters of the river. The bridge location is on Taylor's south limits.

Taylor hit the news again this year when rumors that this natural gas tanks exploded in a spectacular fire, and would destroy the idle Great Eastern Railway brought a train from the Pacific Coast to the North Peace for the first time.

FAST GROWTH

Three years ago, Taylor Flats was a 1,500 - acre stiffs field, broken by a general store, 15 or 20 farm homes, the Alaska Highway and a one - room rural school to which farm children were brought by bus.

Today it has three schools for 300 pupils, a flight a day and others are taken to Fort St. John; it has a modern $500,000 hotel, a beer parlor hall, several stores of various types and a growing number of residential homes. Shacks and trailer homes are still evident, but they are slowly disappearing.

Natural gas development made Taylor boom. The gas processing plant, a sulphur plant and refinery developed when Taylor was started the pipeline and the cluster of industrial firms on the site now represents an investment of about $50,000,000.

Providing services for the hundreds of construction workers who came to build the plant brought many of the 600 permanent area residents.

Dewey Armeneau, a 32-year-old man from Sylvan Lake in central Alberta, gave up a career in the setsmic end of the oil industry to establish the Taylor Hotel.

"Business was tremendous in the first months," he says.

When the construction crews left and the number of workers here diminished, business slowed. Traffic on the Alaska Highway, which runs up the middle of Taylor, brought tourists — mostly travellers with money to spend — however, and business remained fairly brisk.

Then the bridge collapsed and traffic detoured nine miles, by passing Taylor.

"When the bridge went out," it really hurt," says Tony Tony von Hollen, 36-year-old gas station operator and community civic leader. "The detour brings traffic back on the highway a half mile north of Taylor, cutting off a lot of business."

But Tony like others in Taylor, has high hopes for the future.

"If business doesn't get any worse than it is now and I don't see any reason why it should, it'll be good in the spring," says "And we'll grow again. If not in a year, certainly within five."

CP VALUES

S. J. (Sam) Millert 51-year-old farmer-businessman who came to the area 11 years ago with $1,000 when farm produce had to be hauled overland for miles to reach the nearest railhead, is enthusiastic about Taylor's position.

When he arrived in 1957, he homesteaded 400 acres on top of the hill east of the Flats, a farm he still owns and on which he has a good producing gas well.

In 1953, to get his two children nearer school, he purchased a farm on the Flats. Three years later the boom came, and he sold his 160 acres and sold them for commercial and residential use. Later he purchased the new

Old Vic Company To Tour Canada

LONDON (Reuters) — An Old Vic Theatre company of 50, headed by John Neville and Barbara Jefford, will tour the United States and Canada next fall with a repertoire of three Shakespeare plays—Hamlet, Twelfth Night and Henry V, it was announced Tuesday.

The five - month tour is being made under the auspices of American impresario Sol Hurok. It will open in San Francisco Sept. 15 and later visit Los Angeles, Dallas, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Ont., Montreal, Montreal, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Washington.

This is the Old Vic's fourth visit to North America. The last was in 1953.

SPEAKS EIGHT LINES

NYACK, N.Y. (AP) — Helen Hayes, one of the leading ladies of the American stage, played a role of eight lines Tuesday. Tuesday night as she helped reopen the theatre in her hometown. During the last week Miss Hayes helped reconstruct this community's old Broadway theatre, now called the Tappan Zee Playhouse.

COUPLE RECONCILE

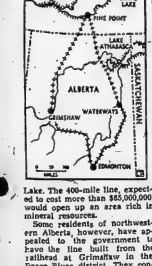
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joseph and Georgia Pelham Collins are back together today because their lawyers went late. As the couple waited for their lawyers in the hall outside divorce court, they started conversing. By the time the lawyers arrived, the couple decided on a reconciliation and left arm in arm.

theatre building, which he and his wife now operate.

"It's better than farming," says Mr. Miller.

"But it's made us so busy we don't have time to live," Mrs. Miller adds.

HIGH HOPES



Sam Miller keeps abreast of the rumors in town and will tell of a possible pulp mill, rubber plant, lumber mill and extension to the present gas processing establishment representing more than $100,000,000 in capital construction.

Brad Bradshaw, drug and variety store operator and weekly newspaper correspondent, says: "This is the greatest rumor alley! I've seen. There's a new one almost every day. Enough of them are founded well enough, however, to give the people here great hopes."

Transport Controversy

The federal government plans to make a grant of more than $15,000,000 to the railways to construct a rail branch linking northern Alberta with the south shore of Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories, but the project has been surrounded by controversy.

Informants in Ottawa have said it is almost certain the new line will run from Waterways, a railhead of the Northern Alberta Railway which is operated jointly by Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway, to Pine Point on the south shore of Great Slave Lake. The 400-mile line, expected to cost more than $65,000,000, would open up an area rich in mineral resources.

Some residents of northwestern Alberta, however, have appealed to the government to have the line built from the railhead at Grimshaw in the Peace River district. They contend that a branch running out of Grimshaw would serve areas now being farmed or which are suitable for agriculture. On the other hand, the northwestern Alberta spokesmen say, the proposed Waterways—Pine Point line would run through relatively uninhabited country.

Broken lines on this map show two possible routes to Pine Point from the northern Alberta railheads. (CP Newsmap).

REJOIN TORIES

LONDON (CP) — The five remaining members of the Suez Group have ended 13 months of the political Wilderness.

Edward Heath, the government's chief whip, Monday night announced their formal readmission to the parliamentary ranks of the Conservative party. The five MPs had sat as Independent Conservatives since they broke with the government in May 1957, in protest against its handling of the Suez crisis. The original group of dissenters numbered eight but two have resigned from the House and a third rejoined the party last winter.

Agents-General Singled Out for Special Mention

LONDON (CP) — Two provincial agents - general, one newly appointed, the other about to retire, were picked out for special attention at the Canada Club's annual Dominion - Day dinner in London Tuesday night.

George Drew, Canadian high commissioner to United Kingdom and club chairman, noted then and the dinner was the last club function that Frank (Bill) McAdam would attend in his capacity as agent-general for British Columbia. McAdam is retiring in October after representing B. C. in London for 15 years, 20 of them as agent-general.

"We will remember with the deepest gratitude the service Bill McAdam has performed here in London," said Drew. "He has done a magnificent job for B. C. and Canada."

NINE PROVINCIAL OFFICES

Drew recalled that when, as premier of Ontario, he decided to reopen Ontario House in 1943, McAdam was the only agent-general in London on opening of Atlantic House last month there are nine number of provinces maintaining offices in London. The excepting is Quebec.

Sir Denis Truscott, lord mayor of London and guest - speaker, said he was looking forward to meeting my Canadian brothers" when he visits Canada in August to attend the British Columbia Centennial celebrations.

In accordance with the all-male club's tradition, Drew sent greetings from the men to Lady Alexander of Tunis, who head's the women's section. Noting that General Alexander, former governor-general of Canada, now is visiting Canada on a tour, Drew's message read: "Now that Alex is away, we shall be happy to help in any way we can."

The high commissioner blushed as he read Lady Alexander's postscript.

And now his namesake's not too bad.

Les girls downstairs send love to Drew.

And best regards to all of you.

Rebels May Have Captured Two U.S. Diplomats Along With Other Americans Held

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Lack of word from two United States consuls who went into the hills of eastern Cuba to seek release of kidnapped North American aroused speculation today that Fidel Castro's rebels might be holding the diplomats also.

The U.S. Embassy in Havana had expected the consuls to return Tuesday with some reports on the 47 Americans and three Candians seized by rebels in recent Cuba coach Thursday.

Park Wollam, consul at Santiago, was reported to have been in touch with rebels near the town of Moa, where 12 engineers including two Canadians, were kidnapped, after going into the hills Sunday evening.

Robert Wiecha, vice-consul at Santigo, was reported to have entered the back country around Guantanamo Bay Sunday after noon to seek release of 36-services men from the U.S. naval station at Guantanamo.

The rebels also are holding two American managers of a nickel plant; two sugar mill executives, one a Canadian, picked up over the weekend; and four American agricultural experts for United Fruit Company seized Monday night.

The Canadian Embassy also was seeking the release of the three Canadians. They are engineers Harold G. Kristjanson, St. of Geraldton, Ont., and Edward Cannon, 50, of Cornwall, Ont.; ad Richard Sargent, about 50, of Toronto, the sugar mill executive.

More than 100 North American families live in the Guantanamo Bay area. Roads there are being patrolled and curfews enforced in an effort to prevent further kidnappings.

During Castro's abortive offensive last April in overthrow President Fulgencio Batista, the American families were given refuge on the navy base. Its commander, Rear-Admiral R. B. Ellis, said similar orders have not been issued so far out the base is ready to shelter the families if necessary.

State Secretary Dulles said in Washington Tuesday that the rebels are trying to blackmail the United States into intervening in Cuba. Dulles said there will be no U.S. intervention. Rebels also have been quoted as wanting the United States to stop helping Batista. Washington denies giving such assistance.

CELEBRATION ENDS

OIL SPRINGS, Ont. (CP)— Four gala days that ended Tuesday night will be long remembered in this Lambton village that has won the right to call itself the "Cradle of the Oil Industry in North America." Its history was re-enacted in pageant and parade.

FROGMEN SEARCH FOR SUNKEN SHIPS IN ST. LAWRENCE

Dozens of skin divers and frogmen attempted to fill in some missing pages of Canadian history when they searched for lost ships in the St. Lawrence River near Gananoque to Brockville. Though they would have been satisfied to find traces of any ships, they were searching for the Sir Robert Peel, a British gunboat sunk by privateers, and several ships of the U.S. navy lost in the war of 1812-14. No trace of the ships was reported but the search still goes on.

Canada Cement Co. Employees Hold Enjoyable Annual Picnic

POINT ANNE (Special) — With near-perfect weather conditions prevailing the Canada Cement Company's Point Anne plant employees held another highly successful annual picnic here yesterday.

One of the largest crowds in years enjoyed a variable program of sports and other entertainment that got under way with boat races at eight thirty a.m. and terminated with the euchre and dance in the canteen at night.

Marring a perfect day of splashed enjoyment was a brisk morning wind that forced terminations of the boat races after five events had been run off. Dacery to boats and accident hazards forced the committee to cancel the remaining races.

Field races and special events took place in the afternoon under the supervision of T. Horwood, Bill Shaw, J. Stewart and Sid Hayne. Earle Anderson was the convener for the boat races. Pony rides were available for the kiddies during the day.

Softball fans had plenty to entertain over. In the afternoon two pee wee teams, Rotary and Point Anne staged a fine battle Rotary finally winning 15-8. In the evening the league-leading tambesten Point Anne entry in the District Softball League won a thrilling 1-0 victory over the Cobourg Merchants for their tenth victory in a row.

The youngsters were well taken care of, each being given a free strip of tickets entitling them to eats and other goodies at the canteen.

The euchre and dance with Frank Bailey as M.C. in the canteen in the evening rounded out a highly enjoyable day. The evening's activities were under the supervision of R.T. Bennett, L. Horwood and Phil Loft who also looked after the baseball. Earle Anderson who was in charge of the overall activities of the picnic handled the affair in his usual capable manner.

Much Played 'Long Distance' Slated for Another Showing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — When Harry Junkin, serving in the RCAF, was stationed in Ottawa in 1940, he unexpectedly received a leave.

With only minutes to catch a plane to Montreal, Junkin tried to telephone his wife about his homecoming. He couldn't make the call. The circuits were busy.

The incident, however, has turned out to be Junkin's real edge.

"I started thinking about the busy circuits and wondering what a person would do if the message were a matter of life and death," he said. "And then I sat down and wrote Long Distance."

And Long Distance has turned out to be a broadcasting classic. It was first performed on radio by the CBC in 1941 (Junkin was a CBC writer). It was repeated by CBC in 1945, 1952 and 1947. It was played by the Australian Broadcasting Corporation in November and done by the BC in 1947.

In 1948 Junkin got a job with NBC in New York. Long distance was his first show and it was such a popular success it was repeated seven months later.

In 1950, it turned up on television's Big Story. Three years later Miriam Hopkins did it on Video Theatre and it was repeated the next year. It was used in Canada, France, Switzerland and Germany.

Now it is coming up again. July 25 on the Playhouse of Stars. This time Jessica Tandy is the heroine and it is a filmed show.

In all, Long Distance has been played about 30 times each time Junkin reaps new financial rewards—and thus has established some sort of a record.

It is a suspense story, showing the mounting tension as the wife of a man scheduled for execution attempts to get through a long distance call about newly - discovered evidence and finds the circuits busy.

Junkin himself has gone on to become one of television's busiest writers, turning out scripts for all the top live dramatic shows and a daytime soap opera, Love of Life.

Walter Brennan Back at Job He Does Best, Making Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Recently a visitor on a film set exclaimed: "Why, there's Grandpa McCoy. I'm agine finding him making a movie!"

Later, Walter Brennan sighed: "Think of it—after three Oscars and 40 years in the picture business, I'm known for a character I did one season on television."

Such are the vagaries of the new show business, and Walter isn't complaining. Far from it. Sixty-four this month, he's enjoying the biggest success of a long and distinguished career.

Right now, Walter is back at the job he knows best: Making movies. He's playing an old codger in Rio Bravo, a western with John Wayne, Dean Martin and Ricky Nelson.

For realism's sake, he has taken out his dental plates and is playing the old fellow with a gummy drawl. He also is unshaven.

"I wanted to get as far away from grandpa McCoy as I could," he remarked. And still, the visitors on the set always recognize me from the TV show."

As most Thursday night watchers know, Walter is the star of The Real McCoys. The show is about some transplanted mountain folks who get into a variety of funny escapades in their new home in California.

Though he now plays hillbillies and crackers, Walter actually hails from Swampscott, Mass. When he's not doing a role, he talks with an "a" as broad as the Hatteras Yahrd.

"When I'm in character, it doesn't show," he said. "But it can be pretty hard to get rid of at other times. I've been in the textile business in Oregon for a long time, and I had to learn to order 'calves' instead of 'calves.' I kept getting cows instead."

Ed. Bouchee Rejoins Phils At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ed Bouchee, Philadelphia Phillies first baseman who was restored to baseball by commissioner Ford Frick, joins his teammates here today and will start against Milwaukee Thursday.

The Phils take off at noon for Milwaukee and a four-game series with the Braves.

That series may prove the testing ground for Bouchee's comeback in the game he says will provide the best therapy of all.

"This was a medical case," Phils manager Mayo Smith said Tuesday night. "Bouchee is evidently cured and we are happy to have him back. I'll start him at first base Thursday at Milwaukee. He has been working out regularly in Philadelphia and probably will give our club a lift."

Under indefinite suspension since he pleaded guilty to a morals charge in Spokane, Wash., Feb. 20, the 25-year-old Bouchee was given another chance when Frick, at a news conference in New York, announced the reinstatement.

"It was the only decision I could live with," Frick said.

"I have made an exhaustive study of all the evidence, and I am convinced that Bouchee is completely. All the doctors and the probation officers who have been assigned to this case have recommended his return to baseball. I am assuming sole and complete responsibility."

ON PROBATION

A little over three months after commission of the offence, Bouchee was placed on three years' probation by a judge in Spokane. A psychiatrist testified that Bouchee suffered from compulsive exhibitionism, an aberration resulting from emotional illness. His offence was indecent exposure involving two young girls.

Bouchee has been working out, at Connie Mack Stadium in Philadelphia, since June 4 after undergoing psychiatric treatment for three months at the Institute for Living in Hartford, Conn.

Canada's Pro-Amateurs Win International Golf Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's pro-amateur team retained its international golf championship and Stan Leonard of Vancouver, St. George's golf club Tuesday defeating their United States opponents 6½ points to 5½.

Four teams comprised of one U.S. pro and amateur against one Canadian pro and amateur played in separate matches, in best-ball competition over 18 holes. One point was awarded in the fifteen of each nine holes, and one point for the match.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, winner of the Tournament of Champions and captain of the Canadian team, and amateur Gary Cowan of Kitchener, swept a maximum three points for Julius Boros and amateur Fred Paine.

Al Balding, Toronto, and Nick Weslock, Windsor, Canadian and Ontario amateur champion, took 2½ points from Doug Ford and Ward Wettlaufer.

SCORED SWEEP

U.S. golfers Paul Harney and Bob Shave scored a sweep in their match with Jack Kay, Montreal, and Hugh Paterson, Toronto St. George's.

In the fourth match, Johnny Hendrick, Ottawa, and Eric Hanson, Toronto Scarboro, salvaged a single point from Dow Finsterwald and Ed Meister.

Boros and Shave had the low medal rounds of the day with three-under par 68s. Boros eagled the par-five ninth with a drive, a three-iron and a 15-foot putt. Shave eagled the par-five 18th, marking it a 40-foot putt.

A crowd estimated at 8,000 followed the four matches in sweltering heat. Heavy breezes did little to ease the humidity. Canada won last year's match at Flint, Mich., 7½ points to 4½.

Blue Bombers Manager Quits

WINNIPEG (CP) — Bill Bolvin has resigned as manager of Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union and Jim Ausley, head trainer since 1952, took over the job on an acting basis. Bolvin said he was quitting to take a job as a hotel manager in Vancouver.

South Hastings Baseball League

A four-run rally in the fifth inning gave Latta a 5-1 victory over Shannonville last night in a postponed South Hastings baseball league contest.

The clubs swapped single runs in the fourth frame before the visiting Latta nine broke up the game with their big rally. They added a single marker in the seventh and final frame.

Meeks hurled four-hit ball on the Latta hilltop, striking out six and walking three.

Les Reid and Gerry Hill toiled for Shannonville, tagged for ten hits between them. They fanned a pair and walked an equal number.

Pitt, Chumbley and Meeks each collected two hits for Latta with the others going to Parks, Ray, W. Gowe and G. Rollins.

Barberstock, Bronnitt, Hill and Sherry vouched Meeks' slants for the Shannonville safeties.

Minor Baseball

The Juveniles, playing exhibition games in the regular midget-minor baseball schedule got off to a flying start last night when they whipped the Cardinals 13-1.

The city's OBA juvenile squad took advantage of poor fielding by the Cardinal midget team to score eight runs in the opening inning.

Cardinals got their lone marker in the second but the Juveniles plated four in the third and added a singleton in the fourth to close out the scoring in the seven-inning fixture.

BRUNO, Sask. (CP) — Napoleon Buford had been working out his two harness-racing horses for two weeks prior to the season opening when his barn caught fire. Both horses, including Annabelle Axworthy, well known in the west, were destroyed.

Virgil Akins Boxer of Month; Durelle Fourth

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The U.S. National Boxing Association Tuesday chose welterweight champion Virgil Akins as July boxer of the month.

The power-punching St. Louis fighter won the spot. After Pajoning Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., June 6 to take the vacant title.

The NBA's latest ratings list Martinez second leading contender for the crown behind Cuba's Isaac Logart.

Harold Carter, Camden, N.J., heavyweight, was placed fifth among contenders for Floyd Patterson's title after winning a 10-round decision from Germany's Willi Besmanoff in his first fight after a 17-month army tour.

Alex Miteff of Argentina dropped one place to seventh behind Ingemar Johansson of Sweden after fighting to a draw in Toronto with George Chuvalo. The Canadian, who came back impressively in that fight to floor Miteff in the 10th round, was not listed in the top 10.

The only Canadian in the first 10 of any division is Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., fourth in the light - heavy class. Harold Johnson of Pennsylvania, Tony Anthony of New York and Dutch Schopner of Germany are ranked 1-2-3 in contention for Archie Moore's title.

Jockey Rides Seven in Row

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Jockey Eldon Nelson, fresh from riding the last six winners for a Delaware Park record, missed the chance to at least equal two American records Tuesday.

Nelson picked up where he left off Monday by taking the first race on Tic Zee, a 9-2 shot, thus giving him his seventh victory in as many consecutive races.

Nelson had no mount in the second event. That kept him from tying the mark of eight straight set in 1951 by Howard Craig.

When Nelson accepted the mount on Les Stream in the third race, he still had a chance to match the record set by Albert Adams at Marlboro, Md., in 1936. Adams won with nine consecutive mounts over a three-day period.

But Les Stream failed by three-quarters of a length to catch the pacemaking longshot, Fumigator.

Falls Wins Peewee Tourney

STRATFORD (CP) — Lefthander Gary Hart buried two complete games in leading Niagara Falls Collegiate to the championship in the fifth annual Stratford Minor Baseball Association's peewee baseball tournament here Tuesday.

Hart was in command all the way as Niagara Falls whipped Kitchener 5-1 in the tournament final. Although outhit 6-2, the winners made full use of 11 walks given up by four Kitchener hurlers.

The champions scored four straight victories, shutting Owen Sound 10-0 in the opener, stopping Hamilton 8-3 in second round play and defeating Oshawa 4-1 in the semi-final.

Kitchener gained the finals with an 8-0 win over Brantford, a 6-4 decision over Preston and a 2-1 edge over St. Thomas.

OUTBOXES FOE

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Lynch outboxed aggressive Tony DiBiase to gain a unanimous decision in a battle of New York welterweights at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. Lynch weighed 147, DiBiase 149½. Firing a steady stream of left jabs and hooks, Lynch overcame DiBiase's two-fisted body pounding to record his 16th victory in 19 starts.

Seek Norris For Quiz in Boxing Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — James D. Norris, chairman of the board of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, is being sought by the office of District-Attorney Frank Hogan for questioning before the grand jury investigating alleged racketeering in boxing.

Hogan said that since early June his office has been trying to have Norris appear as a grand jury witness. On June 23, Hogan said, Norris' lawyer submitted a letter signed by a physician certifying that Norris had suffered two heart attacks. Any unusual physical, emotional or mental effort, the letter said, might have "a deleterious effect upon his health."

The letter has been placed in evidence before the grand jury. "Without reflecting in any way upon the physician," Hogan said, "the grand jury and the district-attorney's office feel under no obligation to accept this certification at face value. On the contrary, they are conscious of a duty to have Norris examined by a court-appointed doctor to determine if he is well enough to testify."

On The Tracks

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Silky Sullivan paid off for his dismirers Tuesday.

He won a race and he was never further back than four or five lengths from the leading horse in a tight pack of five two-year-olds.

Silky put on his surprise performance at Hollywood Park running in the $7,500 San Clemente Purse. It was a race at seven furlongs, and the time was 1:22 4-5.

The crowd of about 23,000, ignoring the sage counsel of most of the handicappers made Silky the betting favorite and he repaid them with a payoff of $4.20, $2.60 and $2.50. Willie Shoemaker rode him.

Orbital was second. Hit The Trail was third.

Going into the race, Silky Sullivan had been beaten five straight times. Included were ignominious losses in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tim Tam, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, left hospital Monday to complete recuperation from an ankle operation at Calumet Farms in Lexington, Ky. Tim Tam travelled by van to Lexington where he will complete the six-months recuperation period prescribed by the veterinarians who performed the June 17 surgery.

TORONTO (CP) — Marshall Ney II, Irish-bred seven-year-old that hadn't won in four starts this year, surprised a holiday gathering of 17,242 Tuesday by winning the $20,450 Dominion Day Stakes Handicap.

The horse, 33-to-one shot, beat the favorite Mister Jive by a neck in track record time of 1:50 1-5 for the mile and one eighth.

Windfield Farm's Censor was third, heading out his running mate, Nearctic. Paper Tiger, shipped in especially for this stake by owner Mrs. Ethel Jacobs of New York, was fifth.

The winner, owned by Joseph Timlison of Toronto, had to withstand a claim of foul lodged by Jockey Gene Rodrigues on Mister Jive. The stewards, after viewing the films, allowed the result to stand.

ALL DAY, ALL NIGHT

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — An underdog Elliot Lake baseball team defeated favored Joe Deals of Kirkland Lake 7-4 early today to win the annual Kirkland Lake district men's fastball league tournament. Ten teams from Northern Ontario entered the tournament. Three extra-innings games and an afternoon rain postponed the start of the final games until 1 a.m. today.

Now, low-cost employee insurance benefits, for small business

Now, employers of fewer than 25 people can make the benefits of low cost insurance available to their employees.

Metropolitan is offering an Employee Benefit Plan, which can be written for as few as 4 employees. It offers protection against the financial losses caused by death, injury and illness.

Three basic areas can be covered by this new plan:

1. Life insurance for employees.
2. Weekly Indemnity Benefits for employees unable to work because of non-occupational accident or sickness.
3. Surgical Expense coverage for employees and their dependents (or for employees only) for non-occupational accident or sickness.

Since it entered the group insurance field in 1917, Metropolitan has written thousands of employee insurance contracts, covering many millions of employees. This vast experience has gone into the formulation of this special plan for small business.

A Metropolitan Employee Benefit Plan not only furnishes the important basic coverages for employees and their dependents, but it provides a foundation on which more effective personal and family insurance programs can be safely and economically built.

Why not call your Metropolitan Representative today. He will welcome the opportunity to present the complete details of this remarkable Employee Benefit Plan at any time, because . . .

Chick Appel, that fossilized patriarch who scrivens sport in the Stratford Beacon Herald, and whose first newspaper job was proof-reading prehistoric stones, dies hard. The venerable Chick refuses to be convinced that the Soo Greyhounds will be out of senior "A" hockey next season, as announced, but says he has a hunch they'll be back in there fighting when the frost is on the pumkins.

He says: "The Soo arena is no different from any other—it must have a high grade of hockey if it entertains any hope of at least breaking even, and coupled with this fact is the thought that reaction of the general public will result in the Greyhounds facing the wire when the first puck is dropped next season.

Lidding his beard off his typewriter the "Happy-Pun" of the Beacon Herald notes there evidently exists some opposition to the recent agreement of OHA and NOHA senior "A" clubs to ban reinstated pros for one year. He says Coe, Fred Valaitis of North Bay, is one of the critics of the rule and he cannot up with a suggestion that might be more favorable and beneficial to the clubs.

He suggests that players with five or more years pro experience be permitted to return to senior "amateur" hockey as soon as they have been reinstated with no restrictions. Players with less than five years pro experience would still be barred.

We cannot see eye to eye with the ancient one on that suggestion. The ban of the pros for a year was primarily inaugurated to stop that bane of amateurism, player salaries. A pro with six years' experience would want just as much as one a year or so his junior. Besides the majority of available "pros" have been out from pro squads because of inability to keep up the pace, so what differences does a couple of years make?

New salary limits were set in both the OHA-NOHA and the Eastern League senior "A" for the ons and only reason, to cut the cost of operations. If all the keen managers are honest in their purpose reinstated pros will be offered the same as an "amateur"—to take it or leave it—so what difference does it make if he has had five years' pro experience or more. Total ban of reinstated pros for a year removes all temptation for managers to slip half an smuch under the table as they do over it.

We will go along with the antique one in his suggestion that the ban for a year on reinstated pros be applied to all senior "A" leagues in the country. He says, and we thought George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, was drawing up a document to that effect. To partial solution, of course, would be to have the CAHA incorporate the one-year ban in the rule book, which would probably affect other leagues as they are all affiliated with the international Ice Hockey Federation, directly or indirectly."

We understood at the recent Eastern Senior "A" League confab that Dudley was taking the matter up of the pro ban for a year with the Western International, Okanagan, International and Eastern Amateur leagues.

It did not take the form of a discussion. The Eastern loop mugwns appeared satisfied to have the rule apply to their own league and the western-northern group if and when it operated, without bothering their heads with other leagues. They were more keen on retention of operational costs through the main item, players' salaries.

RASSLIN'

A couple of wrestling tovariches from the Russian steppes, who have been tucking away more American and Canadian rubles in their haversacks the last couple of years than Jack Benny has in his private Fort Knox, will do battle in the main bout here on Friday.

They are the bearded Kalmikoff brothers, Ivan and Karol, about as tough a borsch-sipping pair of pachydermas as ever tangled the opposition. They are well known here. Their booted expert scissors and strong grips—on the ring are familiar to local rassle fans.

But putting a new face on the matter is the opposition. None other than Yukon Eric and Whipper Billy Watson. Name a more formidable pair and there's a rubber match for either. The short, stocky Kalmikoff brothers will need everything in their bag of tricks to pin this noted pair — but they fear nothing and nobody They are lightning fast, believe in the quick-fire change of action and have more gimmicks in their rasslin' beards than you can shake a stick at. Should be a honey of a battle.

Back again is the Austrylian warhorse, Fred Atkins, who meets the herculean Darah Singh in the semi-final, while an old Belleville favorite, Vic Christy, will be on hand to open matters with one, Big Boy Orton.

No Home TV For Patterson Harris Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Tele-Prompter Corporation has purchased the closed circuit theatre television rights for the heavyweight championship fight between Floyd Patterson and Roy Harris for a minimum guarantee of $210,000.

Tele-Prompter is aiming at a gross in excess of $1,000,000 with an undisclosed percentage going to the fight promoters. There will be no network television of the fight, set for 10 in Los Angeles, and radio rights have not been granted as yet. Theatre television will be set up within 75 miles of Los Angeles.

Prompter William F. Rosenberg, president of Tele-Prompter, is scaling the fight for $640,000 at Wrigley Field with tickets at $20, $10 and $5 and general admissions at $3.

Tele-Prompter aims at using regular movie theatres as well as drive-in theatres for the showing of the fight, with tickets going from about $3.00 to $7.50 each.

It's been Manlle and Berra for New York Yankees; Kalline and Kener for Detroit Tigers. But Boston Red Sox have the American League boom-boom boys of the moment, with Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen hitting nine homers and driving in 30 runs between them in Boston's last five games.

Williams and Jensen each hit two-run shots that powered the Red Sox to a 10-8 victory over Washington Senators Tuesday night.

It was Jensen's 34th of the year, two short of his 1956 high, and fifth in four games for a total of 11 runs batted in. Williams hammered his 18th home run, added two singles and picked up a third RBI as the Red Sox won their third in a row with a 4-1 record since Jensen and Williams started slamming.

That put the third-place Red Sox within nine games of the leading Baltimore Orioles, doubleheader at Baltimore, winning 9-1 after a 7-6 loss in the Orioles' home city. Athletics stayed a half-game ahead of Boston with a 5-1 victory over Detroit. Chicago White Sox defeated Cleveland Indians 5-4 in 11 innings after the Indians had chased White Sox ace Billy Pierce.

In two games Monday, Detroit edged Kansas City 7-6 and Cleveland beat Chicago 5-3.

BREAKS PART .500

Williams, 39-year-old Canadian league batting champion, broke past .300 for the first time all the season, hitting .308 while walloping his 400-foot homer in a three-run third inning against loser Hal Griggs (3-5). Jensen's home run came in the seventh off reliever Chuck Stobbs.

Reliefer Jim Defcek won his sixth straight game with an eight-hitter on Norm Zauchin's eighth homer.

Billy Loes, who had lost seven straight, won his first in relief when Baltimore overhauled a Yankee lead with five runs in the fifth inning. Billy Gardner's three-run triple capped it against losing reliefer Duke Maas (4-7).

Don Larsen (7-1) homered for a lost tie, then won the nightcap on Mickey Mantle's 16th home run, second of the night, in the eighth inning off Jack Harshman (5-7).

Gene Woodling, 3-for-8 in the pair, homered for the Birds.

GIANTS 7, PIRATES 6

Bob Cerv's 31st home run got the athletics started and they clinched Ned Garver's eighth victory, first in a month, in the sixth on two-run singles by Jackie Lopez and Harry Chiti. Frank Lary lost his sixth. Garver allowed only five hits.

Willie Mays, Ray Jablonski and Bob Schmidt homered for the Giants, now four games behind. Mays' 15th was his first since June 6.

Harry Anderson drove in three runs with his 10th homer and a single for the Phils, who moved to sixth place on the strength of seventh in a 10-day skid from third. Rookie Ray Semproch won his ninth with an eight-hitter. Bob Friend, the NL's likely starter in next week's all star game, was his fifth in a row for a 9-9 record.

Pitching: Lew Burdette, Braves —Blanked the Redlegs 1-0, allowing eight singles, walking but one and striking out two.

Hitting: Norm Larker, Dodgers —37-year-old rookie drove in four runs in 9-3 victory over the Cardinals with a pair of homers, his first in the majors, and a double.

Are the Milwaukee Braves back in the groove now that they've managed to beat Los Angeles? Or is that 3½-game National League lead only a momentary margin while they have their hands on the Cincinnati Reds, their favorite pastime?

Either way, nobody but the champs has been that far ahead, and the Braves made it for only the second time on a shutout by Lew Burdette and a home run by Eddie Mathews that beat Cincinnati 1-0 Tuesday night. That gave Milwaukee a four - game skid since ending a nine-game Dodger jinx with two victories last weekend.

The Redlegs are old pals, both to the Braves and Burdette, now 6-4. Milwaukee is 5-2 against Cincy for the season and has a 36-6 bulge since 1956. Since the Braves quit Boston, they're 78-41 against the Reds, their best showing against any club after the move to Milwaukee.

The Dodgers contributed to Milwaukee's lead with a 9-3 victory over second-place St. Louis, and Chicago Cubs knocked off third-place San Francisco but Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh 4-2.

GAVE UP FIGHT

Burdette gave up eight singles, but fought out of trouble every time two. It was his first regular season shutout since the best Reds 1-0 with a six-hitter April 18, 1957.

Mathews' 16th homer was the first hit for the Braves, who got only five off loser Harvey Haddix (5-5) and two relievers.

Rookie Norm Larker hit a pair of home runs his first in the majors, also doubled and drove in four runs for the Dodgers, who had lost three in a row. John Roseboro also homered for the Dodgers, his ninth.

Young Moe Drabowsky (7-7) won his third in a row for the Cubs, although needing relief for his first victory in seven lifetime appearances with Clarin Rookie Tony Taylor and Ernie Banks each capped a pair of two-run rallies for the Cubs, who chased Johnny Antonelli (5-6) in the second and Jerry Davie (6-5) in the sixth into fourth place. It was Banks' 30th. Daryl Spencer, Willie Mays, Ray Jablonski and Bob Schmidt homered for the Giants, now four games behind. Mays' 15th was his first since June 6.

Harry Anderson drove in three runs with his 10th homer and a single for the Phils, who moved to sixth place on the strength of seventh in a 10-day skid from third. Rookie Ray Semproch won his ninth with an eight-hitter. Bob Friend, the NL's likely starter in next week's all star game, was his fifth in a row for a 9-9 record.

Royals, Leafs Split Verdicts On Holiday

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was "one-man Effort Day" in the International League as the loop helped the Canadian celebrants celebrate Dominion Day. Two U.S. teams split doubleheaders in Montreal and Toronto.

The league - leading Montreal Royals won the first game of their doubleheader Tuesday with Columbus 5-3 as Billy Harris' strong five-hitter and Jim Lemanski's three-run - run double. The Jets took the nightcap 5-4 as Luis Arroyo won his seventh without defeat.

Toronto won its first game, 3-2 from Richmond. Mel Nelli's Smith opened a base-loaded triple in the fifth inning to account for all the Leafs' runs. Richmond bounced back to take the nightcap 5-2 on Bill Bethel's pitching and hitting.

Chuck Essegian, with two homers and a double, drove in all Miami's runs as they knocked over Rochester 5-4 and Buffalo defeated Havana 10-4 on Ray Noble's hitting.

Harris struck out six and walked the same number. Koran-da's double scored Lemanski with third for the Royals. Laurin Pepper (5-6) was the loser.

Arroyo gave only six hits, struck out five and walked one. He got batting aid from Leatherman-outfielder Benny Daniels who hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning when Columbus scored three of the game, scoring the deciding run on Arroyo's relief pitcher's error. Rene Valdes (8-7) was the loser.

Losing pitcher Bob Weiler (6-4) walked the bases full for Smith's blast in the fifth. Crimian choked up his seventh win in 11 decisions. Bethel had two RBI in winning his 11th against seven losses, while Tom Richards (1-3) lost. Toronto's Jim Johnson broke a bone in his right foot from a foul up in the fifth inning and retired from the game.

Buffalo scored six runs in the fourth inning to spark its triumph. The Bisons collected 15 hits off four Havana pitchers but Ray Noble was on his way with a home run, double, single and three runs batted in.

Senior Baseball

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen are in ball game up to the Senior Intercounty Baseball League, but only by the grace of a dropped third strike.

While second - place Oakville was being defeated 6-4 by the upstart Galt Terriers Tuesday the Dutchmen were trimming Hamilton Beavers 17-3 in an afternoon game and edging Brantford Red Sox 1-0 in a night contest.

Will Be Back Says Bragan

SPOKANE Wash. (AP)—Bobby Bragan arrived by plane Tuesday to take over as manager of Spokane Indians and said he is perfectly satisfied to be back in the minor leagues.

"It just means I'll have to regroup my troops and start all over again," he said. "You know Napoleon and Robert E. Lee both did occasionally and nobody ever accused them of not being good generals. I'll be back up there one of these days."

Bragan was fired last week as manager of Cleveland Indians and then was signed to manage the Pacific Coast League Indians here after Goldie Holt was let out.

Bragan said he plans no wholesale changes in the Spokane lineup until he has a chance to look things over. The Indians are in seventh place, 14 games behind.

"Here's a good spot for a screwball. By the way, how come your brother didn't come to the game today?"

Maracle, Dawe Wage Hurling Duel As Pointers Blank Cobourg 1-0

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Point Anne Cementmen and Cobourg Merchants battled through the first errorless game of the season in the Belleville and District softball league last night and when was all over the Cementmen had maintained their perfect record with a 1-0 victory.

The hard-earned win was number two in as many days for the Cementmen while the second place Merchants now own a seven and five record, four of the defeats coming at the hands of the loop leaders.

Phil Loft's crew was hard put to chalk up the victory as both teams played errorless ball although Maracle and "Sleepy" Dawe hurled fine ball and Cobourg outhit the Cementmen by one hit.

The lone run of the contest came in the bottom of the sixth. Dougie Hull, second high average batter in the loop last year, broke out of a lengthy slump last night and his double down the left field line parted the way to the one million dollar marker. Johnny Batchelor worked Dawe for a base-on-balls to put runners on first and second with none out. Dawe then retired the next three men in order but two of them were on fly balls by Dave Jones and Pat Gilmour, the latter's lift to left field permitting Hull to score after the catch. Kingston popped out to end the frame.

Pat Maracle pitched good ball for his fifth victory of the season. He scattered seven hits, never allowing more than one per inning, all of which were single. The veteran roundarmer struck out three and did not walk a batter.

Jim "Sleepy" Dawe surrendered six base knocks to drop a heart-breaking decision. He nipped six on third strikes while passing half that number. Both hurlers worked well in the clutches, Maracle leaving six men on base while Dawe stranded eight.

A strong wind blowing from the outfield gave the pitchers a helping hand as it held up several fly balls long enough for the outfielders to get under them. Cobourg never actually had one good scoring chance as only three runners reached second base. Bevan singled and was sacrificed to second by O'Brien in the second, he singled again in the seventh and took second on an infield out while Alexander's single and Turpin's sacrifice got a runner half way round in the eighth.

Cobourg used Campbell, Nelling, and Alexander in the outfield in place of regulars Brian Hart, Burke Clarey and Scotty McSporran.

Point Anne had an opportunity to increase their lead in the eighth when Hull singled and Batchelor doubled with one out. Dawe came through however to get Jones on a popup and fan Gilmour on a called strike.

Doug Hull had a double and two singles in four trips to account for half the Cementmen's safeties. John Batchelor doubled while Claude Carr and Bob Kingston also collected base hits.

Jack Bevan was Cobourg's big gun with two hits while Dick Turpin picked up a pair. Bev Nelling and Alexander had the other pair.

Cobourg — Turpin, Boncardo, J. Hart, Dawe, Bevan, O'Brien, Campbell, Nelling, Alexander.

Point Anne — Carr, Wardaugh, Hull, Batchelor, Jones, Gilmour, Kingston, Soule, Maracle, Goyer.

Umpires — Paul Johns (P) and Mike Whalen. Time — 1.06.

PROTESTS LOSS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The manager of middleweight Joey Giardello has asked the California athletic commission to reverse Monday night's decision which his boxer lost on an upset to Joey Giambra. Tony Ferretti Tuesday protested the split decision to Jack Urch, chief enforcement officer of the commission.

Giardello, No. 2 ranking 160-pounder with hopes for a title shot, lost the close decision to Giambra of San Francisco in the Cow Palace. Giardello is from Rosedale, N.Y.

Lots of Bull In Bullfights But No Blood

LINDSAY (CP) — Bloodless bullfights scheduled here Aug. 3 and 4 will be more dangerous to the bullfighter than to the bull, Jack Conway of Waterloo, publicity director for the event, says the bulls will suffer less than calves roped in a rodeo. But the toreadors, minus their usual swords and carrying only the blunted banderillas and a cape, will be in twice the danger of a regular bullfight.

Conway described a banderilla as "a long decorated stick with a pronged hook." But in the Lindsay fights, they will have no prong.

"Normally, the matador would jab the bull in the neck with the banderilla," he said in an interview. "In Lindsay, two banderillas will be tied together with a leather thong into an X-shape, which the bullfighter will merely place over the animal's head, the banderillas then fall to the ground."

In Mexico and Spain, stabbing of the bull with banderillas precedes the actual killing, when the matador pierces the animal's heart through its neck with a sword. In Lindsay, the bullfighter will lure the bull with his cape, then lead over its horns and step it sharply with the palm of his hand.

MOST PERILOUS

Conway said this is the most perilous moment for the bullfighter. Outriders will help the matador out of any trouble.

"The whole thrill will be in watching men standing up to 1,000 pounds of onrushing bull," Conway said.

"So many people have been taken into conquering the blood-less bullfights with the real thing in Mexico and Spain. We only want to show how it's done. There will be no blood, unless it is the matador's."

Conway said "some sort of insurance" has been taken out against injury to the bullfighters, but details were not available.

Four bullfighters, including Spanish - born, Toronto - raised Elizabeth Babos, will travel from Mexico to Lindsay for the fights. Eight or 10 bulls, especially bred for the bullring, will make the journey by rail. Arrangements were made during a visit to Mexico recently by Ed May, secretary-manager of the sponsoring Lindsay Chamber of Commerce, and Gord Mackey, chairman of the chamber's bullfight committee.

LIKE A BALLET

Bulls will not be used more than once. May said in Lindsay the show will take "the form of a three-part ballet—the meeting of good and evil, the struggle between the two forces and the conquest of evil by good."

The matador represents good and the bull evil.

Conway said blood tests have been made on the bulls to cure brucellosis. They are being checked in Washington to ensure the animals are free from disease for their journey across the United States into Ontario.

The Lindsay bullfights have sparked a controversy in Lindsay and other Ontario centres. Principal Margaret has been invited to attend during her visit to Canada next month.

George Chuvalo Ranked Tenth In Ring Rating

NEW YORK (AP) — George Chuvalo, promising 20-year - old Toronto boxer, has cracked the top 10 in Ring magazine's list of challengers for Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight crown.

In the latest rankings, announced today, Ring put Chuvalo in 10th position on the strength of his impressive showing when he held Alex Miteff of Argentina to a 10-round draw in Toronto June 14. Miteff is ranked No. 7.

It was a big jump for Chuvalo, who has had only 13 professional fights and won 11 of them. He fought 16 times as an amateur. After his battle with Miteff, Chuvalo drew rave notices, even from Miteff's handlers.

Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif and Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., are tied as the No. 1 challengers. Willie Pastrano of New Orleans is next.

In the lightheavyweight division, Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., is third behind Harold Johnson, of Philadelphia and Tony Anthony of New York to Archie Moore's title.

Joey Giambra's upset victory over Joey Giardello Monday night in San Francisco middleweight designation as Ring's fighter of the month for June.

The defeat dropped Giardello to No. 2 ranking among Ring's top middleweight contenders. Gene Fullmer, former champ from West Jordan, Utah, moved into the No. 2 position behind Carmen Basilio, another former champ.

Australia's Peter Thomson Tops Pack in British Open

ST. ANNES, Eng. (CP)—Australia's Peter Thomson, three-time winner of the British open golf championship, strokes a long-standing record Thursday when he led the 1958 Open qualifiers to a 36-hole score of 142.

Thomson shot a second round of 70 Tuesday at the Fairhaven course after a remarkable 69 Monday at Royal Lytham and St. Annes, scene of the tournament which began today. The 138 was the lowest qualifying score in the history of this world's oldest major championship.

Thirty years ago, Bobby Jones of the United States qualified for the Open with 141, strokes and his score was equalled six years ago by Scotland's John Panton. Jones qualified at Sunningdale and won at Lytham, then Panton finally matched his score on the championship course.

Thomson's total put him three strokes ahead of Bernard Hunt of England, who also had a 70 at Fairhaven to hold the runnerup spot.

Gene Sarazen of Germantown, N.Y., winner of the 1922 British Open, was the only American qualifier with a 141 total. Sarazen, 56 years old, shot a 68 Tuesday at Lytham, virtually duplicating a round he had there 35 years ago.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, who had been America's best hope, was eliminated Tuesday by a painful back injury, suffered two days ago. Stranahan had a miserable 81 at Fairhaven Tuesday for a 149 total. The cut off score was 142.

Defending champion Bobby Locke of South Africa, seeking his fourth British Open title, qualified safely with 141. Tied with him and Sarazen was Peter-star Gary Player of South Africa with 73-68.

Playing in a foursome, Ken watched the others drive to the green. He blasted his first shot over the fence to the right of the green.

Another drive followed the first over the fence.

Ken tried again. The ball dropped on the green and rolled into the cup.

Counting two penalty strokes for each of the first two shots, he carded a five.

Aussies March To Semi-Finals At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (CP)—The Australian navy emerged hobody by marching to the semifinals of the Wimbledon tennis championships accompanied by a single, doughty Dane.

Australia's Mervyn Rosewall Ashley Cooper reached the semi - final Tuesday by surviving a five - set struggle against Bobby Wilson of Britain, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 7-5. And stocky Lew Neale Fraser won a long, hard-fought duel, beating Sven Davidson of Sweden 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

A crowd of 17,000 witnessed the eighth day's play, which was interrupted by rain that has plagued the matches from the start.

NAMELESS LAKE

Sometime July 4, about 180,000,000 gallons of water will fill the new lake—as yet unnamed—that Americans across the international border have dubbed it "Lake St. Lawrence."

SYMBOLIC GESTURE

The flood began on Canada's birthday and will end on the 150th anniversary of the United States, a symbolic gesture to the international seaway-power undertaking.

Shipping banned since Monday from the 35-mile area west of here will resume traffic July 4, using two U.S. locks near Massena, N.Y., to sidestep the powerdam and enter the power canal. The locks at Iroquois, Ont., will lift ships back into the St. Lawrence River channel flowing Ontario.

The strip of locks are part of the 13-mile St. Lawrence Seaway which is to be officially opened next year by Queen and President Eisenhower.

The U.S. locks—named Eisenhower and Snell—were to be dedicated in day-long ceremonies today attended by Washington "and" Canadian dignitaries.

Already drowned beneath more than 19 feet of floodwater are the Cornwall and Williamsburg canals—first started as tiny canal channels more than a century ago.

"It's like filling a bathtub full of history books," said a Cornwall cab driver, "But that's progress, I guess."

RAIN CUT ATTENDANCE

An early morning downpour and a grey drizzle kept away many of the 25,000 people who had been expected to witness the spectacle.

Half an hour before the blast a red rocket signal was fired as a warning from the bunker where engineer Holden prepared to press the firing button.

Five minutes before the explosion another warning rocket was sent up and George Johnson, the man who manned the blast, radioed flood control headquarters to say: "The last connection has been made; we are cleared to go."

Then the count down began as nine of 10 light aircraft circled the cofferdam area. With a deafening pop the cofferdam was ruptured. Yellow smoke drifted toward the power dam.

But it was some 15 minutes before the flood crest snaked around a bend in the river channel and calmly rolled towards the power house.

THE BIGGEST

Before setting off the 83,000 pounds of powerful nitrone, whitehaired Dr. Holden said: "This is the biggest blast we've set off but I've got no qualms—not a bit."

His remarks were borne out by the smooth completion of the operation.

Those of the spectators who expected a great rush of water to begin flowing from Lake Ontario were disappointed. The flooding of the long, narrow river basin was even and placid.

The basin will form a power pool behind a half - mile - wide hydroelectric dam and the Cornwall's city limits.

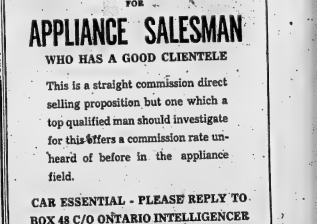
The new man-made lake will be 36 miles long and five miles wide ringed by a picturesque island with beaches and picnic sites.

But it drowns out the past, the flood is to leave a new landscape in Seaway Valley. Beneath the waters will be a 2,500-year-old Indian burial ground, 16 cemeteries, seven old United - Empire Loyalist towns, and an historic battlefield.

In Canada's greatest mass evacuation, 6,500 persons were moved with some 600 homes to three new communities on higher ground overlooking the new lake.

READY TO START

Early this week Ontario Hydro officials expect to start generators spinning in the dam to produce 180,000 horsepower of electricity. Eventually 2,200,000 horsepower will be generated—half for Ontario and the rest for New York state, partner in the $800,000,000 power project.



The inundation signalled the start of parades and festivals in this city of 41,000 people, jammed with visitors. Then it began in the street Tuesday night while oldtimers drove out to see familiar landmarks vanish under the water.

Across the river at Massena, N.Y., officials of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation — Canada's partner in the $473,000,000 ocean waterway to the Great Lakes, prepared for the arrival of two U.S. locks for 14-foot navigation later this week.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Wednesday, July 2

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Take care you do not jeopardize in any way the present harmony and esteem you are enjoying. Also, be sure to pay any outstanding bills. P.M. best time for conferences with those persons who can help you toward greater success.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — It is very likely that one who has an overly brilliant personality will today give you ideas and suggestions that if followed would be disastrous. Hold on to present security and activity. P.M. make a fine impression on a big executive.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A.M. take care you perform all duties and conduct all personal and business affairs impeccably in order to avoid poor results. P.M. excellent for serious study or meeting worthwhile persons and learning about modern trends.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Use wisdom today when a partner lays the law down to you most unreasonably. He or she has been instigated to do so. Also, do not relate to others the sad experience. Tonight is then fine for romantic leanings and happiness.

Leo (July 22 to Aug 21) — Avoid that partner who wants to fret and fume simply because personal life is not ideal at present. Act wisely and don't be the goat. Tonight is ideal for being with best pal, dearest heart interest or even partner in business, fellow worker.

Virgo (Aug 22 to Sept. 23) — Here is the day to be very careful of appearance, health and home. See that you get everything to the peak of perfection. Tonight is then fine for planning ahead wisely and in detail. Good plans can bring great success.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Family tie is on the warpath this day, so keep out of his or her way and tend to own knitting expertly. P. M. fine for real affection and guests, happiness and a get social time.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Don't take into consideration any unpleasant letters from others today, for they are simply in a bad mood and foolishly sent them. Be careful while driving, be courteous. P.M. fine for restful evening at home with friends.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Good day to revise your budget so that you eliminate tripperies that are expensive and so have a larger fund for necessities. Tonight is excellent for being with kin, pals, partners for enjoyment and picking up information.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You could very easily spend the day feeling sorry for yourself if you do not have the wisdom to turn to more practical and constructive activity, which could bring big returns. P.M. set up a very workable budget.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A private worry could deter you from plunging into those very promising possibilities apparent today. Relax and tackle them intelligently and with wisdom, appearing most calm on the outside. P. M. excellent for fun and frolic.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — While you may think today that the only way to get what you want is by strife and argument, calmness of thought and quietness of purpose will actually prove far more successful. Tonight ideal for hospitality.

If your child is born today ... The brilliant child born today will mature nicely only if you see to it that he or she has many sports and games testing mental ingenuity with which to occupy the fertile mind and busy hands. But you must be very sure they are practical ones or your youngster will be annoyed. However, in mature years the nature then becomes infinitely softer and the charitable philosopher emerges. Give business course.

RABID FOX SHOT

OTTAWA (CP) — A fox shot Monday near Richmond, just west of Ottawa, was found Wednesday to have rabies. It is the third rabid fox killed in the area during the current rabies outbreak. The animal was shot when he tried to attack a dog on Russell Brown's farm.

OPEN KIWANIS BUILDING

CHICAGO (AP) — Kiwanis International opened its four-day convention Sunday with a cornerstone laying ceremony at the site of its new $1,250,000 headquarters building. The organization's last surviving founder, Harry Young, 77, of Detroit, inserted into a time capsule a copy of the original articles of incorporation of the first Kiwanis Club, organized in Michigan in 1915.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one Hemorrhoid case after another, very striking improvement was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 20 to 30 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Russia Proposes Steps To Prevent Surprise Attack

New Khrushchev Letter Is Said More Promising

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev called today for an East-West conference of military and civilian experts to work out an agreement to prevent any surprise attacks by one nation upon another.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Premier Khrushchev is reported to have proposed some new steps Russia and Western countries might take to prevent surprise bombing attacks against each other.

What they are, and how the United States views them, was not known pending further developments, possibly today.

The Soviet leader is understood to have mentioned them in an unexpected letter he sent to President Eisenhower Wednesday.

The state department, after translating the 4½ page document, sent a copy to Eisenhower Wednesday night.

Some U.S. officials were reported in regard Khrushchev's suggestions as more promising than the Soviet premier's previous proposals he has sent forth thus far during his visit to this country.

While House press secretary James C. Hagerty, commenting on reports of action at a set-back in Eisenhower, said:

"The president thinks the country and the free world suffered a serious setback."

Eisenhower personally conducted campaign for more money bore fruit among House Republicans but failed to enlist many Democrats.

When the Senate appropriations committee takes up the bill next week, it will be operating under an authorization measure which fixed a ceiling nearly $300,000,000 less than Eisenhower's request but still $307,500,000 above the House-passed figure.

This represents the full amount the Senate could restore to the bill. But most senators thought any additions would be less than half that total. And any that are made still would be subject to an agreement with the House.

Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts said he and other members of the committee "will make every effort we can to restore a substantial amount of these funds."

But Senators William F. Knowland (Rep., Calif.) and Styles Bridges (Rep., N.H.), other committee members, have said the totals would fall short of Eisenhower's goals.

Foreign Aid Cut $872 Million, Called Reckless

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives has voted 253 to 126 to take what President Eisenhower called the "reckless risk" of cutting $872,000,000 off his foreign aid money requests.

The Senate may restore some of this fund. But the indications pointed toward a possible $750,000,000 final reduction from the $3,960,000,000 in new money the president originally asked.

House passage Wednesday of a $3,079,000,000 appropriations measure headed Eisenhower for a singing rebuff in his drive for "more ammunition to wage the peace." Eisenhower had said that a large cut would "encourage Communist imperialists."

While House press secretary James C. Hagerty, commenting on reports of action at a set-back in Eisenhower, said:

FLEMING SAYS BUDGET CRITICS GLORY IN GLOOM

'Wail' Said Harmful To Canada's Credit

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming regards opposition criticisms of his 1958-59 budget as "a wail unworthy of Canadians."

Referring specifically to the Liberals, he said in the Commons Wednesday the opposition is "gloating in gloom" and that Canada's credit would not be helped by irresponsible statements.

The opposition's attempts to destroy confidence in Canada is unsuccessful, might cause a deficit larger than his forecast of $648,000,000.

Mr. Fleming spoke just before the Progressive Conservative majority buried a Liberal motion of non-confidence by a vote of 161 to 75. The vote came on the seventh day of the eight-day budget debate which is to be concluded today.

The Liberal motion charged that the budget "failed" to cope with the recession despite the record peacetime deficit and that the government is moving towards greater trade restrictions and controls.

SEES CONFIDENCE

Mr. Fleming said the budget showed confidence in Canada, not more in the direction of protectionism.

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) criticized the government on the ground that its treatment of unemployed and federal-provincial fiscal relations.

Mr. Fleming replied that Liberals "should remember how handsomely they looked in history" once while they were in office."

He said the Liberals had added to the national debt under their leader-secretary Christian Herter Jr. but declined to provide any details. He reported only that it covered "a new, important issue."

A state department spokesman afterward told reporters that the Washington proposals dealt with measures to prevent surprise attack.

Russia's earlier plan called for both sides to check armaments and military movements in a broad European area 800 kilometres on each side of the West-East German frontier. Western nations rejected this—as unacceptable on the grounds it would tend to perpetuate the division of Germany and because of other conditions the Soviet attached to the plan.

Eisenhower had proposed that the Soviets agree to an Arctic inspection zone as a starting point to an "open skies" inspection.

Nine U.S. Army Men Now Held In East Germany Give Views

(Editors: The East German foreign ministry called The Associated Press correspondent in a press conference Wednesday with the nine U.S. army men held there since June 7.)

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

DRESDEN, East Germany (AP)—"We'll sweat it out as long as we have to."

This pledge came from Maj. George E. Kemper, senior officer and spokesman for nine U.S. Army men who turned themselves in to East German police June 7 after they got lost on a helicopter flight and ran out of gas behind the Iron Curtain. Negotiations for their release are continuing.

The soldiers complained at a press conference staged by East German officials Wednesday that they are being held as political hostages. They were treated courteously," Kemper added.

Speaking for the other seven officers and one sergeant, Kemper said, "We are soldiers and we can stay here indefinitely, but we want to know what is going on. . . .

"They are holding us as political hostages. We are being used as pawns in the game. We know about what's going on in political negotiations over us."

Alexander Gruetzner, the East German foreign ministry official who ran the press conference, said the United States should send a peaceful delegation to the one by which Belgium won release of 44 pilots who strayed into East Germany May 29.

The state department is demanding that Russia release the Americans under the Big Four occupation agreement forcing the Soviets responsible for protecting Western interests in East Germany. Gruetzner argued that this is a case for the East Germans to settle.

Kemper gave this account of what had happened:

The helicopter was on a routine flight from Frankfurt to a West German training area near the East German border. The men got lost and their radio wouldn't work so they decided to land to find out where they were. Someone told them East Germany.

"We tried again," Kemper said. "But the helicopter ran out of gas and had to land.

"I will get out of the aircraft and realized the importance of contacting authorities so that we could be returned quickly."

The police turned them over to a Russian officer in a Russian car.

After spending the night there, during which some were questioned, the Russians returned them to the Germans.

Rebels in Lebanon Striving To Gain Control of Highway

BEIRUT (AP) — Rebels in Aley, five miles from Beirut, launched a counter-attack today at the main east-west highway in an effort to dislodge and fought for control of other road supplying government forces fighting southeast of Beirut.

In the northern port of Tripoli, government troops surrounded between 500 and 1,000 rebels who retired while flags Wednesday. The government commander said some of the rebels already had surrendered there.

The truce flags were the outcome of an agreement negotiated between Lebanese forces and anti-government rebels.

The rebels argued the continued use of heavy fire threatened "innocents", civilian casualties, and was "inhumane."

They agreed to stop using mortars and grenades and the army promised it would stop firing artillery.

The attack on the east-west highway began Wednesday night when mountaineers of Socialist Kamal Jumblatt seized a hillside overlooking the resort town of Aley.

Witnesses said the rebels by early today had occupied the section of Aley where the most luxurious villas are located.

Traffic was halted until government armored cars shot their way through. By midmorning the artillery forces had opened up with heavy guns and silenced the rebel position, at least temporarily. Two jet fighters strafed the rebels.

The east-west highway, Lebanon's main artery for trade with the interior which is the economic backbone of this commercial nation, was still open.

The toughest resistance to the government has come in Tripoli, where the rebellion broke out May 10. Army officers there disagreed over the shaky truce that might be a significant break in the rebellion.

Some officers seemed to think the rebels were showing signs of weakening. Rebels in Tripoli's port area obviously were running out of ammunition after troops cut their supply lines.

Southern Ontario Lashed By Heavy Storm, High Winds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An electrical storm accompanied by violent winds that almost reached hurricane force lashed through Southern Ontario Wednesday night, smashing buildings, uprooting trees and flooding streets.

Centralia Air Force weather office at London, Ont., reported winds up to 95 miles an hour accompanied by 1½ inches of rain in less than half an hour.

Reports from Port Alma, on Lake Erie near Chatham, said a baby twister destroyed a barn and uprooted trees.

Hamilton and London areas were without power for several hours as the heavy winds felled trees and hydro lines.

There were reports of heavy crop damage in the London area where many acres of oats were flattened. Badly soaked hay may mean further losses.

A sewer excavation in London collapsed from the deluge and machinery crashed down into the debris snapping a gas main. A fire broke out in a bakery car and when a lightning bolt hit the rear of the Toronto-bound train at Hamilton.

Harold Goddard of St. Catharines was admitted to hospital in serious condition after lightning struck near him as he was raising an umbrella on the St. Catharines golf course.

The weather office at Malton, near Toronto, said cold air advancing from the north brought thunder showers in the van as it reported heavy rain through the night.

CASTRO ORDERS CAPTIVES HELD BY REBELS RELEASED

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP)—A broadcast from the mountain headquarters of rebel leader Fidel Castro today ordered the release of all Americans and Canadians held by rebels in the mountain jungles near here. Five kidnapped by bands under Castro's brother Raul were released Wednesday night.

The broadcast said Castro knew nothing about the kidnapping of 47 Americans and three Canadians. It was broadcast by communications." It said Castro ordered brothers Cuba to release the men. Raul commands rebels in the northern section of rebellion stricken Oriente province.

Park Wolfam, U.S. consul at Santiago, flew to this big U.S. naval base Wednesday aboard a navy helicopter with five of the 47 men released by Castro's men at the Moa Mining Company in northeastern Cuba late Wednesday night. Edward Cannon, 53, of Cornwall, Ont., was one of the five.

Darkness halted the flights after the five Americans were brought in. The helicopter was ready to resume operations today.

In all, the rebels kidnapped 46 Americans and 1 Canadian Wednesday and spirited them into the mountains of Oriente province in what he has centered on his guerrilla campaign.

Wollam and Vice-Consul Henry Wiecha were sent during the weekend to get in touch with the rebels. Wiecha remained in the hills to continue negotiations for the 42 still held.

HOPES WILL BE FREED

Wollam after his return indicated the 42 remaining hostages would be freed soon. He added that he had seen a number of them and conferred in various small rebel camps. "They are all fine and in good health," he said.

Cannon said he was present at the conference with Raul Castro, rebel army leader—brother of Fidel—promised to stop kidnapping foreigners.

Asked if he will return to the mining project from which he was kidnapped, along with engineer Harold G. Kniffiazon, 37, of Galveston, Tex., he said: "Sure."

"I don't fear those people," he added.

He did not say if he would continue with plans to have his wife, when expecting their first child, at Moa. She had been planning to move there before he was kidnapped.

Traffic Takes Three Quarters Of Police Time

TORONTO (CP) — Traffic accidents took more lives in Ontario in 1957 than slayings, suicides and drownings combined, it is disclosed in the provincial police annual report.

"Everything possible was done during the year to curb dangerous driving and driving in ways polices by our personnel."

The force spent 75 per cent of its time and efforts concentrating on traffic and highway safety. Traffic mishaps accounted for 850 fatalities, compared with 808 in 1956. Another 10,732 persons were injured.

The report said 179 new recruits were added, bringing force strength to 2,000.

Other statistics: 97,780 prosecutions for speeding; 2,617 prosecutions for impaired driving; 103,908 traffic charges of all natures; traffic fines totalling $1,557,449.

Combat Control Is Still Retained By Canadians

Colorado Base Now Has Operational Command

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF nine jet interceptor squadrons and all its radar sites have been placed under the operational control of North American Air Defence Command, it was learned today.

Placing of the units under NORAD's control follows one week after Senate approval of the Canada-United States air defence agreement, signed in Washington on May 12. The Commons approved the agreement earlier.

It was apparently indefinite whether a letter would be sent to NORAD by the Canadian government formally allocating the RCAF units to the command. However, officials said the RCAF squadrons and radar stations now are under the operational control of NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Operational control means that NORAD, in event of war, would direct the over - all air defence battle but that command would still be retained by the RCAF.

BLUEPRINT FOR DEFENCE

NORAD's main job at the present time is to draw up a blueprint of air defence. This blueprint will take into account all kinds of circumstances which might attend an air attack on North America.

In the event of war, NORAD would be able to select immediately the most appropriate plan to fit an air defence plan on which to act.

The nine RCAF squadrons are based at Bagotville, Que.; St. Hubert, Que.; Ottawa, North Bay, Comox, B.C. There are two at each station except Comox where there is one.

The radar stations comprise those in the Pinetree line and the Mid-Canada chain. The Mid-Canada line is used for warning only while Pinetree controls the operation of the interceptors.

There are 12 Canadians serving at NORAD headquarters, including Air Marshal Roy Slemon who is deputy commander-in-chief under Gen. Earle Partridge of the U.S. Air Force.

Lord Altrincham Urges Queen Pay More Attention to Commonwealth

LONDON (Reuters)—A young British peer, bent on beefing up the monarchy, bulled into print again today with some new ideas on how the Queen should run it.

Lord Altrincham published suggestions for lifting the British monarchy out of the "humdrum." He allowed 11 months for the howls which he knew his article would evoke—criticism of the royal circle to die down.

His article in the July issue of the magazine National and English Review is the latest in a swelling crests that if the monarchy is to survive at all it must pay more attention to the Commonwealth.

He urges the Queen to take up successive invitations extended by other Commonwealth countries and blasts the practice which he says encourages "duties and sondary" to royal palaces and passes to England.

The 34-year-old aristocrat notes that the Queen took time to watch the spring show in England but delegated Princess Margaret to officiate at the April inauguration into the Commonwealth of the West Indies federation.

He dismisses as nonsense arguments that royal family life should be kept private to protect from country to country in the Commonwealth, maintaining it would be little more disruptive than her shifts from palace to castle in Britain throughout the year.

The peer also snipes at Britons living outside of the Queen's realm based on the 17th-century doctrine that monarchs rule by divine right—the last will of God. Acceptance of such a theory "is—and ought to be—fatal" to the monarchy, he says.

Altrincham sparked a bitter controversy last August with his first article critical of the monarchy. It also appeared in the magazine.

Threats and furious denunciation followed him — one irate loyalist publicly slapped his face in London — criticized the "sweedy royal entourage for hemming in the Queen with new squeamish manner was "a pain in the neck."

The outspoken peer declares in his new article that "England herself is at present not sovereign."

"As part of the world-wide Commonwealth which she has helped to bring into being she is capable now, as in the past, of revolutionary achievements."

"The monarchy's survival, even if it could be assured, would be comparatively humdrum in the context of Great Britain alone. . . ."

Union Official Denies Threat Of Strike Action

MONTREAL (CP) — W. E. Gamble, Canadian vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC), has denied that he threatened a strike against the CNR as reported by The Canadian Press.

He denied Wednesday that he is using "scare tactics" as suggested by W. T. Wilson, CNR vice-president for personnel, in commenting on a story Monday in which Mr. Gamble was quoted by the CP.

The union is engaged in a dispute with the government-owned CNR over a wage increase and a ruling that firemen on CNR freight and yard diesels it struck against the CPR over the diesel issue for three days in May. Its dispute with the CNR now is before a conciliation board.

In a statement Wednesday, Mr. Gamble said it is premature to say what action the board's outcome of the CNR case will be until the conciliation board has reported.

He said that statements attributed to the union leader in an Ottawa dispatch "were apparently made in answer to questions directed to the office (of the union) in a telephone call from a representative of the Ottawa Journal."

"Mr. Gamble accepts no responsibility for the dispatch being issued," his statement added.

John LaBlanc, CP labor reporter in Ottawa, talked to Mr. Gamble personally by phone Monday and quoted him the fact: "Correspondence . we are getting from our people through-out the system indicates that they want the privilege of a strike vote if the firemen's issue is not settled to our satisfaction and that they are willing to go on strike. I will go along with the members. I think we would win a strike vote in the end unless the government intervened."

MASCOT KIDNAPPED, R.C.A.F. WING GETS RANSOM DEMAND

Members of 418 (Belleville) Wing, RCAF Association, are organizing a search party to recover the Wing's mascot which was kidnapped Wednesday night from the home of Al Smith on Bridge St., East.

"I was out in the garden hoeing weeds last night. Our mascot was in the house and when I went into the house just before dark I noticed the front door was ajar. I checked the house to see if someone had been in and, when I went down to the basement, I noticed that our mascot, Miss G. Burton (a mannequin), had vanished," Mr. Smith said today.

This morning President George Maybee said he had received a note demanding ransom for the mascot. The note originated from the Prince Edward Flying Club, 5-5-sid.

The flying club invited Wing members to a social evening in the near future.

"Sure," said Mr. Maybee, "we'll go over for the entertainment, but we will also come back with our mascot."

YOUNG BOY FINDS SIX-LEAF CLOVER

Ten-year-old boys as a rule, are not considered good observant regarding such things as grass and clover; but Douglas Harris of Albert Street is the exception, as lately he has been occupied in "Looking Over a Four-Leaf Clover." In fact, two four leaf clovers, which he found last evening on Albert Street. As he was successful in this quest, one of which he gave to a friend, bearing its good luck portent, he set out to find a six-leaf, and was rewarded by locating one at the corner of Charles and Alexander Streets. One wonders if some day in the distant future, Douglas may become one of the F.B.I.

CAROLYN THOMPSON IS SELECTED AS "MISS HASTINGS"

At the Hastings County Junior Farmer annual field day and dance, Carolyn Thompson, Corbyville, was selected Miss Hastings. The choosing of Miss Hastings is based on the ability and accomplishments of the individual. Miss Thompson has a rather remarkable list of achievements to mention — since she has held all offices in her local Thurlow Junior Institute Club, and member of the County executive. With the Masco Fair Year book she has been advertising, club activity and "do you remember when" editors. She is a member of their local club square dance team that has won many honors, and as well a provincial camper. She has several 4-H Agricultural and Home Making projects to her credit and has competed in Provincial competitions. In her busy schedule of Junior work and school work she finds time to be active in the local Fox-boro Y.P.U., Sunday School, and choir. She has just completed her business training in the Belleville High School and is now the secretarial staff of the Extension Service of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto. Besides her many accomplishments and duties, she seems always to find time to help her fellow juniors whenever they want her.

TWO SCHOOL GIRLS SPOT BUCK DEER

Civilization hasn't really been in the Belleville area as long as some people might think, at least one large buck deer doesn't think so. Either that or he came to the city for the fair next month.

Wednesday afternoon Arlene Jones and Anne Chambers, two young school girls on vacation, were riding their bicycles along the road past the Bellcrest public school, near the Belleville Drive-in Theatre, when a large buck deer flashed out of a field in front of them, jumped a fence and fled west to be lost in dense brush.

He is believed the deer may have been peeking in the windows at the Northern Electric plant.

Family Dinner to Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Family good wishes and congratulations from a wide circle of friends in the Eldorado district were received Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. J. Milford Stevenson as they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

To mark the occasion a family dinner was held at Foxe's United Church at Eldorado while a reception held that evening the couple were "at home" to approximately 200 friends who called to extend congratulations.

All seven children and 10 of their 11 grandchildren were present at the family dinner to honor the happy couple on their golden anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson have lived in Eldorado for the past ten years, giving up their farm in Madoc township at that time. Previous to that they had moved from the Crookston farm where they had built their first home since their marriage back in 1908.

Mr. Stevenson was born at Crookston, while his bride of 50 years ago, the former Miss Beatrice Reid, was born at Moira. He is 77, while Mrs. Stevenson is 73. They are members of the Standard Church at Eldorado. Their daughter, Mrs. Clarence, operates a general store at Ivanhoe, while a second son, Melville, works at General Electric in Peterborough. Their youngest son, Ross Stevenson is an Elliott Motors in Belleville. 20 Canvases By Paavo Airola Hung in Theatre

One of Canada's best known artists whose many critics at home and abroad have considered among the world's best is now exhibiting his work in one at the McCarthy Theatre in Belleville, beginning today and ending some time in August.

Paavo Airola, though known particularly throughout Canada and United States, is perhaps known more intimately in the Quinte district. For the past three years he has instructed art classes in this city and district. Mr. Airola this year is holding classes at Presqu'ile Point, near Brighton, Ont., Wednesday.

Mr. Airola resides near Cobourg. He is a Canadian citizen born in the U.S. of Finnish parents.

He has exhibited his canvases in all of Canada's galleries and museums. Only recently Mr. Airola hung some of his paintings beside those of Sir Winston Churchill at the Ontario Art Gallery.

Sir Winston is a good, refreshing amateur painter. His works should be hung in the Canadian National Exhibition as an example of a politician's hobby. Fortunately, however is an amateur, too, but his paintings are not as good as Sir Winston's," an Ontario Intelligencer this morning. Mr. Churchill himself has returned from a tour of galleries and museums in Europe and the U.S.

"I saw 129 of Rembrandt's paintings in one day," he said. "I consider him the best painter who ever lived. My favorite Rembrandt is in the Art Gallery Maurice of Montreal."

Mr. Airola's exhibition moved into the McCarthy Theatre as Mrs. Dolly Cain, Belleville was removing a similar time ago her paintings and those of a children's group, which she instructed.

"Dolly, when I saw your paintings," continued Mr. Airola told her, "I was very impressed with you."

Mr. Airola is of the opinion that a good 95 per cent or more of the amateur artists in Canada who are striving for professional recognition will never attain it.

A painter, he said, is not necessarily an artist who employs himself full-time painting and receiving compensation for it. A true professional artist is one who produces quality work and attracts a large following of admirers, at the same time receiving an income from his talent.

Most of the Canadian amateur artists are not born artists," he said. This type of career seldom is developed fully by attending courses and schools. It must be inbred in a person."

Mr. Airola said he is a born artist and never has attended by attending such famous schools in Sweden as Professor Grillewski's Art School, Professor Stolo's Art School and the famous Colors Libre in Stockholm.

Although he does not have any permanent collections hanging in Canadian galleries or museums, Mr. Airola does have some in Sweden and a large number of paintings in private collections. He is a member of the Canadian Society of Water-color Artists and, though not a member, has exhibited every year since coming to Canada as a professional artist at the Royal Canadian Academy and the Ontario Society of Artists.

Mr. Airola's paintings to some laymen appear to be dull. However, he explained the reason for that belief. He harmonizes his colors. Although he may concentrate on only a few colors in one particular painting, none of those colors "jump out." He's ability to blend oils gives his paintings a pastel effect.

"Getting true blending in a painting is much the same as playing a musical composition without making any discord," he explained. "Although the pianist may play loud, yet never hit a wrong note, his listeners can sit back and relax. But let he should play softly and strike a number of wrong notes, his audience shudders."

PAINTING NOT 'LOUD'

He continued: "My paintings are not 'loud'; they relax people. I have developed that effect just by blending my colors. If you notice some of my paintings you will notice that all of the colors seem to disappear into other colors. That is blending. It is quite difficult to do effectively."

How is a price tag placed on a painting?

Mr. Airola explained that paintings done by true professionals usually have three values: the painter's value, market value and real value.

"The painter's value is self explanatory," he said. "It is simply the price the artist would like to receive for his painting. The market value is the price for which that painting might sell for at one of the large auctions in New York or some other large centre. In that case, purchasers look for names. An artist who is unknown stands little chance in getting much money out for his paintings there. The real value is a price which only expert art critics can place on it, the true value of the painting.

"For example, I sold a painting which Mrs. Cain did is appraised at $100. That is what she would like to receive for it. However, because she is unknown at the large auctions, she would probably get only $50 for it at one, perhaps more. But the real value of it might be in the hundreds of dollars. I would say this particular painting has a real value of $300 or $400. Some day that painting may never sell for that until long after she is gone."

Mr. Airola explained that art courses, such as he is giving at Presqu'ile, are not designed primarily to develop many artists. It is hoped, he said, that one or two good artists evolve from the classes and go on to greater things. Meanwhile those who may never amount to anything in professional art circles will have developed a true appreciation of good art.

Belleville Judo Club Gives Demonstration

TRENTON — Several members of the Y.M.C.A. Judo Club in Belleville entertained firemen at their Mutual Aid Association meeting held in Batawa last night.

Previous to their display of self defence in the art of Judo the leader of the group explained why they bow to each other before they fight.

He said it has much the same reason as the shaking of hands and its origin. He explained that many years ago shaking hands was a way of showing your friend that you did not carry a weapon in your hand and was a sign of friendship.

It is much the same with Judo opponents bowing in this way they look their foes from one another and thus showed respect to their judgment of fair play.

The group then proceeded to show the firemen the different methods of defending one's self using only the hands and the body without weapons.

Two young girls who are training with the group also displayed how the "weaker (?) sex" could throw a 200 pound person over their shoulder and pin him to the floor.

Following lunch which followed the Judo display the firemen of Frankford challenged the Trenton firemen to a game of broom-ball on roller skates next week. Firemen here said they may be willing to challenge the winner. However, the Trenton firemen have not, as yet, stated if they will accept the Frankford challenge.

Deseronto Dept. Wins 3 Trophies In Field Day

TRENTON — Fire Chief Jim McVickers of the Deseronto fire department was presented with three trophies for men had won in recent competitions. The presentations were made last night at the regular meeting of the Mutual Aid group held in the recreation hall at Batawa.

The Deseronto department won the cup at a field day to which they played host. Their closest threat during the tests came from the Batawa firemen who were only five points away from winning the overall trophy.

The large trophy awarded for overall points during the tests was presented by the Batawa Shoe Company and was presented to Chief McVickers on behalf of the company by John Cormack, Batawa fire commissioner.

Mr. Cormack told the winning department that the trophy was "only on loan" to them for a year. This he said was because the Batawa firemen plan to take it back with them next year.

The second cup to be presented to the Deseronto crew was for the Dalmatian. Donated by the Optical plant at Deseronto it was presented by Herb Hubbard of the Fire Marshal's Office in Belleville.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance presented the Carling Trophy for their efficiency also won by the Deseronto team.

Previous to the presentation of the trophies there was some discussion on the number of fire departments who attended the field day. It was reported only two of the 13 departments actually showed up for the trials. It was tentatively decided that next year each department, stating they will attend, will deposit $25 which will be returned if they appear for the trials and which they will forfeit if they fail to come.

It was decided the field day next year would be held at Batawa, with the exact date to be set later.

It was moved that a letter of thanks go to the three companies who donated trophies and cups for the competitions.

125 Bradshaws Hold Annual Family Reunion

TRENTON — Over 125 members of the various branches of the Bradshaw family turned out for their 22nd annual family reunion held on July 1 at Frenchie Park.

All who attended were from different points in Ontario and came for the reunion from Barrie, Oshawa, Toronto, Napanee, Deseronto, Newburgh, Trenton and Brighton.

Bernard Fox, 148 Wilkins St., Trenton, was president of the reunion this year and was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. C. Bedford, R.R. 1, Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. William Bradshaw, of Trenton, who handled the races and other contests.

Among the races, etc., that were held was also the children's parade which was for women only. Harvey Bradshaw, of Brighton, gave a brief address.

Among the prizes given out during the day, the prize for the oldest gentleman at the reunion went to Gordon Bradshaw, R.R. 4, Belleville, who is 75.

Each family brought its lunch as has been the practice of the family group over the years.

The reunion next year will be held at Cobourg and the officers elected for this affair are: president, Jack Bent, Oshawa; secretary, Louis Bradshaw, R.R. 1, Belleville.

Heading the sports committee will be Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bent, Oshawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Fox of Trenton.

Firemen Hold Meet at Batawa

TRENTON — In the future all fires will be reported to the secretary of the Firemen's Mutual Aid Association by the municipalities who are members, it was decided at last night's meeting of the group held in Batawa.

The matter was brought up by Hiren Mallory of the Fire Marshal's office in Belleville, who told the meeting this system has proved very beneficial in other areas of the province and he would like to see it introduced here.

He said the fires could be discussed at their meetings and any peculiar aspects of fires or problems could be aired and in this way one department's problem at the time of the fire may at some future date help another fire department.

He felt that many good discussions could come out of this system at future meetings.

Chief Gerald Vance of Belleville, explained a former plan they had adopted to send firefighters to assist the member departments who had taken ill. He told the members there was one man from each department chosen to investigate any illness and that Dr. Cummerer, Home and School, Administration Study Group and Safety Council.

He had lived in Woodstock, Ontario, for six years where he gained valuable experience for a public relations career in both radio and newspaper. He also operated his own photo-publicity business in Woodstock for two years before leaving for the Toronto centre to work for western Ontario.

Included in his hobbies are Little Theatre, graphic arts photography, tennis and reading.

Union Nationale Wins Gaspe Seat

MATANE, Que. (CP) — The Union Nationale government of Premier Duplessis retained the Matane seat in the Quebec legislative assembly in a byelection Wednesday with a record 10,800-vote majority for the Gaspe Peninsula riding.

Benoit Gaboury, 41-year-old mayor of Mont-Joli, carried the Union Nationale standard in an easy triumph over the only other candidate, independent Claude Balanger, 38-year-old Montreal salesman.

Mr. Gaboury fills the lone vacancy in the 93-seat chamber, a vacancy created by the resignation of Onesime Gagnon as provincial minister. Mr. Gagnon subsequently was appointed lieutenant-governor of Quebec.

The result made the standings in the legislature: Union Nationale 72, Liberals 17, independent three.

55-Pound Lunge Pushes Angler Out of Boat

ORILLIA (CP)—A big muskellunge turned the tables on angler Ernest Turnbull during the holiday weekend. The fish ended up in the boat at the end of the line and Turnbull in the water at the other end.

The dripping wet fisherman reached shore with the 55-pound fish and a tale to be retold.

Turnbull of Humber Summit, Ont., was fishing from a small riverboat in the narrows linking Lake Simcoe and Lake Couchiching when the monster took his casting lure.

When he finally got it near the boat Turnbull tried to net it but the net was too small to fit the 55-inch-long fish. He measured 22 inches around the stomach.

Turnbull waited until the fish tired, then tried to lift it into the narrow boat. The squirming fish landed in the boat but knocked his captor out the other side. Turnbull clambered back in and subdued the fish.

CIRCUS HAS LOST ITS GLAMOR

The visit which the Clyde Beatty circus paid to Belleville last Friday proved one thing to us. The days of the Big Top are dead.

The circus has lost its glamour.

This does not mean that we found the show at Zwick's Island unattractive. Quite the contrary. We thought it was a good little circus and it's little circus is now the biggest circus under canvas, as announced, that is beside the point. The glamor of the circus was never in direct ratio to its size. Many of the acts seen at the Clyde Beatty circus would have done credit to Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey during their hey-day. They still thrilled us -- but we and the members of our generation were not the important ones among the spectators.

The glamor of the circus, just as much as beauty, lies in the eye of the beholder and in years gone by the beholders who saw the most glamor when the circus came to town had young eyes, shining eyes, eyes which dilated themselves on the aerialist in the spotlight at the top of the tent, or raced from lion to tiger and back again, or plodded along behind the huge elephants, or danced with the feet of nimble horses.

These young eyes roamed listlessly at Friday's circus. They were blase. They had seen it all before -- on TV.

Pink cotton candy and balloons and cracker-jack. All these are part of the circus. But there were days when they were no more than the cherry on the top of the soda. Friday, as far as we could see, they interested most youngsters far more than did the circus performers.

The result was that something went out of the circus, even for adults whose eyes clothed it with the glamor of memory and whose memories were of circus days long gone and not something seen on a 21-inch screen in one's own living room a few weeks ago.

With the circus, familiarity has indeed bred contempt -- more's the pity.

Youngsters have lost something. So, too, have adults, who get much of their enjoyment at a circus from watching the spellbound younger generation. As for the circus performers, their plight must be the worst of all. Really remarkable feats drew only the mildest scattering of applause.

Alas, the circus has lost its glamor and no thrill a youngster is likely to get from TV will ever adequately balance the account.

PLUNGE INTO SUMMER

Is everybody happy?

Well, as happy as can be expected after that week-end?

Everything caught up with us in a hurry, didn't it?

Here we were sailing along smoothly in June, with the weather cool, the youngsters still at school, summer holidays still comfortably in the planning stage and then suddenly -- it's July. It's summer, school is out, vacations have started for many.

Somebody is sure to remark that it is ever thus. The trouble is that it hasn't been, not in recent years. Things have been spaced out. Schools have started to close early in June and have released their students in dribbles until, towards the end of the month, the last reluctant scholar has run his freedom, with Dominion Day still around the corner.

This year, though Monday was the only breather between the "school's out" exuberance and the Dominion Day holiday and a lot of folk around Belleville didn't even get that, firms having arranged their working schedule to give their employees Monday off, too.

What's to this plunge into summer the Weatherman added the first heat wave of the season and the fish and wildlife branch advanced the opening of bass and muskie seasons by three days, the result was nothing short of chaos.

The fortunate ones had to get back to work on Monday, providing a badly-needed break in the crowded schedule. The rest of the folks were discovering yesterday that there can be too much of a good thing and were wondering whether the rest of the two summer months were going to match that long, long weekend.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

TOMORROW IS ANOTHER DAY

I've seen a hope go sailing by,
I've watched and watched it as it flew,
I've had my fondest wishes die
And been discouraged, dyed and blue;
My chin has fallen and my nerve
Has left me, when I'd have it stay,
But I will say, without reserve,
Tomorrow is another day.

I've wrung my hands in deep despair,
I've cried like giving up the fight;
I've faltered 'neath my load of care
And I was fighting as of yore—
Tomorrow is another day.

And day has seemed as black as night
And willed in the bitter fray,
But, unreservedly, I state,
Tomorrow is another day.

The morning sun has shone again,
Now hopes have risen in my breast,
I've gone back to the world of men,
Eager to face another test,
The heartache of the night before
Seems, somehow, to have passed away
And I was fighting as of yore—
Tomorrow is another day.

Tale of Vest Not Simple

Saturday Evening Post

During the late winter of our discontent, Wallachs, a New York clothing store, undertook to answer the query of a customer who had written in to ask: "What ever became of the vest?" The customer took the view that clothing manufacturers in order to save labor and material costs, had "stopped making vests."

Nothing of the sort, replied Wallachs; it is simply that the customers don't want vests any more. The vest, insisted Wallachs, "was not killed by the clothing industry, but by the plumbing-and-heating trade and auto-makers who heated up our homes, our offices and our cars. And that's why it (the vest) still flourishes as a cold-cloth vest of the children."

This is very well, but it hardly accounts for the number of men who, after violent resistance, put on a vest piece to their suit, go across the street and buy a cool seersucker, a Tattersall vest, a thin sleeveless cashmere sweater, a red silk tourist or a cricket-cloth vest in gold.

Men in these gaudy creations are seen in heated homes, offices and cars, along with girls in bathing suits, apparently scarcely hotter than formerly, have stopped wearing their blouses and go about in middleweight sweaters.

France Now Imports Wine

Manchester Guardian Weekly

There is another French crisis brewing. If that is the right word. Certainly wine-growers, during which temperatures fell to 20 degrees below zero, killed off many vines, with the result that there is a serious shortage of the particularity of the vin ordinaire.

Now, after all the superior smiles at Commonwealth viticulture, France has turned to South Africa in the hour of need. According to a South Africa Wine Board bulletin, agreement has been reached with two Paarl wine firms to supply about 122,000 gallons of red table wine in bulk for the French home market.

In bulk means that the wine will be pumped into special tankers for the sea voyage and will be interesting to see if palates accustomed to wine and water as ours are to tea and milk will be able to trace the source of their adventure without glancing at the bottle.

Man's World Will Change

Montreal Star

A man of 1858 stepping from his horse-drawn cart on a rutted dusty lane into the land of 1958 would not find himself merely in a new world. He would be in a strange world, quite unrecognizable.

So it would be for a man of 1858 stepping a century into the future. Just what it will be like is not certain to science, although they also agree on detail. But on one thing they seem to be in accord: it will be a world very different from all the meantime man learns to control.

Several months ago Joseph E. Seagram and Sons sponsored a competition to marshal the views of eight of the Western world's foremost thinkers on what man's life will be like for our grandchildren. Now the printed record has been published in distribution as "The Next Hundred Years."

It is quite fascinating, with the scientists hinging nearly every view on a mighty If; if we learn to understand one another, live together in peace, and for the benefits of scientific progress during what they feel will be mankind's most critical hundred years.

If we manage to come to our senses, we will extract food from the sunshine better than do plants and from atomic energy. When we learn why the grass is green, we will synthesize all our liquid fuels better than nature makes them. And when we learn how the oyster gets copper from the sea, we will draw all the zinc, chromium, and vanadium we can ever use from air and gold too if it is still wanted.

Diseases as we know them will be no more, and a stabilized population, probably three or four times as large as the world now has, will be essentially vegetarian, with water from the sea irrigating intensively-cultivated land now desert.

Speculation? of course. But reasoned. We already can move rivers and mountains almost at will, and we already have a glimmer of what the future must hold on the basis of the tremendous strides made in our lifetime.

But, of course, mankind can all too easily obliterate itself before it reaches the golden cosmic age when homecomings may be spent on the moon itself.

"Bill always sits in the balcony at the movies."

Railway Gang Got Good Food

Sudbury Star

A retired CPR conductor in Sudbury, Joseph Fortin, recalls with some relish that extra gang building the line from Romford to Byng Inlet from 1906 to 1908 were given good food. He particularly remembers the weekend "specials" of fish or partridge cooked under a bed of hardwood embers.

The heart of any camp, whether railway extra gang or lumberjacks, was the cook. Favorite dish on most menus for many, many years was salt pork and beans. Storage and shipping facilities were not as they are today to keep cooks supplied with fresh meat, fruit and vegetables. The cook who could make up a variety of dishes with the same staple foods was a jewel. But, unfortunately, some of the jewels were addicted to the bottle and would periodically disappear for a few days. Then the cook with the best way they could until the patient sat down to cook pies and to his pots and pans.

Among the bush and rail camps the pie specialist is pastry. His pies and cakes would delight the taste of a gourmet. But he couldn't make a beef stew that was fit to be eaten. Then there was the cook who, when he made soft pork taste like shoe polish, or fifty years to be softened up with a sledge hammer.

Wild game and wild fruits gave the bush and rail workers f o o d variety. Moose found its way to the tables of "civilization" in the big cities. Fifty years ago it was still nothing quite as delectable as a fresh l a k e trout cooked in mountain waters or a pie made fro mblueberries that still carry the "bloom" of freshly picked fruit.

Allergic To Selves

Truro Daily News

Well, now it's out. A lot of us have suspected it for a long time, but it's been found out. We can be allergic to ourselves.

A professor of pathology at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, Dr. Max Strumia, says part of the human body reacts as though other parts were actually alien to it.

These medical fellows may just be getting around to establishing as a scientific fact what we've felt.

But who hasn't had the hunch? There are those days when your head feels like a foreigner and you would be happy to drop it a passport. Or those times when you have gone without a night's sleep and don't like logs. Who wants 'em?

But, bad moods are extreme occasions. Most way morning you care to name, most of us drag ourselves to the day's duties, feeling like a battlefield laid waste by warring allergies.

It isn't until around 10 o'clock that we decide maybe some kind of personal armistice has been declared and we can stagger through until the next round of combat begins.

What we need to know—and from Dr. Strumia's studies it is—is coexistence possible?

Use Caviar In Cold War

Vancouver Province

The beautics of a controlled economy have been demonstrated once again in Soviet Russia. Some time ago, in the highly competitive aluminum market, the price of the metal was cut underwell Western producers, including Canada. Recently in the competitive caviar market, they have raised their price by an arbitrary 50 per cent.

This is the economic cold war in action.

How long can capitalism survive an inflationary spiral in the face of such ingredients?

As every Russian knows, capitalists wear top hats and spend their working hours in the company of mink-coated chorus girls sampling caviar which, of course, they wash down with champagne.

(Never having tasted it, we always wondered how you keep the top hat on while eating the caviar. Perhaps the last drops. Perhaps you just throw them away.)

Take away his caviar, and the capitalist loses his glamour, his mink and the chorus girls, and you wreck the mink industry, which is the first step towards undermine the whole structure of keeping up with the Joneses in conspicuous consumption. Make the Joneses non-competitive, and where are we? Lost.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ADVICE TO DIABETICS CONCERNING FAT-ATROPHY

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our daughter developed diabetes at the age of 14. She is now 18 and up years healthy and well-regulated. At first she took Lente insulin, then N.P.H. U40. While doing so she developed severe atrophy on her arms and forepart of her legs, so by direction of the physician I administered the injections in a triangle. The atrophy developed there and we changed to P.Z.I., and this weakling away stopped, but now, after a year, we cannot see any improvement in the arms and legs. — Mrs. V., C."

The above is an excellent description of what is called lip-atrophy, or fat-atrophy — wasting away of the fat tissues. It occurs chiefly in females, or in little boys.

The cause is not known, nor is the reason why it affects some people and not others. Fifty years ago it literally disappeared, leaving a hollow spot. This is especially distressing, of course, when wearing bathing or sports clothes.

However, here are some useful suggestions. Scatter the shots. Don't take them in the same area. (This applies to all people taking insulin.) The abdomen can be used for the injections.

Some physicians believe that the insulin is a factor. In view of this, I consider it wise to have the bottle of insulin at room temperature, rather than using it right out of the refrigerator. (Extra supplies of insulin kept in a cool room started should be kept cold, of course.)

Another trick is to make deep-er injections.

Your daughter is changing the type of insulin — just as Mrs. V.C. did, with success. Furthermore the concentration of insulin can be varied, using U 80 instead of U40 strength — that is a smaller volume of fluid is being injected although the number of units of insulin remains the same. Use a U 80 syringe with the U 80 insulin.)

In severe cases, highly-concentrated insulin may be injected into the skin layers — a very shallow injection — with success.

I suggest that anyone having my booklet on diabetes (or any other publication on diabetes) dig out today's column and keep it for reference.

Oh, one last item. In general these hollow spots tend to disappear in time, but in some two or three years for the fat to reappear.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person be allergic to novocain used in local anesthics for dentistry? If so, what is the reaction? If one had penicillin shots several years ago and had no allergic effects at that time, would one be allergic at any time thereafter? — Mrs. C. K."

Yes, some people are sensitive to novocain. The effects could be rash, itching, swelling, possible nausea. The consequences vary. As to your question about penicillin, yes, it is possible to develop a sensitivity, or allergy, to it after having had none the first time it was used.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our infant son, 20 months old, has a boil on the right side of his head from lying on that side too much lately. We have tried to force him on his left side but he puts up such a fuss that we turn him back on his right side. What should we do? — L. H. C."

It's not an uncommon occurrence — either the lying on one side, or the boil itself. The answer is usually simple: Turn his crib or move it so that he has to look out the other way to watch the windows, doors, or whatever he is looking toward when he lies on his side. This generally solves the whole problem.

Want more from sinus trouble? Much can be done to help you, and that is explained in my booklet "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." To receive your copy, write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover handling.

Strength for The Day

END OF THE COMMANDMENT

In the second epistle of Peter one finds a list of Christian virtues, and the order in which these virtues are listed is most significant. The chief of the apostles tells Christian followers (II Peter 1:5-7) that their salvation begins with diligence. Then to diligence is added faith, and to faith patience, and in virtue knowledge, and to knowledge self control, and to self control patience, and to patience godliness, and to godliness brotherly kindness, and to brotherly kindness love.

So here is the order through which the human soul passes in its pilgrimage from bondage to freedom. We begin with the plainest homely virtue of diligence. And no sick bed-ridden man can relax and sink down into the benefits of Christian salvation is wrong. The person who would be perfect spiritually must do something to gain these benefits. His spiritual pilgrimage begins with diligence; then goes on to self control, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness. But the end of this experience is love — love for God and love for man.

The test of true religion is not whether or not it brings us to love. It may be! all kinds of fruit, but unless it bears I h a s fruit it is not true and sound. Furthermore, it is wrong. The end of the commandment is love.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Perhaps never in human history have so many so generally flattered ourselves as we are doing now. We fill the air with our praises. What miracles we are performing! Never a day goes by but the press, radio, TV and movies vie with one another in sounding the wonders of human genius.

But all around us this week, the young birds are fledging from the nest.

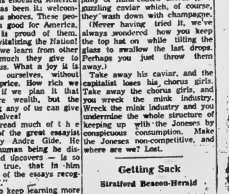
Let us when and think a b o u t them for a minute. Let's take the common kildeer plover that we see, whether on golf links or along country road - from coast to coast in Canada.

Twenty-six days ago, the female killdeer laid the last of her four eggs on the bare ground in t h e pasture.

Today, the four eggs hatched, carpet.

And, within one hour, the four chicks were up on their legs, scampering around feeding. They came out of the shell fully clothed with down, their eyes open, their little limbs coiled and ready.

In six weeks, they will be full grown, and will carry a fine coat and milk-to the happy lands far, far away.



Then, slow, groping, gross creatures are are in comparison with nature's masterpieces of efficiency and swift perfection, the birds.

Stelco Union Trying to Get New Contract

HAMILTON (CP) — A steelworkers' union official says the Steel Company of Canada has not suffered from the economic slump that it helped create.

Cleve Kidd, research director of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), made the statement Wednesday before a conciliation board which opened hearings to try to settle a new contract between Stelco's Hamilton works and Local 1005, representing about 8,000 employees.

"Stelco continues to operate at a much higher rate of capacity and profit than the rest of the steel industry on the continent," said Mr. Kidd, reading from a 50-page brief prepared by his department.

"Stelco is not suffering from the economic slump which it helped to create by its high-price, low-wage policies."

The board is headed by Judge H. J. M. Donley of Fort Frances with Andy Andras of the Canadian Labor Congress for the union and C. P. McTague of Toronto for the company.

Union national director William Mahoney told the board the union offered to settle for about 25½ cents an hour.

"We have suggested that a package somewhat similar to that we received two years ago could lead to a settlement," he said.

WANTS SAME DEAL

Mr. Kidd said that on April 22, when the company and union met with conciliation officer W. J. McGuire, "union spokesmen made it clear we were prepared to consider settlement terms in line with the settlement package made at the last negotiations."

"That is still the position today."

Mr. Kidd retorted to a company charge that the union's demands amount to 66½ cents. He said:

"When the last settlement was made there were many cries of blue ruin from the company spokesmen. The settlement was made and the company went on to greater prosperity than ever. The same claims are again being made by the company. They are as illogical and unfounded today as they were two years ago. They should be dismissed for what they are — highly-colored propaganda."

He said the company is one of the 10 largest, most efficient and most profitable steel companies in North America.

But wage rates were among the lowest paid in the primary steel industry — 41.5 cents an hour lower than those paid by primary steel companies in the United States.

The present base rate at Hamilton is $1.73½ an hour with a 5½-cent increment.

SPECTATORS DISAPPOINTED AT ST. LAWRENCE BLAST, BUT STEADY TRICKLE FORMS NEW LAKE

Three three photos, taken at one-second intervals, show the blasting of the coffer dam that held back the waters of the St. Lawrence from the lake bed prepared as part of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project. Thirty tons of explosive were used to destroy the dam, built mostly of dirt to allow total destruction.

Though 70,000 spectators at the blasting of the coffer dam near Cornwall expected to see a lake form before their eyes, they were disappointed in that the expected rush of water was only a trickle. But after a few hours of the trickle, the lake began to take form and grew with startling speed. When the lake is completely filled by waters of the St. Lawrence, it will be the headpond, or reservoir, for production of 2,200,000 horsepower of hydro-electric energy to serve both Ontario and New York State.

Weddings

GOUGH — TOWNSEND

Pink and white peonies bank-ed the altar on Saturday, June 21st, at 2:30 p.m. in King St. United church, Trenton, for a very pretty wedding, when Nancy Ann Claire Townsend, of Trenton, daughter of Mrs. Roy Clarke, of Halloway, and the late Mr. Cecil Townsend, was united in marriage to Douglas Raymond Gough, of Foxboro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Gough. The Reverend G. Mitchelby, pastor of the church, officiated. The guest pews were marked by alternating pink and white satin bows, with white for the parents of the bridal couple.

Mr. R. Kendall, church organist, presided at the console of the organ, and rendered the traditional wedding music, with soft music during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride entered the church on the arm of her step-father, Mr. Roy Clarke. She was charmingly gowned in floor-length, imported pure silk organza over taffeta, with fashioned with fitted bodice accented by bands of French chantilly lace from neckline to waistline encrusted with twinkling pearl-ettes and seed pearls and the tiny organza sleeves featured ruched folds. The organza was caught at the back forming a large bow with floor-length streamers reaching the chapel train. She wore a coronet encrusted with matching gallettes of seed pearls with veil of double-fold silk illusion in floor-length, and carried a cascade of pink roses encircled with white and white daisy mums and trelly-ivy, with white satin bow and streamers.

Miss Doris Gough, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor; Miss Ann Emerson, cousin of the bride, was bride-maid, and Miss, three-year-old Janet Wilson, niece of the bride-groom, was flower girl. All attendants were gowned alike in ballerina-length pink chiffon over taffeta and net. The chiffon over-skirt was caught up at intervals by tiny, velvet bows, showing the taffeta under-skirt. The maid of honor and bride-maid wore matching headdresses, and carried nosegays of pink roses, pink sweetpeas mingled with white, baby 'mums, while the flower girl carried a little basket of pink sweetpeas, white baby 'mums and pink sweetheart roses, with floral head-dress.

Mr. Arthur Gough, of Foxboro, attended his brother as groomsmen, while Messrs. Douglas Townsend of Halloway, cousin of the bride, and Glenn Wilson, of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the church parlor, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing embroidered aqua taffeta in princess style, with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations and white, baby 'mums. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in eggshell nose brocade in sheath style, with blue accessories, and corsage of red roses and white, baby 'mums.

The bride's table, beneath cascading pink and white streamers and central white wedding bell, was prettily appointed with pink and white peonies and white daisies, centered by a three-tier wedding cake topped with white bride and lily-of-the-valley with pink and white streamers.

Those serving included Misses Lois McMullen, Ruth Morgan, Fern Pinkle, Reta Robinson, Glenna and Gail Sprague.

For the wedding trip to points west and north, the bride wore a skyblue corded silk, sleeveless taffeta, fashioned with Zelda and Deep V-neckline in the back; matching coat with slight full back, pink accessories, white shoes and basket-style bag. Mr. and Mrs. Gough will reside in Belleville on December 1st.

Guests attended from Sidney, Frankford, Trenton, Kingston, Bancroft, Foxboro, Belleville, Halloway and Consecon.

Showers were held previous to her marriage: a miscellaneous at the home of Mrs. Ie, of Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas John Haig Darling are pictured cutting the wedding cake on the lawn at the bride's home, Madoc, following their marriage in Trinity United Church, Madoc. The bride is the former Miss Jean Connie Burris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Burris. Her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Darling, of Lakefield, Ontario. (Photo by McCormick's Studio, Belleville.)

DARLING — BURRIS

Trinity United Church, Madoc, was adorned with standards of white gladioli and light candelabra on Saturday, June 21st, at 2:30 p.m. for a lovely summer wedding when Jean Connie Burris, of Madoc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Burris, became the bride of Douglas John Haig Darling, of Lakefield, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Darling. The Reverend A. Poulter, assisted by the Reverend J. F. Lane, officiated.

The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Wesley Hutlin.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Allan Burris, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white satin with Sweetheart neckline outlined with seed pearls, and fashioned with molded bodice and bouffant skirt gathered in front with bow, and sweeping into a chapel train. Her seed pearl encrusted coronet held her finger-tip veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses, with rosebud-knotted streamers.

Mrs. Erma Downey, of Belleville, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a waltz-length gown of organza ice over taffeta; Mrs. Ray Burris, of Madoc, and Miss Shirley Hatch, Niagara Falls; Mrs. Ray Ellington Naugler, of Port Anne, Ontario

"The Atlantic ocean looks exactly like Lake Ontario and I'm just dying to see a big storm with waves 30 feet high and half of the passengers sea-sick. The water is teal colored — definitely bluish — the boat churns it up and there is much foam down the long avenue of our wake. The boat rocked back and forth — being shifted towards your head and then to your feet. Sometimes it just goes up and down and you feel yourself being gently pushed into your mattress then you lighten again. It's quite pleasant, not at all disconcerting."

"I went to a show this morning — "High Society" with Bing Crosby and Grace Kelly and Frank Sinatra — it was quite funny — but really nothing to write home about — I wonder why I am. Dan and I have entered ourselves in the table tennis tournament." (I hope they don't get beat up too much and can take the racquet)

He goes on and on and describes the food and interior decoration in detail, then finishes on a very happy note: "Today we step in France. It is perfectly glorious — I am out on deck — the sun is brilliant and warm and the water is deep blue and little white caps are sparkling. Everything is wonderful — and I know I passed. Thank you so much mum, for wiring me — it was wonderful to see those 3 unambiguous words passed love mum! (I didn't put love in my wire because I thought for Pete you could take it for granted)".

Pete is a good correspondent. We'll keep you posted on their bicycle ramblings especially when they get to Paris, for they expect to meet Marianne and Herbie there. I can't tell you how much I would give to be peeking around the corner at that moment.

To get back in the kitchen for a few minutes, here is a new recipe for pickled eggs that will improve almost any summer supper, be it inside or out.

PICKLED EGGS

Three cups white vinegar, 1 1-2 cups water, 1 1-2 tablespoons salt, 1 teaspoon each whole cloves, pepper berries, 2 tablespoons sliced ginger root or 1-2 teaspoon celery seed. Tie spices in bag and put into vinegar with salt and water and boil 10 minutes. Remove spice bag and let solution cool. Hard-cook a dozen eggs, dash into cold water to cool rapidly and remove shells. Pack eggs in quart jars. Pour cold vinegar solution over to cover, then seal. Let stand at least 2 days, before using. These keep well at room temperature for a few days but should be refrigerated if kept for more than 1 week.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Francine R. — Ralph does not do anything for Mother.

Ralph B. — She should take Mother to live with her.

Francine R. — I am a married woman with three children a n d I am very much concerned about my mother, who was widowed a year ago.

Mother doesn't go out at all. She is terribly lonely. I would take her to live with me, but there really isn't room in my house and she says she doesn't want to give up her home.

The only thing that could be done is for my younger brother, who was recently married, to take her out. I can't do this because I am tied down with the children. But Ralph and his wife have all the freedom in the world.

I am furious against Ralph's wife because I know he would do this if it weren't for her. S h e seems to want to pull him away from the family. She doesn't like my mother and doesn't care what becomes of her.

Ralph B. — Francine has a lot of nerve shooting her mouth off at my wife as she has been doing. My wife says nobody has ever been as rude to her as Francine, and I won't have her put up with any insults.

I don't think Francine has any right to tell me what to do when it comes to our mother. I h a v e contributed to Mother's support for nearly ten years — long before our father died — and that's a heck of a lot more than Francine ever did.

My wife says if Francine really lived up to her responsibilities, she would insist that our mother go to live with her. It is not right for an aged woman to live alone like that.

The fact is, I have taken Mother out a few times but she doesn't really enjoy herself with us.

The Council: Francine, h e r brother and his wife appear to be using this "aged widow" as a kind of bone in a cat and dog fight of their own.

Francine and her brother cannot tell one another what their responsibilities ought to be. They have individual problems and personal ideas about what they want to contribute to their mother's welfare and happiness. They each have a right to fulfill their obligations in an individual way.

If Francine and Ralph are truly concerned about their mother's welfare and not about their private battle, they will give up their childish recriminations against one another.

They will try to co-operate in giving their mother some of their time and will do everything they can to encourage her to maintain her independence as long as possible, and to get out among people of her own age.

Both Francine and Ralph should go as far as they can in helping their mother without making a big burden of it. If they do more than they sincerely want to do their mother will sense it and will feel she is a burden — and I b a l will hurt even more than her loneliness.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

SATURDAY MORNING "COFFEE-BREAK SHOWER"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister and I are hoping you will have a "just right" suggestion to help us with our problem. We are to be bridesmaids for a dear friend of ours on a Tuesday soon, and for another dear friend on the following Saturday. We want to give a "double" shower for them, a quite large shower, and we want to give it at our house on a Saturday. Practically all of us live in this community. During the week we all work, the brides-to-be, the guests, as well as we ourselves. But we have been told that the brides-to-be have said that they prefer not to have Saturday luncheon-showers or tea-showers, because they need these hours for shopping, and so forth. Any suggestions? — Two Sisters

Yes . . . the morning "Coffee Break Shower," the brand-new, grand-new, gay and practical idea for a shower for busy gals. It is most appropriate for Saturday, and the hour chosen can be, say, 8:30 or 10, ending at 12 (or even before with an earlier-beginning hour), with the rest of the day and open for shopping-activities and other plans. Everything should be ready for a prompt beginning: easy-to-serve fruit (melon, perhaps) or pitchers of fruit juices; a generous supply of hot coffee, of course; an appropriate m a i n course; hot or heated small rolls or croissants or coffee cake or Danish pastry or waffles — all good companions to coffee. The shower gifts might be kitchen gifts or household gifts or paper gifts. How about this suggestion to meet your requirements?

CORRECT FORM FOR WRITING COURTESY TITLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father says that whenever one writes a letter to anyone entitled to "The Honorable" before his or her name, "The" must always be written before "Honorable," and "Honorable" should always be spelled in full (not abbreviated "Hon."). My brother says it is not necessary to write "The" before "Honorable," a n d that the abbreviation "Hon." may be used if one wishes. For a very definite and most important reason we want to be sure about this envelope-addressing. Please advise who is right.

The H. Family

Your father is right. It is best form to write this courtesy title in full: The Honorable John Blake Clark. Also, since you are especially interested in this courtesy title, note that: (1) "The Honorable" should be used with t h e full name. The Honorable John Blake Clark (not "The Honorable Clark"); and (2) it should not be used with any other title (not "Mr." or "Mrs." or "Miss" or "Dr." or a military title, such as "Captain"). Just the name, The Honorable John Blake Clark. If this line would be too long on the envelope, it is entirely correct to write "The Honorable" above and to the left of the name:

The Honorable
John Blake Clark

WHY RIGHT SIDE OF CHURCH IS "GROOM'S SIDE"; LEFT SIDE IS "BRIDE'S SIDE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

You say in your column: "The bride's parents sit in the first pew on the left of the aisle, and the groom's parents sit in the first pew on the right of the aisle." This is confusing to me, because I should think that the seating-arrangement would be just the reverse: that the bride's parents, since they give the wedding, should sit in the first pew on the right of the aisle.

— Father of the Bride-To-Be

The groom's mother and father are the guests of honor at the wedding . . . therefore they are given the places of honor at the right of the bride's mother a n d father, who are the hosts of t h e wedding. This seating-arrangement abides by the tradition that guests of honor are seated at the right of the host and or hostess.

Also: this is the reason why, at the parents' table at the wedding reception, the groom's mother (the woman guest of honor) is seated at the right of the bride's father (the host of the wedding); and the groom's father (man's guest of honor) is seated at the right of the bride's mother (t h e hostess of the wedding).

More and More Women Move With Hubbies Into Northland

EDMONTON (CP)—North of 60 no longer is a man's world.

The day is past when the wife of the Hudson's Bay trader was the only woman in many Northwest Territories settlements.

Today, fluttering chintz curtains, neatly-kept vegetable gardens and such dainty innovations as fancy porch lights are as much a part of the northern scene as the Indian trapper and team of huskies.

FOLLOW HUSBANDS

As the Canadian northland is opened, more and more women are following their men to the settlements spread across the Territories.

The fur trader's wife has been joined by the wives of policemen, employees of federal departments ranging from transport to Indian affairs. Teachers are moving into new schools as quickly-growing settlements and nurses have come from the south to work in outpost hospitals.

In the larger settlements, federal government offices have women clerical staffs and cookhouses and cafes are staffed by girls.

The ratio of men to women is still far out of balance, but it shows a big change even from 10 years ago.

The north still relies on tough men ready to put up with hardships, for its development. Yet the ladies are playing an important role in its development on permanent lines.

RCMP and federal departments now try to provide comfortable living quarters for married men posted to the north. Mining settlements, too, are making it possible for workers to bring in their families, and are providing the "extras" which will encourage families to come.

NEW COMMUNITIES

At Keno Hill in the Yukon, Port Radium on Great Bear Lake, Gunnar Mines on Lake Athabasca and Cassiar, in interior British Columbia, whole new communities have sprung up around the mines.

Gunnar Mines, 18 miles from Uranium City, Sask., almost on the Northwest Territories boundary, is typical. Gunnar has no connections with the outside except aircraft and river boats in summer.

To surmount problems of isolation, a heavy house - building program has been started. Employees the company wishes to encourage to stay are offered units at a nominal rental.

There is a waiting list for houses and suites in the company's two big apartment blocks. Gunnar has built a $1,000,000 shopping centre which incorporates such unfrontier-like features as a beauty parlor, indoor bowling alleys, a snack bar and auditorium which doubles as a theatre.

Like other mining companies in the north which offer accommodation for families, Gunnar pays transportation to the "outside" for the employee and his family when vacation time comes.

Holiday Special

This suit has a dressmaker look and is beautifully done in a charming floral print with a plunging V back and buttons as decor from the waist to below the hips. It's ideal either for basking in the sun or diving in the surf.

PRAISE CAPTORS

They looked weary after five days of captivity. Some were unshaven and most wore dirt-stained clothes. But they praised their captors, and Chamberlain said a rebel doctor even treated him for his chronic headaches.

"We were treated fine all the time and a lot of friends," said Salmonson.

Judging from his statements the rebels apparently planned the kidnap campaign to dramatize their charges that the United States is helping President Fulgencio Batista's campaign to crush the rebels.

"They told us that bombs made in America were being used against them by the Cuban government," Salmonson said. "They showed us what they said were bomb fragments and also pointed out some huts that had been destroyed by fire."

Otherwise, he said, the rebels took them swimming and on happy tours of the wilderness. He reported food and beds were good.

QUOTES CASTRO

(A ham radio broadcast intercepted in Florida meanwhile quoted Cuban rebel leader Fidel Castro as ordering release of any North Americans who may be held by his followers. Merritt Stoner of Lakeland, Fla., told the Lakeland Ledger he picked up the broadcast from a man in Cuba identifying himself as a newspaper correspondent. Stoner said the broadcast was directed to an Alabama ham for relay to the New York Times and President Eisenhower.

(At about the same time CBS radio correspondent Tom Costigan at Santiago, Cuba, reported to his New York office that four captives will be released Thursday. His call was cut off before he could give any names, CBS said.)

CORNWALL MAN

The third Canadian seized by the rebels is Richard Sargent, about 50, of Toronto. He is a sugar mill executive.

Others in the Moa group released Wednesday were Henry Salmonson, 46, Portland, Ore.; Anthony Chamberlain, Coral Gables, Fla.; Howard A. Roache, Walestown, N.Y.; and William Koster, 53, Akron, Ohio.

Starr Offers 3-Hour Report On European Trip

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Starr has offered to give the Commons a three- to four-hour review of his recent trip to Europe.

But nobody took him up on it Wednesday. Mr. Starr returned to the House Tuesday night after three weeks' attendance at an international labor congress in Vienna.

In the House Tuesday, Harold Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) had suggested more important matters confronted Mr. Starr in Canada.

Wednesday, he wanted to know whether the minister would make a report on his trip.

"I try to carry out my responsibilities as well as I can," Mr. Starr replied, offering to give the House a review or give one to Mr. Winch privately.

Lesage Says Secretary Of Govt. Leader Had Shares Before Board Approved Issue

QUEBEC (CP) — Liberal Leader Jean Lesage says the secretary of Hon. Edouard Asselin, government leader in the legislative council and chairman of the board of directors of the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation, obtained common shares of the corporation before the provincial electricity board authorized the issue.

Mr. Lesage said during a press conference Wednesday that Paul-Emile Perron took possession of 500 shares of the corporation April 12, 1957, five days before the electricity board authorized the corporation to issue the shares.

Mr. Lesage, flanked by two Liberal party lawyers, said he does not know whether Miss Perron still owns the shares or not.

He said the shares are part of 4,000 shares issued April 12, 1957. The board had authorized the issue April 17.

Leonard D. Milano, now a director of the corporation, and three New York City businessmen obtained possession of the 2,500 shares issued April 12, Mr. Lesage said. He named them as William Tipper, Ralph B. Orne and Robert Chaplin.

Aime Geoffrion, one of the lawyers attending the press conference said it was abnormal, especially when a public utilities enterprise is being formed, to issue shares before they are duly authorized.

He noted that the prospectus of the corporation did not mention Miss Perron by name but that there was an obvious reference to her in the expression "a former employee of the company."

Mr. Geoffrion said it would have been a good idea for the corporation to mention in its petition to the electricity board the names of the persons who had earlier obtained 4,000 common shares. But only Mr. Milano's name appeared.

Mr. Lesage said that the names of Miss Perron, Norman Sayles of Montreal, a member of Mr. Asselin's law firm, and Albert Langevin, brother-in-law of Mr. Asselin, are among the persons who petitioned for the incorporation of the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

As such, these persons had to have at least one common share each, Mr. Lesage said and Langevin still holds his common share.

The Liberal leader said that the corporation, according to the deed of sale, was to pay $2,967,117 for Hydro's gas facilities and this included a promissory note of $2,500,000 bearing interest at four per cent.

Mr. Lesage said it is curious to note that the government loaned money to the corporation at a rate of interest lower than the interest it pays on loan issues it floats.

He said the deed of sale shows that H. A. B. Stuffman appears as secretary-treasurer of Montreal Coke and Keystone Transport which sold its interests to the corporation at the same time as Quebec Hydro sold its gas facilities. The deed shows, he said, that at the moment of sale Mr. Stuffman was also secretary-treasurer of the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

Mr. Lesage said in his opinion the total sale price of about $39,000,000 for the gas facilities and their complementary services did not represent their real value. It was too low. Only a royal commission of inquiry could clarify this question which he said was an important one.

In Montreal, the corporation said in its prospectus issued April 15, 1957, that it was incorporated under the Quebec Companies Act June 15, 1956. Upon its organization the company was authorized to issue up to 10,000 common shares, said the prospectus.

A total of 5,000 were purchased by eight companies.

The prospectus mentioned that five individuals had subscribed for 4,000 common shares at $10 a share payable on or before June 1, 1957.

Four of the individuals, including Mr. Milano, were associated with Commonwealth Services Inc., an organization of business and engineering consultants which entered into a service contract with the corporation. Mr. Milano was the only one of the individuals named in the prospectus.

Mention also was made of a "former officer" of the corporation who has subscribed for part of the 4,000 common shares. The officer was not named.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1958

Despite Snow-Damaged Crop In Peace River Block Farmers Looking for Good Times

GRAND PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) —Cries of disaster that began echoing last fall across farm lands and corridors of the Peace River block in northwestern Alberta have ebbed with the coming of spring.

As farmers worked this year, talking off some of last fall's snow-damaged crop and planting new ones, hope for success took the ascendancy over talk of last year's hardships.

It was obvious some individual cases of extreme difficulty were experienced and generally farm spending was cut, but few signs could be found of an unhealthy general economy.

HOPE FOR GOOD CROP

A broad range of interviews among farm and business people revealed a widely - held opinion that with a good crop season this year, most more will forget 1957 in a hurry.

"There's no doubt the farmers of the Peace had it tough last fall," said a Grand Prairie bank manager. "But if they have a good crop this year, they'll forget all about last year."

Four feet of snow fell early last October and buried nearly half the crops in the field. Heavy rains had prevented the harvesting machines from getting at the grain earlier in the season and it stood in stooks or swath through the winter.

Farm organizations, politicians, boards of trade and chambers of commerce met in a disastrous-area declaration for relief purposes. This never came about, but federal aid under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act totalled more than $2,000,000 and provincial and municipal seed relief in the form of loans reached $500,000.

Need for assistance was more apparent in some areas than in others. Across the Peace River area where more than 9,500 farms occupy 4,000,000 acres of land to form the backbone of an economy supporting 70,000 persons, conditions varied widely.

DAMAGED BY MICE

The south Peace region of Grand Prairie County, where there are more than 3,000 farms, feel about the gas transaction.

saw nearly 70 per cent of his crop harvested last fall. Half of that left in the fields was taken off this spring, although some damage—principally by mice and most was classed as feed.

"Some farmers got as 15 or 20 mice under a stook," said farmer G. Schubert, who works a farm at Clairmont, 20 miles west of Grande Prairie. "We had to feed our grain to our livestock, or it couldn't sell it."

In the area across the central Peace, a stretching from the French-Canadian region of Falher more than 100 miles to the British Columbia boundary, about 30 per cent of the crop was harvested in the fall.

The ground was so thoroughly soaked by rains and winter snows that harvesting machines could not get on the fields until late spring despite weeks of hot weather. Many burned the remains of last year's crop in order to speed early enough to beat the frosts.

DAMPED BY FIRE

Kas Wolasyhn, farming 180 acres in the Spirit River area, supported a wife and two children on $400 from the PFAA and the rest of his income from sales of grain he took off before the snow came.

After attempting to combine wheat May 22, but said he would have got a good yield because prices for low-grade feed would not justify the extra expense of cut his livestock and planned to seed only 60 acres this year. Summer fallow during the summer to get some cash on hand.

The Alberta farmers north of the Peace River conditions were similar.

The small operator who farmed strictly for subsistence and supplied only subsidiary income suffered the most and only those who had the wherewithal and who had previously been wise to do so this time.

The mixed farmer was able to get fair prices for livestock and to use unharvested grain for feed.

Goldfine's Gifts Called Evasion Of Income Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Peter F. Mack (Dem., Ill.) said today Bernard Goldfine's treatment of his favors to Sherman Adams amounted to "income tax evasion by falsely listing gifts as business expenses."

But Goldfine said the bills got routine handling by his accountants and that the internal revenue service "feels we made a mistake, we will adjust our returns."

Goldfine, who gave his explanation in a statement Wednesday night, said payments about that and other matters under oath today before a House of Representatives subcommittee. That group is checking charges that Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide, he paid Goldfine got favorable treatment from federal agencies.

Chairman Oren Harris (Dem., Ark.) said questioning of Goldfine probably will continue into next week.

FREELY EXCHANGED GIFTS

Adams and Goldfine have said they exchanged gifts—on a personal basis—for years. Adams and Goldfine sought or received favored treatment from the government's aq'a reveals.

Mack reported the subcommittee staff will say Adams has evidence to back up other charges it has heard against Goldfine, including a mystery witness who may attest that Goldfine helped the bought a Washington house for Adams.

That charge, which Goldfine and Adams both have denied, was one of a number made by Robert E. Merriam, associated and now a business enemy of Goldfine.

Goldfine, a sold-styled Russian-born poor boy who built a New England textile fortune, banks and real estate, spent 2½ hours on the stand Wednesday evidently to guard at the start of a statement defending himself and Adams.

GOLDFINE DENIALS

In the statement he denied various charges explained his trouble with federal agencies, and described Adams as a man who "has told many lies about Bernard Goldfine and will tell many more I am sure."

It was after Wednesday's House hearing that Adams publicly acknowledged that the industrialist's gifts to Adams had been declared as business expenses for income tax purposes.

Under the circumstances, such gifts would be deductible only if they were connected to the getting of value in return.

Then Goldfine himself put out an explanation through a new array of lawyers.

Treasury service officials indicated a review of Goldfine's tax returns is under way.

This map traces one of the world's toughest transportation routes, a 1,400-mile system of rivers, lakes and portages over which more than 225,000 tons of supplies are being shipped to northern communities this summer.

Three government-owned Northern Transportation Company, using 30-odd boats and 100 barges, has begun the summer-long job of shipping fuel, machinery, building materials, food and clothing to dozens of Arctic and sub-Arctic communities along the Mackenzie River system.

The goods are picked up at the railhead at Waterways, Alta., loaded onto the barges and moved north down the Athabasca River to Lake Athabasca where the journey leg follows the Slave River to Great Slave Lake.

Then ships follow the Mackenzie River to the shore of the Beaufort Sea in the Arctic Ocean to Tuktoyaktuk.

At 3-mile stretch of rapids in the lower Slave River between Fort Fitzgerald and Fort Smith is bypassed by loading the supplies on trucks. The nine-mile stretch of rapids between Fort Smith and Hay River forces trucking of supplies bound for Fort Radium.

Saskatchewan Dam Agreement Excludes Power

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has outlined details of a draft agreement by which the federal government would confine its assistance for the South Saskatchewan River power-irrigation project largely to the earth-rm dam itself.

He cited no exact figures Wednesday but it appeared that federal aid for the project would be confined to about $70,000,000, leaving the province to handle the rest of the project whose total estimated cost for the dam, power and irrigation components has been estimated at about $185,000,000.

The draft agreement has been sent to Saskatchewan, the prime minister told the Commons, and negotiations with the province could be signed at the earliest possible date, enabling a start on the project "within the next few weeks."

The draft made no mention of Saskatchewan's request for a $25,000,000 loan to help finance the power phase of the project at low interest rates. No miles south-west of Saskatoon.

A spokesman from Regina, Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said Wednesday he is "very disappointed" about the federal rejection of the loan application. He charged that the discrimination" against Saskatchewan. Other provinces have been better.

Flt. Lt. J. K. Goldie Is Only RCAF Padre Wearing Pilot's Wings, Was Capt. of Bomber

COMOX, B.C. (CP)—The only padre wearing pilot's wings and the Distinguished Flying Cross, is Flt. Lt. James Goldie, 34, a United Church minister and onetime clothing salesman, fighter and bomber pilot, lumber yard worker and soap salesman.

During the Second World War he flew 18 missions and was given the medal for "exceptional coolness and devotation to duty on two sorties over enemy territory." He graduated from high school in Regina in 1934. His ambitions to be a lawyer or a businessman were thwarted by the depression, and he took a job as a clothing salesman, he recalled in an interview at the RCAF station here, SWEPT UP

When the Second World War broke out he joined the air force and found himself among a flow of recruits giving routine jobs before their training as fighter pilots.

The clothing salesman in him came to the fore when he saw recruits being issued uniforms with scant regard to size. "Finally I got over a broom I started suggesting more suitable sizes," said Goldie. "I found a sergeant heard my remarks and he put me in charge of fitting. It was something about the job that he recruited me as clothing depot quartermaster."

"He even promised me my corporal's stripes in a few days. But soon he was training to fly at Regina and Yorkton and with No. 2 Bomber Group in Britain. He was a bomber pilot who headed overseas in 1941.

SHORT STAY

In England, he was chosen one of five to train as fighter pilots. Attacking aircraft and training stations were being heavily attacked by the Luftwaffe, and Goldie's stay in England was short.

He flew eight months overseas and I wound up back in Saskatchewan," he said. "I still my name on the list to return overseas and after RAF instructors had finally made it back in 1943."

This time he trained as a bomber pilot on the engined Lancasters. But his first trip with a bomb load was his last as well as organized as it might have been.

We were not even supposed to have been on the raid and as a result didn't attend the briefing. They woke us up in the last minute on the way to town and told us we would have to attend the briefing and stand by for an all-out effort," he said.

There was trouble with the guns in the rear turret, but "we thought we could get away with it."

COOL OFFICER

There was trouble with the guns in the rear turret, but "we thought we could get away with it."

Five trips later he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the citation read in part:

"Flt. Lt. Goldie was pilot of an aircraft detailed to attack Duisburg Docks in December, 1944. It was his first sortie as captain. During the outward flight it was discovered that only one of the guns in the rear turret was serviceable. Nevertheless, Flt. Lt. Goldie continued to the target and pressed home his attack with attack.

On another occasion en route to Duisburg, part of the oxygen supply failed. Flt. Lt. Goldie promptly instructed the wireless operator to effect repairs. The latter's oxygen supply failed and Goldie's first consciousness.

"With great coolness and presence of mind he descended to a very low altitude in order to enable his companion to recover and then repair the defective system. He afterwards descended to the target and made a very good attack.

With the end of the war in Europe, pilot Goldie was assigned flight leader of 15 bomber sort to the Pacific theatre served in the Oriental.

DISCHARGE IN 1945

In June he accepted his discharge and to support his wife and a daughter, a boy and a number yard worker—"just to get my feet on the ground." Then he graduated.

At the age of 30, Flt. Lt. Goldie was finally decided on a career. But all those years of war and all-its horrors I knew where my heading. I decided to go join the ministry."

Academic routine at the University of Manitoba was a challenge for a man who had left school more than 10 years before, and had a family to support.

"I sold my car and took a part-time job as a cleaning janitor, selling brushes on the side. It was pretty rough going."

He graduated and was ordained in 1952 by the Manitoba Conference of the United Church. His first charge was the Grey Street Church in Winnipeg.

Then he joined the RCAF as a chaplain. Now he flies jet planes—"to keep in shape."

Liberal Leader Lesage Calls On Duplessis to Resign and Hold Election on Gas Issue

QUEBEC (CP) — Liberal Leader Lesage has asked Premier Duplessis to let the people decide in a provincial general election on his Union Nationale government's policies in connection with the sale of Quebec Hydro's gas facilities to the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

During a press conference Wednesday the Liberal party chief demanded the resignation of Mr. Duplessis' Union Nationale administration, the dissolution of the provincial legislature and the calling of a general election. The government was re - elected in 1956 for a five-year term.

Reading from a prepared statement, following a caucus of Liberal members of the legislative assembly, Mr. Lesage said:

"A call to the people at this time would be premature since the public is not aware of all the facts.

"But it is the only means remaining to obtain the royal commission of inquiry it is necessary and it is for this reason that I demand a general election.

"A government which will not fear in court carrying out of a complete and impartial inquiry must be elected to power."

TURNED DOWN

He said Mr. Duplessis had turned down Friday his request for establishment of a royal commission investigation into the sale of the provincial gas distributing system of hydro to the privately-owned corporation April 29, 1957.

In a series of articles started June 13, Montreal Le Devoir has said the transaction was marketed by a $20,000,000 stock market coup. Corporation officials have said there was nothing irregular in the transaction.

The liberal leader termed "outrageous" the expulsion by a provincial police officer in a reporter from the premier's office last Friday. Guy Lamarche was ordered out of the office after he introduced himself as a reporter from Le Devoir.

"He claims he is not interfering with freedom of the press. But in fact such is an example of anger, the premier . . . proffers insults and threats, in a manner unworthy of the post he occupies. He directly attacks the rights of the citizens to information, freedom of speech and expression.

Mr. Lesage announced he is undertaking a tour of Quebec province to "tell the people what we will be able to find out" about the gas transaction.

Mr. Lesage described the rallies as "protest meetings" and said he had been encouraged by Liberal members of the legislative assembly.

One newspaper has named seven cabinet ministers, one former cabinet minister now lieutenant-governor of the province, five legislative councillors and "many private citizens" prepared to act as "shareholders or former shareholders of the corporation."

Last Friday Premier Duplessis told his weekly press conference he had official information that could be taken against Le Devoir and that "others have" provincial inquiries" to conduct. He did not elaborate.

Mr. Lesage discounted the value of the actions promised by Premier Duplessis and described them as procedures which would bring out only a limited amount of information.

LAST WEEK PROMISE

Mr. Duplessis made the statement last week. Mr. Lesage said the Liberals would "take steps to protect the interests of the people" if Mr. Duplessis did not establish a royal commission of inquiry into the transaction.

"He has a peaceful journalist, Lamarche, in his office, supported by his provincial police from a press conference he himself had called for.

Mr. Lesage said his demand for a royal commission of inquiry had had the support of the newspaper, Le l'Action Catholique and Le voir.

"The premier pompously and with a threatening air has declared that he will not, but nevertheless, he does not want to reveal anything. He manoeuvres in such a way as to bypass the issue, to lull public opinion to sleep and to display a flagie if not to misrepresent the problem."

Mr. Lesage said Mr. Duplessis talked of taking several suits for libel against the paper but had not requested for an inquiry.

"He has therefore placed himself in a dangerously ambiguous position since any proceeding would then become necessary to judge the facts mentioned in the allegations which would be contained in the suits prepared either by himself or someone acting under his direction.

"It is not by suing those who, in good faith and in the public interest, have brought to light traces of corruption in the Union Nationale party that he will expose the truth."

Clerk Johnson said she and another clerk, Ken Gardner, dived for the floor.

Gaston Cantin, 21, of Quebec City, was charged with attempted armed robbery.

Two Released

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police said Wednesday they have released a man and a woman from Montreal, held on a charge of warrant in the deaths of two brothers in 1950 and 1957. Police said one of the victims was Cecil Stanger, who died Dec. 23, 1950, while riding his car. The death was attributed to a heart attack. The second victim was Stanger's brother, Graham, 50, who disappeared Oct. 18, 1957 and is feared dead. Quebec City Police at one time were considering whether to exhume the body of Cecil.

Mackenzie River Fleet Begins Annual Summer Task Of Restocking Cupboards

EDMONTON (CP)—The Mackenzie River fleet has begun its annual summer task of restocking northern cupboards.

The 30 odd boats and 100 barges operating along the 1,400-mile route from Alberta railheads to the Arctic Ocean are expected to handle a record tonnage. Some estimates say it will increase 10 per cent over last year's peak 225,000 tons.

It's a big, expensive business crowded into a four-month navigation season, starting in late May and ending in October with the freeze-up that sends boats scurrying into the nearest ports. Last fall, three vessels were caught in the ice.

From Yellowknife to Tuktoyaktuk, Gateway Arctic and Superior Arctic settlements are waiting for shipments of fuel oil, machinery, building materials, food and clothing. When navigation closes, they will be left with only supplies by aircraft.

"The northern customers will pay roughly $3,000,000 for the water transport — most of it to the government-owned Northern Transportation Company, which handles close to 80 per cent of all freight moving in the Canadian north. For Edmonton suppliers, that's a $3,000,000-a-year business.

Most of the shipping begins at Waterways, the Northern Alberta Railways terminus 250 miles north of Edmonton. From there, it's 1,400 miles to Tuktoyaktuk, where the Mackenzie—with headwaters, Canada's longest river—empties into the Beaufort Sea.

The first leg — and the first navigational problem — is down the north - flowing Athabasca River to Fort McMurray and Lake Athabasca. Where river meets lake, water is shallow in late summer, and river channels shift so frequently they cannot be charted. From there, Stanley Hall Northern Transportation's load is carried westward across the 3,058-mile Athabasca and on the victims Uranium City in northeastern Saskatchewan, to start moved north down the Slave River to Great Slave Lake.

Slanger's Rapids, Graham, 50, who disappeared Oct. 18, 1957 and is feared near Cayenne, Que. Police at one time were considering whether to exhume the body of Cecil.

The fleet's biggest ports of call — Yellowknife. From there, it's mostly clear sailing along the Mackenzie to Fort Providence, Fort Simpson, Norman Wells, Fort Good Hope, Arctic Red River, Aklavik and its new East Three townsite, Tuktoyaktuk, and the Arctic Coast.

There is one other portage. It's

Will Inspect Many Drought Areas in West

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expecting an on-the-spot inspection of drought conditions, said Wednesday at least three areas of Saskatchewan's 3,000 townships will be subject to inspection under the $10,000,000 drought relief plan this year.

He told the Commons that during his holiday trip West he had both seen and heard about the drought conditions in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

He had calculated to cheer the hearts of those persons who had seen past Saskatchewan skies.

In Manitoba, 700 townships might be hit with conditions severe enough to come eligible for inspection as to assistance to be paid under the PFAA.

He was replying to CCF House Leader Hazen Argue, who had also asked Mr. Diefenbaker whether any increase in planned crop now.

The prime minister said the question of any increase in area has been made known in due course. He assured Mr. Argue that the matter of crop insurance remains under continuing study.

SEATTLE (AP)—Life began at 63 Wednesday for Edward E. Squire — at any rate when he was "dead" for three years. He disappeared in January, 1946. Three years ago the courts declared him legally dead. Wednesday, after assuring Judge Donald T. Sullivan he felt very much alive, Judge Sullivan was restored to life legally.

Man and Boy Drown in Quarry At Cornwall

CORNWALL (CP) — A man and a boy were drowned within three hours of each other at a construction quarry about a mile northeast of here Wednesday.

Royal Benoit, 40, father of nine and son of Mrs. Henri Benoit of nearby Long Sault was wading in the pool at the quarry's south end. Suddenly he slipped over a nearly 90-degree drop into 40 feet of water while his mother watched in horror.

His body was recovered about an hour later. Artificial respiration was tried without success.

John Klarburg of nearby Lunenburg, a service station operator since 1946 for years, was drowned about three hours later.

Klarburg was swimming with his daughters, Carol, 11, Bonnie, 7, and a friend, Gail Laporte, 7.

Eyewitnesses said he saw the girls wading dangerously close to the water's edge. Suddenly the bed Carol sank pushed her into shallower water. Then he reached for the girl, he lost his balance and the two went over the edge.

Another swimmer, Mrs. James Greenshields, also of Lunenburg, rescued the girl but when she returned to help Klarburg he was not in sight.

His body was recovered two hours later.

Summit Conference Still Appears Many Months Away

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Possibility of a summit conference Wednesday seemed as remote as it's ever been despite some propaganda value out of proposing it six months hence.

Western powers then welcomed the proposal with reserve. The record of the leaders has preceded by careful joint planning of the conference and on the topic for objective.

Soviet moves scorned such preliminary planning. Soviet thinking apparently went no further than the propaganda value to be gained from a meeting of the leaders themselves. Nevertheless, it seems all the Russians wanted was get-together and a brief meeting, a correspondence between Moscow and the Western capitals, and then before the West still asks in vain for co - operation in preparing an agenda.

SITUATION UNCHANGED

That's where the situation was six months ago. In that period the air has been full of charges and counter-charges. Soviet policy has been condemned for the executions of Hungarian patriots, and the West has met with weak like actions and intentions, and Western leaders have been branded as hostages.

Only an optimist of the first order could really hope for anything dramatically good to come from a summit conference right now.

Soviet leaders have shown a disinclination to believe anything good of the West since the very beginning. They have used their policy to make the most flagrant charges against the U.S.

It is true Moscow has received Western visitors, including Premier Diefenbaker, with courtesy.

They have shown a desire to build up trade relations with Canada and with other Western democracies and there is at the moment a likelihood that trade will be enlarged, including trade with Canada.

MUST MISLEAD PEOPLE

But the organization of the Soviet dictatorship depends upon its leaders convincing the masses that they are heading for a Communist paradise by means of cold war and cruel Western democracy.

Soviet leaders are not likely to do anything at the summit or at any level to bring about a change in that basic reveal the Westerners to its people as decent, peaceful people who are friendly and hospitable.

But as always, and Canada along with it, the attitude of the Western powers is to stand ready to explore anything the Communists may give for getting close together on real issues.

The Russians know this and so they will go their own way they like no matter how monotonous it may be. The Western world will always listen. And the propaganda will circle the world.

3 Ex-Officers Of Labor Unions Refuse to Testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three ex-officers of labor unions have refused to tell Senate investigators whether they belonged to the Mafia or attended an alleg. crime convention at Apalachin, N.Y., last fall.

A fourth witness, John Charles Montana of Buffalo, N.Y., acknowledged he was at Apalachin but swore it was by accident.

Montana is a former member of the Buffalo city council and was named "man of the year" in Buffalo in 1956. He testified he stopped at the New York resort to get the brakes fixed on his car.

The other witnesses invoked the Fifth Amendments of the U.S. constitution before the Senate rackets committee, claiming they might tend to incriminate themselves if they talked too much.

They were Rosario (Russell) Mancuso of Utica, N.Y., former president of Local 186 of the Hod Carriers Union; James V. La Duca, former secretary-treasurer of a Buffalo local of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union, and Anthony Larosso of Linden, N.J., former trustee of Local 394 of the hod carriers.

Police raided the Apalachin meeting on suspicion that it was a Mafia conclave called to divide up the rackets left unbossed after last summer's assassination of Albert Anastasia in New York City.

Fifty-eight of the alleged delegates have been subpoenaed by the senators, who are investigating reports that the Mafia, a secret criminal society with roots in Sicily, has infiltrated U.S. labor unions and businesses.

Sports and races took up the afternoon and after partaking of lunch they returned home, a tired but happy group.

Marmora district Chamber of Commerce and their ladies held the annual tour on June 23 around ten car loads left Bella-Vista Motel at 1.15 p.m. and journeyed to Bancroft where they visited Fuller's Woollen Mill, Faraday Uranium Mine, Bancroft area and Paudash Lake — enpoying a hot turkey dinner at White Pines Lodge, Paudash. A sunny day further enhanced the enjoyment of their trip.

Marmora Agricultural Society met at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. George Fox, Marmora township late last week. Around 18 members were in attendance. Prize lists were arranged and committees appointed for the fall fair, Plans were discussed for their annual street dance and the date set for August 4th. The ladies served refreshments.

St. Andrew's Junior Choir and girls' sextette each rendered two numbers. Misses Sandra and Linda Meiklejohn sang a duet, and Miss Lucy Olsen gave a piano selection. Mrs. A. Fraser and Mrs. R. Sanderson were accompanists of the evening.

Following the program, refreshments were served in the church hall, where the C.G.I.T. had a candy booth and the Y.P.U. sold soft drinks. Despite the rain, the evening was a financial success and a musical treat.

DESERONTO

Firemen's Weekend Well Attended

DESERONTO — The Firemen's Weekend held here last week attracted a fairly large crowd. On Friday evening the games and amusements in the town park were well patronized with the most popular attractions being the children's merry-go-round and the fish pond.

On Saturday afternoon three departments competed in various hose and ladder events with the Deseronto Department taking a total of 24 points, Batawa took 16 points and the Pittsburg Township Fire Department took 13 points.

A feature of the afternoon was the hose cart race, an event patterned after the old fashioned way of volunteer firemen responding to alarms. The event that the crowd most enjoyed was the bucket brigade race in which pails of water were passed up a ladder to fill a tank on a platform. Many pails were spilled on the participants before the race was completed.

In the evening, the games were again the feature and an unusually large crowd filled the park until the drawing for the prizes took place at 11:00. The winners of the draw were — electric frying pan, Mrs. Fletcher Vick; electric mixette, Miss Suzanne Sharpe, Napanee; electric tea kettle, Mrs. Winters, Forest Mills.

On Wednesday evening of this week the Deseronto Firemen will journey to Batawa for the Mutual Aid meeting where the trophies will be officially presented. These trophies are for annual competition and it is expected that this year will see many more departments participating.

nic at Mohawk Beach on Saturday afternoon. There was a good attendance of children and adults. The early part of the afternoon was spent swimming after which there were races for both young and old.

Following the races, a sumptious supper was enjoyed by all and the party returned to their homes in the early part of the evening, tired but happy.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY

The annual school field day was held at the Indian Day School of Tyendinaga Reserve last week. The competition included the 100 yard and 300 yard dashes the 400 yard relay, the high standing and broad jumps and the ball throw.

The stats of the three schools acted as judges and after the events, cups were presented to the winners. The junior champions were Harvey Brant and Lynda Hill.

In the competition, Harvey Brant took all firsts but one and finished second in that event. On Tuesday the Tyendinaga schools combined with the Shannonville School for another field event. For the highest total points for that day Larry Lewis, of Tyendinaga, took the boys' cup and Verna Brant of Shannonville took the girls' cup. Again the staffs of the schools acted as judges.

Movie Column

Kids Take Horrors Seriously Keep Movies in Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Does the younger generation lack a sense of humor? Evidence points to the possibility that today's young people have less capacity to laugh than ever before.

Take a look at the film fare. Today, the movie business is supported by the under-21 crowd. Without them, the film companies would fold. What do the kids go for? Dillies like I was a Teenage Werewolf and I Married a Monster from Outer Space.

Older folks would laugh at such horror epics. But the kids take them seriously.

And what is the status of comedy on the screen? Poor. Comedy used to be a standard commodity in films, now there is only one comic turning out movies regularly and finding success —Jerry Lewis.

Comedy Lost on TV

Comedy is also becoming virtually extinct on television. This, of course, cannot be blamed on the youngsters.—But if they demanded more comedy on TV, they would get it. The demand does not seem to be there.

The young people control the music industry today, because they're the ones who buy the records. And look what they go for! The great mass of it is tasteless and humorless.

The newfangled rock music mostly now in the mass media but in small night clubs, where their satiric barbs are enjoyed from an enlightened few. You see nothing like the great clowns—Chaplin, Lloyd, Keaton, Skelton, their whose insight appeals to the great mass of humanity.

Where are the humorists, the pranksters, the fun - lovers of yore? Have they been beaten down by the age of uncertainty? Or have they just been ignored by controllers of mass media?

Let's hope only the latter is true.

TWO DROWN

LONG SAULT, Ont. (CP)—A boy and a man were drowned Wednesday in a water-filled stone quarry near this new town, eight miles west of Cornwall. Royal Benoit, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Benoit of Long Sault, was drowned that afternoon. An unidentified man was reported to have drowned later.

Churches Filled With Visitors For Reunion

Capacity crowds filled the churches at Madoc on Sunday, when old boys and girls in town for the Old Boys' Reunion visited the churches they attended as children and grown - ups. At St. Peter's Church, the members of Madoc Orange Lodge and Madoc LOBA and many visiting members, headed by Havelock Kilties Band, marched to the church for morning service with Rev. John McMurray delivering the address. Special music was offered by the choir. Following the service the members marched to Thompson Memorial Park and placed a wreath at the cenotaph.

At Trinity United Church the Masonic brethren were in attendance with many old acquaintances meeting for the first time in many years. This was the Rev. J. F. Laird's farewell service to his Madoc congregation as he is retiring from the ministry and making his home in Oakwood. Special music was rendered by the choir.

In the evening at St. John's Anglican, the Rev. William Robinson of Ottawa, a former rector of Madoc Parish, preached to a large congregation of members and former members, old boys and girls home for their reunion.

South Hastings Baseball League

Letts jumped into a 4-1 lead in the first inning and never looked back last night to defeat the Cannifton Clippers 9-3 in a South Hastings baseball league game.

The winners exploded a 16-hit attack to rack up the victory. They scored in every inning except the second while Cannifton plated single tallies in the first three frames.

Gerry Gowe toed the rubber for Letts, giving up six hits over the six-inning route. He whiffed five, walked a pair and hit two others.

Cole was shelled from the Cannifton mound in the first and replaced by Foster who stifled life remainder despite Letts's continued hitting. He issued one and passed a pair.

Frank Ray had a home run and three singles to spearhead the Letts club at the plate. B. Parks and Wayne Gowe each collected three singles while Gerry Gowe doubled and Ringley Chamberlay with two singles and Stan Reid and O. Glass completed the 16-hit attack.

Forsythe topped the Cannifton batters with a triple, double and single. Cole banged a two-bagger with Moore and Foster also hitting safely.

At Quinte Drive-In

AWESOME SPECTACLE, VISUAL WONDERS IN TEN COMMANDMENTS

Tremendous spectacle, the special trademark of Cecil B. DeMille, backgrounds the revenant and dramatic human story told in his newest production, "The Ten Commandments".

Charlton Heston, as Moses; Yul Brynner, as Ramesses II, Anne Baxter, as Nefretiri, Edward G. Robinson, Yvonne De Carlo, Debra Paget and John Derek heading a vast starring cast, and 25,000 extras, the massive dramatization of Exodus contains scenes reviewers and audiences have called monumental, awe-inspiring, overwhelmingly magnificent and of sheer visual wonder.

Now playing at the Quinte Drive-In Theatre, local audiences will have an opportunity to see the re-creation of such Biblical scenes as the building of the glittering city of Per-Ramesses; the terrifying Plagues; seven history - most enormous scene, the Exodus; the pursuing chariot army of the Pharaoh; the Pillar of Fire; the parting of the Red Sea and the engulfing of the Egyptian army; the writing of the Commandments in the desert of Sinai by the fiery finger of God.

At The Park

First Showing

The starkly and brutally realistic story of an infantry company which is forced into a fierce engagement with the crack German Afrika Corps at a time when it most needs rest and reinforcements, is told in the new drama, "Steel Bayonet", a United Artists release opening tonight at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville showing. The picture stars Leo Glen with Kieron Moore and Michael Medwin in top leading roles. Michael Carreras produced and directed the picture from an original story and screenplay by Howard Clewes.

Leo Genn, as Major Gerrard realistically tells his men, depleted in number, tired, disgruntled, that they have been ordered to help in a new attack on Tunis. Their part is to hold a certain farmhouse and observation post in a farmer's windmill at all costs.

Resolutely the men of "C" Company keep vigil in the silt and sand on the hill outside the farmhouse. Though outnumbered, they miraculously repulse the first wave of German infantry. Apprehensive, they await the second force. It comes and the Allies are forced to evacuate their positions, but in so doing, a strange but heroic change of events, bring victory to the gallant men on the hill. Their courage paves the way for the capture of Tunis, a major step along the road to total victory.

On the same program George Montgomery stars in this new outdoor action hit "The Toughest Gun in Tombstone".

Realistic Reptile Replicas

Archie Reid, of Toronto's Royal Ontario Museum has developed a new method of making exhibits for the museum's reptile collection which has attracted widespread attention.

Reid and Mr. L. Sternberg, (right) check mold for a Banded Krait. Mold, which is made from dental plaster, will then be coated with 1/16" latex. Final exhibits are so realistic art students use them for models.

Arie Gorzi trims latex replica of an Iguana lizard. Afterwards a thin coat of shellac is applied, then model is painstakingly painted to match live lizard.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Gaz Lunney.

A young Toronto technician has developed a revolutionary new method of constructing reptile exhibits for museum displays which has many advantages over the old-fashioned skin-stuffing of the taxidermist. Animals are brought live to the museum for extensive photography and observation and then cast in a mold from which an exact rubber replica is later made. The new method not only permits a much more realistic reproduction without any of the subsequent deterioration of the taxidermist's dummies but also has the added advantage that many copies can be made from the original mold.

Main Confident Canada Can Defeat Cuba

TORONTO (CP) — Lorne Main, a fine tennis player by Canadian standards who never crashed his way into top international ranking, is playing a new role with the same sure-fire confidence that has driven for years for recognition among the world's top amateurs.

As playing captain of Canada's Davis Cup team which opens its best-of- five challenge round against Cuba today, the 27-year-old Main is intent solely on making sure that his squad wishes Cuba as expected as-I then lie ready to give a creditable showing against the United States.

The winner of the Canada-Cuba first-round North American zone tie plays the U.S. here next week starting Thursday. Main, directing his men with all the solemnity of Harry Hopkins or Billy Talbert, masterminds of past Australian and U.S. Davis Cup teams, has been following a well-laid-out plan to bring the Canadian squad to peak form.

He confidently expects his veteran team of Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., Don Fontana of Toronto and Paul Wells of Vancouver will have little trouble in beating the Cubans, possibly by sweeping all four singles and one doubles match.

CUP VETERANS

They all have had at least four years of Davis Cup competition and tough tournament play on grass courts while only one of the three-man Cuban team, 20-year-old Raul Karman, has ever played for the Davis Cup previously, on grass courts or in any other competition outside Cuba.

Karman, ranked No. 1 in Cuba when that country's top international players, Orlando and Reynaldo Garrido, couldn't get away from their European tour commitments to play in Cuba and possibly for the team, meets the 27-year-old Fontana, second-ranking Canadian player, in the opening singles.

The other singles match for the first day brings 16-year-old Adolfo Minoso, Cuban junior champion and one of the youngest players ever selected for Davis Cup play, against the 28-year-old Bedard, Canada's No. 1 player who is playing his sixth straight year on the Canadian team. The doubles —with the pairings yet to be named—will be played Friday and the two concluding singles Saturday. The matches are being played at the Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club.

Main took his squad to Forest Hills, N.Y., last week for seven days of intensive practice against professionals Pancho Gonzales, Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall and amateurs Vic Seixas and Eddie Moyland of the U.S. .

JOCKEY SUSPENDED

TORONTO (CP) — Jockey Sam Cocentino Wednesday drew a 10-day suspension and a New Woodbine race track, effective Friday. Cocentino finished first on Normetena in Tuesday's second race but was disqualified and placed fifth for fouling Wardoline in the stretch run.

Jordan Scores Upset Over Isaac Logart

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Don Jordan, 141, of Los Angeles, scored an upset split decision over Isaac Logart, 146½, of Cuba, in a 10-round light Wednesday night that drew a hearty mixture of boos and hometown cheers for the winner.

Logart, the No. 1 challenger for the world welterweight championship, and his backers were stunned when the split verdict was announced, and even the 22-year-old Jordan seemed surprised at the outcome.

Referee Mushy Callahan gave it to the hometowner, 95-94. Judge John Thomas scored it 97-95 for Jordan, while George Latka had it 97-94 for Logart.

Senior Baseball

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Jim Wilson of Hamilton Beavers, back in full-time action after a leg injury, went on a hitting spree last week to take over as leading batter in the Intercounty Senior Baseball League.

The catcher added 47 points to swell his batting average to .464, league statistician Bob Ferguson reported Wednesday.

Wray Upper, Ont. Galt third baseman who had led the league since the season started, hit a slump during the week and is in second place with .453. Upper leads in triples with six.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen hold down four of the next six top batting positions. The batsmen: Artie Parker, K-W, .451; John Ambrose, St. Thomas Elgins, .404; Joe Yosurak, K-W, .375; Harry Pauska, K-W, .370; Dan Jackson, Galt Terriers, .370; George Boniface, K-W, .366.

Pitcher Charlie Johnson of the Dutchies leads the league hurlers with an earned run average of 1.36. Ian Shepherd of Oakville Oaks, unbeaten in three starts, has a 1.44 average. The only full game winner is Johnny Arnold of Elgins.

Bert Olmstead Faces Charges Of Assault

VANCOUVER (CP) — A National Hockey League star charged with assault has been remanded three weeks so he can return to his Saskatchewan home for farm business.

Ball was set Wednesday at $500 for Bert Olmstead, 31, of Toronto Maple Leafs, when he appeared in police court charged with an assault causing bodily harm to mining promoter Ralph Rooney, 32, of West Vancouver.

Olmstead, a star for several years with Montreal Canadiens, will face trial July 23. Prosecutor Bruce Harvey said Olmstead is charged with assaulting Rooney in a washroom at the war ampulees hall here Friday.

Gonzales Edges Rex Hartwig

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Defending champion Pancho Gonzales had trouble defeating Rex Hartwig Wednesday night in the $15,000 Masters round-robin professional tennis tournament.

The erratic Hartwig won the first set 10-8 but Gonzales came from behind to win the last two 8-6, 6-2.

Pancho Segura won his third victory, trouncing Lew Hoad 6-2, 6-4. He is tied with Frank Sedgman for the singles lead at 3-0. Gonzales is 2-1, Hartwig is 1-4 and Hoad is 0-4.

NORRIS NOT HIDING

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The former president of the International Boxing Club said Wednesday he is not trying to dodge a New York grand jury investigation of alleged racketeering in boxing. James D. Norris said he would be available upon his return to New York late this month. District Attorney Frank Hogan said in New York Tuesday his office has been trying to have Norris appear as a grand jury witness since early June.

Bob Lemon Last of Tribe's Big Four Waves Farewell to Wigwam

CLEVELAND (AP) — The last of Cleveland Indians' once-famed Big Four is leaving the wigwam.

A baseball era here has ended —an era in which four strong right-handers dominated American League pitching and over a period of more than three-fourths of the Tribe's victories.

The last to go is 37-year-old Bob Lemon, the Californian with an impish grin and a sinking fast ball that made him a 20-game winner in seven seasons. Waivers were asked on the veteran who has won 207 games in 12 years with the Tribe but has been ineffective this year.

The first to go was Bob Feller, who retired after a 1956 season in which he didn't win a game and lost four.

Last month, Mike Garcia was waived out of the league. He underwent back surgery.

Still pitching, but not for Cleveland, is Early Wynn, whose current 9-6 record is for Chicago White Sox.

OUTSTANDING RECORD

Wynn and Garcia joined Feller and Lemon and the Tribe in 1949. From that season through 1954, when the Indians won 111 games and a pennant, the Big Four averaged a total of 71½ victories a season.

An operation that took 20 pieces of cartilage out of Lemon's right elbow last winter failed to restore the old magic to his pitching arm.

"I talked this over with Frank Lane and Joe Gordon in Chicago this week," Lemon said Wednesday night. "So it wasn't any shocker to me. They have a roster problem and I haven't been able to help much. This year I should be able to rest the arm enough to make a decision."

PROTEST REJECTED

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—A plea by fighter Joey Giardello for the California State Athletic Commission to reverse his split-decision loss to Joey Giambra Monday night was turned down Wednesday. Jack Urch, executive officer of the commission, said there is nothing it can do in matter of judgment.

Harness Racing

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP) — Mix Hanover is going to keep his shoes on this year, and he just could be the colt to beat in the $120,000 Hambletonian for three-year-old trotters at Du Quoin, Ill., Aug. 27.

That was the word today from the colt's trainer-driver, Frank Ervin. Mix Hanover made his debut start of the 1953 campaign Wednesday in the historic Dickerson Cup. Although he failed, he gave a creditable performance for a colt who was running a 104-degree temperature two weeks ago.

Sharpshooter, owned by the Arden Homstead Stable of Goshen, N.Y., and an arch rival of Mix Hanover, won the cup in two straight heats.

Mix Hanover, owned by K. D. Owen of Houston, Tex., threw a shoe in the first heat of the E. H. Harriman Challenge Trophy race a year ago and Sharpshooter won. But after repairs were made, Mix came back and won the next two dashes and the race. In three more meetings, Mix Hanover defeated Sharpshooter.

OTTAWA (CP) — True Sue, of Pakenham, Ont., came through in fine fashion for driver Vic Lutman to win the mid-week invitation one - mile pace at nearby Connaught Park. The winner paid $12, $5 and $4.20.

In Wednesday's mile, D pace, Pleasant Gene, driven by Pete Miller of Norwich, Ont., won in 2:17 to pay $3.80, $2.60 and $4.20. Cyril Edwards of Collingwood, Ont., drove Buddy Hanover to first place in the mile, C pace. Buddy Hanover, which finished in 2:15, paid $13.60, $7.10 and $3.60.

Boxer Gets Mystery Message; Fight Is Off

PORTHCAWL, Wales (Reuters) A 10-round heavyweight bout was postponed after an American boxer announced he had received a "message" telling him not to fight in it.

Clement Williams Ivy spreadeagled beneath a pink blanket on his hotel bed as a bewildered official said he was physically fit to box but had cited the mysterious "message" warning him against going into the ring with Britain's Dick Richardson Wednesday night.

The fight was rescheduled for next Wednesday.

Minor Baseball

A couple of high-scoring affairs and another close one-run test were played last night in the peewee section of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association.

In a low-scoring duel the Giants shaded the Braves by a 4-1 score. Bobby Boyle threw a five-hit ball for the victory, striking out 13 batters. Moffat allowed seven hits on the Braves' mound, fanning five.

W. Clare and Boyle each had two hits for the Giants.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Aside to the two blokes who have the wager about a professional baseball team going through a season undefeated, J. B. H. wins the pot, whatever it is, for there was a team that did achieve this extraordinary accomplishment.

It was the Cincinnati Baseball Club, known as the Red Stockings, which ran a string of 130 victories without a defeat.

This feat was accomplished in the late sixties and early seventies when nickle beer, free lunches, crinolines, handlebar moustaches, and cock-tights were all the rage. Baseball games were played on cricket grounds and not in fancy stadia. Cricket was a popular sport in those days.

A list of baseball players played cricket and vice versa. The Union Cricket Club of Cincinnati imported a bowler at a salary of $1,500 a year. He was Harry Wright who in late 1867 was engaged as a pitcher by the Red Stockings at the same salary.

With Wright as their mound ace, the Redlegs won 41 and lost seven. In 1869 the Redlegs decided to turn all-out professional, the first baseball club of its kind in the world.

Wright's salary of $1,200 was tops. The shortstop and another pitcher drew down $1,100. The infielders and outfielders got $800 with the utility player drawing $600. That was the team, ten men. Harry Wright was captain, the equivalent of today's manager. Only one was a homebrew, the rest imports.

This team toured coast to coast, covering 11,877 miles, playing before approximately 200,000 paid admissions. It won 56 games and tied one. The tie was with the Haymakers of Troy which ended in a small riot with the score 17-17. That year George Wright, brother of Harry, hit 59 home runs and had a batting average of .518.

June 14 brought baseball's first professional team its initial defeat, the Red Stockings losing that day 8-7 in eleven innings to the Brooklyn Atlantics. With the score 5-5 at the end of the ninth, the Atlantics satisfied to have held the mighty Stockings to a tie wanted to quit, but Manager Wright insisted on playing until one team won.

The loss ended a streak of 130 successive games played by the Stockings without a defeat. Although not as successful in 1870 as in 1869, the Stockings had no reason to be ashamed of their record. They won 66 games and lost six, scoring 2,783 runs to their opponents' 648.

GREAT SHOW COMING

Some of the greatest rooters the Allan Cup champion McFarlands had last winter in their drive for the national championship were the fezzed members of Order of the Alhambra, Islam Caravan, No. 109.

And they're out to prove that they are still strong supporters of the Mocs by bringing one of Canada's top television shows here with all the proceeds going to the Mac Farlands' overseas fund.

On July 22, Cliff MacKay and his Holiday Ranch and Square Dancers, a household name in Canadian TV programs, will be at the Memorial Arena in person.

As one critic wrote: "Definitely the best entertainment to play here, Cliff and the gang provided a two-hour show second to none in the annals of live shows to visit here. Persons who anticipated a strictly western show were pleasantly surprised by the variety of music, songs and moods provided by this highly skilled group. Those in attendance now realize why this show has been picked the number one program on Canadian TV."

RASSLIN'

These Kalmikoff brothers, the bearded, booted sons of the Siberian steppes have been cutting quite a swath in wrestling lately, both live and via the TV screen. They're not big, but they're about as tough a pair of tovariches as ever swigged a Bloody Mary or sipped borsts at an afternoon party. But tough as they are, they'll run into as rough a snag as they've experienced in their ring careers here tomorrow night when they face Yukon Eric and Whipper Billy Watson. Now that's as-sant a combo as we've seen tossed together in one package in some time, and heads will roll before the caper is complete. It should be a dilly. Then there's Darah Singh and Fred Atkins in another kick-up with Big Boy Orton and Vic Christy opening festivities.

Rookie Wins 1st Major Trial As Tigers Claw Kansas 5-0; Lawrence Wins Fifth in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Zack Monroe, a rookie right-hander just shy of his 27th birthday, has stamped himself success in his first major league start for the New York Yankees.

Manager Casey Stengel already had a waiting list of starting pitchers on a staff that leads the American League in complete games and shutouts, not to mention that 9½ - game first place bulge.

While Monroe, who perfected a palmin ball because he couldn't master a change up pitch, was staying out of trouble for a 4-1 victory over Baltimore Wednesday, the Detroit Tigers knocked off second-place Kansas City 5-0 on the four-hit pitching of Wm Boston 5-5 despite Ted Williams' allowed five hits, one Dick Williams' first homer of the season that tied it 1-1, walked five and struck out two in seven innings. Ryne Duren mopped up after Monroe tired.

GOT TO HIM.

Billy O'Dell (5-0) gave up a run on three singles in the 1st but then blanked the Yankees until the seventh, when Tony Kubek's single scored the winning run.

Running, the right hander who was hard-pressed to win 20 last season and found it tough to win at all this spring, walked but two and struck out five while winning his fourth in a row for a 5-5 record. Gail Harris hit his eighth homer and Al Kaline, hitless in three games, rapped a RBI double for the Tigers. Ralph Terry lost it for a 5-6 record with the A's, who were without slugging Bob Cerv, out with a broken toe and bruised hand.

Williams cut down in all of Boston's runs, two with a 500-foot homer, his 13th of the year and fifth in six games. The Sox had the tying run on base in the ninth when Faye Throneberry stabbed Lou Berberet's pinch homer bid for the final out.

You can file Brooks Lawrence in the thin folder titled "Bad deals by Frank Lane."

The big right-hander, plucked from the minors by Cincinnati Redlegs after St. Louis Cardinals had given up on him, has been the ace of the Redleg pitching staff since, running up a 41-30 record in 3¼ seasons.

Lawrence won his fifth in a row, all complete games, Wednesday night with a four-hitter that returned the Redlegs to fourth place in the National League with a 1-0 decision over the first-place Milwaukee Braves.

The Braves' lead was trimmed to three games again over St. Louis and San Francisco Giants. The third-place Giants defeated Chicago Cubs 5-2 in the only other game Tuesday night.

Lawrence was traded to the Reds by Lane, then general manager for the Cards, for pitcher Jackie Collum in 1956. He won 19 for the Redlegs in their near-miss pennant run two years ago. Last year he was 16-13.

FIVE-HITTER LOSES

Now he's 5-2 with two shutouts, giving up but one hit after the third inning at Milwaukee in a duel with young Lew Burdette. Burdette's eight-game winning streak was stopped when Joe Adcock's 2-run double in the fifth inning gave Lawrence in a bases-loaded jam in the second inning on Joe Adcock's single and only two walks Brooks allowed. But Red Schoendienst drove in the Braves' run.

The Giants moved within .001 of a percentage point of the Cardinals as Ray Jablonski, Bob Schmidt and Willie Mays hit home runs for the second consecutive day.

Jablonski's came with a man on in the sixth, overhauling a 2-1 Cub lead built on Lee Walls' 10th home run. Dick Littlefield got fifth in a row for a 3-6 record. Stu Miller won it for a 2-4 record, with both victories over the Cubs, but Johnny Antonelli had to get the final out.

Musial Needs Two More Hits

NEW YORK (CP) — Stan Musial needs only two more extra-base hits to tie Lou Gehrig for the runner-up spot behind Babe Ruth in the all - time long-hit derby.

The St. Louis Cardinal slugger, who on Monday night moved past Goose Goslin into ninth place among the lifetime runs-batted-in leaders, owns 1,138 doubles-triples and homers. Ruth rapped ahead of Goslin.

1,356 extra-base hits to Gehrig's 1,190.

Holder of the National League total-bases, extra-base and lifetime slugging percentage records, Musial may add at least another league title before the end of the season. He needs only 28 more doubles to pass Honus Wagner's top-ranked 651 total. Stan, with 17 two-baggers this campaign, currently ranks fifth in the all-time list with 627.

When Musial doubled in the fourth inning of Monday night's game against Johnny Klippstein of Los Angeles, driving in Don Blasingame, it marked his 1,610th lifetime RBI. That put him one behind Joe Medwick.

"No, it wasn't the 1st or 2d. It was the first second!"

Pt. Anne Unbeaten String Clipped Bobby Hull Hurls Cats to 7-1 Win

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Bobby Hull came back to haunt his old Point Anne teammates at CNRA Park last night.

The youthful speedballer hurled a masterful two-hitter as the Bobcats accomplished what no other has been able to do this year, hand the powerful Point Anne Cementmen a 7-1 setback.

Hull, who arrived at the ball-park just seconds before Umpire Don Thomas called play ball, turned in one of the better performances of his pitching career to snap Cementmen's perfect record at ten games. Bobcats are now solid in third place in Belleville and District softball league and within striking distance of second place Cobourg.

The Bobcats played good ball all around, coming through with timely hits; while, teamed with five Point Anne errors, aided Hull's pitching effort greatly. They scored a single marker in the second, exploded for five in the fifth and finished off another in the eighth. Point Anne's run came on Bobcats' only error in the ninth inning.

Hull tossed hitless ball for the first 4 2-3 frames before opposing pitcher Al Carkner ruined his no-hit bid with a twisting infield single to shortstop. The other base knock came off Claude Carr's bat in the eighth, a single to right field which rolled through Bobby Green's legs, allowing the runner and two to go all the way on the three-base error. Hull fanned five and walked one less. He had excellent support with a running catch by Don Rackham on Wardhaugh's liner and a leaping stab by Bert Faulkner on Kingston's bullet drive for fielding gems.

The Cementmen meanwhile lacked the usual fielding polish. Two of their five miscues teamed with Faulkner's single to give Trenton's Cats a 1-0 lead in the second. Two free passes put Hull in the hole in the third but heads outs on smart plays by Hull and Skinner" Brown nipped the rally the bud.

Bobcats broke the game open in the fifth when the first five men to the plate all circled the paths. Earl Cousins opened with a sharp double and Casey drew one of his three walks. Crawford's perfect bunt single loaded the sacks and Brown's drive off Wardhaugh for a safety scored one run. Another came home when Hull's high bounder was bobbled and "Bep" Richmond drew in two more with a single to left. Barclay's fly ball scored the fifth of the frame.

Bobcats' lucker in the eighth came on an error, wild pitch and Brown and Crawford's safety to left field.

Al Carkner pitched the distance for the Ox-pointers and with the exception of the one frame tossed good ball. A little support from his mates both at the plate and afield would have made a big difference. He gave eight hits; whitfred five and walked three.

Crawford regained his early season batting form to spark the Bobcats attack. He hammered a double and two singles in five trips and got on base the other two times on fielder's choice plays. Earl Cousins and Bob Hull hit two-baggers while "Wiener Brown "Bez" Guidolin and Don Faulkner had singles.

Bobcats make their next start Friday night in Frankford while Point Anne's next game will be exhibition against Oshawa Tony's Saturday evening.

Lineups. Point Anne: Carr, Wardhaugh, D. Hull, Batchelor, Jones, Gilmour, Kingston, Burkard, Carkner, Elliott Sr.

Bobcats: Crawford, Brown, B. Hull, Guidolin, Barclay, Faulkner, Green, Cousins, Umpires — Don Thomas (P) and "Shud" Ebbler, Time—1:22.

Nelson Sparks Maple Leafs; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto's Rocky Nelson has put his personal brand on the pitching staff of Manager Rochester Red Wings Tebbetts.

Take Wednesday night as an example. He connected for a home run, two doubles, a single and drove in three runs as his Toronto teammates whipped the Leafs 7-4 victory in 12 innings in one of two extra inning International League games.

Miami defeated Richmond 5-2 in 10 innings in the other overtime contest. Columbus beat Havana 6-5 and Montreal defeated Buffalo 7-4.

Nelson's spectacular night ran his league - leading average to .335, with 88 hits and 57 runs scored. Against Rochester, he has 20 hits in 45 AB's for eight games and a stirring .571 average. His homer was No. 24.

Despite Nelson's lusty hitting he error by Ray Smalley on a double play grounder with the bases loaded in the 12th proved costly. Nelson hit his second double after Joe Hannah had struck out to open the 11th. After an intentional walk by loser Bill Greason to load the bases, Smalley booted Mike Goliat's bounder, letting two runs score.

WINS IN RELIEF

Rody Minarcin was the winner in relief, after Toronto dissipated a 4-0 lead in the fifth when the Wings scored five, helped by Smalley's fireworn homer in the 10th, after loser Jim Post walked two men, to break a 2-2 tie. Satchel Paige was the winner in relief.

Paul Pettit used the lusty bat to lead the Jets to their win over Havana. Pettit's triple broke a 5-5 tie in the seventh, while his homer and a single were good for four RBI.

Bob Lennon and Harry Schwerman hit homers to pace Montreal's attack as Bob Faust won his first game, stranding 12 Buffalo runners. Score 7-4.

Jack Phillips had a triple and two singles for Buffalo and George Riley had two RBI. Only three singles' Two of Buffalo's runs were unearned.

Cooper, Fraser In Finals At Wimbledon

LONDON (Reuters) — Australians Ashley Cooper, 31, and Neale Fraser, 24, battled their way into the men's singles final of the Wimbledon tennis championships today.

Cooper — the pre-tournament favorite and Australian champion, reached the finals for the second successive year when he defeated fellow Australian Mervyn Rose 7-5, 6-2, 6-3.

Left-handed Fraser beat Kurt Nielsen of Denmark 6-4, 6-4, 17-15, 4.

The 30-year-old Dane, finalist in 1955 and 1956, fought to stay in the match for nearly three hours, but the tall Australian's greater variety of strokes proved decisive.

Though Rose, 28, had won the Italian and French titles this year and had gone through five rounds at Wimbledon without dropping a set, he could not counter Cooper's all-round power.

Cooper, who lost to Rose in 1956 in the 1957 finals, blasted his way through to the final round Wednesday in an hour and 22 minutes.

CAME RIGHT BACK

Frequently Rose slammed over fast services only to see them hit back with bullet-like speed. Cooper's own services were not perfect and he constantly followed it to the net to execute the winning volley or manoeuvre Rose out of position.

Fraser once did Cooper lose his service—in the 19th game—and it cost him the first set. Only one of his 20 service games went to deuce, and in the second set he conceded only three points on services throughout the set.

Fraser looked out for a comfortable win when he took the first two sets in 45 minutes after forcing the only two deuce breaks in the fifth game of each set. But the powerful Nielsen began to get his booming first service in with -regularity and he extended the Australian to 6 more games.

India's Davis Cup pair, Naresh Kumar and Ramanathan Krishnan, provided the upset of the day by eliminating American defending champions Gardnar Mulloy and Budge Patty in the men's doubles, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5.

Peter Thomson Sets Mark In British Open Tournament

ST. ANNE'S-on-SEA, England, (AP) — Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Ben Hogan, Bobby Locke, Peter Thomson — the "dominators" of golf.

It may seem strange to put Thomson, a 28-year-old Australian who has only one tournament victory to show for five years of the tough United States professional circuit, in the class with Hogan, Jones, Locke and Hagen. But that is where he belongs.

This week he is well along toward pulling his seal on the British open championship for the fourth time.

Thomson turned in a record performance in the 36-hole qualifying rounds this week. He fired a nine-under-par 63 and a 70 for a total of 133. The old mark of 134 was set in 1936 by Jones. The tournament is being played at two courses, Royal Lytham and St. Annes.

The Australian headed the 96-man field Wednesday with a 68 on the first day of the 72-hole tournament.

HAS 54 TO GO

He has 54 holes to go and only a one stroke lead over Ireland's Christy O'Connor. Threatening were two strokes back are England's 51-year-old Henry Cotton, also a former winter, former champion Alex Faulkner and South Africa's young Harold Player, second in the U.S. Open last month.

The two U.S. qualifiers, Gene Sarazen and Monte Bradley, are way back with a 78 and 76 respectively.

If Thomson wins Friday at Royal Lytham St. Annes, he will become the fifth man in modern golf to dominate either the British or U.S. open championships to the extent of winning four times.

He won British Opens in 1954, 1955 and 1958. He was second in 1952, 1953 and 1957. His score Wednesday was five under par for rugged 6,626-yard Lytham.

Locke, who lagged 19 strokes behind after Wednesday's play, won this oldest of all championships four times.

Haenael is in hospital with a shoulder separation. Hunt is out with a groin injury and Herbertson aggravated an old knee ailment.

Baseball Stars To Testify At Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle and Stan Musial are among baseball stars invited to open United States Senate hearings next week on a bill to give professional team sports broad exemptions from its anti-trust laws.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel also has been invited to testify when hearings begin Wednesday on House-passed sports legislation.

So have Eddie Yost of Washington and Robin Roberts of Philadelphia, chief player representatives of the American and National Leagues.

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) announced the list Wednesday in setting the date for starting an inquiry by his anti-monopoly subcommittee.

The bill passed by the House of Representatives last week would apply to pro football, baseball, hockey and basketball. It would declare their commercial activities subject to federal anti-trust laws but exempt such practices as player contract options, drafts, farm, territorial rights and regulation of television radio broadcasts.

Boxing Judge Indicted on Bribery Charges

NEW YORK (AP) — Bert Grant, a New York boxing judge for many years, has been indicted on charges of conspiring with fight promoter James Norman to commit bribery in five bouts involving Wallman's fighters.

Grant, 51, pleaded not guilty on his arraignment Wednesday.

The alleged conspiracy covered the period in New York between Sept. 20, 1954, and last April 7.

District attorney Frank Hogan accused Grant of receiving a total of $400 from Wallman, $100 for each bout. He posted $100 for a fight at which he did not officiate.

Wallman was named a co-conspirator in the indictment by a New York grand jury that has been hearing an investigation of professional boxing. Hogan said Wallman was granted immunity for testifying. He said Grant refused to waive immunity a month ago and therefore was not permitted to testify.

WON ALL FIVE

Boxers managed by Wallman won all five of the fights, four by unanimous decision. Alex Miteff, an Argentine heavyweight, was a two-time winner while middleweight Ward of Detroit, featherweight Ike Chestnut of Detroit and lightweight Orlando Zulueta of Cuba each won once.

It was alleged that Grant accepted bribes to favor Wallman's fighters. Wallman was one count of conspiracy and 10 bribery counts in the indictment. A conspiracy conviction is punishable by a prison term of from one to three years. Conviction on a felony count is punishable by terms of from one to 10 years on each count.

Hogan earlier charged Wallman was a front for Frankie Carbo, whom he said was "an undercover manager of professional prizefighters through various front men."

Eisenhower Pledges Seaway Aid to Continue

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—President Eisenhower Wed. assured Canada the United States would continue its support in the development and use of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

U.S. Army Secretary Wilber Brucker read the president's message at ceremonies dedicating the Dwight D. Eisenhower and Bertrand H. Snell locks on the new inland waterway.

Eisenhower paid tribute to U.S. and Canadian leaders "whose vision and labors have brought this great achievement into being."

Brucker, in a speech prepared for the ceremonies at the Eisenhower Lock, declared that "the commercial traffic potential of the navigation works we see before us is, for all practical purposes, limitless."

PROSPEROUS FUTURE

Brucker foresaw "an even greater prosperity and an even more secure peace dependent upon friendly trade between nations and upon mutual trust and confidence such as that which has characterized our long and happy relations with our good neighbor in Canada."

The administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation praised the "outstanding spirit of co-operation" shown by the U.S. and Canada in building the seaway.

GETS SURPRISE

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Austin Galley of Scarsdale, N.Y., went to city hall Tuesday to see City Engineer E. F. Hovermale. But he was in hospital. Galley returned to work, fell down seven stairs and broke his hip. He was taken to hospital. His roommate was Hovermale.

UNCHALLENGED!!

Newspapers have long argued that manufacturers' advertising should take on a local character in EACH community

This can be done by the use of what is known to the trade as a "hooker." A hooker is where a local dealer's name and address are voluntarily appended by him to a manufacturer's advertisement.

The retailer's signature corrects two frequent and serious faults of much present day manufacturers' advertising. These are: the reader's uncertainty as to "WHERE" he can buy the product, and "OUT OF STOCK" SITUATIONS which prevail all too often when the reader goes to buy. Retailers are not likely to spend their own money to tie up to a manufacturer's advertisement unless they have stock.

TABLE OF TYPICAL RESULTS

The following table shows 77 different CLASSIFICATIONS of merchandise ranging from A to Z . . . where newspaper advertising has "rung the cash register" for the MANUFACTURER at the retail level in the same convincing manner in which newspaper advertising rings the cash register daily for retailers from coast to coast. This is CO-OPERATIVE advertising at its best.

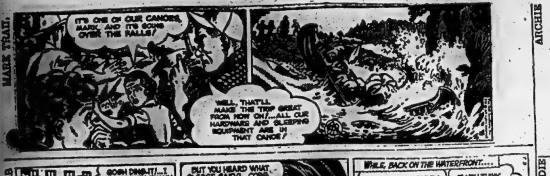
Daily newspaper advertising has long reigned supreme . . . unchallenged in its ability to make sales for department stores, chain stores and every kind of local business . . . in every newspaper market from coast to coast.

The tremendous volume of retail advertising in newspapers—a volume unequalled in any other medium—is daily witness to this fact.



The above testimonials are from but ONE retailer—of literally thousands of retailers in each classification—who are in a position to reap similar benefits from "national advertising with local application."

No other medium of advertising can prove so effectively that it does make sales for the manufacturer, over the counter—vouched for by the local retailer—with the consistency and low cost of daily newspaper advertising.

Newspaper advertising remains UNCHALLENGED in its ability to ring the cash register

If your child is born today . . . The brilliant child born today is certainly favored by the stars — far more than the majority, because the ribbon is a strong-will inherent. But be certain to give as well-rounded an education as possible, a combined course stining the religious dogmas as well as the practical. For while the mind is mainly a logical one, the soul is also very luminous.

Former Toronto Singer Weds Ghana Governor

TORONTO (CP)—The parents of a former Toronto blues singer were waiting today for a telegram that would bring them news of their 29-year-old daughter's marriage to 51-year-old Lord Listowel, governor-general of Ghana.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wise were to have flown to Accra to see blonde, blue-eyed Stephanie married to the once-divorced peer but moving into their new home here prevented the trip.

Mrs. Bessie Wise said, "A call came through from Ghana Tuesday immediately after the wedding, but the line was so bad we couldn't hear what Stephanie was saying.

MET IN PARIS

"Stephanie was singing with a group called the Blue Stars in a night spot named the Mars Club in Paris two years ago when she first met Lord Listowel," said Mrs. Wise.

She said he was so impressed by Stephanie's looks and singing that he met her after the show.

After that, explained Mrs. Wise, Lord Listowel became a regular visitor to Paris where her daughter was appearing.

STARTED IN TORONTO

Stephanie began her career in Toronto as a record librarian with radio station CKEY over five years ago.

She filled singing spots in night clubs in Toronto before leaving for Europe. Her first overseas work was in London and then in that in Paris.

The Wise family is planning to visit Ghana to see the couple and they hope Lord Listowel and his bride, now a countess, will visit them in Toronto.

Anglican Church Subjected to Press Scrutiny

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—On the eve of the Lambeth conference, world-wide gathering of the leaders of the Anglican communion, the church is being subjected to searching and critical press scrutiny.

"Bishops, like their counterparts on the chess board, move only obliquely, never straight forward," Alan Dick complains in the Sunday Pictorial, in the most violent of the attacks on the church leadership.

He accuses the church leaders of losing touch with their membership in the secret Lambeth sessions, followed by "a long-winded report which nobody will read, because nothing is expected of them any more."

Other articles, while less outspoken, echo Dick's concern with the apparent gap between bishop and churchgoer.

HOPES NOT HIGH

"I do not entertain high hopes of the conference," writes Rev. C. O. Rhodes, editor of the Church of England Newspaper, in The Sunday Dispatch. "The most I dare to hope for is the display of general concern for the world's problems."

He calls upon the bishops to "rise above the mediocrity and compromise that have usually been their distinguishing characteristic to offer the kind of leadership for which the world is looking."

In a separate article, the editor of the newspaper suggests that bishops be made subject to questioning by the Church Assembly "like a cabinet minister in Parliament."

The controversial Lord Altrincham, who kindled lively argument last year with his advocacy of reform at Buckingham Palace, has turned his attention to the church with a series of articles recommending the admission of women to the priesthood, appointment of bishops for five-year terms, part - time parsons and changes in church services.

Altrincham is critical of the performance of Most Rev. Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, as archbishop of Canterbury: "Though he has a variety of talents, which he uses faithfully and assiduously, the gift of spiritual leadership has been denied him."

LABORITE COMMENTS

Tom Driberg, chairman of Britain's Labor party, commends "the dominant personality and administrative skill" of the new church bishop but adds that the church administration is stuffed by "men of his own outlook and less than his calibre — capable and honorable men but, on the whole, mediocre."

Driberg, writing in The News Chronicle, calls for elimination of "unnecessary archaisms and anomalies," greater flexibility in such matters as the timing of church services and emphasis on meeting the churchgoer halfway in social and practical ways.

Unable to Establish If Murder or Suicide

TORONTO (CP) — Chief Constable John Chisholm, head of the Metropolitan Toronto Police, was found shot to death today in a car at High Park.

Deputy chief Albert Dunn said he was unable to establish whether ii was murder or suicide.

He said a policeman patrolling the area in the forested park found the chief slumped in a car in a parking lot. He had been shot through the head.

Dr. Smirle Lawson, supervising coroner for Ontario, said it was suicide. He immediately released the body for burial.

Chief Chisholm, 61, was appointed head of the Toronto city force in January, 1956, when D. C. Draper retired. He became head of the metropolitan force when it was created by the merger of the police force of 13 suburban departments, last year.

A native of Dundee, Scotland, he joined the Toronto police as a constable in 1920 and in three years was promoted to acting detective. He rose swiftly through the ranks, becoming chief inspector in 1941 and deputy chief in 1945.

DUNTON STATEMENT

Mr. Dunton later issued a statement saying the university post "interests me very much, particularly at this stage of my working life.

"I believe the university has special possibilities and responsibilities; and that the post offers very attractive challenges."

At Carleton, Mr. Dunton succeeds Dr. Claude T. Bissell who left this week to take over the presidency of the University of Toronto, vacated last September by Sidney Smith, now Canada's external affairs minister.

Mr. Nowlan said in the Commons that Mr. Dunton had filled a most difficult post with the CBC, and had shown a combination of tact, firmness and ability.

The high degree of efficiency he had brought to the CBC reflected much on the corporation and himself.

There was no announcement of a successor for Mr. Dunton as head of the CBC.

Hospital Spreads Visiting Period Over 9½ Hours

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Civic hospital authorities have solved their today enabling patients to be visited anytime between 11 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. instead of during two hour-long periods in the afternoon and evening.

The hospital said the schedule effective Monday will benefit both patients and hospital staff. Currently ward visiting hours will remain unchanged.

KILLALOE, Ont. (CP) — An image of the Virgin Mary was reported to have appeared here a week ago last Thursday on a large front window of the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bolles.

More than 1,000 people are reported to have flocked in this village, 22 miles southwest of Pembroke.

Mrs. Sullivan washed the window clean Thursday on the advice of Rev. J. C. Schrader, parish priest at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church. He told her it was becoming too much of a sensation and that if it really was the Virgin Mary it would reappear.

Father Schrader said "it looked as if one of the children had taken a transfer picture and put it on the window and the image had remained. I scrached at it to see if it was and some of it came off.

"I think possibly one of the children did that and now is afraid to say anything."

A service station operator, Gordon "tiejohn said: "Cars have been going in and out of here for the past two or three days. People have come here from quite a distance."

Mr. Sullivan said about 500 people visited his home Wednesday.

HOUSE APPROVES DEFICIT BUDGET OF $648,000,000

Eight-Day Debate Ends on Bitter Note

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons has approved the 1958-59 federal budget forecasting a record peacetime deficit of $648,000,000.

The eight-day debate concluded Thursday night, balancing government charges of Liberal "gloom and doom" talk against Opposition Leader Pearson's claim that the budget is "unwise, unbalanced and unsung and unworthy of the seriousness of the time."

The government's huge majority hammered out a vote of 146 to 67 against the combined Liberal and CCF opposition on the final vote.

The budget showed "all the evidence of having been bedevilled at times by the political necessities of those who produced it," Mr. Pearson said. The "progressive" Conservative government was a captive of its 1957 election promises, of the economic climate and carried out in another that demanded different measures.

NOWLAN REPLIES

Revenue Minister Nowlan, summing up the debate, commented "one fact" was produced in the debate to reflect in any way on Finance Minister Fleming or the government.

The government was "doing something." It would make mistakes but it was aware the Canadian public was sick and tired of the "complacency, conceit and arrogance" the Liberals had established in office.

In other Commons matters, Trade Minister Churchill said the Canadian Wheat Board is prepared to accept applications to feed grain stocks for drought-caused emergencies. It would hold whatever stocks of wheat, oats and barley provincial and municipal authorities requested, with those bodies handling "necessary carrying charges."

In the upper chamber, Senator Wishart Robertson (L — Nova Scotia) said the Senate was "seriously laggardly" in enabling Canadian legislators to meet parliamentarians from other countries. The president of Canada's NATO Parliamentarians Association presented a resolution in support of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposal that NATO countries urging rec-procal Canada-United States legislative committees to handle recurring mutual problems.

In the budget debate, Mr. Nowlan said the Liberals' executive indices of the Canadian economy, with its production and pulp production, he said, Canada's reaction to the recession was far milder than that of the United States. The Fleming budget had "minus" features but was "essentially a very great degree."

Mr. Pearson launched his final attack on it by likening the government and its deficit "budgeting in a sailing ship" vessel into a gale and asking the ship's doctor—Mr. Fleming—to operate.

WIMBLEDON (CP) — Ashley Cooper, top-seeded 21-year-old Australian, today won the men's championship of the Wimbledon tennis tournament. He defeated fellow-countryman Neale Fraser 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 13-11.

UN Lacks Proof Lebanese Rebels Getting Outside Aid

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) United Nations observers in Lebanon reported today they were unable to tell whether any rebels or their weapons had come from outside the country.

But the vast majority of rebels who have been trying for eight weeks to overthrow Lebanon's pro-Western government are Lebanese, the observers said.

Their report said the rebels had barred the international watchdog teams from areas through which the government says the United Arab Republic is sending in men and arms.

The tone of the observer team's first report was so inconclusive that the UN Security Council was not expected to call an early meeting to consider it.

The council sent the observers to Lebanon June 11 to investigate President Camille Chamoun's charges against the U.A.R. Chamoun has indicated if the observers' findings on the country cannot end the rebellion he will call for UN police forces that are not distant from get, direct U.S. and British help.

The observers said "it had not been possible to establish from observations made by observers whether these arms are being supplied . . . nor was it possible to establish if any of the weapons observed had infiltrated from outside; there is little doubt, however, that the vast majority was in any case composed of Lebanese."

The approximately 110 observers have been prevented from moving more than 10 miles outside by being shot at and finding the roads they had to use being mined and bridges blown up, the report said.

Lebanon's 180-mile border with the U.A.R.'s Syrian province, the government controls only about 11 miles where the main Beirut-Damascus highway crosses the border, the report said. The rebels have tried several times to cut this highway in the centre of the country.

The observers' findings were anticipated somewhat Thursday by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. He told a press conference he could find nothing during his recent visit to Lebanon "that is clearly illegal infiltration" by the U.A.R.

Lebanese Foreign Minister Charles Malik promptly replied he would stand by his complaint to the United Nations. He said infiltration was only part of interference.

A government spokesman in Beirut also disputed Hammarskjold's statement and claimed the U.A.R. had sent the rebels 36,000 weapons. The spokesman said 20,000 Egyptians, Syrians and Palestinian Arabs were fighting for the rebels.

In Cairo, however, an Egyptian radio commentator said Hammarskjold had conferred directly indicts Britain and the United States, which "intervened militarily in the Lebanese territorial waters to turn an internal issue into an international one. . . ."

The observers said they planned to fly over the mountainous area to the 10 now established, extend their patrols deeper into rebel territory and use more aerial photography.

Record Payments for Relief To Drought-Stricken Prairies

OTTAWA (CP) — Drought has hit the Prairie grain crop hard, causing serious if not critical, but a disaster. The federal government may have to pay record sums for drought relief.

The federal payments may rise to a record $40,000,000-plus this year as hopes fade that dried-out areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta will recover from one of the most rainless seasons in many years.

In the Commons Thursday, Mr. Churchill—the minister in charge of moving the grain crop—said a great loss already has been suffered in crop damage and as "serious a situation as could recovery become less.

The major cause is in animal feed, with the bureau of statistics here reporting a further deterioration in the Saskatchewan-Manitoba situation. In many areas, there already has been a crippling shortage of hay.

In Winnipeg, H. A. Craig of the Manitoba agriculture department said some grain crops have passed the point of recovery. It's a matter what rainfall comes from now on.

"No matter what happens, we can expect an average crop," he said. Dr. R. E. Stecker, director of the plant industry branch of the Saskatchewan agriculture department,

R. E. English, Alberta government farm adviser, said: "General rain over the week-end improved soil moisture in most parts of the province. However, in many sections the moisture still is critical except for the rain, and more will be needed to ensure a crop."

In the Commons, Mr. Churchill announced the Canadian wheat board is prepared to hold stocks of wheat, oats and barley as feed grains for the use of federal, provincial and municipal authorities consider necessary.

There is a large wheat surplus and there will be no shortage of feed grains for Canada this year may be no larger than the below-par average 370,000,000 bushels of last year. Some farmers without farm-held surpluses may find themselves on the spot.

While harmful to some individuals, the situation may lead to a strengthening of wheat prices at world markets. The United States anticipates a bumper harvest of winter and spring wheat of about w 1,271,000,000 bushels.

Likely to Confer on Ways To Prevent Surprise Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — The NATO allies appear likely to accept, with reservations, a Soviet proposal that military experts study ways of preventing a surprise attack.

The proposal for a conference was made by Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a letter to President Eisenhower delivered Wednesday in Moscow.

Thursday:— Eisenhower is expected to urge prompt completion of consultations already started with Britain, France and other NATO countries.

Advance indications of conditional agreement came both from the state department and from unofficial sources from NATO officials in London. Both Eisenhower and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain have made similar suggestions in the past.

However, authorities do not rule out the possibility that a major purpose of the Soviet government may be to try to repair Russia's peace propaganda position. This has been badly damaged by the final few weeks of both things as the blow to summit conference negotiations in Geneva over the execution of Hungarian premier Imre Nagy and the threat not to attend nuclear test talks at Geneva.

The Soviet proposal has suggested that the United States and Britain "take the initiative in arranging a meeting in the near future of representatives of countries specially designated by the two powers for the purpose of the agreements of certain other states."

They should meet, Khrushchev said, "for the study of the practical aspects" of the problem and should consider within a short period of time, to be determined in advance, recommendations regarding measures for the prevention of the possibility of surprise attack."

Despite the vagueness of these negotiations," Khrushchev said, "could be considered at a meeting of heads of government. Such preliminary work would undoubtedly facilitate the success of a decision on this question at the meeting itself."

State Secretary Dulles said some of Khrushchev's ideas were unacceptable. He did not specify which points he had in mind, but Khrushchev objected to the idea of a rigid time limit and the implied commitment that the meeting of foreign ministers would be followed by a summit conference.

U.S. LOCKS OPEN MASSIVE GATES TO NEWEST LAKE

Canadian Ship Will Be First One Through

MASSENA, N.Y. (CP) Two United States locks in the St. Lawrence seaway were to open their massive gates today to let ships from the seven seas sail in and out of North America's newest lake.

First commercial ship to navigate the inland locks was to be the 2,357-ton Humberdoc, a Canadian vessel carrying newsprint from Port Alfred, Que., to Mill, Chicago.

The Port William ship was at the head of a flotilla of 16 vessels that formed during the last three days in Lake St. Lawrence east of this town, across the U.S.-Canada boundary.

More than 45 cargo ships some of them ocean-going freighters—were anchored overnight in the lake, waiting their turn to pass through the locks and lowdown the Wiley - Dondero ship channel to the Eisenhower lock.

BUILT BY U.S.

The locks were built during the past four years by the U.S. part of the $473,000,000 international waterway that will eliminate a navigation barrier in the rapids in the St. Lawrence River between Cornwall, Ont., and Ogdensburg, N.Y. A Canadian lock at Iroquois, opened last November, will link the U.S. channel with the western end of the new 35-mile lake.

The three locks are to operate for small canal vessels for the rest of the 1958 navigation season. These vessels are only 250 feet long compared with the 730-foot giants that will be able to sail the big waterway when it is opened next April.

Navigators in the old canals, built more than 50 years ago, was slowed by a series of permit blasting of a 600-foot coffer-dam in the river to unleash the 600,000 gallons of water in Lake to the as-yet-unnamed lake basin. The lake forms a 10-square-mile headpond with a 90 - foot dam at the powerdam built near Massena by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and the New York State Power Authority to generate 1,164,000 kilowatts of electricity.

The lake, 6½ mi in Canada, more than 30 ships formed another flotilla behind the locks the new lake, through the U.S. locks and then downstream to Montreal.

Transport Group Will Take Place Of Air Training

Leaves Total Personnel Unchanged at 2,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes announced today that the RCAF's Air Transport Command headquarters will be shifted from Lachine, Que., to Trenton, Ont., by next year.

The transport squadron now based at Dorval, near Montreal, will also be shifted to Trenton.

Headquarters of Air Training Command will be moved to Winnipeg from Trenton and the Flying Instructors School and Flying Technical School will be moved from Trenton to a base in the west.

Mr. Pearkes made these announcements in the Commons estimates committee, now studying defence appropriations.

The minister said the air training station at Claresholm, Alta., will be closed down and the station at MacDonald, Man., next year.

The ground training station at Aylmer, Que., would be moved to Camp Borden, Ont., and the ground training station at Rockcliffe, Ont., reduced to a small unit.

Mr. Pearkes said all these moves reflect major reductions in the training load in the RCAF.

Wahld rumors of these impending changes had been widespread among the personnel at the Trenton base for some time, Defence Minister Pearkes' announcement was the first official word that such changes would be made.

The Ontario Intelligencer in-public relations officials at Trenton, Mr. Pearkes' announcement, however, was the first word received. These officials had no immediate comment to make on the changes.

From what can be learned from those familiar with the Trenton base and RCAF operations, it is believed that the changes will result in no overall change in the number of men stationed at Trenton, but that they will increase by approximately 10 to 15 per cent of the personnel, which, numbers in the neighborhood of 2,000. The departure of Air Training Command personnel will be offset by the arrival of Air Transport Command personnel.

Consumer Price Index Unchanged For June as Food Prices Steady

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index remained unchanged at 125.1 at the start of June, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The index of food prices and price movements in other groups that offset each other.

The bureau of statistics reported today slight declines in the components for shelter and other components of the index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, components for shelter and other commodities and services rose fractionally and the clothing index remained unchanged.

The food price index figure of 125.1 followed four months of steady increases in the index, capped by a nine-tenths of a point jump to 125.2 at the beginning of April. The April rise, due mostly to higher food prices, was the largest in two years.

The index of average wages and salaries at April 1—latest available—stood at 163.4 than from 162.9 a month earlier. The index is based on 1949 wages

Snag Develops In Negotiations To Free Captives

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The United States Embassy said today it has no word that 43 American and two Canadian civilians being held by Cuban rebels were being freed. Informants said the rebels appeared now to be haggling on their release after turning loose four Americans and one Canadian, engineer Edward Cannon, 53, of Cornwall, Ont.

A U.S. Army bomber flew the five captives to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay Wednesday.

Informed sources said a snag developed in negotiations to free the others and rebel leader Fidel Castro, 31, called off a deal for further talks. What he wanted to talk about was unknown.

Among the captives are Harold J. Kristjanson of Geraldton, Ont., and Cannon's wife, Lois, who stayed at the same time as Cannon and Richard Lloyd Jones, 31, of Toronto, Ont.

There appeared to be some sort of disagreement over perhaps a breakdown in communications between Castro and his brother Raul, who engineered the kidnappings.

In a broadcast Wednesday night, Castro said "it is possible" the kidnappings were part of a reaction against the recent delivery of 300 US rockets to the Batista government army to replace some of the wrong size delivered last year.

Pea Harvest Commences in Foxboro Area

One of the first field crops of the season, the pea harvest has commenced in the Belleville area this week with the Canadian Canner plant at Foxboro commencing on Wednesday to vine peas.

Don Graham, plant manager, noted that the factory was now on a daily one-shift operation but this is owing to the full time operation as the season progresses. The pea harvest usually lasts about three weeks.

The pea crop was said to be "fairly good" this year although more rain was needed as the dry weather was affecting the crop. Pea acreage for the Foxboro plant is about the same as last year, it was learned.

The territory in which peas are grown for the Foxboro plant is the South Hastings area between Belleville and Tweed.

Citadel Corps Welcomes New Army Officer

The Belleville Salvation Army Citadel Corps welcomes a new commander this week.

Lieut. Lt. Stanley Walter, who was transferred to Belleville on a temporary basis to succeed Capt. Cal Irwin, Carrying Ivany with his wife and family left Thursday to take over his new appointment at Ottawa's Parkdale Corps.

Lieut. Walter came to Belleville from the Oakville Corps; his first appointment after graduating from the Salvation Army's Officers' Training College in Toronto, three years ago. He arrived in this city yesterday and will be in charge of the local corps until September when a permanent commander will be appointed.

The new S.A. officer, a native of Sarnia, Ont., holds a B.A. degree in mathematics and physics from the University of Western Ontario. He was employed as a petroleum engineer with the Imperial Oil Co. in Calgary, Alta., for five years, prior to entering the Salvation Army Officers' Training College.

He is married and has two children, a boy and a girl. His wife is the former Miss Commissioner A. S. Harewood—formerly of Belleville—the Salvation Army in Canada and now in charge of the Army's activities in Newfoundland.

In September he expects to enter the Dominion College of Education in Toronto for a one-year high school teaching course prior to taking up his ministerial service in Africa.

He will probably go to Rhodesia, one of the largest missionary areas, but if not, it will be somewhere in Africa, he stated. Missionary service is for a six-year term.

They are happy to be here in Belleville, but are sorry it will be for so short a time," he said.

Lieut. Walter will hold his first service in the Citadel on Sunday.

Anglicans Open World Parley

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CANTERBURY, England (CP) — The worldwide leadership of the Anglican communion assembled in its mother church to hear the Archbishop of Canterbury pray for the future of "a world afraid, angry, covetous and a prey to its passions."

After preaching the sermon at a solemn service Thursday marking the opening of the Lambeth Conference, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher stood at the flower-banked altar and called for divine guidance for the 310 bishops in their deliberations:

"We humbly beseech Thee that Thy holy spirit may lead into all truth Thy servants, the bishops, assembled in this place, and grant them a spirit of wisdom, direct and prosper, we pray Thee, all their consultations and further them with Thy continual help."

The words were identical with those used at the opening of the 1908 conference, the last archbishop's sermon spoke of the special and urgent conditions of the present meeting.

"This distracted world needs quite desperately the gospel to cover how and at what price and by what spiritual battle friendship, love and peace among men can be had. To tell the world the answer is to show the answer among all people is the most urgent service demand of the church."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — With New Issue leading the way for the third straight session, the stock market today struggled for an irregular advance in the heaviest trading tempo in 13 months.

New Hosco leaped ahead $1.06 to $1.77 with a turnover of more than 420,000 shares in the first hour, divine it a gain of $1.63 since the close last Friday. The company earlier this week reported an encouraging drill hole which, it believes, showed 55 feet of 3¼ to four per cent copper in its property in Daniel Township, Que.

The volume for the whole market was the heaviest since June 12, 1957; when 1,923,000 were traded in the first hour. Thursday's sales at the same time were 1,131,000.

Four speculative mines added to yesterday's volume upwards. Besides New Hosco, Maralgo, Goldray and Murray were active with gains ranging from 1½ cents to 10 cents. Maralgo, however, lost 12 cents at 73 cents.

The fact that trading was so heavy on the Toronto Stock Exchange New York was closed today for the Independence Day holiday, the lack of Wall Street leadership showed in senior mines and oils and industrials.

In place of the regular meeting on June 9th, the Cubs, with their parents, enjoyed a picnic at Zwick's Island for an evening of fun. Tweenie games were on and almost as many fathers. After the opening ceremonies Akela Morris Smith called out the names of the Cubs to be given badges and star, and each in turn stepped into the circle to receive a Cub handshake and congratulations.

With the awarding of the badges all formality ceased and the evening gave way to fun and games. Fathers and sons were seen roaming over the island on a scavenger hunt, many returning with weird and varied specimens of bones and feathers.

The highlight of the evening was a wiener roast around a huge bonfire. The president of the ladies auxiliary, Mrs. R. Bonsor, was assisted by members of the group committee and other helping hands to keep pace with the demand for buttered buns, relishes, etc.

As the fire burned low, the Cubs formed a circle around it and sang the vesper hymn, and thus drew to a close a happy evening.

Touch Fire To Cat, Men Fined $25 Each

TRENTON — Two airmen fined $25 each and ordered to pay costs of $20.50 by Magistrate W. J. Wills in court here yesterday on a charge of ill treating a cat. Both men pleaded guilty to the charge and were represented by counsel.

John Pringle of Belleville appeared for the Crown.

The airmen, William Stuker and Kendall Hollins, are attached to the R.C.A.F. in Trenton for the purpose of training for a guard of honor for Princess Margaret in July. They have both been removed from the detail.

Constable Bruce Westfall of the Trenton Police Department, testified for the Crown and told the court of the investigation. He said on the night of the 13th the town police had received a complaint from the Quinte Dry Cleaning Company Gardens that the cat, kept at the store, had disappeared.

The constable said with the aid of the R.C.A.F. police the accused were arrested and had made a statement in which they admitted taking the cat from the Community Centre. It was stated that Stukey had taken the girl out of the dance, that if she did not dance with him he would take the cat from the fire and had lit his lighter and touched it to the cat's tail, but it had not caught.

THREW CAT

The statement said later they had taken the cat from the rink and while on the way to the girl's home, in a car which was traveling about 50 miles per hour, they had thrown the cat from the car near Bayside.

The cat has not been seen since.

The counsel for the accused told the court that he had been chosen for the case by the R.C.A.F. but that he had not been paid. He said he felt this was punishment for their deed, and that both men have good records.

Crown Prosecutor John Pringle said because drinking and fire played a part he would recommend a fine.

Magistrate Wills told the accused airmen that he was inclined to agree with the prosecution's remarks given out. He told the men this would be recorded on their records and it would be more serious if they ever appeared in court again anywhere in Canada on the same type of charge.

TRENTON — The first house on the Gould Housing Development on Sidney Street will be started next week if no further snags occur before then, Joe Gould said yesterday. He said he will be building a five-room house "on his own" but will sell it later. He plans to have the first home completely equipped with gas and will then throw the house open for anyone who cares to come and look through it. The other lots will be sold through Jean Day, Trenton real estate man, who will help prospective home owners to plan and get a contractor if they require it. The Trenton Construction Company will be building the first house.

NEW TEACHER

Al Hawkins, formerly of Toronto will join the members of the staff of the Trenton high school next year when he will be engaged to teach shop work. Mr. Hawkins has been teaching public school near Toronto and will be moving here to live on Dundas Gardens that the cat, kept at the store, had disappeared.

De Gaulle 'Too Busy' to See Massu During Algerian Tour

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Premier Charles de Gaulle ended a crowded three-day Algerian tour Thursday night and left behind him a puzzle for European settlers after snubbing the all-Algerian committee of public safety.

Disgruntled settlers and army officers, fearful of Paris appeasement to the Moslem rebels, set up the committee May 13 in a move to block de Gaulle's return to power.

De Gaulle was reported "too busy" to see a committee delegation headed by Gen. Jacques Massu, the paratrooper who helped lead the May 13 army takeover.

PLANS FOR ALGERIA

De Gaulle in a radio speech Thursday night announced plans to develop Algeria industrially, socially, educationally and agriculturally.

The French government decreed in Paris today that the European electoral rolls in Algeria would be entered on a single, voting list "without distinction of status" which also gives Moslem women the right to vote "in the same conditions as other French citizens."

In his speech, de Gaulle announced a new school program for Moslem children saying: "Moslem children without exception will go to school." Only 10 per cent of Algeria's 9,000,000 Moslem residents now attend classes.

On other economic problems, de Gaulle said: "I proclaim that France means to carry out on this soil the vast plan of renovation which will allow us to reach full employment and in which everyone must share."

The capital would be funnelled into Algeria by the Paris government to finance the plan.

De Gaulle said the program would cost an extra 1,000,000,000 francs ($2,000,000) this year.

The independent newspaper Figaro, known to the right in French politics, said Moslems in Algeria should have equal rights "practical measures destined to have tangible and immediate consequences."

The leftist Combat applauded de Gaulle's refusal to meet with the committee of public safety, which calls for continued strong French control in Algeria.

The Communist L'Humanite accused de Gaulle of "lying demagogic promises to the Moslems which have little chance of coming true." The real intention of the government is to carry on the war with additional forces," the Communist paper said.

Cornwall Mayor Wants Second Seaway Route

CORNWALL (CP) — Mayor Hubert Lavigne of Cornwall is hoping for a second—all-Canadian —St. Lawrence Seaway.

He told a luncheon Thursday attended by Premier Frost of Ontario and other dignitaries:

"We here in Cornwall are firmly convinced that in the course of time the amount of traffic carried on the new (international) seaway will exceed the present facilities.

"In due course it will become essential to create a second and alternative route through an all-Canadian seaway, and will be complementary and not competitive with the present system."

Premier Frost said a park system to be established along the banks of the St. Lawrence would rival the one created by the Niagara Parks Commission between Niagara Falls and Fort Erie.

"Your parks will be second to none in North America," he said.

Indian Wants Same Treatment As Given Whites

KITCHENER (CP)—"The time has come for Ontario to treat the Indian the same as the rest—because our way of life has vanished," Milton Loucks, Six Nations Indian Reserve at Brantford told the K-W Kiwanis Club Thursday night.

Mr. Moses, a former chief of the reserve, said protection clauses in the Indian Act should be abolished. He claimed many segregations in the act actually hinder the Indian population.

"The act has made second-class citizens out of Indians," he said. "Ninety-nine per cent of the future of our people is tied up in your way of life."

Diefenbaker's Plane Lands In Blackout

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker's plane landed safely in darkness during a power failure at Uplands Airport here early today.

The transport department's Viscount plane used its strong landing-lights to find the runway. It touched down at 1:07 a.m. EDT. Power was restored at 1:17 after being cut from a generator.

Hydro officials said they did not know what caused the high-tension line trouble that resulted in the power failure.

Mr. Diefenbaker was returning from Quebec City where he took part in ceremonies commemorating the French explorer Samuel de Champlain.

Dies in Chair

OSSINING, N.Y. (AP)—Nicholas Dan, 20-year-old cop killer, died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison after asking mercy for the souls of the spectators at his execution.

He entered the death chamber at 11:02 p.m. Thursday, accompanied by Father Lester Hemmin, Protestant chaplain at the prison.

Dr. Hannum recited a psalm at his side as Dan was strapped in. The clergyman ended his prayer with the words, "May the Lord have mercy on your souls."

Dan looked toward the spectators. "May the Lord have pity on your souls," he said.

Dan and an accomplice were convicted of slaying William Knight outside a restaurant in Nassau County in March, 1957.

The accomplice, Robert W. Miller, was sentenced to Elmira for a reformatory for manslaughter.

Mr. Larocque said they have decided on this to give his staff and himself a long weekend during the summer.

JAW BROKEN

Ed Webb, a member of the Trenton Public Works Department broke his jaw in five places yesterday when a wrench with which he was working slipped and struck him. It was reported that Mr. Webb was working with one of the sewer machines and was using a rodding out a plugged line when the mishap occurred. Because of the unfortunate tension when this type of work is being done and if the wrench slips it travels only a short rate of speed. Mr. Webb also lost a couple of teeth. Dr. J. V. Byrne was called to the scene and had the injured man taken to the hospital. The doctor reported Mr. Webb will be in hospital for about two weeks but will be off work for at least a month.

Must Be Good Kiwanians Every Day: Parker

TRENTON — "Don't just be a good Kiwanian on meeting nights or when the project chairman calls, but let's be Kiwanians every day of the week" said Parker, past lieutenant-governor and past president of the Trenton club, to his fellow members last night.

The club met in Hotel Gilbert last night for their regular meeting, but one which also ran as "All Kiwanian Week" which is being celebrated by clubs across Canada. Mr. Parker was the guest speaker.

"Let us resolve on this night" urged Mr. Parker, "that we, as Kiwanians, will try to move forward for the betterment of our community and to do the best we can on any project we undertake."

Mr. Parker also spoke on work for children of the town and the beautification of the community through planning.

The theme of his address was on the objectives of the Kiwanians, which he covered one by one, explaining each in detail.

During the short business meeting, which was chaired by Nick Dimovski in the absence of president Grant Doodding, who is out of town on his holidays, Claude Smith, chairman of the recent drive to raise funds for sending children to a summer camp, reported that over $1,000 has now been turned in, with more still to come.

It was also reported that Kiwanian Wally Bateman was in hospital in Trenton due to a recent illness.

Following the meeting the executive met briefly at the hotel and then adjourned to Bob Parrell's cottage. A brief meeting of the committees in charge of sending children to summer camp was also held.

The patient wouldn't due, Mr. Pearson said. Canada had a tough choice and anticipated no $1,000,000,000 deficit, which he said would actually exceed $1,000,000,000, was a big dose. It was healthy to cope with the recession.

Diefenbaker did not criticize deficit budgeting; they did criticize such budgeting when it lacked method. Now and then inflationary pressures might result. SOME HAPPENINGS

Earlier, Paul Martin (L—Essex East) revived the "hidden report," claiming that Prime Minister Diefenbaker deemed it fit to conceal from MPs and trade and commerce department economic forecast for 1957 in the last session. Diefenbaker refused to produce the 1958 forecast.

The reason, Mr. Martin said, is that the current forecast "does not suggest we can meet the issues by the minister of finance in his budget—a budget which refuses to recognize the seriousness of unemployment in this country."

Martin offered further his own predictions of what the unemployment figure will be earlier, giving a figure of 804,000 for March, 1959.

THE GREAT FLOOD

The Dominion Day blasting of a 600-foot cofferdam in the St. Lawrence River, five miles west of Cornwall, signalled not only the unofficial opening of the joint Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario - New York State Power Authority electrical power project, but also was the climax of 30 years of planning and four years of construction to bring better electrical power service to people in two countries.

Dr. Otto Holden, Hydro's chief engineer who ranks among the bests engineers in the world, punched a button in a bunker 3,000 feet east of cofferdam A-1 at exactly 6 a.m., July 1. Immediately 30 tons of nitrones - - more powerful than dynamite and the same explosive that was used to blast Ripple Rock near Vancouver a few weeks ago - - blew the packed clay cofferdam 200 feet into the air. The pent-up fury of the mighty St. Lawrence was unleashed to fill a 100-square-mile manmade lake to a depth of 80 feet to provide a gigantic pond backed into new Robert H. Saunders generating station at Cornwall.

At a press conference at noon in the Cornwallis Hotel, James Duncan, chairman of the HEPC, told a gathering of newsmen that two of 16 generators on the Canadian side of the powerhouse are expected to develop 135,000 horsepower by the end of this week to produce approximately 80,000 kilowatts of electrical power each. By the end of the month two more generators will be put in operation.

Anyone witnessing the detonation of the cofferdam was understandably disappointed. "Rumor had it that as soon as the dam was blasted a wall of water seven feet high would roar into the basin from the river, possibly endangering the Robert H. Saunders generating station. None of this happened. The actual inundation of the 20,800 acres along the Canadian shore of the river and the 18,000 acres on the U.S. side was diagnosed by one newsman as like creeping paralysis, slow but sure.

Another rumor said that some of the nitrone in the cofferdam had not exploded. A Canadian Press reporter, Robert Rice, went to some difficulty to ascertain the basis for the rumor. However, Dr. Holden assured him that from the size of the explosion all of the nitrone had exploded.

What impressed us were the lengths to which the HEPC information service went to accommodate representatives of newspapers, magazines, radio and television stations. A bouquet is certainly in order for the HEPC. The Commission did a remarkable job to see that every citizen of Canada, the United States and abroad received a true and accurate picture of the proceedings on Inundation Day.

The opening of the St. Lawrence power project symbolizes progress in both the HEPC and New York State Power Authority. Its significance often are overlooked in our everyday living because electricity has become commonplace. If it were not for thousands of men and women in organizations like these we in this expanding nation would be living in a static age because we would be hampered in progress by a lack of cheap power.

As we stood and watched the cofferdam blown heavenward and the subsequent slow process of flooding the headpond, we thought what a pity it was that Thomas Edison was not there. He would have been proud of the HEPC and the State of New York Power Authority.

CANADIANS SECOND BEST

A Canadian reads the news stories of appalling totals of deaths on the highways of the United States —and gets a false impression. He is likely to conclude that his fellow citizens are more careful drivers than Americans.

The sad truth is that the fatality rate per one million miles driven is 5.4 in the United States. In Canada the figure is 7.2. Canadian driving is exactly one-third more deadly. (Fort William Times Journal.)

INDEPENDENCE DAY

What does it all mean anyway,
Noise of cannon and boom of gun,
Deafening, colorful fire display
Starting in with the rising sun?
Ah, it means that this land of ours,
Fringed with mountains and crowned with flowers,
Warm with sunshine and wet with dew,
Is dear to the hearts of her people true.

Every whizzing rocket that seeks the sky
And bursts in beauty the world above
Proclaims aloud, as it journeys High,
A nation's pride and a nation's love.

It seems to speak of her wonders here,
Her mines so rich and her skies so clear,
Her harvests grand, and her waving fields,
Her fields of green and her creeping vines.

Oh, a glorious day is this we keep
For under the noise and the powder scent
Is a strain of love that is wide as end deep,
A touch of a nation's sentiment.

Love of country the cannon speaks,
Love of freedom the rocket shrieks,
Love of the flag that waves above;
This is the meaning—a nation's love.

New Wolf-Throwing Champ

...Ontario Lands and Forests Dept. Bulletin

Just as surely as dandelions arrive in the spring, so comes, from the Department of Lands and Forests, an annual crop of tall tales of timber slappings in Ontario's vast bushlands. They usually involve bear, moose, deer, beaver, porcupine, or some other relatively new species of critters, which have invaded the province.

For example, it now seems that there's a new high mark for wolf-throwing. For the uninitiated, it may be pointed out that the late John Hollingworth, Sault Ste. Marie, many years ago established the record for throwing a wolf 45 feet through the air when he grabbed the animal in the tail and dragged it from its lair.

Now, Paul Gauthier, of Rutter, is reported to have overtaken a timber wolf on the road and thrown it 50 feet, head over heels. The hero finally heaved him onto the road and crushed him into the critter's report card.

With slight but pardonable scepticism, officers scrutinized a report of nuisance beaver from the Porcupine area.

A township reeve who had been told beaver would move to some other area, if he set a few limited lantern at each end of an affected culvert, reported that beaver had unset the lanterns, blown out the lights and covered the lanterns with mud from the side of the culvert. Which revealed one major defect in the Department that in a somewhat similar case the beaver did not blow out the lantern; they simply moved them to a more strategic spot and they needed light to carry out a ticklish job.

From Gogama, Conservation Officer George Voreh solemnly reported: "If someone tells you he saw a pair of young moose wearing ear-rings in this district, believe him. Twin calves, male and female, have been earmarked with metal tags similar to those used by ranchmen for identifying cattle."

Of course, there's the usual report that the full - grown moose which wandered along some of the main streets of Sault Ste. Marie and didn't help a lot of gardens any with his snow - shoe-like feet. Game and fish conservation officers captured the beast and released it in the wilds.

Hespeler reported that an animal struck by a car on No. 8 highway had been identified as a cougaur, the first to be ever recorded in Ontario. There's the suspicion the 'possum may have hooked himself a ride on a truck, from the United States, which frequently brings cougars and from the Southern United States.

Bears are reported scarce generally, but they're still around in sufficient numbers. Where they are plentiful, they're hungry since last year's blueberry crop was a failure. Tore cupboards from the wall, broke most of the glass from the left wing three cans of jam. Rangers are awaiting a return visit.

Words Minus Understanding

Montreal Gazette

Bismarck, the Chancellor of Germany, was ridding out of the Brandenburg Gate, one of the great parks of Berlin. Suddenly he came upon a flock of sheep.

They looked so well, that he drew rein and asked who their owner might be, and whether he might buy some of them. The shepherd told him that they belonged to a city councillor of Berlin and that he might, if he wished, buy them. So he sent a note there. The purchase was completed.

A few days later the German Chancellor gave a diplomatic dinner. The sheep, duly cooked, appeared upon the table. When he had finished the meal, Bismarck was amused to see that it was listed as "Southdown Batard a la Municipal."

Bismarck had told his wife how he had acquired the sheep, a d she, now, no doubt, had penetrated to the kitchen. The cook had decided that she would be described as "municipal mutton," which had come from a city councillor.

Bismarck later went to d i n e at the Russian Ambassador. To his surprise, in glancing at t h e menu, he found a dish described as "Southdown Batard a la Municipal."

Of this I could not keep from smiling." Bismarck would say, by telling the story, "and afterwards I learned that the Ambassador's cook had somehow managed to procure a copy of my wife's bill of fare, and simply copied the description of my Grunewald mutton, without any idea of being aware of its particular associations with the municipal authorities of our capital."

There are many occasions for smiling, when language is used — often unusual, or technical, or mysterious — by those who do not know exactly what they mean. Yet the use of such words gives a certain impression of the possession of a knowledge or experience beyond the reach of others.

The American novelist, William Dean Howells, makes use of this simple kind of pretentiousness in the opening scene of "The Rise of Silas Lapham."

A newspaper reporter, Bartley Hubbard, calls upon Silas Lapham, to ask a preferial for an article in his series, "Solid Men of Boston." Lapham tells how he became rich, by manufacturing paint from ore found on his father's farm.

"Well, sir," Lapham tells the reporter, "we built a bin, a n d we kept a lot of that paint red hot for 48 hours. . . The presence of iron in the ore showed w i t h the reagnet from the start; and when he (the analyst) came to test it he put it at about 1 o o total absorbs 75 per cent of t h e peroxide of iron."

Lapham pronounced this scientific phrase "with a sort of reverential satisfaction. If saved through his pride by a little lingering uncertainty as to what peroxide was. He scrented it as if it were pure-or-eyed; and Bartley had to get him to spell it."

Silas Lapham had a lingering uncertainty in using an impressive term he did not quite understand. But such uncertainty need not linger. There are those who use words they do not understand with fluency and assurance.

To them understanding is quite unnecessary.

It was so with William Terriss, one of the actors in Sir Henry Irving's stock company at the Lyceum Theatre in London. Terriss was well-endowed for an actor, with a handsome face, a graceful figure, a splendid voice, and a flair for acting that was natural. But while the words of Shakespeare would come richly from his lips, he himself did not understand them well with their meaning.

Once Sir Henry asked him the meaning of a line in Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing." Terriss looked at his questioner as such a question, replied: "O dear, dear, Guv'nor; it's poetry, isn't it?"

Pig's Wo Victim

Victoria Times

Senator Warren G. Magnuson and Henry M. Jackson, Washington Democrats, have urged the United States Congress to establish as a national monument the site on which a British owned pig was shot in 1859.

The incident, one of the little-lasting bits of trivia which sometimes make history, occurred on San Juan Island, scene of a long-longed dispute between British and the United States over the boundary.

The two senators think the site fitting for national recognition because the pig was the only casualty of the "Pig War" which, they say, here is an example of peaceful relationships between the two nations.

Fine. Let's have the pig memorial on San Juan Island. We'll not forget pigs were cheap in those days.

And let's not jeopardize any international relations with a repeat performance. Will ham and bacon are claiming today's prices.

WINDOW SHOPPING

I have long been interested in window shopping, especially when my big home town. I have fancied myself as a designer of women's dresses, but I am getting poor cooperation from my friends. They laugh like a drain when I stand at the windows of the great stores. They inform a great deal.

It is interesting to see the types of women who stand in admiration before the beautiful windows of the f i n e stores. Bathing beauties are a delight to see, and black are the popular ones now. I note all shapes and sizes standing in front of these decorated windows. What an interesting story could be told if only those admirers would but talk truthfully about their reaction to the n e w styles.

Tip a Sheik For Profit

Christian Science Monitor

Somewhere in Beersheba tonight a tourist may still have a red face. We refer to the American woman who asked a desert sheik to pose for a photograph, and after he courteously obliged pressed on him a small pound note (about 80 cents) into his hand. The sheik, not having change for a sheik, bvt he did, and before walking away gave the money to three several ten-pound notes at her feet.

We wonder what happened next. Did Communists exploit the incident as anticapitalist propaganda? And if so, which did they call the capitalist? Did the Middle Eastern travel agencies add a n e w category to their tipping suggestions: "Sheiks — one pound, necessary"? Did a local investigating committee question the propriety of a sheik throwing gifts at a foreigner? How did the photographs come out?

For us the main temptation is to philosophize on some aspects of ignorance as the enemy of good intentions and to ponder the question of whether a potentially confronted with certain kinds of less majestic should turn the cheek of nobleness oblige. However, we are going to resist all such temptation and simply hope that profit-minded tourists do not start making a business of tipping the sheiks for photographic sessions. We can hear them now, saying to a Beersheban vein, "Never tip a sheik unless you're sure that he is a sheik."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

CHANGES TAKE PLACE IN THE BODY ALL THE TIME

"Dear Dr. Molner: I've heard that our bodies change every seven years. What is meant by that? — J.A.E."

That's a question which, if understood, can do a good deal for our health — especially for older people. And even more especially if people will take the pains to understand what it's about before they reach whatever age they consider to be "old." (I don't really know how old "old" is, myself.)

It's true that our bodies change constantly. I don't how exactly how long the process takes for completion or whether seven years is an accurate guess.

But regardless of the exact rate, it happens. It happens cellby cell, particle by particle. Look at your finger nails, for example. They change a lot more rapidly than that. If you look at your nail, it is the same shape, texture and color that it was a year ago — yet you know by the number of times you've cut that nail that it isn't the same nail. It's all new, but identical.

It's much the same with our tissues elsewhere in the body, except that we don't see them as well. Instead tlet's take the flesh in a finger) individual tiny cells, so small you would have to use a very powerful microscope to see them, are constantly dying off, and new cells are being "born." The process, however, is that one cell divides and lives, and then each quickly grows to normal size. The old cell is carried away in the bloodstream as waste matter.

A LIFE-LONG PROCESS

That process is happening all our lives. Even in the bones? Certainly. After all, if you break a leg, doesn't new bone tissue grow to make the fracture knit? On a microscopic scale, that same thing is happening all the time. We are forever tearing down our body, and then build at a time and building a new one.

Now here is the way this becomes important to health. We all know that babies grow rapidly, and need milk. We know that children need milk and lots of protein, because protein provides some of the body "blocks" of the body. (Sugar and starch provide heat and energy) and, if we eat too much, fat. But we need protein to build with, just as we need steel to build an auto mobile and need gasoline to make it go.)

Now a great many older people don't drink milk because they feel they have finished growing and don't need it any more. Or they haven't stopped growing and they do need it.

They don't grow any fast, but they are constantly growing new cells to replace discarded ones.

Likewise many an older person eats starchy foods and soft foods but not those that require a lot of meat, fish, cheese, eggs. There's also protein in varying amounts in bread, milk, vegetables and other foods.

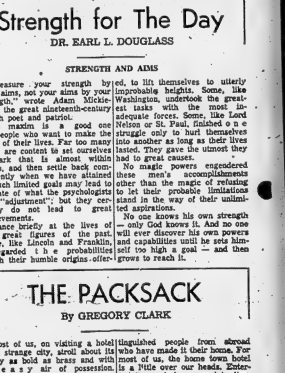
No matter how old you are, you still need protein, still need "building blocks". Lack of sufficient protein in the diet, we find, is one of the frequent lacks in old people and how you know why.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can you advise me of the statistical percentage of cases per thousand in which there is a possibility of a blood clot entering the heart? Does more or less chance of this occurring where there is a previous history of a clot in the lung? Only information I can obtain is that it is possible for a clot then again. — H. H."

If there are any statistics, I haven't seen them. I think you are hunting for trouble — like a man who has a bit pain in the arm and who wants to know the statistical probability of a heart attack. In the absence of known reasons for pessimism, it's smarter to be an optimist. Don't you think?

Note to Mrs. T. C. R.: All three of your questions can be met in one newspaper by my pamphlet, "Vitamins — Alphabet of Health," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Strength for The Day



DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

STRENGTH AND AIMS

"Measure your strength by your aims, not your aims by your strength," wrote Adam Mickiewicz, the great Polish poet and patriot.

His maxim is a good one for people who want to make the most of their lives. Far too many of us are content to set ourselves a mark that is almost within reach, and then call ourselves successful when we have attained it. Such limited goals may lead to a state of what the psychologists call "adjustment"; but they certainly do not lead to great achievements.

Glance briefly at the lives of the great figures of the past. Some, like Lincoln and Franklin, distinguished themselves by their humble origins.-after-

Point Anne C.W.L. Sponsors Strawberry Tea

The Point Anne subdivision of the C.W.L. held recently a most successful "Strawberry Tea" in St. Anne's school.

The guests were welcomed at the door by the president, Mrs. Vernon Smith, and the convener, Mrs. Joe Storey, and were invited to the tea room, which was attractively decorated with vases of peonies. Each tea table with a gay luncheon cloth was centred with a vase of roses. The attractive long tea table, with its white damask cloth, was centred with a large silver bowl of multi-colored roses flanked by silver candelabars with white tapers. Mrs. James MacKay and Mrs. Frank Simmons poured tea.

Those who served were: Mrs. L. Finnegan, Misses Patsy Whalen, Cecile Groseneux, Peggy Jane Finland and Suzanne Leggatt.

Mrs. C. Delorge was in charge of the beautiful decorated angel food cake, which was donated by Mrs. William Smith and won by Mrs. Joe Storey.

Mrs. Michael Whalen was in charge of the tickets on the gay luncheon cloth which was sold and donated by Mrs. Joe Storey and was won by Mrs. C. Delorge.

The treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. Thomas Bowler.

The following ladies prepared and replenished the plates, tea and strawberry short cakes: Mrs. Burton Whalen, Mrs. Ray Rouse, Mrs. E. Weese and the Misses Anna Huck, Gertrude and Hazel Simmons.

Many thanks were tendered to Mrs. William Smith and Mrs. Joe Storey and their assistants for their efforts in making the afternoon such a success.

Girl Guides Want to Learn Maori Dance

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Girl guides in Toronto want to learn the Maori pol dance. They have written to New Zealand for instructions, but have been regretfully told this is one thing you just can't learn from books.

The public relations office in Auckland, New Zealand, received a request for the information from the Toronto Girls' Organization. It was desired to stage the dance in a pageant.

But though the office searched the city, no written instructions on pol dancing could be found. Maoris declared they had never seen written details of how to do it, and they doubted very much if they would be of any help in any case.

The pol dance is the most famous dance of Maori maidens. It is the Maori equivalent of the hula, danced in various forms in most of the Pacific islands.

But instead of swaying only the hips and arms, the Maoris also swing the little grass balls called pois in intricate and fascinating rhythms.

The pol is about the size of a baseball, made usually of dried broad - leaved swamp grasses. They are attached to woven strings of similar material — a few inches long for the short pol, and several feet for the long pol.

As they sing and dance the Maori girls twirl the pois in endless motion, managing them with hands, arms, elbows, in expert fashion which requires long practice and an inborn sense of rhythm. The guides are interested to the subject matter of the action songs, is an essential part of the presentation.

The Maoris sang unaccompanied in the old days, and the swish and slap of the pois set the time for the songs.

With practice some of the pol dances can be mastered by white people, but the Maoris insist they cannot be learned by study.

However, the public relations office, determined not to disappoint the Toronto guides, is sending a newly - published book on Maori games containing illustrations of pois and pol dancing.

From that they may be able to prepare the necessary pois and costumes. Then all they need to do is find a Maori to act as instructor.

Holy Rosary Hears Talk on C.A.S. Work

The regular meeting of the Holy Rosary C. W. L. was held recently with 21 members in attendance.

Miss Marlene Brust, of the Children's Aid Society, was guest speaker and gave a most enlightening talk on the ways in which people could help the Society in its work. She stressed the great need of foster homes for children who due to circumstances, have to be uprooted from their own families.

The regular business meeting followed with the different committee conveners reporting.

The treasurer's report showed a bank balance of $131.20 and that the "Lilac Tea" netted $74.05.

Mrs. Schrieder reported 47 paid-up members. Mrs. Barrett reported that five Baby Congratulation and four Get-Well cards had been sent.

Mrs. Marguerite Eves gave an interesting report on the convention in Kingston. Mrs. Bashall and Mrs. Thompson were appointed new councillors to help in the local district.

Plans were discussed for the annual Christmas bazaar to be held in the fall. Mrs. Darlington, as convener, outlined the schedule to be followed regarding this event and gave a list of the different tables, that are to be featured.

After the meeting adjourned, a social hour followed.

HAYTON — PALMER

Union United Church, Eldorado, was the setting on Saturday, June 14th, at 2.00 p.m. for a very pretty double-ring wedding when the Reverend J. F. Lane, pastor of the church, united in marriage Anne Marie Palmer, of Eldorado, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer, to Herbert Glenn Hayton, of Bancroft, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Hayton.

Baskets of snowballs, poonies and ferns formed a lovely background, while blue and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. J. Donly presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. C. Stevenson, of Eldorado, who rendered "Bless This House" before the ceremony and "Walk Hand in Hand" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. George Palmer, was radiant in her bridal gown of re-embroidered Alencon lace, fashioned with empire lace bodice, enhanced by appliqué, having a scalloped neckline, short sleeves and wrist-length gloves. The floor-length skirt, accented by a partially covered overskirt of matching lace ovenyer nylon tulle, extended into a full flowing chapel train. She wore a finger-tip veil of tulle illusion becoaded with Alencon lace held by a pillbox-type headdress, showered with sequins and carried a cascade bouquet of red garnet rosebuds mingled with white Sweetheart. A cultured pearl necklace and earrings, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Lorne Donly, sister of the bride, as matron of honor; Miss Sharon Fox of Madoc, and Miss Georgiena Donly of Eldorado, as bridesmaids, were identically dressed in street-length, floor blue, crystal charm gowns, featuring V-shaped backs with bow and streamers of the same material.

Their matching bow-styled headdresses, white gloves and shoes completed their ensemble. They carried baskets of pink and white mums.

Mr. Douglas Hayton of Bancroft, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. George Tenthorey of L'Amable, and Mr. Sherwood Palmer, of Eldorado, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's table was daintily appointed. A three-tier wedding cake, centred the white cutwork, embroidered damask linen cloth, while tall, white candles in silver candlesticks and the bride's bouquet completed the nuptial accent.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a navy sheath gown, white hat and accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in a floral gown, with white hat and accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip by motor to New York City and central United States, the bride chose a light blue pencil-slim sheath dress, matching three-quarter length duster, white hat and accessories, black patent shoes and purse with a corsage of white mums.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Hayton will reside in Bancroft, Ont.

Guests were present from Toronto, Mount Albert, Peterborough, Belleville, Frankford, Madoc, Stirling and Bancroft.

Trenton Woman Will Visit Japan on Cultural Mission

TORONTO (CP) — Japan will come under the scrutiny of 21 Canadian women and nine men when the "East - West cultural mission to Japan" pays a month's visit there from July 15.

Mrs. Helen Tucker, Toronto, speech specialist and university lecturer, is chairman of the mission, which is sponsored by the United Nations Association in Canada as part of a United Nations plan to teach the West about the Orient.

The 30 Canadians are chiefly members of national business or service organizations involved in work varying from mental health to housewifery.

The group will study aspects of life in Japan and on its return members will speak about its investigations to their organizations.

"Japanese beauty and the way it is incorporated into everyday living is one subject which the group will investigate closely. Japanese; no matter where or in what class they live, they regard beauty as precious," said Mrs. Tucker. "It is part of their culture from which we could learn."

Teaching by television, on which the Japanese have spent $1,500,000, will also come under the mission's scrutiny.

"Ours is not just a holiday trip; we want to learn the way of life of Japan," said Mrs. Tucker.

Learning has already started for most of the group. They are attending seminars on Japanese history, culture and language.

In Japan, members of the group will get in touch with the Japanese counterparts of the organizations they represent, and will study their particular subjects.

At Hiroshima the visitors will present money to buy books for the International Peace Library there.

Mrs. Tucker, who is on several United Nations committees, says she is "an Oriental grandmother."

"A Formosan student in Canada called my husband and me to become his Canadian father and mother—this is an Oriental custom," she explained.

"He later married and named his son and daughter after my husband and me."

Mrs. Tucker was born in Texas and studied at Michigan University, Bordeaux University, France, and the University of Toronto.

Her husband is a sales executive and they have two children.

Other members of the mission are: Mrs. M. E. Ashdown, Mrs. J. Erwin, Mrs. E. M. Fogden, Miss M. Hocking, Miss L. V. Kinghorn, Miss E. McSain, Mrs. A. D. Stephen, Mrs. Rin Takahashi, Dr. F. B. Rainsberry, E. R. Ide, J. C. Parkin, all of Toronto; Miss Hazel Farley, Preston, Ont.; Miss J. P. Meeker, Anaster, Ont.; Mrs. E. Davidson, Fort Hope, Ont.; Miss H. F. Maudet, Listowel, Ont.; Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Solandt, Ottawa; Mrs. Schecter, Montreal; Albert Rakovsky, Westmount, Que.; Miss C. B. McKechnie, Lloydminster, Sask.; Miss A. M. F. Smith, Miss V. M. Ullman, Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Murakami and Miss Lilly Murakami, Vancouver.

An American woman will also accompany the group.

Pr. Wales H-S Assoc. Holds Grad. Party

On Thursday evening the Prince of Wales Home and School Association held its annual graduation party for the grade 8 pupils. The auditorium was gayly decorated for the occasion with streamers and balloons and baskets of peonies.

Mrs. Slack, the principal, welcomed the parents and congratulated the girls and boys as they were called to the stage.

Mrs. Cooke, president of the Home and School Association, presented each one with a voucher for their class picture and they also received the school crest presented by Mr. Sproule on behalf of the school board.

Claudia Durrant was the valedictorian mentioning particularly how happy she was that everyone in the class graduated.

Mrs. Burtt, teacher of the graduating class was presented with a lovely leather briefcase by Catherine Ross, on behalf of the pupils.

Mrs. Slack received a pretty bouquet of flowers presented by Bill Burley.

Photographs were taken by Riley's Studio.

A scavenger hunt was conducted by Mr. Durrant and later on, a "Paul Jones" started off dancing and games under the direction of Mrs. Burtt.

Hot dogs and cold served by the Home and Association brought an enjoyable evening to a close and created another happy memory of public school days for 29 boys and girls.

The Experts Say

Women In Best Position To Help The Indians

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The original Canadians, the Indians, get less help from their fellow-citizens than New Canadian immigrants, says Mrs. Mildred Clark, chairman of the national commission on the Indian Canadian.

She believes that women's organizations are the best equipped to correct the situation.

"Indian Canadians are emerging too quickly from reserves and cities — and through circumstances which are not today's fault they are often ill-equipped to cope with the changed environment," she said.

"Canada has acknowledged and tried to solve some of the problems of immigrants from abroad, and now our commission is trying to attack the problems facing our own nationals."

HOUSING PROBLEM

Mrs. Clark said housing is a problem for Canadian Indians in the cities, and the Indian and other people need to understand each other better.

Women's organizations have undertaken studies of a foreign country as a project for a year. If they will tackle a study of Canadian Indians, they could help solve the problem in the same way as they have helped immigrants from Europe," she said.

Mrs. Clark believes such a study should start close to home. "Groups should contact the local officer of the department of Indian affairs, health and welfare groups, churches and any particular organizations which have knowledge of Indians."

The groups should then make a detailed survey of Indians in the area, consulting the national commission to ensure uniformity.

"We want the census to be uniformly undertaken, and if Indians in the area will help, so much the better."

EARNEST EFFORT

"There is nothing condescending or paternalistic about this. We know there are problems and we want to know what they are and where they are, so that they can be solved."

Mrs. Clark noted that women's groups in western Canada have projects in hand. "They invite Indians to their meetings and are working on housing plans."

Problems have arisen because the Indian population is increasing faster than any other group, says Mrs. Clark. At the turn of the century there were about 90,000 Indians; now there are something like 150,000, crowding the reserves and making it impossible for hunting and trapping to support them all, with a resulting drift to towns.

"We have done a tremendous job for European immigrants. Now our own people need our help," said Mrs. Clark. "It is not enough for women's groups to send a bale of clothing — they must study the subject."

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beachcomber

THE BRIDE AND GROOM CUT THE CAKE

Dear Mrs. Beachcomber:

Bob and I are to be married in June, when we both have a two weeks vacation, which we can use for our honeymoon. We are to be married in our church, a very small, informal wedding, with a small reception afterward in my home. I have always dreamed of our cutting the wedding cake together and sharing the first slice with each other. But lately I've been told that this is not 'done' at such a simple, informal reception, that it is appropriate only at formal or semi-formal receptions. Is this true? — D. N.

No! Indeed it is not true. This endearing and always-to-be remembered ceremony is appropriate for even the most simple and informal reception. Of course, of course make your dream come true . . . joyously cut the first slice at the wedding cake with your bridegroom, share this slice together, as the guests happily sing "The Bride Cuts the Cake" (to the tune of "The Farmer in the Dell").

GOOD PRECAUTION

Baby-sitters should be given a telephone number where they can reach the parents, along with the numbers for police and fire.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Louise R. — I am tempted to accept a young bachelor.

Rose F. — She would be run out of town.

Louise R. — I am a widow of 40 with four young children. Naturally I had hoped to marry again, but I am somewhat bowed over by the proposal I got several weeks ago.

It came from a 52-year-old bachelor — a man whose mother I have been very friendly with through our church group. Of course I laughed at him at first, but he was so sincere and so persuasive that I couldn't help but make him a promise to consider it.

I realize there is much to be said against such a marriage, but I must admit I am very tempted. Bernard is a handsome, likeable man and is financially quite successful.

I wouldn't dare discuss it with anyone but my own sister and she thinks I'm out of my mind.

Rose F. — We live in a small community where every move you make is noticed and commented on. I can just imagine the hullabaloo if Louise suddenly started dating Bernard. It would be embarrassing even to me because I would have to answer all kinds of questions.

We have all known Bernard since childhood. He is a sweet boy, but tied to his mother's apron strings. Everybody knows that is the reason he hasn't married until now.

Louise would be just another mother to him. She has four kids on her hands. Isn't that enough? The worst part of it would come when Bernard's mother found out. Louise would have a contest with much worse than ridicule then. She would be run out of town.

The Council: Rose seems to be somewhat overly alarmed. We think Louise has been a little foolish in discussing this problem with her sister before she has given herself a chance to mull it over.

We doubt very much whether Louise would be run out of town for considering or acting upon an honest proposal.

Undoubtedly there would be some problems, but Louise may be able to handle these very well if she knows what she is about. In order to know what she is about she must allow herself a little freedom to consult her own feelings.

Perhaps Bernard does look at Louise as a kind of substitute mother. Public opinion may take a dim view of such an arrangement, yet it may be the only way to afford a good deal of satisfaction to both partners. Louise can only decide this through more contact with Bernard.

Unfortunately, her dating Bernard may arouse some of the "hullabaloo" Rose worries about. Then Louise might frighten Louise away before she has had a chance to test her relationship.

We think she should try to steel herself against this kind of intimidation. She should recognize that public opinion is a manysided changeable thing.

There will probably be staunch supporters as well as enemies of a Louise-Bernard romance.

Eventually the whole issue will completely die down and Louise and Bernard will be able to go their way in peace — together or alone, as their own feelings dictate.

NOT TOO COLD

Baby's first fruit juice or other drinks should be given at room temperature — never ice cold.

Presbyterian Women to Attend Course at Albert

TORONTO (CP) — About 100 women are expected to attend a six-day training course at Albert College, Belleville, starting July 6.

Among the instructors will be Mrs. A. J. Coleman of Toronto, a former associate secretary of the World Student Christian Federation in Switzerland.

A similar course for 80 women will be held at Luther College, Regina, from July 14 to 18.

Readers' Friday Column

as conducted by Mary Moore

Question: My daughter is being married and I wish to have a trousseau tea and will also give the rehearsal party. There will be about sixty guests at the tea . . . Things about which I am in doubt: 1. Do my daughter and I and the groom-to-be's sister wear corsages? 2. Would you advise using linen tea napkins or paper serviettes? 3. Should I use a lace cloth or cut-work dinner cloth? 4. Are candles used in daylight? 5. Whom do you have in the kitchen to replenish plates and make tea? Do you ask friends to do this or hire someone? The after-rehearsal party is something entirely new to me. 1. Are the minister and organist invited to the house? 2. What food is usually served? There will be about 12 . . . D. M.

Answer: I am answering this through the column because you are not alone with your problem . . . several have written for just such information. The tea: 1. My answer is "yes" but really it should be "not necessarily" — it gives the affair a partyish air. 2 Paper serviettes for a crowd of that size. 3. Cutwork dinner cloth — your very best. 4. No. (If candles are used in daytime the drapes are drawn, Billy custom to shut out day or sunlight) 5. If you can hire someone you can absolutely depend upon to make tea exactly as you direct — the right number of seconds — and who will artistically arrange sandwiches and cookie plates when need replenishing — do that. Otherwise ask your best friends to come three to spell one another in the kitchen one-half or one hour each in the kitchen or the rest of the time they can join the party. The rehearsal party: 1. Yes — both are invited — and wives. 2. Usually quite a spread — attractive frozen or refrigerated salads you mention and cookies and bite-size tarts would be quite adequate. I would suggest a buffet table with floral centre-piece, cold cuts, fancy breads, and a dessert which is a special-occasion cake — so inscribed.

Question: Please give recipe for potpourri made from rose petals . . . I would like to make small jars for Christmas gifts . . . Marie E.M.

Answer: An enterprising idea!

POTPOURRI

Flowers must be freshly gathered. Collect flowers early. Dry petals and leaves for 2 days in sunny window; turn, leave for another 2 days. To each 3 lbs. dried flower petals add 1-4 lb. common salt — layering them in big jar or bowl. Also add to the layers a mixture of 1-4 oz. ground mace, 1-2 oz. each allspice, cloves and cinnamon, 1-2 grated nutmeg, 1 oz. powdered orris root, 4 oz. dried lavender. A drop or so each of several oils is recommended: rose, geranium, bitter almond and orange flower. Over all pour 1 oz. eau de cologne. Cover. Roses, pinks, violets, verbena and lavender are recommended flowers for a potpourri.

Dealers Annoyed As Bank Fails To Support Bonds

OTTAWA (CP) — Recent Bank of Canada manoeuvring in the Canadian bond market has raised stir among bond dealers. Some have expressed declining confidence in federal financing methods.

Cause of the uproar was what bond dealers described as the central bank's failure to step in and support the bond market and prevent a sharp slump in the price of long-term government bonds.

However, federal authorities argued it wasn't the business of the central bank to stabilize the bond market. But it did act through its buying and selling policies to iron out sharp swings in bond prices.

TWO SOURCES

The bond-dealer rupture appeared to have developed from two sources: The declining market in the United States as well as Finance Minister Fleming's June 17 budget announcement that he plans to raise an unprecedented $3,400,000,000 in bonds this year.

American bond prices recently fell following rumors that the central reserve system planned to tighten up on credit. Rather than hasten it still further as had been expected. American banking opinion appeared to feel that inflation was a bigger hazard than recession.

The decline in American bonds had its reaction on Canadian bonds. Many Canadian dealers were reported to have stocked up heavily on long-term Canadian government bonds, feeling the central bank would support higher prices and fewer yields.

However, long-term bonds continued to drop. Government 3½ per cent bonds maturing in 1978 dropped to $93.25 on June 26 from $98.25 on June 12. Yields rose 4.20 per cent from 3.99.

CLAIMS PANIC

One dealer said that last Friday his firm was "in a panic. We could hardly find buyers for 25 bonds."

Bond prices have strengthened slightly in the last few days with offers currently selling for about $94.25. A central bank source said the bank has been increasing its holdings of these bonds but there would be no guarantee that prices would be stabilized.

Mobster Silent Before Queries About Mafia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vito Genovese, linked to murder, the Mafia and treason before the Senate rackets committee has refused to tell the committee anything more than his name.

The squat and swarthy New York mobster, asked Wednesday about his business o. occupation, replied with an Italian accent:

"I respectfully decline to answer on the grounds it might tend to incriminate me."

Among more than 200 questions he subsequently refused to answer was one on whether he had treasonable dealings in Italy during the war.

He balked at saying whether he gave financial aid to Benito Mussolini or whether the Italian dictator decorated him for services to the Fascist party.

"Were you guilty of treason?" Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, asked him.

When Genovese refused to answer, pleading a reply might incriminate him, Kennedy said Genovese was in Italy during the war "helping and assisting an enemy of this country.

"Do you operate on the rule, brutal basis of just killing anything that gets in your way?" asked chairman John L.McClellan (Dem.-Ark.). "Did you ever do anything in your life that might not tend to incriminate you?"

KEEPS TEMPER

Genovese stared at his questioners through yellow - tinted glasses and kept his temper.

Thus he became another blind alley in the committee's investigation of charges that the Mafia, the secret Sicilian Black Hand society, has muscled into American labor unions and legitimate business enterprises.

Four other witnesses have invoked the Fifth Amendment since the inquiry began Monday and have refused to answer hundreds of questions about their activities and associates.

Earlier, Capt. James Hamilton of the Los Angeles police department testified Mafia mobsters are infiltrating west coast industries and unions at an alarming rate.

RESERVES INCREASE

LONDON (AP)—Britain's gold and dollar reserves soared another $37,000,000 in June, the treasury reported Wednesday. The reserves, which have increased for the last nine months since the Macmillan government clamped on a tight credit policy, now stand at $3,076,000,000.

Transport Dept. Distributes 100,000 Copies of Booklet On Operation of Small Boats

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport department has distributed "well over" 100,000 copies of its navigation rules and recommendations for small-boat operators.

About 200,000 copies of the 40-page booklet, entitled Safety Afloat, were printed, John Hamilton, department small-boats officer, said Wednesday.

Copies of the booklet are being sent to "people who write in for it"; to boat manufacturers, marinas, boat liveries and yacht clubs. RCMP and provincial police carry some and others are available at customs points where boats must be registered.

MUST HAVE LICENCE

One regulation requires licensing of all vessels weighing less than 15 tons and rated at 10 horsepower or more, whether in board or outboard powered. Failure to obtain a licence is punishable on conviction by a fine not exceeding $100 or, in default, a term not exceeding three months.

The regulations cover such aspects of boating as marking, safety equipment, fuel systems, collision regulations, fog and danger signals, water skiing, mooring and traffic rules besides licensing.

Suspend Doctors' Licences Over Kickback Scheme

VANCOUVER (CP)—The council of the British Columbia College of Physicians has suspended the licences of a number of Vancouver eye specialists for three months for engaging in a kickback scheme.

The suspension will begin Aug. 6. Names of the doctors involved, understood to number more than 15, were not released. Counsel for the doctors said the suspensions will be appealed.

The action Wednesday was the result of an inquiry by the college following a ruling of the income tax appeal board. The board held that the doctors must pay income tax on certain moneys received from sale of stock in a company they controlled. The stock was sold to a Toronto optical firm.

Cecil L. Snyder, assistant appeal board chairman, ruled as jury found the RCMP boat was overloaded and overcrowded. The booklet provides a rough guide on the ratio of length to passengers and maximum weight load.

These are: For a 10-foot vessel, two persons or 410 pounds; 12 - foot, three persons or 570 pounds; 14-foot, four or 740; 16-foot, five or 975. The RCMP boat was a 14-footer.

Invalid the doctors' arguments that the money was capital gain. He said: "What transpired was no more than an ingeniously contrived scheme to pay extra sums of money for a period of 10 years, to the co-operating doctors, and thus to assure a continuing rich volume of business to the Toronto optical organization."

The arrangement was estimated to involve $350,000 payable over a 10-year period that started in 1947.

Mr. Snyder, revealing the appeal board's decision last October, said a group of B.C. eye specialists had set up an optical company as far back as 1934. He said the assets were bought in 1951 by Imperial Optical Company of Toronto and an agreement was made that the doctors were to get at least $4.50 for each prescription or repair job sent to Imperial.

When a change in the Medical Act made such dealings illegal, Mr. Snyder said, the doctors involved "an ingeniously contrived scheme" to retain their financial benefits.

The tax appeal board claimed this was an arrangement in which the local optical firm—the one whose assets were sold in 1951—was purchased by Standard Optical of Toronto, a subsidiary of Imperial.

Mr. Snyder said the sale price of $220,000 was to be paid to the doctors over 10 years. Although each doctor was credited with one share, none knew how much the others were receiving in cash. He said one doctor got as much as $54,000, another under $3,000.

"It was made clear by evidence," said the board's judgment, "and it is abundantly plain, that each of the doctors so paid in accordance with the productivity of his professional practice."

People Who See Canada House in New York Often Ask Location of Museum

NEW YORK (CP)—Pat Dawson, a Moslana boy, has become more than a doorman since he took a job in the imposing new Canada House on Fifth Avenue.

"I've been getting a steady stream of questions about Canada," said Pat, flashing his ready grin as he stood in the marble-walled lobby, resplendent in a new blue uniform.

"People on the street see that 'Canada House' in red letters outside and they think this isn't just an office building. They ask where the museum is, things like that.

WANT TO KNOW WHY

"They see the coats-of-arms of the provinces and the Dominion, in brilliant colors. They want to know what they mean, and why they're arranged this way, not some other way.

"I tell you, for a boy from Butte, I'm picking up a lot about Canada—and quick."

Despite popular interest, there has been no stampede of Canadian companies to take space in the 2-story, 133-foot building of Canadian granite and Alabama limestone, standing in a choice location on a choice avenue.

The Canadian consulate-general and other federal offices now have moved into Canada House, taking the 8th and 9th floors and the government travel bureau will take over on the ground floor in July.

The Ontario government, through its planning and development department, also has leased space. Ontario began moving in April 1. The agent, Cushman and Wakefield, Incorporated, estimates that the federal-Ontario government tenants will occupy 11 per cent of the total rentable space, amounting to 175,000 square feet.

A spokesman said other Canadian tenants will all be the building's 54 —include the publicly-owned Trans - Canada Air Lines, Ahlstrom Pulp and Paper, Southern Canada Power, James Lovick and Company, Shelly Films Limited and Hart Stone.

'PRETTY LOW'

"They represent less than five per cent of the total rentable space and we feel this is pretty low," the spokesman said, adding that at least part of the reason was an earlier controversy over whether or not the federal government would become a tenant.

"If you include a Mannesmann-Tube Company, the Canadian subsidiary of a German steel and coal corporation, which is taking a whole floor, the total is raised another two per cent," the spokesman said. "The American subsidiary also is taking a whole floor."

"Canada House is attracting firms with international connections. We've already signed leases for well over 50 per cent of the building, and other leases are under negotiation. It's against our policy to divulge rents."

New South Wales, the largest Australian state, is opening its first New York office in Canada House, hoping to attract capital investment.

SILVERWARE DISPLAY

The building's elegance is enhanced by Jordan's Fifth Avenue, whose imported silverware and china is extensively displayed in a ground-floor room. Ross Fennell Company, a Fifth Avenue jewelry store for more than 30 years, also has taken space.

Canada House recently received the "Salute to Spring Award" from the New York commercial interiors which has been conducting a program to beautify the city.

The department cited especially the forecourt, landscaping along the walk and the lobby and the colorful plaques in describing the "commercial building which has made the greatest contribution to beautification."

Among prominent tenants are: Bethlehem Steel Export Corporation; Mannesmann-Tube Company, the Canadian subsidiary of a German steel and coal corporation, which is taking a whole floor, the total is raised another two per cent," the spokesman said. "The American subsidiary also is taking a whole floor."

France Trying To Get Into 'Atomic Club'

PARIS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle is expected to press for French entry into the latest nuclear weapons secrets when he meets State Secretary Dulles Saturday.

Diplomatic sources said a wide range of topics probably will be covered, including NATO co-operation, France's economy and Western relations with Russia.

Dulles flew here today from Washington for the meeting — the first de Gaulle has had with a top U.S. official since he came to office June 1.

Dulles said before leaving Washington that immediate U.S. help would be given France in obtaining nuclear-powered submarines.

But the French want more nuclear information than that, as headlines have been proclaiming in Paris newspapers for the last few days.

BUILDING A-BOMB

France is trying to get into the "atomic club" of nations with nuclear weapons — the United States, Britain and Russia. The French want to be a bomb power if they will be ready to test it within a few years.

French authorities claim they have made sufficient progress to qualify for receiving U.S. information under terms of American law, which would expedite production.

The French also contend that nuclear weapons are an essential part of the equipment for modern armies, and will help them strengthen NATO.

Dulles remains all day Saturday. Dulles returns to Washington Saturday night.

None the worse for being captives of Cuban rebel leader Fidel Castro, Edward Calhoun, left, Herman Nelson, Oats Henry Schumacher and William Koster, both U.S. citizens, laugh as they tell of their experiences. They were treated well, they said, and Castro told them he wished to protect the fact that U.S.-made bombs were being used by the Batista government to subdue the rebels.

Guards Honor Man Who Called Guide a Liar

LONDON (AP)—Trooper John Tedbury—the guards sentry on shining armor who smashed traditions by speaking on duty—was honored by the men of the Queen's Household Guards today.

They drank to his health for daring to talk back.

"We are convinced there were extenuating circumstances," announced Lt.-Col. James Marquess Toware, direct descendant of the Duke of Wellington. He is Tedbury's commanding officer.

The incident, during a 41-year-old Trooper Tedbury lay in the fact that he lost his temper and said "you are a liar" at a professional tourist guide, Miss Margaret T. Reeves, 63, a veteran of two world wars.

The guide was conducting a party of 34 American tourists around the showpieces of London.

HE'D HAD ENOUGH

Telling his side of the story, the sentry said:

"The guide said my boots were made of patent leather. I'm sorry, they're made of the finest leather.

"He said my trousers were plastic. They're the finest buckskin you can buy.

"He then said we didn't even have to clean our own gear. That's what really got me going. I'd just been polishing my breastplate for two hours. It shines.

When the commanding officer heard the trooper's explanation he dismissed the charges against him.

Sniffer Gear 'Smells Out' Enemy Subs

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF Argus, a hunter and killer of submarines, will begin operating a fantastic new device which "smells out" enemy subs.

The device was developed by the United States Navy in secret. It is known popularly as "sniffer."

Submarines equipped with snorkel breathing devices emit gas exhaust fumes into the atmosphere.

The equipment to be carried in the Argus will make constant analysis of the air. If the analysis will determine the presence of fumes from a snorkel-equipped sub.

This will in turn supply information to aircrew in the area in which a submarine may be found. At that point, an aircraft's radar will take over for exact pinpointing of the target.

The Argus will carry an aerial torpedo manufactured by Canadian Westinghouse Company, perhaps eventually an atomic depth charge.

The "sniffer gear" will be useless against atomic submarines, which are now being developed by several periods of time. However, it is believed the Russian atomic fleet consists of some vessels of conventional type equipped with snorkel-breathing tubes.

The snorkel enables the sub to "breathe" without coming to the surface.

Hard to Give Advance Warning On Tornadoes

TORONTO (CP) — Tornadoes of now are carefully charted and reported but it's still difficult to give advance warning, says K. T. McLeod, superintendent of public weather services.

This is the tornado season in southern Ontario. London and Windsor areas, recently hit, are the likeliest targets, Mr. McLeod said Thursday.

Main difficulty in warning is a lack of weather stations.

Mr. McLeod said tornadoes are no more prevalent than in other years but may seem so because of an improvement in communications.

The worst tornadoes to hit Canada in this century were at Regina in 1912 when 30 persons were killed and $10,000,000 damage done; at Kamsack, Sask., in 1944 when the town was demolished and three killed; and at Windsor in 1946 when 17 persons were killed.

founder at a stale banquet Thursday night.

Speaking in French, he said: "Champlain put his imprint upon the North American continent from Newfoundland to the Rocky Mountains, from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico. Champlain's ambition was to see born beyond the Atlantic a new world in which accidental culture might flourish. That is why we must render homage to . . . the man who is considered to be one of Canada's founders."

This morning the French and Canadian ships were to leave their berths—the American and British left Thursday — and the flags strung along miles of streets will start to come down.

Metro to Start Second Subway Line in Fall

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto council has decided to start a second subway line on its own book next fall.

It voted Tuesday night to begin construction of the Bloor-Danforth east-west line immediately. The Toronto Transit Commission had said it could start work on the 10-mile crosstown line along mid-town Bloor street November.

The line, with a spur running south -under University Avenue, will include the 4½-mile Yonge Street line, now four years old.

Cost of the line—spread over 30 to 40 years—would be shared this way: Metro would pay 56 per cent, $102,277,000, from taxes; the TTC would pay for 45 per cent, or about $82,000,000 in revenue.

This would exclude provincial or federal aid, which has been sought and refused in the past.

Council split 9 to 7 on the vote Thursday night. Said Reeve Chris Temko of York Township:

"Council has been sold down the river on this deal. Subways will soon be obsolete and the Bloor line will be nothing more than a hole in the ground."

Council Chairman Frederick Gardiner said a special meeting of the executive board may be arranged to obtain approval of subway expenditures.

Fireworks Display Winds Up Quebec's 2-Week Party Marking 350th Anniversary

QUEBEC (CP) — A glittering fireworks display set off on the Plains of Abraham has climaxed the biggest birthday party in Quebec City's history—two weeks of celebrations marking the city's 350th anniversary.

Street dances, religious ceremonies, parades and feasting Thursday night were crowded into the jubilant party commemorating the settlement of one of North America's oldest centres. Quebec City was established by Samuel de Champlain — a dozen years before the pilgrim fathers landed at Plymouth Rock in what now is the United States.

Official delegates from Britain, France and the United States and thousands of tourists joined Canadians in honoring the old walled city and its founder, Samuel de Champlain.

Sailors from four navies thronged the streets during the celebrations and mounted guards of honor for the many ceremonies. A French destroyer, the Du Chayla, a British cruiser HMS and Birmingham and the big American aircraft carrier USS Leyte were joined four Halifax-based RCN destroyer escorts here.

SEVERAL PARADES

The sailors, with local military and civilian units, also took part in the numerous parades. In each one were about 80 floats—each depicting scenes typical of the first settlement here in 1608—and up to 50 bands.

Each parade brought crowds four or five deep along the sidewalks of the parade route—and the expected traffic jam after-a-thousands of cars headed for home at the same time.

This is Quebec's Année de Champlain" — Champlain Year — and the explorer was honored at each gathering.

TRIBUTE FROM PM

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who placed a wreath at the foot of the Champlain statue on the terrace, paid tribute to the city's

Effort Is Seen To Make Goldfine Appear Naive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Peter F. Mack (Dem., Ill.) said today there has been a well-organized public relations effort to make Bernard Goldfine appear more naive than he really is.

Representative John B. Bennett (Rep. Mich.), another member of the House of Representatives subcommittee which is looking into the Boston millionaire's relations with ex-aide Sherman Adams and other government officials, said he considers Goldfine "generous but rather a very brilliant business man."

Goldfine has stressed his humble beginnings as an eight-year-old immigrant boy from Russia and his fascination at meeting important people.

TESTIMONY TO OFFICIALS

The subcommittee recessed until next Tuesday its questioning of Goldfine after disclosing that he sent cheques from $25 to $75 each to 33 persons it said were friends or former employees of the White House and congressional offices—both Democratic and Republican.

The White House confirmed that two of its employees had received cheques. One, Miss Laura G. Sherman, said she had received a $75 cheque last Christmas. She is a secretary to Adams, whose acceptance of favors from Goldfine has been aired by the subcommittee.

Miss Helen Dolle, secretary to appointments secretary Thomas E. Stephens, reported getting cheques each year since 1950—a period including three years of the administration of former President Truman. The cheques ranged from $25 to $75.

Neither has ever handled any matters dealing with Goldfine, a White House spokesman said.

WILL THEY BE FIRED?

White House press secretary James Hagerty declined comment when asked (1) whether the White House approves of the acceptance of such gifts by its employees, and (2) whether the two women would be fired.

He said Eisenhower was told of the matter and that "he told me to give you (reporters) the facts."

The disclosure of the gifts came as the subcommittee probed into this bigger-scale puzzle:

Why did Goldfine Goldfine companies put out an estimated total of $770,000 worth of "investment counsel" and certified cheques, some of which remained uncashed for as much as 16 years?

One question suggested the possibility that a public official unwilling to cash such a cheque might use it as collateral to borrow on.

But questions about these big cheques brought forth no answer from Goldfine, who said he didn't use any routine and none of the committee's official business.

Police Pay Raised

HAMILTON (CP)—The Hamilton police commission handed city police a wage increase of nearly six per cent — retroactive to last Jan. 1—at a meeting with the police association bargaining committee Thursday.

First class constables will be paid $4,600 a year, or $88.38 a week. The raise is an increase of $253 a year. A constable attains the first class rank after two and one quarter years.

B.C. Farmers Hope Arrival Of Pacific Great Eastern R.R. Will Improve Their Economy

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—A cattle farmer who sold his herd $100,000 to end up in land and equipment for farming and nothing in the bank assisted to a railway bridge ceremony the muddy Peace River.

The man is Lyall Hall, "that with the coming of the railway from the coast, the farmers on the Peace River block in British Columbia are looking to 1958 with a great deal more hope than they have had before.

"I'm expecting my investment to start paying off this year."

TYPICAL CASE

The position of this farmer, who asked not to be named, is typical in large measure of that of many others in the B.C. Peace.

Others may not have invested that much in cash, but during the years since they or their forefathers settled this region, 750 miles northeast of Vancouver, their trials and toils add up.

Their sole shortage is a ready cash resulted largely from an early snow that caught 50 per cent of the crops still in the fields, Hall said.

There are roughly 1,000 farms occupying 300,000 acres in the B.C. Peace, an area of vast and valleys, abounding in streams, rivers, forests and pitch-black soil that has been known to yield as much as 60 bushels of wheat to the acre.

The farms form the mainstay of the economy, buoyed in recent years by the discovery and tapping of quantities of natural gas and the establishment of industry allied with it.

PIONEERING TOUGH

Since the first homesteaders came north in the early part of the 1900's, they have had a transportation problem. Settlers like Sam Lazare had to travel miles south of here, had to haul their produce to the railhead and by boat downstream to Spirit River in northwestern Alberta to connect with a railway.

Since 1930, they have had the Dawson Creek - Fort St. John - Hudson Creek, northwestern terminus of the Northern Alberta Railways' line, and since 1942 when part of the Alaska Highway was built the north Peace had an all-year weather link with a railway to outside markets.

Freight cost a shorter and swifter haul to Pacific northwest markets and eastern Canada was going in and out of the area of lower freight charges, on goods brought a feeling of satisfaction to the unmanned farmer.

The Peace River is second to none built by the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, which by August is to connect North Vancouver by rail with this centre of 4,500 persons. Trains already are travelling to Squilax, site of a refinery and gas scrubbing and sulphur plants.

EXTENSION PLANNED

Later, the entire Peace region will receive a direct rail outlet to the coast when the PGE is extended 50 miles south of here to Dawson Creek, through which a average of 3,000,000 bushels of grain now is shipped annually to Edmonton, an inland point as far as Fort St. John from Vancouver.

The line by the weather last fall was softened a little by the agriculture industry's diversified nature here. Much of the snowpack under crop was salvaged and fed after the 10,000 cattle and 18,000 hogs raised in the region.

Farmers were able to sell the harvested crops because they had turned to such crops, such as barley and grazed.

The province made available distress loans of up to $5,000 this spring, but the percentage of farmers applying for them was low and the sums borrowed mainly under $500.

Under the identification, combined with the coming of the PGE, is good reason for farmers' hopes to be high.

"One of our biggest jobs now," said Clarence Wilson, MLA from Brown of Fort St. John, "is to get more industry so they will increase their livestock production."

SOME OPPORTUNITIES

Mr. Brown and Jim Hall of Dawson Creek another district agriculturist, both think there should be fine opportunities for processing plants to be established with the railway completed.

The agriculturists said it is cheaper to feed grain than to feed to cattle. This makes it feasible for grain to be trucked from Williams Lake and Quesnel areas of the Cariboo, about 350 miles to the southwest, to the Peace feed supplies, fatten them and ship them to Vancouver markets.

Eventually, some residents expect a meat packing industry to be established in the Peace River area, but the immediate needs of finished produce could be shipped to market, leaving a greater percentage of the profit here.

An average of 5,000 acres of fresh virgin land is being cleared annually in the north Peace as the railway progresses. By the PGE's planned 640 - acre rail yards here, space already has been allotted for nine grain elevators.

Gen de Gaulle Has Shown Surprising Degree of Tact

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

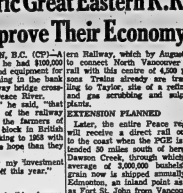
Gen. Charles de Gaulle, with his air of determination, apparently had two main aims in his second visit to Algeria since becoming Premier of France.

He made every effort to get close to the Moslem population and show himself as a man of peace and justice. And he moved into the hinterland to visit army posts, obviously to get a firm grip on the boss of the military forces.

De Gaulle made frequent attempts to show respect for the Moslems, walking among the Arabs first at Mostaganem and shaking hands while Frenchmen waited to pay their respects.

Once again, he told the Moslems that they will be "equals" with the French and that there can be no "second class" citizens in Algeria.

MAJOR ACHIEVEMENT



For de Gaulle, a man sometimes suspected of dictatorial ambitions, the Gaullist has shown a surprising degree of tact since he assumed power.

It was significant that he went himself into the rebellious Algeria bordering Tunisia and Morocco. But it was perhaps significant, too, that he didn't make the trip before achieving a measure of amity with those countries.

The premier's success so far in settling the problem of French troops in Tunisia was one of his major achievements during his month of power. If France regains the confidence of Tunisia and Morocco, it will be well on the far toward restoring peace in Algeria, which of course is de Gaulle's overriding aim.

NO FUSSING

De Gaulle's austere aplomb can obscure the fact that he is moving with speed. The methodical general is not one to undertake initiatives in uncertainty. He has a knack of going about

"Jest a Second"

"Everyone else has a coffee break!"

big tasks with a minimum of fuss.

His talks in Paris with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan were an example of this accuracy at work. They added to his prestige and also knocked on the head any theories that de Gaulle would pull France out of the Atlantic Alliance.

All this has helped allay the fears of those who saw in de Gaulle political affairs a tendency toward dictatorship and Bonapartism. Even his admirers have scoffed at such fears with the historical remark that dictatorship is impossible in a country producing several hundred types of cheese.

"PUSH-BUTTON" CHURCH

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—Visitors to the graveyard of pretty historic dinosaurs will be able to stop in a tiny "push-button" church." Officials said the church, to be set up July 9, will have pre-recorded hymns and scripture readings that can be heard at the touch of a button. Rev. E. C. O'Donnell of the Pentecostal Church, designer of the seven-by-11 foot chapel, said it will have room for six worshippers at a time.

Hoffa Plans Transportation Alliance by Wooing Unions

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, whose teamsters union has been cast out of the AFL-CIO, is rapidly wooing other unions to his side and further building his already tremendous power.

Hoffa's new partnery include some of the same AFL-CIO leaders who voted only a little more than six months ago to oust the teamsters union from the federation after corruption charges.

If there were any doubts of what Hoffa is up to, they could be laid to rest with his announcement Thursday of a plan to link all transportation unions in the U.S. into a mutual aid alliance.

Already in a position, with its 1,500,000 member teamsters union, to shut the ports down, virtual trucking industry from coast to coast, Hoffa envisions the new alliance as embracing all workers in air, land and sea transport.

Hoffa counted as initial members of the alliance the International Longshoremen's Association and National Maritime Union. The ILA, like the teamsters union, was expelled from the main body of organized labor on grounds it was infested with hoodlums.

The NMU is headed by Joe Curran, an AFL-CIO vice president and member of the federation's ethical practices committee.

All transport unions, including those in the railroad and aviation industries, would be invited here in August to learn about the "permanent conference on transportation unity" and to join up, Hoffa said.

Hoffa's key plan is to build a giant labor transport monopoly. In this alliance he would bargain and deal with common bargaining and organizing problems. He said the benefits would be greater than he hurt.

This "import" pact follows a series of mutual aid deals with single unions which Hoffa has negotiated in rapid-fire manner, many with AFL-CIO unions. The federation's executive council is considering about—steps to halt its unions from working with Hoffa. It will take a sooner look at the situation in August.

With these alliances, plus teamster strength in milk plants, breweries, canneries, race tracks, servicing and a wide assortment of industries, labor observers say Hoffa is well on his way toward achieving an American federation of teamsters, countering the AFL-CIO.

Dean Martin Is Giving Lie To Rumor Spread About Him

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm not lazy. Never was. That was a misconception circulated by a certain fella."

Dean Martin was blasting another Hollywood legend to pieces. Dean is supposed to be so lazy that he makes Perry Como seem like a jackrabbit.

"Here I am, making two pictures a year, doing four or five shows for my own company on television, playing eight weeks at the Sands in Las Vegas, plus other dates, making 24 records a year and running a restaurant," said Dean. "And they call me lazy!"

Right now Dean is making his second serious film role. He has the part of a sympathetic drunk in Rio Bravo.

"It's a whale of a part," he said. "I play a former sheriff and I'm terrific on the draw. I can't hit a thing, but I'm terrific on the draw."

MORE TO COME

He admitted that his new role came as a result of his work in The Young Lions, his first departure from the musicomedy beat he worked with ex-fellow named Jerry Lewis. And there are more dramas in the offing, he said.

"No musicals for me right now," Dean vowed. "They always do a musical. But roles like this one are hard to come by."

If he seems happy with his newfound career, it's understandable. The sharpies all figured that Jerry would be the one to prosper when the team broke up.

"They had me scared," Dean admitted. But he reported he's making five times the money he earned when he and Jerry were a team. The reason: They had to split the returns then.

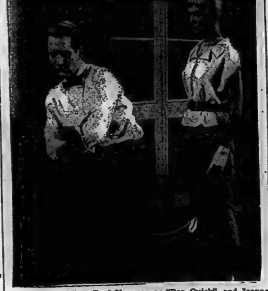
"STEEL BAYONET" RATES AS HIGH-POWERED FILMFARE

"Steel Bayonet," which opened yesterday at the airconditioned Park Theatre through United Artists release, is high powered entertainment in the fullest sense of the word. For this picture, which tells of a battered and tired infantry's defence of a desert position against Hitler's Afrika Corps, leaves one with the dramatic and heroic thing that war is.

Leo Genn heads a splendid cast which includes Kieron Moore, Michael Medwin, Robert Brown and Michael Ripper. The gripping war drama was directed by Michael Carreras who also produced. The suspenseful screenplay was written by Howard Clewes.



Leo Genn is cast in the role of a Major who commands a company that has been ordered to take and hold a desert stronghold as their sharp in a general Allied attack against Tunis. Tired, battered, discouraged, the company expected to be relieved or reinforced rather than ordered to attack. But, commanded or no, they set an example of extreme heroism as they take a deserted farmhouse, and through their brilliant defence, help to destroy the German counterattack, and thus pave the way for the British assault on Tunis.

Genn's performance as the understanding, yet unrelenting commanding officer is a magnificent one, richly played. All the others in this all-male movie turn in portrayals that are forceful, dramatic and lacking in the usual stereotypes of war films.

On the same program George Montgomery, popular Western star, appears in his newest outattraction, "The Toughest Gun In Tombstone." Continuous show Saturday from 1.00. Doors open at 12.00. Come down and relax in our comfortable airconditioned theatre.

British Empire Games Recall Beautiful Saskatoon Lily

By JIM PEACOCK

Two Saskatoon runners were selected for Canada's Empire Games track and field team and did themselves proud by placing on an international Competitor of the Past.

She was Ethel Catherwood and was known as the Saskatoon Lily when she contested—and won—the women's high jump in the 1928 Olympic Games.

It was the first time women's competition was included in the Olympics and led by Miss Catherwood, the Canadian girls outclassed all comers. Ethel was 18 at the time and stood just under six feet in height.

ATTRACTIVE JUMPER

"She had beautiful, curly hair and big blue eyes", recalls Mrs. Myrtle Cook McGowan of Montreal, a sport writer with the Montreal Star who also was a member of the Canadian Olympic squad in 1928.

"She was voted the most beautiful girl at the 1928 Olympics at Amsterdam and after winning the high jump, a group of Dutch boys came to our residence to serenade her at her window."

Miss Catherwood won the gold medal with a high jump of five feet, 1¾ inches, which at that time was a world record. She used the scissors style of jumping, where the body is upright and the legs lifted high.

Observers in Saskatoon during the national championships and trials for this year's Empire Games team said she could have jumped much higher had she used the modern roll used today, the whole body hurtling over the bar in a prone, knee-under-chin style.

Mrs. McGowan recalls the Canadian women's team flew from Amsterdam to Paris following the 1928 games and nearly all, including Ethel, became airsick.

PARIS JUMP

Shortly after, they were due for a meet in Paris Stadium, and while she was not feeling her best, the Saskatoon Lily agreed to an exhibition jump.

"She cleared the bar one inch higher than her Olympic record," said Mrs. McGowan, "and she won a standing ovation in Paris Stadium."

After the games, Miss Catherwood left Saskatoon to join Toronto's Parkdale Athletic Club and soon after left competition.

She later was named to the Canadian Athletic Hall of Fame and now is believed living in California.

Meanwhile, Saskatoon looks to two newcomers for more athletic fame—Eleanor Haslam, 18, Canada's leading women's sprinter, and Stu Cameron, also 18, and among Canada's top four men sprinters.

Both were chosen among the 22 Canadians who will compete in track and field in the Empire and Commonwealth Games at Cardiff, Wales, July 16-26.

SUCCESSFUL MEET

The organizers of the Canadian track and field championships and Empire Games trials at Saskatoon in June should take a bow . . . Few track meets in Canada have been handled so well.

The schedule was set and adhered to and any differences were settled without fuss. Athletes and coaches were housed and fed at the University of Saskatchewan and Wally Stinson and Jack Wilkie of the provincial recreational branch were the mainstays behind the meet's success.

In the four cards staged during the two days, 10,000 persons attended and the meet turned over a profit of about $5,000.

It was suggested the profit be used by the Saskatoon organizers in a bid to stage the Canadian trials for the 1960 Olympic Games track and field team.

And you can take it from Neil Farrell, chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union's track and field committee, that any such bid will get serious consideration.

Tennis Team Is Selected

With Toronto

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Five players were chosen Thursday to represent the United States in the Davis Cup tennis competition in Toronto July 25-27.

James T. Moffett, chairman of the U.S. Davis Cup selection committee, named these players:

Earl Buchholz, Jack Douglas, Sam Giammalva, Barry MacKay, and Whitney Reed.

They will join Perry T. Jones, Davis Cup captain, in New York Sunday or Monday and then go to Toronto to defend the winner of the Cuba-Canada series.

MINERAL WEALTH

About three quarters of the world's cobalt and industrial diamonds come from the Belgian Congo in Africa.

Clair Says Riders Stronger This Season

OTTAWA (CP) — Coach Frank Clair's Rough Riders will be stronger this year but he's not underselling the opposition.

"I'm sure we'll have a better club," says Clair, whose riders were edged out of the finals in last season's close Big Four race. "This doesn't guarantee anything though, because I know the other teams in the Big Four will also be greatly improved."

Twenty-four rookies, most from other parts of Ontario, were put through their paces Thursday in the first official rookie drill, expected to continue through Saturday. Training camp will open in earnest after that.

Among the crew trying for big league births, the coaches liked the size of Maurice Racine, 20, a six-foot-four, 240-pound fullback from Cornwall High School.

Others trying out included Ray Sommerville, 20, Cornwall, six-foot, 180-pound quarterback candidate and Deane Lynch, 23, Peterborough intermediates; 6-3, 220, centre.

Squad of 70 Attends Larks First Practice

MONTREAL (CP) — A squad of nearly 70 players went through routine drills Thursday night when Montreal Alouettes opened their football training camp.

Officials of the Big Four club said they are confident the new American imports in camp are on a higher plane than any group of newcomers over the last few seasons.

Much attention will be given to Canadian players since the club has lost 11 from last season's team, some through retirement.

Of 29 new Americans signed, five were not on hand and "are reporting late," said managing director Gorman Kennedy.

In all, when the full training camp roster of 72 is on hand, there will be only seven Americans and 11 Canadian holdovers from last season.

About 40 Canadians are in camp.

Harness Racing

WESTBURY, (NY) (AP) — One of harness racing's richest stakes, the $108,565 Messenger, will be decided tonight.

Thorpe Hanover, entered by Hugh Grant of Bradford, Pa., is the probable favorite along with stablemate O'Brien Hanover in a field of 10 contesting the one-mile dash.

The Messenger is the first of the triple crown for three-year-old pacers. It is followed by the Little Brown Jug at Delaware, Ohio, Sept. 18 and the William R. Case Pace at Yonkers, N.Y., Oct. 15.

TRAINING TOO TOUGH

Regina (CP)—Two members of Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union have left for home apparently because the training schedule was too tough. End George Tait, a veteran of four years with the club, and Murray MacKenzie, a young halfback, left Wednesday for the Lakehead.

Forty-Five Smash Par in Akron Golf Tourney

AKRON, Ohio (CP) — A field of 130 golfers took another crack at the Firestone Country Club today after the biggest scoring spree on the professional circuit.

Forty-five of them smashed par in Thursday's first round of the $22,000 Rubber City Open. Twelve others equalled par 71.

Heading the contingent were Ed Griffiths and Art Wall Jr., who fired six-under-par 65s.

Tommy Al Balding shot a 32-34—66 for third place. Jerry Magee of Toronto and Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., were well behind. Magee posted a 37-33—70 and Horvath shot a 37-34—71.

Firestone's 8,620 yards are as dry as tinder. The long hitters made a mockery of regulation figures and set up today's scramble to determine the 60 low professionals and 10 amateurs who will continue play Saturday and Sunday.

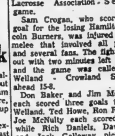
Dodgers Crash Attendance Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walter O'Malley was planning to put 52,000 seats in his new dream stadium at Chavez Ravine, here, but he may have to dream up something bigger than that.

Take Thursday night, for example. With the Dodgers in last place, a baseball station they've occupied most of the season, 66,487 fans were at the Coliseum to watch the Dodgers clash with St. Louis Cars.

The turnout largest in National Lea... pushed the attendance ... for 35 games here to ...6,287.

Dodger officials said they are more than 150,000 fans ahead of the pace Milwaukee Braves set last season while they were in the process of establishing a league attendance record.



The Cards won Thursday night's first game 4-2 and dropped the second 3-2.

Wrong Card Costs Junior Title Chance

WINNIPEG (CP) — Jerry Truax of Fort Frances, Ont., after firing a one-over-par 73 and taking a four-stroke lead in the first round of the Manitoba junior golf championship, was disqualified Thursday for handing in an incorrectly marked score card.

The result left Don Atkinson, who represented Manitoba in the Canadian championship two year ago after Will Hornanuk was disqualified for being over-age, and Bill McKibbin in first place. Each carded 77s.

The Truax card gave him a birdie four on the par-five 13th hole instead of five. His total score was correct but the rules state every hole must be correctly marked.

Long Branch Defeats Petes

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Long Branch Monarchs Thursday night defeated Peterborough Petes 8-5 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior game to move into a third-place tie with the Petes.

Larry Ruse scored three for the winners, Pete Ruse scored twice and Florie Tomchishen, Jim McKinnon and Moe Keith added singles. Curly Mason and Larry Ferguson each scored twice for Peterborough and Paul Parnell added one.

In the second win, Vasilyev Ivanov, Russia's Olympic sculling champion, was gripped by a cramp in his Diamond Sculls race against T. S. Allen of Britain, but still won comfortably in nine minutes.

I. Buldakov and V. Ivanov, two-time winners of the Silver Goblets for pairs, notched the third Soviet win. The fourth Russian victory came when the Trud club four beat Trinity College of Cambridge University by 3½ lengths in the Stewards Cup.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

If Point Anne softball fans had waged a popularity contest following the Ox Pointers' defeat at the claws of the ravenging Belleville Bobcats, Bobby Hull would have finished in the six-man class.

For it fell upon the broad shoulders of the Chicago Black Hawks' young giant to stop the unprecedented, undefeated march of the Pointers to what appeared to be a league record. They had won ten victories in as many starts and the critics had it figured there was nothing in the Belleville and District League to make the Fall Loiters' yelp "uncle."

The Ox Pointers, who had turned back everything in the league to date by pitching, hitting and sheer balance of power, may have been a trifle cocky prior to the game. It could have been the law of averages. It could have been the cycle of doom. Some say Goliath could have crushed when David sling-shotted that pellet at his temple. But he had never been licked before so why should some young upstart pull the trick.

The Bill Shaw crew, riding the crest of a lengthy win string, had no qualms as to the outcome when they took the field against the saucy Cats. Hadn't they walloped the bejabers out of them by an 11-4 score on one previous occasion and nipped them 5-4 on another. Besides the Triangle Tabbies had a record of four wins and six losses and were holding down third place. This one should be in the bag.

That could have been one of the reasons for the bursting of their unbeaten balloon. There were other reasons, too. The Sons saw the good right arm of one Maker Robert Hull. Others included the fates' decree that it was not their night to howl, and another that superstar Ox Big Tobby injected his left kittens' weapon and like a charm.

For "Ole Casey" Temple had his win-hungry Cats clicking like a set of veteran store teeth. The unbeaten record of ten straight of the Ox Pointers held no fear for them. These big lugs from the Point could be beaten. They did that in the first game. They could be beaten. But the pitching local history might be made. Ah, that was it, the pitching. They got it. That was the Hull of it no matter which way you look at it.

Community loyalty dropped from Hull like a wind-blown blanket. Supposing he was a Point Amer.. What of it. He was also a Sobcat and he was going all out to beat the home-town big-shots. He did. He stood them on their ears with four meagre hits, one in the fifth and the other in the eighth, while his mates, headed by Floyd Crawford with three, pounded Al Carkner for eight safeties.

Carkner deserved better than a 7-1 defeat fate. His mates in direct contrast to the fielding of the Cats, "boiler-fingered" the ball no less than five times. They were definitely off balance. Perhaps that pre-game argument over the Cats' uniforms had something to do with it. They skinned the Cats all right then got "skun" in return.

All of which should put them on their mettle for their bigest test of the season tomorrow night when they tackle the starry Oshawa Tony's of the Toronto Fastball League. The Tony's, OBSA senior "B" champions twice in a row, will be the Pointers' guests in an exhibition tilt starting seven o'clock which should be a softball classic.

The Tony's will feature two hurlers of international reputation, and two of the greatest in the game, Norm Bagnell and Charlie Justice. These veterans of the mound are household names in Toronto softball and both will likely be used against the Point Anne heavy artillery. Bagnell is a hitter of repute. His average is a measly .188.

The Ox Pointers, stung by their first setback, will be out to avenge the defeat at the expense of the classy Oshawans, and the result should be one of the best softball tilts seen here this season. Game time again, seven o'clock.

A GREAT PICTURE

Said to be one of the finest motion pictures ever screened, "Around the World in Eighty Days," makes its Belleville premiere at the Belle Theatre on Monday, July 14. It will run here for two weeks.

Belle manager George Forhan, one of the Belleville McFarlanders' greatest boosters, generously ceded fifteen per cent of the opening night's "take" to the McFarlands' Overseas Fund, through the Rooster Club. Tickets for the premiere are now on sale at Bill Cook's Tobacco store.

The Oscar-winning film has been making record runs wherever shown, and Belleville should be no exception. It runs for 176 minutes, and only two shows will be given daily. So be a Booster, buy a ticket for the opening night, and help ease the woe of the Macs overseas. You will see an unforgettable motion picture.

Bombers Blast Senators 11-3 With 4 Two-Run Rounders; Roberts Beats Milwaukee 3-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Just a year ago, it seemed only manager Al Lopez thought a chin rocks outfielder named Jim Lemon did ever would become a hitter for Chicago White Sox. Now it's a new season and a new Landis, coming along at .304 at the moment with a .561 average for the last month.

Landis hit an amazing .409 at Colorado Springs in 1956 to get his shot with the White Sox last season. But he was only a .213 swinger in the American League and finished the year in the minors.

Now Landis has hit in 20 of his last 22 games, driving in 28 runs. He was 3-for-4 Thursday, lining a two-run double that provided the winning run in the seventh inning and adding a two-run single as the White Sox defeated Kansas City Athletics 7-4.

That dropped the second-place Athletics eight games behind New York Yankees, who walloped Washington Senators 11-3. Baltimore Orioles defeated Boston Red Sox 7-5 in 12 innings—the longest game of the year in the majors—and skidded the Red Sox into a third-place tie with Detroit Tigers.

WINS SEVENTH

Righthander Jim Wilson won his seventh game for the White Sox, breezing with a five-hit stupout before the Athletics counted their two in the seventh.

Chicago also had a 5-0 lead on Earl Battey's third homer and Landis's double, then scored four in the eighth on a pair of bases-loaded walks and Landis's single. Ray Herbert (2-6) lost it.

The Yankees rapped four homers, all two-run blasts, off loser Russ Kemmerer (4-7) and Jack Spring. Mickey Mantle hit his 20th and Bill Skowron Sixteen hit his sixth and Yogi Berra his 12th in support of Whitey Ford (10-3), who won his 101st in the majors and 12th in a row over Washington dating back to 1954. He gave up six hits, including two by Rocky Bridges, who homered for the Washington runs.

PINCH HIT BEATS SOX

Joe Ginsberg's pinch single scored the winner for the Orioles in a two-run 15th at Boston. Billy Loes, who has had first seven decisions, won his second in a row with 2 2-3 innings of relief, shutout relief.

Murray Wall (5-7) was the loser after southpaw Duane Wilson had blanked the Birds on six hits for six innings in his major league debut.

Chuck Beanson and George Zuverink shut out the Red Sox on two hits for 8 2-3 innings before Boston prolonged it by matching Baltimore's three-run 10th.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen seem to accomplish the most with the least effort. Their secret: Sit back and wait for the other team to err.

The Dutchies did that Thursday night as they took advantage of four London Majors' errors to record a 10-4 victory and move one game ahead of Oakville Oaks in their fight for first place in the nine - team Senior Intercounty Baseball League.

JOCKEY FINED $100

TORONTO (CP) — Jockey Ben Sorensen, who allegedly made threatening remarks to an assistant starter July 1 in a race at Woodbine, was fined $100 Thursday. New Woodbine stewards, who announced the fine, said Sorenson also used improper language while at the starting gate in the second race.

Milwaukee Braves have gone limp at the plate again, scoring just two runs in the last 18 innings, but St. Louis Cardinals and San Francisco Giants have blown chances to close in on the National League leaders.

Robin Roberts, who had lost three in a row, knocked off the Braves 3-1 Thursday for Philadelphia Phillies. But the Braves retained a 3½-game spread over second-place Cards, who split a doubleheader at Los Angeles, winning 4-0 then losing 6-5. The Dodgers went over the 3,000,000 mark in home attendance.

The third - place Giants remained three games behind with a 6-3 decision by Chicago Cubs who regained fourth place from Cincinnati Redlegs. The Redlegs were beaten 5-3 by Pittsburgh Pirates.

Connesuelya home runs by Kelly Heenus and Ed Bouchee bagged it for the Phils in the eighth inning and handed rookie Carl Willey his first defeat.

MAKING COMEBACK

Bouchee was playing his first game since he was suspended, then reinstated in September on a morals charge. He pleaded guilty last February to a morals count and the charge involving two young girls.

Roberts, now 7-6 with his 190th major league victory, gave up six hits. Robin, usually hurt by control, has pitched 28 innings without throwing a gopher ball.

The Cardinals won the first game with a pair of unearned runs in the seventh on a walk, error and two sacrifice flies.

Former Dodger Sal Maglie (5-4) went all the way for the feat in the second game while southpaw Johnny Podres extended his losing string at three for an 8-7 record.

Dick Gray drove in two runs, joining Charlie Neal in a back-to-back homer effort in the first off Boyer hit his 15th for the Cards.

LARKEN SPARKLES

Sam Jones (8) won the opener, although giving up rookie Norm Larker's third homer. He needed Larry Jackson's excellent relief in the eighth, when Larker's fly ball scored a run and put two men on with none out. Stan Williams (2-5) lost it.

Rookie George Wilt and Elroy Face combined on a seven-hit shutout over Cincinnati, second in three games for the Redlegs. Wilt (2-1) won it, giving five hits in 6 2-3 innings.

The Pirates had only five hits off loser Don Nuxhall (4-4) and two relievers, but got three of them in the 11th—Bill Virdon's double, Bob Skinner's single and Ted Kluszewski's sacrifice.

Ernie Bank's 31st home run won it for the Cubs, cracking a 1-1 tie in the eighth against loser Paul Giel (1-3). Glen Hobbie (6-5) won it in relief after starter Taylor Phillips failed to hold a 2-1 lead built on Dale Long's two-run homer.

BRAVES HOLD SCHOOL

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — The Braves will hold a three-day baseball school here Aug. 14-16. Players from Port Arthur, Fort William and major centres in northwestern Ontario will attend.

Ed Bouchee Marks Return With Home Run

MILWAUKEE (AP) — "I'm glad that's over," signed Ed Bouchee after playing his first game of the season for Philadelphia Phillies. "That was the tough one."

What the 26-year-old first baseman meant was that he had made a start on a baseball comeback Thursday after pleading guilty to an indecent exposure charge involving two young girls last February.

He hit a home run to help the Phillies to a 3-1 victory over Milwaukee Braves and the players and a ladies day crowd of 22,709 did not make things unpleasant for him.

"I was nervous kneeling out there in the on-deck circle waiting to hit the first time," he said, his face beaded with perspiration.

"I didn't know how it would be on the fans' reaction would be," he added. "I was so nervous I didn't even swing the bat, took a third strike. That home run helped a lot. I relaxed after that."

A polite applause greeted him on his first trip to the plate. Only one catcall was heard and that was when his name was announced in the Phillies starting lineup before the game. Thereafter, he was treated like any other visiting ballplayer applauded only when he made a sparkling play or hit a homer.

Bouchee said he knows there may be twists and turns in his comeback trail.

"I'll just wait and see what happens," he said. "You don't know how anybody will react or what they will say in a tough ball game. I have to expect a certain amount of that."

WINS FEATURE

TORONTO (CP) — Sun and Wind won the featured Dunwoodie Plate by a length at Woodbine Thursday, charging from behind to catch the front-setting Canadian Lass in the final furlong. Sun and Wind, ridden by Benny Sorensen, paid $7.70.

Cuban Tennis Team so Weak Canadians Look Unbeatable

TORONTO (CP) — Canada seldom musters a team that could be rated as invincible in a Davis Cup round, but for this year's matches against Cuba that appears the case. The Latin American country's team is so weak Canada's squad looks unbeatable. The evidence is being supplied by the two top-ranking players.

Hunky Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and lanky Don Fontana of Toronto, gave every indication Thursday that Canada again will maintain her supremacy over Cuba as they crushed two youngsters in the opening matches in the first round North American Zone tie.

Canada, winner over Cuba in five of their previous seven meetings, took a 2-0 lead as Fontana trounced 22-year-old Raul Karman 6-3, 6-3, 6-0 in the opening singles and Bedard sailed to an even easier win over 18-year-old Adolfo Mineo, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0.

DOUBLES TODAY

The Canadian team can clinch the round today and advance against the United States. The next round will be with victory in the doubles. The two concluding singles of the best-of-five series will be played Saturday.

Bedard, 28, and Fontana, 27, combined their greater skill of many years in international tennis and experience on grass courts to display overpowering superiority. The Cubans are more accustomed to clay courts and have seldom come up against opponents with the power and variety of strokes of Bedard and Fontana.

Canadian team captain Lorne Main, now confidently predicting a team sweep as Canada achieved over Cuba in 1961, will rely on Bedard and Fontana for his doubles pair today. Antonio Diaz, Cuban player-captain, also decided to stick with Mineo and Karman rather than intervene himself.

The six-foot Fontana won a love game to break Karman's service in the opening game. He also broke through in the third game to take a 4-0 lead as he followed the procedure in the second set by breaking the Cuban's delivery in the first and third games. They battled on even terms in the third set until the fifth game when Fontana broke through after it went to deuce twice.

Bedard had things even more his own way in his match and, like Fontana, never once lost service.

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Easter Homers Defeat Royals; Leafs Beaten

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If age is supposed to be a sign of slowing down, 34-ieens forgot to tell Luis Easter about it.

The 37-year-old first baseman with Buffalo Bisons in the International League up again in one-man show Thursday night in beating league-leading Montreal Royals 3-2.

The Royals scored single runs in the third and fifth innings to take a 2-0 lead.

In the Buffalo fourth, Easter cut the margin to 2-1 with his 17th home run of the season. When he came up again in the seventh there was a teammate on first base. That spelled finish for the Royals as Easter planted another homer in the right field seats.

Rip Coleman pitched a six-hitter for the Bisons. He walked none and fanned seven.

LEAFS WALLOPED

Rochester Red Wings beat Toronto Maple Leafs 13-6. Columbus Jets came from behind to defeat Havana Sugar Kings 9-3 and Richmond Virginians edged Miami Marlins 1-0.

Rookie lefthander Cal Brownlng, 20, struck out 10 men as he pitched Rochester to victory. Leafs scored five times after two were out in the ninth against a tiring Browning.

Rochester chased starter Jim Pearce in a four-run second inning, getting five more runs off Tom Richards for a 9-1 lead after four.

Joe Christian homered for Leafs and Mike Ondina homered for Jets in their ninth-inning drive.

JETS SPLURGE

The Jets wiped out a 2-1 Havana lead in the eighth inning as they scored eight times against Wiresie Arnor and Jose Santiago. Bill Causion led the attack with a homer.

Mickey McDermott made his first start of the year for the Marlins and pitched a three-hitter. But the Virginians used one of the relief in back of two passes in the fourth inning to beat him 1-0. He walked Bob Oldis and Deron Johnson on eight pitches.

Jerry Thomas singled Oldis home with the lone run of the game. Bob Chakales gave up six hits for the Virginians.

Gord Maroney Tosses Three-Hitter As Trenton Blanks Frankford 9-0

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Gord Maroney, who has registered three quarters of his team's victories, hurled the Trenton Legion Juniors to a three-bit victory over Frankford Merchants at Bayshore Park last night.

The setback was Frankford's ninth in succession and extenders them a little deeper in the Belleville and District softball league cellar. Trenton's win was their fourth of the year, three of them coming on Maroney's pitching.

Drake's Legion Juniors spread their scoring last night, scoring single runs in the second and fourth, two in each of the third and eighth and three in the sixth.

Maroney was in superb form last night, confusing the Frankford batters with his windmill windup. He was charged with three hits but only one clean one. Jason Field had a good single in the first frame and picked up his second in the eighth when his bunt stopped dead in the base just in front of the plate. A pop fly which fell between two outfielders, neither of them making a play, was the losers' other hit, coming off Gord Foshay's bat in the seventh. Maroney fanned five, passed two and hit another pair.

Wayne Shaw suffered his third loss in as many starts as the Frankford mound. He was combed for 12 hits while striking out five and passing two. His mates played loosely behind him.

Don Cole's double and an error in the outfield on the same hit gave Trenton the only run they needed in the second. Pat Asselstine drove in two in the third with a single following base knocks by Alexander and Drake. A walk and Drake's perfect bunt scored another in the fourth.

Long and Don Cole hit safely in the sixth and Doug Alexander banged a fluke triple off shortstop Bill Rankin's foot. He also scored on a fielder's choice to make it 7-0. A free pass, base hits by Cole and Drake, a fielder's choice play which backfired combined with a throwing error to plate the final pair in the seventh.

First sacker Roger Drake led his team with the hickory, collecting a double and three singles in five trips. Don Cole followed closely with a double and two singles and was also hit once for a perfect night. Doug Alexander had a triple and single while Guy Austin, Pat Asselstine and Gary Long shared three other base hits.

Jason Field picked up two Frankford singles while Sonny Foshay had his two-bagger.

Frankford — Beatly, Dooher, Rankin, Eglinton, Holmes, D'Eon, Ackerman, Foshay, Shaw, Hunter.

Trenton — Alexander, Drake, Austin, Asselstine, Burns, Moxam, Long, D. Cole, Maroney.

Judge, Manager Are Suspended By Commission

NEW YORK (AP) — Boxing Judge Bert Grant and fight manager Hymie Wallman were suspended indefinitely by the New York State Athletic Commission Thursday.

The action was the result of Grant's indictment Wednesday by a New York grand jury on charges of accepting bribes in five bouts involving Wallman's boxers. Grant has denied the charges and is free on bail.

Julius Helfand, commissioner chairman, announced the double action after a special meeting. He also said the commission was preparing charges against Wallman as soon as possible to revoke his licences as a second and manager.

Wallman, a furrier and fight manager, has been called the chief mob boss for Frankie Carbo, who allegedly has great influence in boxing circles.

Helfand said in line with past commission policy, upheld by the Supreme Court, all boxers managed by Wallman would not be disqualified to fight in New York state while he is under suspension.

Bowdry, Luedee Fight Tonight

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Jesse Bowdry, a rising boxer with deadly hooks, meets slower, heavier-punching Jerry Luedee tonight in a light-heavyweight 10 rounder.

For Bowdry, 19, the fight represents another stepping stone in the long climb to a title shot. Luedee, 26, needs a victory to keep in the higher fighting circles.

Bowdry is ranked No. 8 and is thought "important" by Luedee's handlers.

Luedee has a 23-7-1 record and Bowdry has 22 victories and one loss. The fight will be televised by NBC starting at 10 p.m.

Cooper, Fraser In Finals At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON Eng. (CP)—Top-seeded Ashley Cooper faces Neale Fraser in the Wimbledon tennis championship's men's singles final in another all - Australian duel for the title standing for the world amateur crown.

Cooper, 21-year-old power-hitting star who lost last year's final to Lew Hoad, hopes to blast the door to prove he is a reliable heir to Hoad, now a professional.

But no matter who wins, the victory will be another feather in the cap of the Australian Tennis Association.

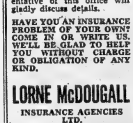
The women's singles title will be settled Saturday when defending champion and favored Althea Gibson of New York meets unseeded Angela Mortimer of Britain.

ROSE DEFEATED

Cooper moved into the finals Wednesday with an easy 7-5, 6-2, 6-4, victory over Mervyn Rose, also an Australian, who was seeded third. Fraser won 6-4, 17-15, 6-4 over Kurt Nielsen of Denmark.

Cooper is a hurler than his opponent but packs more wallop into his serves and returns. He has the faster footwork, but doesn't control the ball as well.

Fraser gained the women's finals Thursday by crushing left-handed Ann Hayden of Britain 6-2, 6-4. She took only 32 minutes to mark up the win.



Miss Mortimer took two minutes less to advance pa Mrs. Suzy Kormoczy, 34-year - old housewife from Budapest. The scores were 6-0, 6-1.

NO GAME TODAY

NEW YORK (AP) — New York will have no big league baseball today, the first July 4 without a game since the early days of the American League. In the past the city had one, often two, doubleheaders on a holiday. The departure of the Giants and Dodgers for California left the park empty.

Thomson Third In Lesser Stars Take Over Lead In British Open Tournament

LYTHAM, England (CP)—Two on the fairways following a week of rain. The greens were soaked and sticky.

Gene Sarazen, 56-year-old former U.S. Open champion who ducked under the half-way cutoff mark of 147 by one stroke, said play on the Open so far has written finish to American domination in international golf.

"Look what the Britons, South Africans and Australians have been doing this week to this great old course," he mused. "They have torn a championship layout apart . . .

"Britain will win the Walker Cup next spring from the Americans."

FIRST WIN OF SEASON

Sunday School Lesson

What Is Your God Like?

By ROY L. SMITH

On no subject indulged in among men is there greater confusion than concerning the matter of God and, unfortunately, the professional leaders of religion are largely responsible for this condition.

So much controversy has arisen over such matters as form, ritual, creed, performance, morals, church government, and speculations concerning the future, that the plain man can be excused for giving up in despair. But the great basis are perfectly plain, and no man need be led astray if he will keep his mind fixed on the central theme of the character of God as revealed in Jesus.

JEWISH CONTRIBUTION

It is precisely at this point that the Jewish thinkers and prophets made their greatest contribution. They stripped away the accretions of ritual and ceremony, and pointed the people to the central theme of their faith — the character of God.

Conspicuous in their thinking is the emphasis they laid on the two divine qualities of justice and mercy. Again and again, as in this week's Sunday school lesson, we find them returning to the great themes of social justice, pure morality, and human accountability to God. In this respect they stood out unique among all the religious teachers of antiquity. No religion practised everywhere among ancients ever produced such characters as Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, or Micah, and the thing that distinguished them from all others was their constant insistence that mercy and justice are of the very nature of God.

SOURCE OF LIFE

It is not only that man may expect justice and mercy from God, but that men should practise these virtues in their dealings with one another.

It is in this light we believe that God is merciful; it is something entirely different to practise mercy in our dealing with our fellow men.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 6: "The Justice and Mercy of God", Deuteronomy 6; Micah through 11:1; Psalms 145; Micah 6:6-8; Romans 5:6-11.

No man really believes that God is merciful without attempting to be merciful himself, for if the Spirit of a merciful God be in us, we will be merciful as He is merciful. Consequence. He who is born of the Spirit of God will reflect the character of God. He can do no otherwise.

WHAT DOES GOD EXPECT?

Over and over the Old Testament prophets make it plain that man more mercy pleases God by dealing justly with his fellow men than by performing religious rituals correctly.

It is one thing to be baptized according to correct form, and it is another thing to be a defender of just causes and an impersonation of justice in our dealings with our neighbors. Rites and ceremonies may be of great spiritual value, but their chief concern is in justice and mercy.

WINE FOR SCHOOLBOYS

UTTOXETER, Eng. (Reuters) Ultra-exclusive Denstone College Boys' School Wednesday began preparing senior students for the rigors of adult life by holding in a Halifax, N.S., businessman, David Dugdale, to lecture in the fine art of wine drinking. "They enjoyed the lecture tremendously," said principal R. M. W. Rees-Thomas, friend of Dugdale's. The lesson was a practical one. It is one thing to have wines on hand for the boys to taste.

Marmora

MARMORA — The Home and School picnic for both public school pupils and teachers was held Friday on the grounds of the South school. Games and races were enjoyed and lunch was served. A ball game in the afternoon between Marmora and Stirling students ended 11-3 in favor of Marmora.

Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Shatford and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Jones spent a few holidays early last week in the Alpine Inn in the Laurentians.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McGregor and two children, of Westport, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. Vansickle and other relatives here, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Green and three children, of Port Hope, visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Green and Mr. and Mrs. R. Barker, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Slade and Karen, of Toronto, visited Mr. and Mrs. F. Grant and with Mr. Grant are enjoying the week at Lake Baptiste.

Mr. George Wilkes is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Marmora Chapter I.O.D.E. is sponsoring the Friday night dances at Marble Point Lodge throughout the summer, which started on Friday night last. Peter Mason's orchestra will provide the music.

Miss Carol Wilson is spending the holidays with friends at Elliot Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Campion spent their holidays with friends and relatives at Penetang and Honey Harbor.

In a recent report of the successful Marmora pupils of Don Pollock taking part in the Music Festival in Havelock on June 23rd, we regret the name of Kathy Jones was inadvertently omitted.

The June meeting of the Glee Club of St. Andrew's United Church was held at the home of Mrs. L. Lawrence with a large attendance. The meeting opened with Scripture reading. Several appropriate readings by the members comprised the program. A social time was spent as it was the farewell meeting with Rev. F. E. and Mrs. Madden and Mrs. Madden Sr.

The club presented Mrs. Madden, Sr., with a personal gift and Rev. and Mrs. Madden with a beautiful tri-light floor lamp, with their regrets. Each graciously thanked the members. Mr. Madden closed the meeting with prayer.

The hostesses, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. J. Auckland and Mrs. F. Sweet, served a dainty lunch. Next meeting will be in September.

The Glen Camp of Belleville journeyed to Marmora for their June meeting and was accompanied by the Women's Auxiliary of Gideons who were well represented.

The ladies of Circle 3, of St. Andrew's W.A., served dinner in the church hall, after which the Gideons gathered in the church parlor for a song and devotional service. The chairman, Mr. Hannah, told of the work of the Gideons, the placing of Bibles in schools, motels and prisons.

The assembly was addressed by Mr. William Watson, of Belleville. Mrs. Foster of Carrinton provided a musical interlude of hymns and religious songs.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

For Saturday, July 5, 1958.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) While you have not been able to get your financial matters in order, today you have the right ideas just who to see and what to do about them. Follow them without hesitation. You will meet someone who will help you tremendously.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) If you are not the soul of diplomacy today, affairs at own home can reach alarming proportions. It is better to be out with a good pal and get shopping done, perfecting hobbies and enjoying yourself. Wear a smile and be happy.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) You are able now to use right tactics that will establish harmony at place of work. Utilize them although it is Saturday. One in real authority will then give you the important information you need to better your station in life.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) Try to erase from your mind that money worry that has had you befuddled for so long. Heed the ideas of a most intelligent pal and carry through with whatever good plan he or she outlines for you and you will win out.

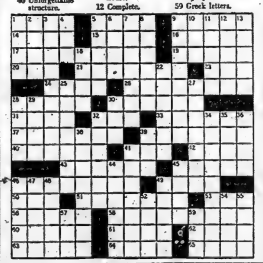
Leo (July 22 to Aug. 2) You are not thinking as positively as you usually do, so be wise and get the suggestions of some real authority in the field that most concerns you and you then know just how to deal successfully with others and gain your ends.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A private worry only succeeds in slowing you down alarmingly in all spheres of endeavor. Nonetheless, a good comrade comes along and gives you the right advice that helps you out of your dilemma, gets you support you need.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Steer clear of that friend who has an inflated ego. Contact instead that true expert who will really assist you wisely in your goals and aims. Listen carefully and follow advice.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't make the mistake of taking your ire out on that big executive today who is quite likely to be as upset as you, and could do you far more harm. Utilize excess energy studying better ways and means for progressing.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be careful first to find out what that overly dynamic new friend has accomplished before you put your trust in him or her. Also, be sure to bring your credit up higher, put other important matters in order, P. M. be lovable.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you war against yourself by worrying ceaselessly about money, you very likely will miss the fine opportunity being presented to you by a very expressive but most clever partner. Relax and reap a fine harvest.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be careful not to enter any arguments with associate, competitor or co-worker who ignorantly wants to needle you. Ignore them completely and stick to fine work at hand which will pay big dividends soon.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) If not warned, you would very easily pass up a fine opportunity for a day of enjoyment which you so need to pick up lagging spirits. Just to do regular chores that are never finished. Be wise. Think of yourself.

If your child is born today . . . The good child born today is the type who would very early learn to find a lily pad in the sun and pose instead of telling his or her way through life, which is the only ideal way to live. So it is necessary that you early teach the joy of laboring and the satisfaction in achieving by giving little jobs to do with an occasional recompense. Then chart fine for business, hypersensitivity gone.

MADOC

Madoc Art Centre Opens Classes For Season

The Madoc Art Centre, formerly the Don Valley School of Art in Toronto, announces the opening of its fifth annual summer season this week. Throughout the summer, till early September, instruction in drawing and landscape painting in oil and water color will again be offered on an individual, friendly basis to beginners and advanced painters from all parts of Ontario and across Canada. Ceramics will be taught in a separate building.

Instructors for 1958 will be Mary Schneider, Roman Schneider (ceramics) James Williamson, Jack Pepper, John A. Hall and Gustav Weisman. Dr. A. Y. Jackson and Jolcey Horne are advising artists. Visiting artists include Abs Bayefsky, Sidney Cole and Charles Wakefield. Exhibitions of paintings are held periodically. Teachers' credits are given to teachers completing a required course of study by arrangement with the Ontario Department of Education.

For the comfort of summer residents, the Art Centre provides a building with a studio, sitting-room and simple sleeping accommodation in odable rooms with single beds, all with cross ventilation and exterior access. Visiting students and artists enjoy leisure-time boating, fishing, swimming or hiking. One evening each week is set aside for group discussion of their work in the cozy studio, with resident instructors and visiting artists whose enthusiasm stimulates painters to develop as rapidly as talent and interest permit, following their own creative inclinations.

FOUNDED

Founded in 1954 as a resident summer art school, the Madoc Art Centre in the Highlands of Hastings, Ontario, has been visited in the four seasons now by more than 100 painters, attracted by the scenic contrasts of the area. Within easy walking distance of sketchers are Moira-Canadian hills, rocks, waterfalls, tall forests, shining lakes, farmlands with stately elms, flowing studded pastures, quaint groups of farm buildings and old mills.

That the region abounds with colorful subjects for the painter's canvas, was demonstrated again at the Madoc Art Centre annual meeting and painting competition for scholarships held in Toronto recently. Entries were judged by a panel of three — Joicey Horne, John Hall and Gustav Wieland.

"The Waterfall" — a scenic landscape of a waterfall near Madoc, painted by Lynn Digby, won the George McCullagh scholarship for the best painting in oils done in the past season.

The Lady Eaton scholarship for the beginner who made the most progress in the first year was won by Barbara Dickenson. Her entry was a painting of the fountain bordered by potted geraniums, seen on the grounds of Madoc Art Centre.

A portrait by Muriel Spitzer won the E.P. Taylor Scholarship for the best all-round ability. Dorothy Andrews' landscape of rocks near Madoc won her the W. Denton Smith award. The scholarship given by the directors of the Madoc Art Centre went to Lillian Nodwell, of Hillsburg, for her painting, "Still Life with Violin."

"Your Best Investment Is In Your Home... Modernize Now!"

That's right ... : the Best Investment Your Money Can Buy Is In Your Home! Why? ... ...

Think of any item you may purchase today, over a period of time the depreciation, wear and tear will decrease the resale value to a fraction of the original cost!

Now a home is one of the few items that does not depreciate, but increases in value, over a period of time.

Where does modernization fit into this? ... ... Well, if you add an extra room, build a garage, recreation room, or modernize in most any way, it will increase the value of your home, and you will have extra comfort with this modernization.

Remember, any modernization you make to your home increases the value of your home, and gives you more comfort. So, think it over, and you'll agree with us when we say ... ... "Your Best Investment Is In Your Home ... Modernize now!"

Govt. Will Lay Charges Against Gas Company

Lands, Forests Minister Mapledoram Resigns

TORONTO (CP)—The third Ontario cabinet minister to quit over ownership of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company stock, Lands and Forests Minister Clare Mapledoram has resigned.

As Premier Frost announced this Friday, Attorney - General Roberts simultaneously declared that charges will be laid against the company in connection with transactions in its shares.

Mr. Roberts said charges will be laid against the company, its president and vice-president for violation of the Ontario Securities Act and the Ontario Corporations Act. C. F. H. Carson was named as Crown prosecutor.

The president of the company, formed in 1954 to distribute Western Canada natural gas to Northern Ontario communities, is Ralph H. Bowden, Vancouver. Executive vice - president is C. Spencer Clark of Toronto.

LETTER OF EVIDENCE

Charges were not specified but Mr. Roberts indicated they concern evidence suggesting a number of shares in the company's development were sold "to certain persons prior to any filing with the Ontario Securities Commission required before selling securities to the public."

The two previous Progressive Conservative ministers to resign are Ralph R. Willmore, Gravenhurst, May 6, former public works minister, and Phillip T. Kelly, last summer, former labor minister.

The attorney-general, in his report on an investigation into affairs of the company by representatives of his department and the commission, named five persons in elected office as involved in transfer of incomplete shares.

They were Ontario Liberal Leader John J. Wintermeyer, Sudbury; Progressive Conservative Mr. Mapledoram, and Francois Bordeleau and Thomas Bonnie, of the Improvement district of Kindrey. Mr. Roberts said the last two are associates of Mr. Kelly.

He said all five received shares in the Bowden and Pollock (Alberta) account in a Calgary bank, a nominee account for Mr. Bowden. Mr. Clarke Gordon K. McLean of Calgary who held 200 shares, also held shares.

WARNED MINISTERS

Premier Frost said he warned ministers late in 1956 or early 1957 not to have any connection with Trans - Canada Pipe Line Company. This was expanded in March or April of last year to include all gas pipeline or distributing companies.

Mr. Mapledoram said he had been absent from the cabinet meeting at which the premier directed his ministers to sell any shares they held. He said he had dealings with Mr. Kelly were on a friendly basis only.

Mr. Mapledoram was first elected to the legislature for Fort William in 1945. He defeated by a minister since July, 1954.

Man With Grievance Against RAF Wrote Fake Threat to Drop A-Bomb

LONDON (AP)—A farmer who was discharged from the RAF for mental instability has admitted writing a letter saying a United States pilot would drop an atomic bomb off the coast of England.

The letter said the Soviet Embassy here set diplomatic and propaganda machinery in motion in Washington to Moscow even though it had been labelled a hoax.

A small-town British reporter Friday tracked down the mystery guy "Pi" who signed the letter, released by the embassy. He was William Dennis Allen, 39, an unemployed farm worker at Ipswich who hadn't been near a warplane for almost a year.

In a written confession, Whales said he wrote it to gain attention for his grievances against the RAF but the Soviet Embassy deleted those grievances before giving copies of the letter to the British foreign office and the press.

The letter as made public seemed to come from a U.S. airman who wanted to drop an atomic bomb in the North Sea.

Whales said he wrote it to gain attention for his grievances against the RAF but the Soviet Embassy deleted those grievances before giving copies of the letter to the British foreign office and the press.

The letter as made public seemed to come from a U.S. airman who wanted to drop an atomic bomb in the North Sea near Britain and then fly on to Russia to seek asylum. Maybe a few people would be killed but Russia's peace campaign would get some support, the published letter said.

This fitted in both with Soviet ban - the - bomb campaigns and Communist charges that certain American nuclear weapons based in the United Kingdom were under the U.S. state department for saying the letter appeared to be a Soviet forgery.

The letter was postmarked last Saturday, Ipswich, 68 miles northeast of London.

Reporter Stuart Weston with the Ipswich Evening Star discovered in Ipswich cracked the mystery. He said the letter writer was someone with a grievance, not an American.

Discovering over possibilities, Weston hit on Whales as the most likely. He called at Whales' home over. Whales did and signed an admission before three witnesses. Grammar and spelling errors in the admission, tallied with those in the letter.

Police later interviewed Whales and said the matter has to be investigated properly at the time to do that is obviously later today when all facts will be available. The man is not in custody."

GOVT. MAY BE THINKING OF SECOND HIGHWAY

Don't Be Discouraged Says Works Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government apparently is hesitating further partnerships with the provinces on road construction, once the Trans - Canada Highway is completed late in 1960.

Works Minister Green gave a broad hint that is the government' thinking when he told advocates of a second Trans-Canada Highway in the Commons Friday: "Don't be discouraged."

Mr. Green was replying during Commons study of his department's estimates to suggestions by two members who urged construction of a second highway before the present one is completed.

The suggestions came from Frank Howard (CCF — Skeena) and Hugh M. Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson), but J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista - Twillingate) opposed the idea.

Mr. Pickersgill said the first highway should be completed before any thought is given to a second, though it might be to the West, is started.

HAVING TROUBLE

He said some provinces are having difficulty sharing on a 50-50 basis with the federal government the cost of building the trans-Canada artery.

Mr. Pickersgill opened the debate on public works estimates, Erhart Regier (CCF — Burnaby-Coquitlam, B.C.) urged the government study the possibility of building a causeway to link Vancouver Island to the British Columbia mainland.

Mr. Green, a British Columbian, greeted the suggestion with: "I don't know what will come up next." Mr. Regier said he was serious.

Walter Dinsdale joined in with a suggestion that a similar study be made on the possibility of a causeway between Newfoundland and the Labrador coast, across the Strait of Belle Isle.

The suggestions came as the government announced a preliminary expenditure of $360,000 for studies into the feasibility of a nine - mile causeway, at an estimated cost of between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000, between Borden, P.E.I., and the Cape Tormentine, N.B., area.

Mr. Regier said there are points along the B.C. coast where causeways, as short as three or nine miles from the mainland. The geography of the area indicates, he said, it would be sparsely-populated parts of Vancouver Island.

Eisenhower's Canadian Visit Lengthened to Four Days

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower flies to Ottawa Tuesday for a goodwill visit that ranks as one of the most significant peacetime trips an American president ever has paid to Canada.

His stay, originally scheduled for three days, has quietly been lengthened to four—from July 8 to 11—and this is being taken here as a reflection of the president's deep appreciation of the great importance he attaches to close Canadian - American relations.

He is believed to be anxious to avoid leaving with Canadians any impression that this is a routine goodwill mission and to stress, instead, the keen interest the U.S. has in its northern ally and neighbor and its desire to consult in person the recurring Canadian criticisms about the United States and its policies.

Eisenhower indicated this when he told his press conference last week that relations with Canada should be "just as close as we have ever had with any" and declared his willingness to talk about anything Prime Minister Diefenbaker would like to bring up.

Hog Marketing Scheme Never Valid Under Law Says Court

TORONTO (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada has ruled that the province's hog marketing scheme, set up a year ago, was never valid under law.

A 17-page judgment handed down Friday by Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson granted a prohibition order sought by lawyer B. J. MacKinnon of Toronto in an magistrate's court in Chatham which convicted farmers against two Blenheim hog growers.

The charges were laid under the Farm Products Marketing Legislation early this year against Clarence Cecil Gordon Knights of Knights cited May 21, -

The court decision is not expected to affect the vote of hog producers scheduled July 28. The vote, involving hog-raising farmers in Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, is to decide whether the provincial hog marketing scheme is to continue.

Mr. Justice Ferguson said the hog marketing scheme was jointly instituted without a vote of hog producers. He said this was contrary to the regulations of the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act and the scheme was thus invalid.

Commenting on arguments presented by department of agriculture attorneys in opposing the prohibition order, the judge said the regulations were passed on 31st March which made it possible to institute a marketing scheme without a producers' vote did not apply to this case.

The scheme, he said, was already void at the time of the amendment. "Confirmation of a void scheme is nothing."

Charges against the Knights brothers were heard by Magistrate Court in April and June. Magistrate F. K. Jasperson acquitted the brothers of charges and threw out another 10.

Another, 30 charges still pending when Mr. MacKinnon applied for the prohibition order.

The Knight brothers were accused of assembling hogs for marketing that were not those designated by the farm producers marketing board, for marketing without proper licences and for refusing inspection of their premises and books by government inspectors.

These charges were dealt with. The charges still pending involved further contraventions of the Farm Products Marketing Act.

Canada to Make New Moves For Share of Red China Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—New Canadian moves may soon be mapped in attempts to get an increased share of the Chinese market. Out of these moves may come a trip to Trade Minister Churchill to Peiping.

The government is known to have been considering the Chinese purchase of some 5,500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat this year. Mr. Churchill said in an interview Friday night that he feels there could be "some progress" only in wheat but in other products as well.

At this moment, he said, he has no plans to go to China. But he said he does not rule out necessarily mean that Canada would need diplomatic recognition to the Red government there.

Arousing interest in federal quarters was the report that the member of Trade Commissioner J. M. Forsyth-Smith who visited Peiping and other Chinese centres and the more recent visit of James Endicott, prominent president of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Mr. Forsyth-Smith urged that Canada establish trade missions staged to visit the Chinese. Markets existed in China for Canadian products, he reported, particularly chemicals, nylon and rayon.

Mr. Muir reported that China wants to trade. She needed a multitude of goods. Other western countries were getting their share of the Chinese trade.

In previous year's Canada's trade with the Chinese has not been large. Exports to China dropped to $1,600,000 from $2,400,000 in 1956 and slipped to $5,300,000 from $5,700,000.

The U.S. has a virtual embargo on trade. During the last few months Canada protested these restrictions because they apparently led to a rejection of an order for motor cars placed by Canada's subsidiary of an American company.

These restrictions may be brought to the attention of President Eisenhower when he arrives in Ottawa for three days of talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

SEEK SOME CLUES IN SUICIDE OF TORONTO CHIEF

Was in Ill Health For Past 6 Months

TORONTO (CP) — Police today awaited the delivery of a registered letter in the hope it will shed some light on why Chief Constable John Chisholm shot himself in death.

Chisholm, 62-year-old head of the Metropolitan Toronto force, pulled the letter in his sister before driving to west-end High Park Friday and firing one bullet into his head.

He was found slumped behind the wheel of a police car. A .38 calibre revolver was beside the body. Police said he had been visiting coroner for Ontario, said it was "most certainly suicide."

Police officials searched through Chief Chisholm's effects at his office Friday without finding a note or any reason for the suicide. They said he had been in poor health for some time. The letter was addressed to his sister but it had not yet been delivered.

Meanwhile, Magistrate C. O. Bick, chairman of the metropolitan police commission, said a special commissions meeting will be called, probably Monday, to depute police chiefs would carry on Chief Chisholm's duties.

HAD BEEN IN PAIN

Dr. Lorne Saunders, the chief had been suffering from bursitis—an inflammation of the joints—and had been off work for about five or six months. Colleagues said the pain had affected Chisholm and his ill health. His physician, Dr. E. B. Tovee, said he advised Chisholm to take a rest but he either retire or take an extended leave. Chisholm said he had nerves but denied the chief had any physical illness.

Deputy Chief Cooper, the chief's receptionist, said he was at his desk at the usual hour Friday morning. Two reporters, Gwyn Thomas of The Star and Harry Allen of The Telegram, said they received calls from the chief about 9:30 a.m. promising a good story later in the day.

Chief Chisholm's body was found by two policemen patrolling the rain-soaked park. He did not leave a note. Police in plain clothes and two detectives, patrolling banks in the area, made investigations. They immediately barricaded all roads to the area and reporters and photographers were not to pass until it was decided the chief was a suicide victim.

SOON TO RETIRE

Chief Chisholm was due to retire in August, 1960, on a $5,000-a-year pension.

Born in Dundee, Scotland, he came to Canada in 1920 and joined the Toronto force the same year.

In January, 1957, he became chief constable of the new Metropolitan police department, embracing Toronto and its 13 suburbs. Associates said he had not been happy with these new duties.

Survivors include his wife and two sons, including Kenneth of Kingston. Funeral services are to be held here Monday with burial in suburban Weston.

Father of 7 Saved From Chair By Confession of Convict

JEFFERSON, Ga. (AP)—For the first time in nearly two years the shadow of the electric chair no longer darkens the life of a South Carolina house painter and father of seven.

James Fulton Foster, 40, of Greer, S.C., still is in jail but now he is free on bail until his release.

The door to freedom was opened for him Friday when Charles Paul (Rocky) Rothschild, 24, Jefferson, Georgia, youth confessed to the killing of a Jefferson merchant.

Foster twice was sentenced to die in the electric chair for that crime—in September, 1956, and again this June. Both times appeals delayed his execution.

Rothschild signed a 2,500-word statement at Columbia, S.C., where he is serving a five-year sentence for burglary earlier.

The statement he said Foster's

Escaped Convict May Try To Kill Wife and Lover

Fugitive Once Made Bid To Flee From Jail Here

WINDSOR (CP)—Police today guarded the wife of an escaped convict and her boy friend, fearful he may try to harm them.

Detectives kept a vigil throughout the night, swalling a phone call, a knock at the door or other evidence of the appearance of Bruce Saunders, 34, of Windsor.

"He'll try and kill her," said Mrs. Elizabeth Copvillion, mother of Saunders' wife, Helen, said on learning her son-in-law had escaped.

Saunders climbed through a skylight at Kingston penitentiary Thursday night and scaled a 30-foot wall with a rope and hook.

Police believe Saunders will attempt to settle a love triangle and possibly settle a score with a policeman who captured him a year ago. They were told by penitentiary officials Saunders had been brooding since his trial and her prospective husband had asked him on a visit to Kingston to give him "a few lessons."

"HIGHLY DANGEROUS"

"He is a highly dangerous and cunning man," said Inspector H. W. Farrow said. "What you think he wouldn't do he will."

He said he believes that unless Saunders is arrested he may also attempt to kill his wife's boy friance. "The warden at Kingston penitentiary called me on the telephone this morning and informed me that Saunders had been a highly frustrated individual since his wife and her boy friend visited him."

Least worried but obviously prepared was the man who last arrested him.

Sgt. Doug Morris commented: "I'll be correct here he takes his chances. I'm on my guard."

WIFE ASLEEP

Police said Mrs. Saunders was asleep and not available for interviews. Where she was was not indicated. Police were stationed at the two points where the escapee might appear. They interviewed all suspects.

Her boy friend was believed with police, probably for identification purposes as well as protection.

The suburban Sandwich East Saunders' in-laws sat until weary hours of morning while non-committal detectives stood by.

"Everyone's understandably nervous but the situation is in hand," an officer said.

It was at his mother-in-law's home that the escape was effected by a car and captured Jan. 4 last year, a month after he began his 12 years for manslaughter in connection with the armed robbery of taxi driver Jack White.

Saunders was sentenced to eight years in penitentiary for armed robbery of a police officer, the theft of a car and willful possession of a revolver when he appeared in court here Feb. 7 last year, a month after the swim from Grenadier Island, at the New York state mainland, to Kingston.

She was taken from the water around 7:15 a.m. by a boat from Horseshoe Island and about seven miles southeast of Kingston. Heavy seas and 20-mile waves kept her at a standstill for more than an hour after she emerged to go into the channel between Wolfe Island and Simcoe Island, on the Kingston waterfront.

The 120-pound swimmer was attempting to duplicate the 1926 feat of Jim Edwardson, 17, who swam from the eastern end of Lake Ontario. He did it in about 20 hours.

ESCAPES FROM KINGSTON PEN

A clean break from Kingston penitentiary was made by Bruce Saunders, Windsor desperado serving time for armed robbery. He forced his way through a skylight, stealthily, looped a rope over the wall and evaded searchlights long enough to let himself down within it. Three hours after he escaped a car was stolen in the area and police believe he was well on his way from the area before his absence was discovered.

TCA Airliner Lands Safely With Engine Out

LONDON (CP)—A Trans-Canada Air Lines Super Constellation made a perfect landing today at London Airport after losing an engine and the last leg of a flight from Montreal with one of its four engines dead.

The airliner, with 71 persons aboard, reported it had feathered one engine while about 600 miles from London.

The TCAF sent out an escort plane — routine procedure when airliners near Britain's coast report trouble—and followed the airliner until it reached land. It touched down safely on schedule.

A TCA spokesman here said the TCAF action was "perfectly normal precaution."

There never was any indication that the plane was in danger, he said.

Robert J. Muir With Railroad For 47 Years

A third generation railroader, who himself has two sons with the C.N.R., this week saw retirement, as a freight conductor working out of Belleville.

At 11 o'clock Thursday night, Robert J. Muir, 71 Pinnacle, was rolling into Belleville on No. 445 eastbound his last run and stepped down from his caboose for the last time. Family members and friends were on hand to greet him on his final run and give him a rousing reception.

Today, after 47 years as a railroader, 30 of them as 43 years as a freight conductor, Mr. Muir says he "is just going to relax."

Out from Scotland only a short time, Mr. Muir's grandfather, Robert Muir, started work in the C.P.R. shops at Smith Falls, took a job with the old G.T.R. as a section hand during the building of the rail line. He was killed at Fredericksburg, east of Napanee, when a train ran off the track.

His father, William Muir, at 85 so followed a railroad career for a short time, but soon found, however, an injury forced him to give up the railway and he entered the grain business with Hesmith business, working for McGee and also with Diamond and Hyde.

STARTED AS FIREMAN

Mr. Muir started railroading as a fireman back in 1911 and three years later was classed as conductor.

One of his sons, James Edgar Muir, is a conductor, while another son, William "Bob" Muir is an engineer.

And just to prove that railroading is really in the Muir blood, a brother of Robert J. Muir, Wilfred "Plunk" Muir, is one of the oldest engineers running out of Belleville.

Thursday night following his final run, Mr. Muir was presented with a purse from the Railway Brotherhood, while two presents from their friends with a lazyboy chair, and their money with a lamp.

The lovely flowers which decorated the Muir home for the retirement party were the gift of the neighbors.

Hog Producers Prepare to Vote On Market Plan

Yesterday was the last day for the revision of the voters' lists for those eligible to vote July 26 on the method to be followed in marketing hogs in Ontario.

The list, now in force practically all Southern Ontario and those eligible to vote will be all hog producers, regardless of the number of hogs they are feeding. The man with one hog will get one vote as well the man feeding a hundred hogs.

Township clerks have had the difficult job of compiling voters' lists. The method, in general, has been to survey farmer as a hog producer and then to revise these lists. Clerks have followed varying methods. One woman clerk is said to have personally canvassed all the farmers she listed as producers. Other clerks have been assisted in their work by committees set up by County Hog Producers' Associations, who have requested that names be added to or deleted from, the original lists. Other persons, have had equal right to request revision of the lists and the township clerks have been given the list in the original lists as their investigations indicated were justified.

CLERKS DRO's

The township clerks will be the deputy returning officers for the voting July 26, with township assessors acting as poll clerks. In townships where there is no voting place to a municipality, in most cases the township will be divided into districts with less than 250 hog producers on the voters' list the clerk will have to find suitable arrangements for an additional polling place.

Those eligible to vote will be asked to indicate whether or not they favor the Ontario Hog Producers' co-operative hog marketing plan, under which all hogs are marketed through the co-operative. This plan first came into effect in the fall of 1934, but opposition from some quarters have resulted in Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board holding a vote, which covers practically all the hog producers in the province.

In order to have the co-operative marketing scheme authorized and continued, a majority vote must be proved by two thirds of the producers casting their votes July 26.

Stated briefly, those favoring the scheme contend that it provides for the orderly marketing of hogs in a manner which will prevent the producer from exploitation when the number of hogs offered is larger than the packing plants can easily absorb and will result in returns to the producers based on their weights. Those opposed include some packing plant, drovers and truckers and the few farmers who dislike the compulsory features of the scheme, preferring to market their own hogs in the manner they believe best for them.

Three Accidents Result in Damage, Injury to One

Investigation of three motor accidents, two in the city, and one on No. 37 Highway north of Corbyville, was the major activity of city and Provincial Police Friday afternoon and night.

Shortly after noon on Friday a three-vehicle rear-end collision on Sidney Street caused close to $400 damage.

Police said that cars driven by Mrs. McCormick, 14 Carmen Ave., Velma Keller, Napanee, and Ronald James Cassidy, Corbyville, were southbound on Sidney when the first car stopped in the line of traffic, resulting in the chain reaction smash. Damage to the Cassidy car was about $10; to the Keller vehicle $150, and to the Philp auto $200.

Friday afternoon cars driven by Walter H. Townsend, 228 Charles Street, and Arthur E. DeMille, Cannifton, were in collision at Church and Victoria Ave.

Police said the Townsend auto was parked on the north side of Victoria facing east and pulled out onto Victoria attempting to turn right onto Charles Street when it was struck by the DeMille vehicle, also eastbound. Mrs. Aggie Townsend, passenger in the Townsend auto, suffered lacerations to her scalp.

On No. 37 Highway near the railway crossing north of Corbyville a car driven by James Buller, 27 Lewis Street, blew a front tire and went on its side in the ditch. Occupants of the vehicle escaped with a shaking up.

Remand 5 Men For Sentencing In Three Cases

TRENTON — Five men, connected with three different cases, were remanded for sentencing at s-ssion date by Magistrate T. Y. Willis in court in Trenton last Thursday. One youth, connected with the theft of a battery, was put on a year's suspended sentence because he had no previous record.

The first case to be heard by the magistrate was for the theft of a car battery valued at $20. The three men charged were: Robert Percy of Trenton and Allan and Colin Conroy both of Brighton. All three pleaded guilty. Allan Conroy, because it was his first offence, was let off with a suspended sentence for one year and ordered to pay $5 costs within a week. The other two were remanded until July 8 for sentencing.

Inspector Bob Rutherford gave evidence in the case and told the court that on June 25 the police had received a call from Mr. Teakl of Trenton that the battery from his car had been stolen sometime during the night. The same afternoon a car operated by Robert Percy was brought into the police station yard where the serial number of the battery in his car was checked and found to be the same as the one which was stolen. The other two accused were passengers in the car at the time. All three were arrested.

In the second case Jack Brant, 20 of Smithfield was charged with assault, pleaded guilty and was remanded until July 15 for sentencing.

The court was told that Brant, who had apparently been drinking, in an angry argument in front of the Canadian Legion Hall with Horace Ketchenon over his breaking his jaw. The police were called and Constables Mastiff and Chalson arrested Brant.

In remanding the case for sentencing the Magistrate said he would like a report submitted on the condition of the injured man before he decided on the penalty.

In the third case Melvin Lewis, 46 of Bridge St. East, and Hiltz, 21, of Hilton, both pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the store of Mrs. Elected trial by the magistrate. They were remanded until July 8 for sentencing.

Chief of Police Ed McCready of Frankford gave evidence and told the court he had been called by the Frankford Building Supplies, which reported its premises had been broken into in the night of June 27. Entry, jackknives, one electric saw and some $12 worth of tools were stolen. The chief said after investigation the two accused had been arrested and charged and had refused to co-operate and tell how the stolen property had been disposed of.

ONE MISHAP

TRENTON — There were no accidents reported to Trenton police yesterday and only one minor one the day before. Total damage in the mishap was $40, all to one of the cars involved.

It was reported that Ronald J. McColl of Trenton, who was proceeding west on Dundas St. West when he turned right, onto Division Street, and caught the front bumper of a parked car owned and operated by Slavko Pleaning of Toronto. No damage was done to the Pleaning car. Constable Sid Vickers investigated the mishap.

FIREMEN BUSY

Local firemen have not been called out since the holiday but have kept busy with the painting of the floor in the station. They have given some sections of the hall two coats of paint. Fire Chief Clarence Orser says the job is nearly completed, nothing further to announce on the purchase of a new aerial ladder truck and that they are awaiting the prices from the different companies which have been asked to send in bids.

PLANS TO REBUILD

Senator W. A. Fraser who lost one of his cottages at the Grove in a flash fire recently, is preparing he plans to put a pre-fab cottage up to replace the one destroyed. He said, however, it would possibly be left to wait until this winter when the bay freezes over to get the pre-fabricated sections in. The road going into the area is very narrow and crooked.

ISSUES WARNING

Kenneth G. Wares, now manager of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, announced today that two cheque artists have been reported operating in the Peterborough area and may be moving in this direction. He said they were supposed to have issued for sums ranging from $10 to $25 cheques on the Canada Dry Bottling Works, London, Ont. They have been made on the bank of Montreal and the Chamber manager said the police and store-owners have been warned.

New Potatoes, Peas on Mart

Vegetables were numerous and a few new ones made their debut on the local producers' market in downtown Belleville.

Vegetables were peas which sold at $1.00 a six-quart basket; 20 cents a quart (in the pod); 20 cents a quart (shelled), and potatoes 25 cents a quart.

Other vegetables were green onions, three bunches for 25 cents; cabbage plants, $1.00 per 100; 25 cents a quart. Rhubarb was 10 cents a bunch or, three bunches for a quarter.

Egg prices were up. Extras sold at 2c, large at 27 and medium at 25 cents per dozen.

Turkeys were 53 and 57 cents a pound. The fish man was not available.

Take Good Care Of Your Car's Fuel Filter

By EUGENE MILMOE

The fuel filter helps to keep carburetor passages clean and clear by trapping dirt, grit, water, etc., which often gets into gas. On some cars the filter is built into the pump — on others, the filter is connected on the fuel line as a separate unit.

Filtering materials also differ. Types employed include copper screen, copper disk, fiber disk and ceramic elements.

The bowl is easily removed for cleaning — which should be done twice a year or every 4,000 miles. Otherwise, it can become so clogged that too little fuel or none! passes through to the carburetor.

If the filter element is defective or damaged, it can be replaced. And, in reassembling, a new bowl gasket should always be used regardless of the apparent good condition of the old one.

W. G. asks: "Will a faulty muffler cause engine overheating? One garage says 'positively' . . . another says, 'very unlikely.'"

(A) If the muffler restricts the free passage of exhaust gas, it most certainly will cause engine heat to keep going higher.

L. E. writes: "My '55 car has lost some of its 'pep.' I'm afraid. Sometimes it stalls, and it may buck a little when taking a hill. What can be wrong?"

(A) Probably nothing that a quick tune up can't correct. Have plugs and points cleaned and adjusted — also have the carburetor idle adjustment and ignition timing double checked.

From R. V.: "I change oil every 2,000 miles but a friend always goes at least 3,000 miles between changes and has experienced no troubles — or so he claims."

(A) It can't be doing his valves, bearings, pistons, etc., any good. Even under very favorable conditions this is stretching too far. Tests show, for example, that oil used 3,000 miles is loaded with three times more harmful contaminants than oil drained at the 2,000 mile mark.

Mrs. J. S. writes: "My husband always bounces the front wheels against the curb, scraping the whitewalls. Will curb feelers stop him from doing this?"

(A) They'll help. He might take more care if he realizes this practice can also break tire walls and throw off front wheel alignment.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Workaday World's Money, Prestige And Success Don't Fit Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

When you come up to retirement you are thoroughly indoctrinated with a set of values the business and professional world has been teaching you all these years.

These are good values, in the main, and they are numerous. Three stand out above all the rest: money, prestige and success.

So you lay aside your job, take your pension and go out into what are advertised as your Golden Years. And you take along with you the values of the workaday world you have left. You can't help it. They are in your blood.

Money, prestige and success are the theme song of our times.

But they don't fit retirement.

The money is simply not there. It's about a fourth of what the income has been. As for the prestige, how do you come by it without a job to achieve it with? And on success you have left it, if you did labor at it, because it is tied to the job.

Retirement must be a search for new values. And before you can find them, a successfully retired man said this week, you must unlearn what the business world has taught you.

'BE AN ODD-BALL'

"In a way," he said, "you must be an odd-ball."

He didn't want his name used — "not that it would bother me," he explained, "but it would worry some of the people who used to know me."

The man retired three years ago from a white-collar industrial job. He had saved a few dollars and he got a good pension. He and his wife could have made do about anything they chose, which is reason.

"But it looked to me," he said, "that you could do only about four things if you remained living in the network of the work world you had left. You could sit, and try to keep up appearances to impress work-world friends; you could travel, and wear yourself out; you could get into civic work, which is for unretired, ambitious people who want to get their names in the paper; or you could get another job, go back to the work world and start the whole thing over again.

"That's really about all you can do . . . that's about all most retired people ever do . . . unless you dare to be an odd-ball. . . .

He said that when you dare, big, wide, wonderful world opens up to you.

The rifle and I sat, and we travelled, and I had a stint of asking neighbors for $5 for worthy causes.

"Then I said to — with it. I was going to do what I wanted to do instead of what the rule book said a nice retired man should do.

"Well, a number of things intrigued me. I thought that selling men's ties to wives, from behind a store counter, would be the most amusing occupation in North America. I thought that being a scavenger in a rich residential section, picking up all that the households threw away, would combine the magic of gold hunting with the profits of a secondhand shop. I thought I'd like to repair clocks, but not watches — especially clocks that strike.

"I knew I'd like to be a detective . . . but they laughed at me. And I knew I'd like to cross-breed animals, maybe to produce something like a red-haired sheep. But it takes too long to get results. . . ."

LIST OF OCCUPATIONS

He made a list of things he would enjoy doing, careful in every case to be sure he would enjoy the thing not because of money, prestige or success, but because his particular personality would enjoy it. Among his listings: painting garages too high ladder Needed provided the owner wanted the garage red, blue, yellow . . . otherwise hire repairing and painting cartridges; serving as night clerk in a little hotel in a big town, provided his wife could serve with him; growing orchids; repairing small kitchen appliances; and about 25 more.

He finally settled for a job tuning up autos at a filling station two blocks from a shopping center. He got the job by asking for it and telling the owner he wanted only $100 a month (to protect his pension). He studied a couple of books on ignition systems and hung around a garage for three weeks, then, added to what he already knew about cars, was enough.

Flowers for a Wedding Breakfast

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

A handsome and unusual flower arrangement for a wedding breakfast or summer luncheon starts with a fern-ball. The flowers can be any medium size round white flower which keeps well in water. Siberian iris is one of the best for this piece. Other suggestions are small anemone type chrysanthemums, florets of frilled gladiolus, larkspur, delphiniums, rosebuds, cornflowers, shasta daisy, stocks or scabiosa. For a summer luncheon any other flower to suit your color scheme may be used. Other suggestions are carnations, sweet peas, small type asters, or cosmos.

To make the fern ball you will need a quantity of fern or cedar clippings, approximately one bushel. Gather the pieces into a ball and wrap firmly with strong black thread or fine wire. Build up the ball by adding more clippings until the ball is 15 to 20 inches around. Use the larger size if the arrangement is for a large table center.

Put the first into a pail of water and allow to soak for several hours or over night. Drain it and place on a glass, or metal plate. While the ball is being soaked make the flowers and foliage which will be used by placing them in a pail of cold water in a cool place.

Begin at the top to push flower stems into the fern ball, work down and around so that the flowers will be evenly placed and look well from any angle. Cut each stem eight inches long as you use it. Vary the lengths slightly. Fill in between the flowers with fine foliage. Chrysanthemum spiraetor marigold leaves would be suitable or short sprays of veronica, sweet alyssum, baby's breath or statice. Do not crowd the flowers or filling material. The finished arrangement should have a light airy effect. Keep turning the ball as you work and step back occasionally to see how it looks from a distance.

When the arrangement looks complete push in to the ball a row of filling material — either small flowers or foliage around the base close to the plate. This ties the arrangement to the container.

THE VANISHING SABRE

Dave McIntosh, a Canadian Press staff writer, recently wrote a series of four stories about Canada's defence forces. He concluded his series about a week ago with a lengthy discourse about one aspect of the modern Royal Canadian Air Force - - Air Defence Command.

He said in his final story: "The Sabres, especially, are becoming obsolete because they are day fighters and have no airborne radar for interceptions . . ."

We agree with Mr. McIntosh's reasoning for the Sabre's approaching obsolescence in the RCAF. It will, perhaps, just be retired without any successor in its class. The CF-105, although not a fighter in the same sense as the F-86, will likely see to that.

First, though, let us define fighter and interceptor. They are two terms used in the RCAF to describe different aircraft. Basically a fighter can do the same work as an interceptor and vice versa. A fighter in Air Force lingo refers to a plane like the F-86 which normally flies only during the daytime. Interceptor describes a plane like the CF-100 or the CF-105, designed primarily to operate at night and in any weather.

Of the RCAF's 12 fighter squadrons in Europe, eight are equipped with Mark VI Sabres and four with CF-100s.

It is logical to assume that the Canadian government does not believe an enemy attack is most likely to be launched by brilliant sunshine as it time best suited to Mr. McIntosh's Sabres. Militarists have expressed the opinion that an attack is more likely to come at night or in inclement weather. That is perhaps the main reason why the government is re-equipping the RCAF fighter wings in Europe with all-weather CF-100s.

It is not possible, physically, to equip the F-86 Mark VI with the "airborne radar for interceptions" that the CF-100 carries. Although both the Sabre and the CF-100 are, technically, fighters or interceptors, each has been designed for one specific purpose. The difference between the F-86 and CF-100, aside from physical characteristics and equipment, is really a matter of combat techniques. The F-86, for example, is directed by a ground radar unit to the target at which time the pilot makes visual contact with the enemy, attacks and escapes. On the other hand, the CF-100 is so equipped with airborne radar that oftentimes the two-man crew may never see its target. The crew of a CF-100 carries out its mission "blind."

It is fairly obvious that the RCAF is currently concentrating on building up CF-100 squadrons at home, which may in time be replaced by the CF-105. The Canadian government is not contracting for any more F-86s from Canadair Limited in Montreal, but CF-100s are still rolling off production at A. V. Roe Ltd. in Malton, Ont., and Defence Minister Pearkes has already ordered about 30 CF-105s for the RCAF.

We wonder about Mr. McIntosh's concern with the F-86 when it is likely to be the last day fighter in use by the RCAF. Why did he not focus his attention on the coming obsolescence of the CF-100, whose successor is the CF-105? This makes us wonder if perhaps Mr. McIntosh, somewhere along the line, got on the inside track about a possible new day fighter for the RCAF, in which case many theories about modern air warfare, as it affects the RCAF, would be pricked.

CAUTION REQUIRED HERE

Arthur M. Master, consultant cardiologist at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, has told the American College of Chest Physicians that effort is not a factor in the production of coronary occlusions. A study of hundreds of patients who suffered heart attacks has shown that the percentage of these attacks that occurred in sleep, rest, mild, moderate or severe activity coincided with the proportion of the day usually spent in these states.

In other words, there is no reason for the person with a weak heart to avoid hard work or exercise.

Many people, we suspect, will find it difficult to accept Dr. Master's statement as a truism. But there may be many heart patients who will find it a convenient excuse at this time of year. Before quoting Dr. Master to justify 36 holes of golf, a half dozen sets of tennis, eight hours of hard fishing or a swim across the bay, they might reflect on the fact that sometimes people have inconveniently long memories. Somebody around the house may recall Dr. Master's findings next January, when the annual warning of Dr. Smirle Lawton, chief coroner of Ontario, is produced as a reason why the snow drifts in the driveway should not be vigorously attacked with a snow shovel.

THE HAPPY-MEDIUM

And you may jest your way,
But there's a time for toil, my boy,
And there's a time for play.

. . . is well enough in piece,
The smile is good to see.

But you should wear upon your face
The look of industry.

To laugh this life away is wrong.
To frown on it is worse.
The happy medium—toil and mirth
Is what you must rehearse.

How Should Life Be Lived?

New York Times

The pianist Artur Rubinstein is pay consequences.) However, if considered recently on the great human is worried about the fact that the object of his affections has "an empty face and no brain" well, the solution Mr. Rubinstein offers is one that might not work out well in all cases. In fact, it might be downright disastrous. For in the first place, it is fairly certain that a woman with an empty face and no brain will retain those characteristics indefinitely. There is no known cure for these deficiencies, and as for the treatment known science isn't even looking for a cure.

Just why the suitor got into this involvement which now worries him is a question too complex to go into. But as to the question of the suitor's worry, that in itself is not too difficult. He suspects precisely what has just been disclosed — namely, that the vacant look and the barren head will be in his opinion a decided liability. Here some speculations on his capacity for patience amounts to a legitimate worry. In the course of history men have worried about lesser things. It is probably a fact that this man's worry is closely related to what Mr. Rubinstein is saying one should do with life. This doubting suitor is fretting about the very problem which he should drop his misgivings and precipitously marry. For he wouldn't be able to "live." He might, in fact, be much closer to the reality if he did.

That Artur Rubinstein does "live"—with high heart and to full — no one would disprove. One just wishes he would explain how we could all do likewise were we able to define and practice it. It might be exactly the weapon the West needs. Every human individual — regardless of intellect (theoretically) — is potentially a Shakespeare, a Bach or an Einstein. He is — to descend quickly from Olympus — at least potentially "alive." The trick is how to get rid of that word "potentially" by filling down with a brainless, empty-faced woman to a platter of four lobsters and a case of champagne might be a start for some. But for others it would be the billous end.

Poland's Unhappy Plight

Christian Science Monitor

Is there anyone in the world who would like to trade places with Wladyslaw Gomulka, First Secretary of the Polish Communist Party? Or any nation that would exchange its geographical situation, however barren, hot, or cold, for that of Poland, locked in the Soviet vise as it was locked in the nutcracker of rivalry between Teutons and Slavs?

Mr. Gomulka, who is actually the leading figure in present-day Poland, has had to tone down the anti-Soviet "liberalism" that stemmed from the policy represented in the execution of former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy. The Warsaw Writers Union in Warsaw had been purged of the Polish party's disapproved of the secret trial and death penalties. Gomulka now says he cannot judge the fairness of the decision.

President Joseph Cyrankiewicz criticizes Nagy for having "capitulated before the forces of reaction and counter-revolution and assisted in their work." And Gomulka himself now approves Yugoslavia under President Tito for "revisionism" which he says has separated it from the Soviet bloc.

This latter taking of sides in the Soviet-Yugoslav controversy may be what Moscow chiefly demands. But Warsaw may be allowed to reserve an opinion on the Hungarian uprising that began as a Hungarian matter. But it is clear that the Gomulka regime has been put under severe pressure by Soviet Premier Khrushchev to take this far line. But it is even possible that the retort to legalized murder in the case of Nagy was a warning to Gomulka.

There is no doubt that the great majority of the Polish people sympathize deeply with t h e Hungarians who in November, 1956, fought beside Gen. Pal Maleter against Soviet tanks. But the willingness of Poles a month later to face Soviet bayonets brought Gomulka out of prison to form a partially independent government.

That government reached a degree of understanding with the Roman Catholic Church on one side while it stood off the heirs of Stalinism on the other. It moved materially the collectivization of agriculture. To hold this much self-determinism for Poles the Russians will have to be more exceedingly cautious. Any sign of too much independence would bring back the Soviet jailers.

Indeed, three divisions of Soviet troops continue to be stationed in Poland. But it does not appear that any increase in the number of troops has been made in this case. Rather, the exercise of economic and political pressure has been more suited to Moscow's purposes. Polish nationalism still will not be wholly dependent on raw materials — for example, iron ore — from the Soviet Union. But a Stalinist wing of the Polish Communist Party, with encouragement from Moscow, could cause dire trouble for Gomulka.

This is not a situation in which American aid could turn the balance. Given a decade or two or years (and assuming Poland still is permitted to accept it), such assistance could give Poles only a small amount of leverage with Moscow. But in the short some time even that small leverage might prove important. And certainly the American will do well to try to understand the tight spot Poland is in and the d i r e yearning for independence which burns in the hearts of Poles.

Seps Space TV Stations

BBC London Letter

The fact that the energy released by a single hydrogen bomb is enough to take the entire British Navy to Mars and bring it back to earth may or may not be a consoling thought but this was the illustration used by Mr. Arthur C. Clarke, a former chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, in a recent interview to indicate that space travel will not be economically practical until atomic energy is available for propelling. Such power, he thought might be harnessed in fifteen or twenty years time, and the first landing on the moon—probably by conventional chemical means—might be made about twenty years from now.

Mr. Clarke said that he thought the first direct impact of space travel on human life would be in the field of television and communications. "The range of the television transmitter is limited by the horizon", he said. "When we can beam television by satellites, thousands of miles up, a single transmitter could cover half the earth and you need only two or three of these to spread round the earth to provide a global television network. If any one nation were to establish this, and to provide good entertainment, reporting and commercial facilities, that nation could dominate the earth in its cultural and economic sense."

The best height for satellite station would be about 22,000 miles, Mr. Clarke said, because at that height the satellite appeared to stay fixed in one spot, instead of circling round the earth. He thought that man would be boasting out to space before Mars and Venus something like five years after the first landings on the moon.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 5th., 1938.

The Army and Navy Veterans Unit 201 of this city announced today the result of a successful garden contest which took place as their annual picnic on July 3rd. The correct number of beans in the jar was 1,342. The nearest guess was 1,350 submitted by Mrs. Lilly Gillett, Grier Street, in this city who was declared the winner. Mr. Reginald Dew of Toronto acted as judge.

From our file copy at that time in 1938: The baseball teams of Plainfield and Zion's Hill played a match at a strawberry festival recently. The game lasted five hours and the final score was 78 to 52 in favor of Plainfield. There are twenty five persons enjoying a vacation at the new hotel at Massassaga Park. The steamer Quinte will carry excursionists to Belleville and Davy's Island on Saturday next.

Mr. Ernest Berry is attending summer school at Queen's University, Kingston.

Miss Jean Totton of Toronto is spending a vacation with her parents Mrs. Gerald Bristol, Trent Road.

Mrs. James Cooke, Douglas and Donald of Lindsay are visiting Mrs. Cooke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Morton, Trent Road.

30 YEARS AGO

July 5th., 1928.

The Belleville Fair will be held this year on August 29th, 29th, 30th, and 31st.

Mr. William Rodbourne, Charter Street, is visiting friends in Buffalo, N.Y.

The funeral of Col. S. S. Lister, who died on the 4th inst. at the age of 86 years, will be held tomorrow to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Bishop, Hillside Street, have returned home after spending a few days in Ottawa.

Johann Sebastian Bach was not only one of the greatest geniuses who ever lived, he was one of the most noble men. On every one of his compositions he made the following inscription: "To the Glory of God Alone." He lived and died in obscurity compared with the world-wide acclaim he was later to receive. Yet he lived for one purpose only, that his God-given mind was buried in music, but that music was to be had a greater love — his love for God. He was the favorite of his king. Some of his greatest compositions his day knew about him and appreciated his work. But for the most part he was a simple-living man, devoted to his large family, diligent in his duty as a professional musician, yet like an ever-

Why not make earnest effort to confer that pleasure on others? Be the battle is lost if you never allow yourself to say anything cheerful."

When a cheerful person enters a room the entire atmosphere of it is changed. It's immediately changed. It's as though God himself had come — and perhaps He does! Cheerful people keep inviting others to their side. And others like to take their side happily and with enthusiasm.

ELECTROLYTIC REMOVAL OF HAIR IS PERMANENT

Since unwanted hair, especially hair on the face, is such an important problem to women, I'm going to quote a reader who comments that she has this trouble — and that both her grandmothers, her father, and her brother were or are physicians.

She writes, "Several times you have advised women to have hair on face removed by electrolytic methods, if hair is not too extensive. I am in my 30's the normal fuzz on my face became heavier, especially on upper lip and chin line. I began to use depilatories, with no ill effect, and I am now 56.

"There are many good ones on the market now, but the one I have been using for a long time and is easiest is . . . . I am enclosing a folder. On the box is the label, 'Contains calcium thioglycolate.' I realize you cannot name products in your new column, but you will know how to word it. It strikes me there are so many otherwise attractive women with unsightly hair on face, neck, and arms who stand why they do not know about depilatories. They are not permanent, but in many cases do not need to be used very often."

True, I avoid mentioning brand names. The product you mentioned in the letter I produced by one of the well known and reliable cosmetic firms. The directions include this shrewd and honest advice: "If your skin is sensitive or you have never used a hair-removing cream, we suggest a patch test on a small area first."

In other words, nobody can produce a cream or, at this sort, or in fact any product, that may not irritate somebody. What is fine for one may bother another. So try it in a small area at first.

Good advice.

As to the general topic: Electrolytic removal of hair by a technique, but it is a long process since each hair root must be destroyed individually.

Depilatories, or hair-removing creams (and there are many of these for shaving legs, arms, face) do not make the hair grow darker, as many people does a haircut! So these methods may be safely used, but must be repeated as the new growth requires it.

It's my personal feeling that many women are unduly self-conscious, and that many times they feel their beauty is seriously marred by a growth of hair which, to others, is trivial. But then, all I can do is tell what I know about the various possible methods and you may choose the course that suits them best.

How many of them could put up a fair estimate of the number of times they were tempted to do so, and succumbed on with the number of times they got away with it? Not one of our foresters, in a recent bulletin, described the plight of the high-spirited sportsman who were caught in flagrant violation of the game laws, with all times their limit of fish.

We were interested in some arithmetic done in Britain the other day. It concerned the earnings of a tousled-haired youth who plays a guitar, sings rocks and rolls. It seems that Tommy Steele, the youth in question, earns an average of $10 per minute sisters, and he has fallen ill. The London Daily Express worked out how much it was going to cost him to be off work.

Average for a normal year, Mr. Steel earns as much as 10 prime ministers, or 20 chancellors of the exchequer, or 85 top grade engineers engaged in their professions, or 30 clerks to develop his talent, a gifted actor who attains success at last, he was might understand, but we have been taking our son a boy with a guitar . . .

THY WAY, NOT MINE, O LORD

Thy way, not mine, O Lord,
However dark it be!
Lead me by thine own hand;
Choose out the path for me;
I dare not choose my lot;
I would not if I might;
Choose thou for me, my God,
So shall I walk aright.

The kingdom that I seek
Is thine, so let the way
That leads to it be thine,
Else I must surely stray.
Take thou my cup, and it
With joy or sorrow fill,
As best to thee may seem;
Choose thou my good and ill.

Choose thou for me my friends,
My sickness or my health;
Choose thou my cares for me.
My poverty or wealth;
Not mine, not mine, the choice,
In things of great or small;
Be thou my guide, my strength,
My wisdom, and my all.

A Scotch preacher who loved his Sunday School and who spent a good many hours between Sundays writing songs for his boys and girls in order to lend devotional services was the author of this hymn.

Horatius Bonar was the preacher-poet and his hymn of Christian trust appeared in 1856 and w a s given wide circulation a year later when it was published in t h e popular volume entitled "Hymns Of Faith And Hope".

Dr. Bonar was born in Edinburgh on December 19, 1808, studied for the ministry, was ordained, and began his career as minister of the Scottish Presbyterian Church at Kelso. When, in 1843, the Scottish church was rent by dissention, Dr. Bonar joined a group of leaders who went over into the Free Church of Scotland. He remained in this church, preaching chiefly at Edinburgh, until 1866.

A good many of Dr. Bonar's hymns are still popular with Christians and are still holding places in our best hymnals. Among the most familiar of these are "I Heard The Voice Of Jesus", "Beyond The Smiling And The Weeping", "I Was A Wandering Sheep" and "I Lay My Sins On Jesus".

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Founder of the Moravians

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, July 6 — In some parts of the Christian Church the O l d Testament Isaiah is considered a saint and is honored today. It is, of course, completely impossible to say why July 6 should have been selected as his day.

Isaiah was the greatest of the prophets, at least from the point of view of Christians. His writings are full of predictions about the Messiah (Christ) to come, and of insights that were important in preparing the ancient world for the coming of Jesus.

Tradition says he was martyred — sawn in two by order of the King of Judah and buried under an oak tree. This was in the seventh century B.C., and the supposed location of his grave was still venerated as a holy place as late as the fifth century A.D.

Scholars say Isaiah wrote only chapters 40 to 66 of th. book that bears his name.

Also Sunday — Today is the anniversary of the burning, in 1415, of John Huss, or Hus, a Czech who was one of the most famous and effective forerunners of t h e Protestant Reformation.

The present Moravian church can be traced back directly to him. The details of Huss' conflicts with the theology and government of the Church in his time would be hard to understand and pretty uninteresting now, but the Moravians have made and a r e still making a great contribution to the quality of Christian life and thought, and this contribution stands as a mouument to t h e troublesome Czech who just could not accept things as they were.

Huss was greatly indebted to John Wycliffe for the way he thought and felt. Wycliffe, w h o was called the Morning Star of the Reformation, was a relentless c r i t i c of the contemporary church. He denied the doctrine of transubstantiation, w h i c h of course, made him a heretic, and he lashed out against monasticism, which was so much a part of the structure of the church in those times.

Huss as a college boy in Prague became attracted to and finally steeped in Wycliffe's philosophical and theological writings, and as soon as he could he set out to do something about putting them into practice.

He founded an organization which he called The Unity of Brethren. Actually it amounted to a new church, for its principles were such that no one could hold them and still stay in the church as it was. The Unity of Brethren held four main tenets:

1) The Bible is the only authentic source of Christian doctrine. This was a denial of the church's power to add to original doctrine.

2) Public worship should be as it was in the times of The Apostles. This was a protest against the elaborate ceregmenial developed by the church.

3) The Lord's Supper is received in faith. This meant that it is the faith of the receiver, rather than the action of the priest, that makes the bread and wine t h e body and blood of Christ.

4) Christian living is evidence that a man has a saving faith.

All this means is that "by their fruits ye shall know them."

The Brethren went through two centuries of cruel persecution, but they weathered it and within three centuries they were off the defensive and engaged in missionary projects of their own.

Huss himself was burned for heresy.

"pilgrims and strangers upon the earth," using the scriptural reference in the Epistle to t h e Hebrews.

The name pilgrim clung to them, and by the beginning of the nineteenth century the term Pilgrim Fathers came into use Thus it is striking that those who were called separatists in England have become known to us as Pilgrim Fathers.

In the history of this little company we see revealed both t h e principles of separation and association. There come times in the course of human events when for the sake of conscience men have to sever old associations. Conscientious people, like the Pilgrims, have felt constrained to cut loose from their ecclesiastical moorings and start new denominations.

A situation may develop in a business or social organization that a man feels obliged to leave in order to save his integrity and self-respect.

But merely to separate from a situation or group is no adequate solution. If the English separatists who left the Church of England had become an isolated, ingrown group, they would soon have withered away and been forgotten. But that company of Pilgrims united with other colonists and became known as the Fathers of a new commonwealth.

Goodness can be effective only through association. In fact, you cannot really be good all by yourself. Perhaps some cynic may sarcastically say, "The only time a person can be good is when he is by himself." But seriously, goodness cannot long exist in a vacuum.

One might cleanse his mind of all unworthy thoughts and entertain his passions from all impure desires. But would such purity be pure goodness?

The Scripture reminds us that we cannot claim to love God whom we have not seen unless we love our fellow men whom we do see, and can anyone be said to love his neighbors if he has no fellowship with them?

Also, the company of others often helps to keep us from falling into temptation. In the Genesis story of the Garden of Eden, Eve is pictured as being alone when she yielded to the tempting fruit.

John Milton in "Paradise Lost" picked this up to imply that it was when she was away from her partner that she was open to temptation. Most of us know the allures are harder to resist when we are away from social sanctions and feeling the pangs of loneliness.

But sometimes the loneliest place is in a crowd. I have seen far more loneliness in New York than back in Knox County, Ohio, where I grew up. The larger the city, the more its people tend to pile up like sand piles with no element of community spirit to hold the particles together.

A few years ago I saw a crowd of 50,000 in Calcutta j'milling around some Communist speakers. They were the landless, propertyless and jobless people of India — the fertile soil for the Communist seed.

But when people have a sense of belonging to a community, of being responsible for its homes and schools and churches, they are pretty immune to the Communist germ. The spirit of community is our best defense against communism.

Our Canadian readers will understand if I recall the words of Benjamin Franklin at this Fourth of July season. As Franklin affixed his signature to the Declaration of Independence he said, "We must all hang together or assuredly we shall hang separately."

The reason for unity is s t i l l cogent, as free countries like Canada and the United States realize and reveal in their comradeship.

"A Lift for Living"

Cutting Loose or Joining Up

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Several years ago I stood on the wharf from which the Pilgrim Fathers sailed for America. It is, as you know, in the English city of Plymouth.

The day of my visit was a bank holiday. And in the pleasure-seeking crowds surging through Plymouth's parks, I could not find many who knew much about the place from which the Pilgrims embarked. The spot is marked by a modest little arch and inscription.

I suppose the departure of that small company of 41 families did not attract much attention in the sixteenth day of September, 1620.

Perhaps many were glad to see Old Pilgrims go because they were dissenters from the established church.

They were called separatists by the English. They migrated first to Holland. Then after a few years a majority of them left Holland for America by way of Plymouth.

Governor William aradford and others of their leaders referred to these twice-transplanted people as

TRENT — TURCOTTE

TWEED?— Miss Marguerite Lillian Turcotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Turcotte, of Stoco, was married in St. James' Anglican Church, Tweed, to Mr. Thomas Trent, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Trent, of Harrietsdale. The Rev. I. E. Hawkes officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated with pink gladioli, white mums and pink and white snapdragons for the ceremony.

Mrs. Lois Chambers presided at the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. A. Gibson Allen.

The bride was lovely in a Bellerina - length wedding gown of white embroidered lace, designed with tight bodice, and bouffant skirt over taffeta. The short jacket had long pointed sleeves. Her circular fingertip veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade of roses and feathered carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Joan Kelly, was in pink Chantilly lace over satin, with white headdress. Her bouquet was of pink and white feathered carnations.

Mr. John Bradbury attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Philip Turcotte was the usher.

For the reception following the ceremony, the bride's mother received the guests in a sheath gown of pink brocaded taffeta with matching jacket, blue accessories and corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother was also in blue, with beige accessories and carnation corsage.

For the honeymoon to the southern States, the bride donned a blue brocaded sheath dress with matching duster, white accessories, and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Trent, on their return, will take residence at 146 University Avenue, Kingston.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Toronto, Nova Scotia, Madoc and Kingston.

Floral Emblems of Canada

Western Dogwood of B.C.

by Lavonia Stockelbach

Only one of the provinces has a tree-flower for its emblem, the Western Dogwood of British Columbia, and to see that in its full pure beauty, it is best to be there between the middle of April and the middle of May, though there is another flowering period in the middle of the festival in the autumn. The actual dogwood is a small white to green in large clusters or knobs, but they are surrounded by large white petal-like bracts: when they fall it will be seen that the centres have bouches of berry-like fruit — red, white or black.

As one walks through Stanley Park in Vancouver, one is almost startled by the appearance of the brilliant white against the background of evergreen trees and the deep blue of the sky, but none more beautiful than the trees in University grounds.

The word dogwood goes back to the Anglo-Saxon and has certainly nothing to do with dogs. In England, where the family is native, skewers or pegs, or, as the country people still can them, "dags" were made from the hard white wood, so hard that it was also used for arrow shafts, the Romans used it for their lances. Dogwood would be a rather better name. Pacific Dogwood seems to me a preferable name.

Very few living in the eastern and middle sections of Canada are familiar with the tree, but it is found in the Niagara district and west of Lake St. Clair, and there to a bright red color matched only by the flame of its leaves.

NAMED AFTER BOTANIST

It is the western or Pacific dogwood that British Columbia has chosen for its emblem. All of the trees are given the Latin name Cornus, very appropriately, for it is derived from the word cornus meaning hard on account of its strong wood. It does take a little time to learn the filing system of botanists, to say nothing of the time it takes them to evolve it. This western tree grows over to the Fraser River and down as far as California.

The second part of the name is from that of the English botanist and ornithologist from Yorkshire, Thomas Nuttall, who came to America and became curator in the Botanic Gardens of Harvard University. In 1836 he crossed the whole continent to the Pacific Ocean and even went over to the Hawaiian Islands, a journey of great and even hazardous difficulty for a man of forty-eight. It was doubtless at this time that he discovered this Pacific Dogwood, and it is an added pleasure to have his name associated with it.

The tree reaches up to the sunlight, and in the woods can be tall and spindly, but where it has a chance to grow unhampered in the open it can, and does, reach sixty feet and 25 feet in circumference. Here it forms a rounded top and its pure perfection is indeed sublime.

The petals or petal-like bracts of the eastern species have each a little nip taken out where the tip should be and conforms to the form of four, but the western petal is pointed, and there can be from four to six of them, sometimes seven. One flower I have traced measures over four inches.

BEAUTIFUL FOLIAGE

The leaves, glossy dark green above and much lighter below, are unusually veined, curling around at the edge to conform somewhat to the shape of the leaf, something in the manner of the leaf of Jack-in-the-Pulpit but not so interestingly. The twigs are warmly colored, some of them in winter of deep crimson to purple with streaks of brightest emerald green. The differences of flower leaves twigs and bark, however, do not lessen the family relationship.

As a complete contrast one cannot help in passing to give a word of greeting to one of the family, the little ground Cornus Canadensis, or bunchberry, only three or four inches high, which one finds from Newfoundland to Alaska and down as far as Virginia. From the tiny white petal bracts and the whorled leaves in the gorgeous scarlet berries, it has all the dogwood zone features except size and is a joy to look upon and to draw or paint. In a church in Victoria one finds it delicately carved on the pulpit, and as further contrast as a design for a floor mat made in Newfoundland, giant tree and dainty cornelle of one family—pure perfection.

This article concludes the series on Floral Emblems of Canada.

By HARRIET STEVENS

One of the most rewarding dividends of writing your column twice weekly is the periodic privilege of spreading good news about some outstanding Canadian man and woman. Because your column is a women's column primarily, it is naturally, I hope, a special delight to tell you about some women from our own community. Today we have news about a lady to whom T and T has previously referred. Miss Dorothy Potts, former superintendent of Nurses at the Belleville General Hospital, has been appointed anew in the profession to which she has dedicated her life. Dorothy left Belleville to join the World Health Organization of the United Nations. Her first new duty was in Pakistan for several years. She worked diligently and her personality, supported by outstanding accomplishment, brought her many friends. She was given a fellowship to study for one year at Columbia University, New York. It was just over one year ago that your reporter saw her in New York and at that time she told me of the post where her new appointment would take her. Jordan was selected for a brief spell at the Kingston General Hospital, taking what she called a refresher course. Subsequently her appointment came through and she takes up her duties at Singapore in the Far East.

Recently Dorothy received orders to assume new responsibilities. She has been appointed Regional Nursing Adviser for the Eastern Mediterranean Region. Her new duties cover a vast territory. She will be stationed at Alexandria as soon as her replacement, a Singapore lady, arrives. She will be adviser to nursing development for North Africa, the Arab world and Pakistan. Autumn will probably find her in Alexandria.

From our reading of United Nations literature, we have discovered that the challenge of teaching for the advancement of the nursing profession throughout the Near East and Far East is a mighty program and one of the great humanitarian projects within the United Nations. The quiet power of people like Dorothy Potts is taking a little while to get over the feeling that all Germans are going to talk like Erich von Stroheim, and that someone is going to shout "Achtung!" at you.

Not conducive to allaying this fear is the fact that German government officials still affect the boots, the raunchy, high-flanged caps, and the wreath-decorated lapels that — let's face it — are so dearly love for their uniforms. Even bold doormen look like Oberleutnants.

The first time we saw a customs officer at the airport we winced, and when we came across a couple of railroad police later we jumped at least three feet. These guys were dressed all in black, including leather coats a la Rommel down to their boot tops, with leather hanging at their waists. Only the swastika armbands were missing.

But they smiled and saluted at the tourists cheerfully, as did everyone else we encountered in this country. It was high spring and there was cheer in the Bier Garten. After all, Germans have a right to a German phrase than Hell you-know-where.

Frankfurt is a modern, rebuilt city full of shiny-windowed stores, streetcars, traffic cops, half-racing traffic, long tree-shaded boulevards, night clubs with a touch of American Gis, and most of the other things that go to make up a city not unlike anywhere in the free world today.

But underneath it all, unmistakably, lies the old world of Gemutlichkeit that will always be — and always was — a part of Europe.

Shannonville, Reserve P.S. Hold Field Day

Close to 200 pupils of the Shannonville and Reserve Public Schools recently took part in a Field Day at the Shannonville Fair Grounds.

Points were awarded for placings and participation in the many track and field events. The outstanding girl athlete of the day was Verna Brant, of Shannonville, who received a large cup for her efforts. The Reserve Public School was the top boy athlete.

The Shannonville Home and School presented three smaller cups to the person with the most points either in the junior, intermediate or age division. Senior division was again awarded to Verna Brant, Intermediate was awarded to Teresa Barborstock, and junior, Lu Ann Barry.

Ribbons were given for placings in the track and field events and everyone enjoyed the novelty races as well.

The children were treated with free drinks, chocolate bars, and potato chips donated by the local merchants in Shannonville and the Home and School Association.

The New Germany Still Retains Love of Pre-War Theatricals

GOOD MANNERS

— By Mrs. Beeckman

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS EXPECTED "MORE" ENTERTAINMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter was married at a church wedding recently, and the reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the afternoon for 250 guests. In the evening we gave a dinner in our home for about 40 relatives and friends. Ten of these guests were from out-of-town, so they were lodged overnight at a local hotel, at our expense. Now my question is this: Was it necessary to have those ten guests at our house the next day to Sunday dinner, or was my obligation fulfilled the day of the wedding? In other words, was entertaining them to dinner the following day a "breach of etiquet" on my part?

— Perplexed

No . . . definitely no breach of etiquet in your not inviting these ten out-of-town guests to dinner or to any other occasion on the day following the wedding. You and your family were most kind and generous in your hospitality to all your guests . . . the church wedding, the large reception, and then the dinner in the evening . . . and extraordinarily generous to the out-of-town guests in arranging for and paying for their hotel accommodations.

These ten out-of-town guests should have departed as soon as the time of your entertainments for them was up, should of course not have expected or accepted any further hospitality. should have had the heart to realize that after all the planning and effort and importantly-required expenditure involved you fi n d done you surely deserved a well-earned rest. You were a most gracious, thoughtful and generous hostess . . . and please don't let any guest with a "gimme more" urge cast a shadow on your fine hospitality by completely unjust criticism.

SERVICE NOT EXPECTED OF HOSTESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have recently moved into our new house, and this summer will be the first time we will be able to invite guests to stay with us. I have no service. Please tell me: when a guest stays overnight, is the hostess expected to unpack the suitcase? Is a maid would? And am I expected to take off the bedspreads at night and turn back the bedcovers in the guest room?

— New Hostess

No . . . to both questions.

WHERE TO PLACE ICED TEA SPOON?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I set my table in summer, for either luncheon or dinner, where should I place the iced tea spoon? — I. W.

Place it to the right of the knife.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Laura M. — I don't want to give up the fight for my husband . . .

John B. — She has no right to sacrifice her sons . . .

Laura M. — My husband and I have been separated for the past two years because of his affair with another woman. We have two sons, 19 and 20, and my husband has contributed well to our support.

Up until now I have refused to co-operate in granting my husband a divorce. He has no reason to make things easy for him after the way he treated me.

Now, however, my husband says if I grant the divorce he will sign all-out in his help to the boys. He has promised to take them into his own very successful business or to set them up in businesses of their own. Otherwise he'll do nothing for them.

Maybe I'm being foolish, but I still feel there is some small hope of winning my husband back. I don't want to give up yet, but my brother thinks I'm wrong.

John B. — I don't see how there can be two ways of thinking about it. Laura has no right to sacrifice her sons just in order to get her own way about this thing.

A man who has been separated from his family for two years isn't going to come back. In fact, it seems to me another Laura would really want him back after all the bitterness that has occurred between them. I don't see how they could ever resume normal married life again.

If she would get a divorce, Laura might think in terms of putting married again and building her life over. This way she isn't being fair about the injustice that was done her and lives in a hopeless dream of getting back a man who doesn't want her.

I don't think her sons will ever be able to forgive her if she throws away their big chance like this.

The Council: John offers some reasonable arguments, yet we do not believe his conclusion is necessarily correct.

Money is a great temptation, but this is blackmail. There is no reason to suppose the money that flows so easily from a muddled mother will benefit these young men in the long run in terms of their personal happiness.

These sons may be far better off if they set out to make their own way in the world.

We believe Laura can explain to her sons why she is making a decision which seems damaging to them at the moment. If she sincerely felt there was hope of reconciliation, she would certainly be doing a grave injustice to them and herself by becoming a partner to the deal her husband offers.

On the other hand, Laura is foolish if she is focused purely on the matter of making it hot for her husband. The damage to herself is much more serious than any damage she can do her husband by pursuing this line of thought and feeling.

She must try to free herself from brooding self-pity, spite and senseless daydreaming and think in terms of creating as full a n d happy a life for herself as she is able. Then she will know better how to set best in her own interest and that of her sons.

Laura's decision about t h e divorce should be based on rationality and sound principles, and she must try to rule out the temptation simply to accept a bribe.

"At Home" Marks 25th Wedding Anniversary

TWEED — The Lodgeroom home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Montgomery was the occasion of the "At Home" of Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery on Tuesday, twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on Dominion Day, July 1st, 1958, when some 150 guests of relatives, friends, and neighbors called from three to five in the afternoon and from seven to ten in the evening to wish them all the best.

The living room and dining room were tastefully decorated with baskets of peonies, iris and other early summer flowers, the dining table was centred with the traditional three-tiered wedding cake for the anniversary, silver candelabra and silver appointments.

The pouring of tea was carried out during the afternoon and evening by several ladies of the W.A. and church group. The Women's Association catered for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery have three children, one daughter, Betty, who will graduate from the Civic Hospital in Ottawa training in September, of this year, two sons, Donald of Toronto and Stanley, who is in the final year at the Tweed High School.

They have lived on the same farm since their marriage twenty-five years ago, it is situated on the Lodgroom Road just west of the village of Tweed.

Mrs. Montgomery is a teacher at the Tweed Consolidated School and her husband is on the staff at the Tweed Post office.

They were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, including a mirror, cushion, lamps, flatware, and a full chest of silver from the members of the immediate family.

They were married in Hamilton, by the Rev. W. L. Wright, (now Archbishop). Among the out-of-town guests who attended the reception were friends from Peterborough, Perth, Toronto, Belleville, Madoc and Stirling.

Question: Do you know of a French pancake about an inch thick? You fry them in quite a lot of fat and they stay crisp till eaten. There L a French doughnut too like a cruller inside. Would you have these recipes? — Margaret C.

Answer: I'll give you the doughnuts first. They are quite sensational — the custard effect comes from making them from cream puff dough.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

SATURDAY

(Porch or Patio)

Cold Cuts; Sliced Cold Roast Pork (left from Thurs.); Sliced Salami or Head Cheese; Radishes for Garnish. Salad Platter: Potato Salad, Pickled Eggs (see Thurs.), Inner Lettuce Leaves for Garnish; Pickled Beets; Onions and Gherkins; Thinly Sliced Buttered Rye Bread; Lemon Sponge Roll; Iced Tea.

FRENCH DOUGHNUTS

Heat to boiling point 1-2 cup milk or water and 1-4 cup butter. Add all at once 1-2 cup flour sifted with 1-8 teaspoon salt and cook and stir until it leaves sides of pan and forms ball. Remove from heat. Beat in well, one at a time, 2 eggs. Add 1-2 teaspoon orange or lemon rind finely grated and 1 tablespoon sugar. Cool for 5 minutes. Shape using 2 spoons to make circles or figure 8's, on squares of heavily greased paper. Turn upside down into hot fat 380 to 390 Deg. turning when under side is golden brown. As soon as second side is done, lift on-by-one with fork and quickly drain on absorbent-paper-lined flat tin in oven of 375 Deg. to keep hot until batch is finished. If desired these may be dredged with sifted icing sugar.

The recipe for French Pancakes (not crepes) has a variation that gives a thick crunchy pancake. I think it is what you are after.

THICK FRENCH PANCAKES

(Crisp). Measure 1 cup sifted flour (the French use bread flour), and result it with 1-2 teaspoon salt 1 tablespoon (or more — up to 4 or 5 teaspoons) baking powder, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar. To 3 beaten eggs, add 2-3 cup milk and 1-3 cup water (a little less). Make a well in sifted dry ingredients add 1-4 teaspoon grated lemon rind or vanilla, pour in wet ingredients—and combine with a few strokes. Ignore lumps. Heat a 5-in. frying pan with butter, add 1-4 cup batter. Tip to spread and cook over moderate heat. When bottom is brown turn and brown other side. Use a few more drops of oil for each pancake. If desired spread each with jelly, fold up, sprinkle with icing sugar to serve hot.

Note: Why not try this with deeper fat? You might get the crisp effect you describe.

Sunday School Picnic

WESLEYAN METHODIST S.S.

The annual Sunday School picnic of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, Everett Street, was held on July 1st, at Glen Allen Park, Marmora.

The bus and caravan of cars left the city at 9.30 a.m., with much ado and excitement among the younger generation.

Upon their arrival at the park, many enjoyed a quick dip, which was most refreshing in the 90 degree heat.

Many helping hands assisted the lunch committee; Mrs. A. Hobbs, Mrs. B. Elliott and Mrs. D. Mitts, in preparing a bountiful meal of salads, sandwiches, cakes and a considerable quantity of ice cream and drinks.

Recreation was in charge of Mr. Mitts, Mitts, Jr., the pastor-man and Mr. Clayton Young. The winners were suitably rewarded and were as follows:

Children under 3 — Robert Paul Moore; children 3 to 4—Jimmy Young, Janis Young, Debbie Moore; children 5 to 6—Paul Hall, Danny Dow, Margaret Denike; girls 7 to 10—Dorothy Robinson, Debbie McIntosh, Marilyn Syatt; boys 7 to 10—Bobby Young, Billy Cherney, Terry Young; girls 11 to 14—Norma Cooney, Beverley Moore; boys 11 to 14—Carl Robinson, Roger Young; men 18 and over—Marvin Mitts; 3-legged race—Leslie Hall; shoe scramble —Wesley Hall.

The youngest baby in attendance was Lori Mitts, 5 months old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mitts, of Trenton; the runner-up being nine months old Ronnie Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bell, of Peterborough.

The remainder of the day was spent in swimming and fellowship. The bus left the park at 4.30 with a tired, happy group of children. Thanks are due the pastor, Rev. J. S. A. Spearman and the S.S. superintendent, Mr. Floyd Cummings.

National League Race Closest Since 1900; Braves Bite Dust Twice

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

They sat in comfortable chairs in the plush clubhouse of the Pine Hollow Country Club where a rich charity golf tourney was under way. They chatted not of holes-in-one, roughs, brassies, niblicks, greens and putts, but in a language strange to the ears of hard-bitten golfers.

They were Bill Esinicki, former wild horse of the isolane pampas, and Bill Chadwick, rated in some National Hockey League circles as one of the best whistle-and-thumb men to wear the official paraphernalia. Esinicki is now a pro golfer while Chadwick is the general manager at Pine Hollow.

They were never "buddies" in the roaring hockey days. During the Stanley Cup playoffs one season Chadwick chased Ezzie five times in one period to set up a six-bin record for one frame.

The reminiscences flowed. Both were honest about it.

"You held the record a couple of years for the most time spent in the penalty box. Would you say I sent you there more often than any other referee?" asked Chadwick gently.

"Probably," grinned Ezzie. "You were in the league the longest. I'm not buttering you, but the best officiating the league ever had was when you, King Clancy and George Gravel were referees. No one minds a penalty he rates. I was always entitled to mine."

"I gave you some cheap ones, but you got away with a lot," sighed Chadwick.

The tough calls for referees are infractions no one else sees, he said. He recalled when Chuck Rayner of the Rangers pulled his head back too far after catching a puck, and "I called it a goal. I was in a perfect position to see it. You should have heard those Rangers scream.

Ezzie said that less than 25 per cent of all goals are clean cut. Most of them are screens or caroms or lucky bounces.

"But they are made because they are shot," said Chadwick. Ezzie agreed. He said that when he was with Toronto Hap Day was always yelling at him 'Shoot the puck.' "But I always preferred to pass it to Apps or Watson. One odd thing though," he mused, "was that I usually scored the first goal in every Stanley Cup series and Connie Smythe was so happy he'd holler, 'There goes Ezzie, starting us off.'

"But," went on Esinicki, "let me get back to the importance of shooting the puck. We were playing Boston and were tied 1-1 with a minute to go. The lines were about to change and I wanted to get rid of the puck. So I shot, even though I was in mid-ice back of the blue line.

"That puck caromed off the pad and headed towards the cage. Just as Frankie Brimsek reached for it it took a weird bounce and leaped over his glove into the net."

"I told you to shoot, didn't I," yelled Hap Day.

"That's right, Hap," I said, "I did it just for you." The truth of the matter was that I was only trying to get rid of the puck."

* * *

"Remember the time Maurice Richard hit you over the head with his stick?" asked Chadwick. "I gave him a match penalty. That was one I couldn't miss since he reached over my shoulder to crease you."

"As I recall it," said Esinicki, "we scored three goals while he was in the clink and Montreal was so demoralized that Toronto went on to win the Stanley Cup."

SOFTBALL TIDBIT

It is likely "Ole Rubber Arm" Pat Maracle will match his curbs and wiles against the speedy shoots of two topflight hurlers this evening when Point Anne meets the Oshawa Tony's in an exhibition game at Ox Point.

Either Norm Bagnell or Charlie Justice, or both, will show their mound wares against the Belleville district league leaders and with Phil Lefi's crew fit and ready, the clash should be the softball sight of the season.

The Oshawa OASA senior "B" champions are a hard-hitting, smooth fielding club and with their top hurlers should prove quite a nut for the Ox Pointers to crack. Game time, seven o'clock.

Phillies, Redlegs Win Twins As Cards, Cubs Split Pair; Yankees Crack Nats for Two

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No doubt about it. This is the closest National League race of modern time.

When Philadelphia Phillies, suddenly on a come-alive drive, swept Friday's doubleheader at Milwaukee 5-1 and 4-0, not only was the Braves' first-place margin cut to 1½ games, but last-place Los Angeles, idle, moved within seven games of the top.

Never in the modern (since 1900) era, has there been such a short spread between top and bottom, in the NL on July 4.

San Francisco blew a chance to regain second place from idle St. Louis, losing 6-1 after a five-run rally in the ninth had beaten the Cubs 6-5 in the opener. The Phillies, a straggling seventh through June, gained a share of fourth place, 3½ games behind Milwaukee, with Cincinnati Redlegs, who swept Pittsburgh 4-3 and 8-5.

PHILS SWEEP SERIES

A crowd of 23,706, largest of the day, saw righthander Jack Sanford (6-6) blank the Braves on five hits, including two doubles by Hank Aaron, for a series sweep that gave the Phils a five-game streak, their longest of the year. Ted Kazanski had three hits and drove in two runs for the Phils, who collected 10 hits while handing 10 games winner Warren Spahn his fifth defeat.

Ed Bouchee and Del Ennis paced for the Phils, while Carl Sawatski, who was 4-for-6 with the Braves before being traded two weeks ago, had four consecutive hits for the opponents, one a homer, and drove in three runs. Curt Simmons (6-5) won it with no-hit, two - inning relief from Dick Farrell.

The Braves, who now have lost four in a row, have scored only three runs in their last 27 innings—only one in the last 40 innings which bridge two shutouts.

MUSIAL REGAINS LEAD

The Giants, shut out for six innings by Johnny Briggs, capped their winning ninth in the opener on a two-run single by Willie Mays. It was his only hit of the day, dropping Willie to second (.290) in the race behind Stan Musial (.322) of St. Louis.

The Cubs chased Johnny Antonelli in the nightcap first with three runs that handed the southpaw ace an 8-7 record. Dave Hillman, making his first start of the year, won his first with a five-hitter.

The Redlegs, scoring just one run in 22 innings, went to work on a 3-0 Pirate lead with Ed Bailey's two-run homer in the third inning of the opener. Bailey out since Tuesday with a bad thumb, then doubled home the clincher in the fourth off loser Ron Kline (7-6).

Kansas City pitcher Alex Kellner won his first in the NL, blanking the Sox on four hits after relieving Don Newcome in the third.

Jerry Lynch, Don Hoak and Gus Bell homered in the nightcap, with Bell's second of the game putting it away in the fourth against Vern Law (7-6). Bob Purkey won his ninth with an eight-hitter, on Bill Virdon's rogues home run of the day.

Some Independence Day in the American League! Those overlord New York Yankees lead by 10½ games—and no club has had a bigger July 4 bulge since guess who led by 11½ in 1939.

The Yankees, sweeping the three-game set and winning their fourth straight game, twice cracked the last-place Senators before the league's largest crowd of the day, 20,688 at Washington. Bob Turley won his 12th with a three-hitter in the 3-1 opener, and Art Ditmar, pitching his first complete game for the Yankees, won the nightcap with a four-hitter 12-3.

Second - place Kansas City swiped two at Chicago, beating the White Sox 5-3 and 4-3. Boston and Baltimore split, the Red Sox winning 5-3 in the opener as Cleveland rapped Detroit 6-1, but the Tigers took the nightcap 3-1.

SHAKY START

Turley gave up two singles and walked a run across before he got a man out, then allowed only a fifth-inning single by Roy Sievers. Turley's second 1958 home run tied it and Tony Kubek's single off loser Pete Daley scored it in the seventh.

Mickey Mantle hit his 19th homer (as did Sievers) in the nightcap, as the Yankees banged 22 hits—a season league high for the season. Norm Siebern and Bill Skowron also homered for the Yankees, with Siebern, who was 4-for-5, belting a seventh with a man on in the wrapup, six-run sixth. Truman Clevenger was the loser.

The A's, trailing 5-0, chased Early Wynn and handed Turk Lown his first loss. Rookie Jim Jared Bob Cerv cracked his 22nd home run in the two-run pitchoff shot in the eighth. Jim Landis and Earl Battey hit two - run homers in the first for the Sox, who then got but one hit—Ray Boone's home-run—over the last 1-2 frames from Bob Grim, winner Tom Gorman (2-3) and Dick Tomanek.

SIMPSON, TUTTLE HOMER

Harry Simpson and Bill Tuttle homered the A's into a 3-0 lead in the nightcap as Baltimore Harry won his first with Tomanek's second perfect relief job of the day after Sherm Lollar homered with a man on in the ninth. Ray Moore (5-3) lost it.

Larry Doby was 4-for-4 and drove in four runs, three with a first-inning homer off loser Paul Foytack (6-6), while Cal McLish won his 12th as the Indians. Herm Wehmeier won his first for Detroit in the nightcap on Billy Martin's solo home run off loser Jim Grant (6-6) in the seventh.

Sammy White's bases - loaded triple capped a four-run sixth in the opener for the Sox as Frank Sullivan won his sixth with a five-hitter. Connie Johnson lost it in relief of Milt Pappas, forced out by a knee injury. The Orioles overhauled a 2-0 Boston lead with three in the nightcap sixth, then put it away on a double by Brooks Robinson and Billy Gardner's sacrifice fly in a two-run eighth. Arnie Portocarrero (6-5) won it with Mike Fornieles (3-5) the loser.

Royals Blast Bisons Twice; Stretch Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What a difference a year can make!

A year ago July 4th Montreal Royals played Buffalo Bisons in a doubleheader. The Bisons were in second place and the Royals were in the basement 13 lengths behind. The Bisons thrilled the home folks by sweeping the double bill 4-3 and 7-4.

It seems the Royals have not forgotten.

This time the positions were reversed. The high-flying, Montreal nine lead the league by 3½ games with the Bisons resting in the cellar 17½ games behind.

The Canadians showed no mercy as they swept the double header Friday 8-7 and 7-2. Clyde Parris led the attack with five hits. He collected three of them in the first game including a double which drove in the winning run in the ninth inning. In the nightcap he homered and doubled for two more runs.

Miami Marlins swept their holiday twin bill from Richmond Virginians 9 - 4 and 3 - 2 and Havana Sugar Kings won the afterpiece from Columbus Jets 2-1 in 10 innings after losing the opener 2-1.

Jerry Snyder and Bob Usher drove home three runs each in the nightcap for the Marlins. Usher hit a home run in the third inning with two mates aboard. Snyder tripled home two runs in the fourth to give Miami an 8-1 lead. In the opener that ended the Montreal nine's International League, Satchel Paige, won his seventh ball game for the Marlins in relief of Dick Bunker. Bob Micelotta drove home the winner with a seventh inning triple.

Dan Morejon's 10th inning home run in the second game ended the four - game winning streak of the Jets. The Jets won the opener 2-1 as Joe Jibbon hurled a four hitter.

Records Cracked At Relay Meet In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Three Canadian open, two open and native and one native records were set Friday night in the national relay championships at Varsity Arena.

A University of Chicago team set two records. It clipped 2.6 seconds off the Canadian open mark, set by another Chicago team last year, by finishing the four - mile relay in 16:26.8. Later, Chicago lopped almost a minute off the open and native mark of 10:27 set by University of British Columbia in 1950, taking the distance medley relay in 10:20.6.

The Toronto Olympic Club set a Canadian open record of 10:22.7, finishing second in the distance event.

One of two Guelph winners also broke a record—breaking performance. Bruce Andrews, 16, of Guelph Legion set a Canadian open and native record of 4:27.0 in the juvenile mile. F. Weaver of the Legion Club took the junior two-mile run, defeating B. March of Legion.

The Toronto Olympic Club posted a Canadian open and native record time of 3:47.6 in the juvenile sprint medley relay and the Detroit suburban track club added a Canadian open record time of 3:40.4 in the junior sprint medley relay.

Althea Gibson Meets Briton For Women's Singles Crown

WIMBLEDON, England (CP)—With the men's singles title neatly taken care of by Australia's Ashley Cooper, two women take the spotlight today at the Wimbledon tennis championship.

Defending champion and favorite Althea Gibson of New York meets Angela Mortimer of Britain for the women's singles crown.

Cooper, seeded No. 1 in the men's division, used his booming power to overcome countryman Neale Fraser 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 13-11 for his first singles title in this tournament, emblematic of the world amateur tennis championship.

Today's match between Miss Gibson and Miss Mortimer already is a great come-back story.

Miss Mortimer, unseeded in this year's play, ranked two years ago as Britain's No. 1 woman player. Then she was stricken with illness, and it appeared for a while that she would not be able to play seriously again.

Last winter, however, she traveled to Australia to work herself back into shape. She succeeded so well that she carried home the Australian women's singles title.

Miss Gibson, who last year became the first Negro player to win a Wimbledon title, moved easily through her opposition to make the finals this year.

Miss Mortimer, although not ranked as closely by the spectators as her opponent, also had little trouble.

Friday's men's final marked the 12th time in major play that the 21 - year - old Cooper and Fraser, a 24-year-old lefthander, have met. Cooper now has won nine times.

Cooper, who lost in the finals last year to Lew Hoad, told reporters after the match that he will play in the U.S. championships later this year and also be available for Australia's Davis Cup team.

Harness Racing

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—O'Brien Hanover took the play away from his stablemate, Thorpe Hanover, and won the $100,565 Messenger harness racing stakes Friday night at Roosevelt Raceway in a close finish.

O'Brien Hanover took the lead after an eighth of a mile and won by three quarters of a length as Flying Time in this richest purse for a single dash in harness racing. Time for the mile was 2:01 4-5.

Thorpe Hanover, considered a bit better than O'Brien Hanover in the Del Miller-trained stable, was third, another three-quarters of a length back in the field of 10.

Canada Takes Singles Wins Need One to Clinch Series

TORONTO (CP)—Play was to resume today in the first-round North American Davis Cup competition with Canada leading 2-0, needing only one more win to clinch the series against Cuba.

Two singles matches Thursday and a victory in today's doubles, re-scheduled when postponed by rain Friday, would advance the home squad into the second round against the United States.

After easy opening victories, Jean Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and Don Fontana of Toronto, whipped the Cubans in straight sets, team captain Lorne Maine of Montreal says Canada will take the series 5-0.

Bedard beat 16-year-old Adolfo Minoso and Fontana trounced Raoul Karpman and the same players are scheduled to meet on today's doubles.

CUP VETERANS

The series is Bedard's sixth straight Davis Cup team play and Fontana's fourth. Each has appeared unbeatable against the little - experienced Cubans, who have rarely played on grass courts and in international competition.

The Canadian team spent a week practising on the grass courts of New York's Forest Hills Club, against U.S. pro and amateur players.

The final two singles are to be played Monday at the Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club grass courts. The second-round Cuba-Canada series against the United States, will also be played here.

QUIT QUEBEC

MONTREAL (CP) — General manager Rene Lemyre of Montreal Royals said Friday the International League club will not play any more games at Quebec City this season because of transportation difficulties. The Royals have played three of six games scheduled for Quebec but two of them were left uncompleted to allow the teams to catch trains.

8 District Youths Qualify For Jr. Golf Championship

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Eighteen-year-old Peter McCuaig of the Cobourg Golf Club led a field of 47 in the district qualifying round for the Ontario Junior Golf Championship with a four-over-par 76 over the rain-swept Bay of Quinte Country Club course yesterday.

Eight boys qualified for the championship to be held at the Islington Golf Club, Toronto, on July 11. Three qualified in the junior division for boys 16, 17 and 18; three in the juvenile division for boys 14 and 15, and two in the bantam division for boys 13 and under.

Two strokes behind McCuaig in the junior division was Bill Wesse of the Kawartha Club, Peterborough, with a 78, while the Bay of Quinte junior champion, Gary Bowerman, carded an eighty to qualify.

SWEEP DIVISION

Peterborough youngsters swept the juvenile qualifying division with Bob Jamieson topping the trio with an 83. Second was John Kindred who shot an 86 followed by Stan McBride with an 88.

Bob Mooney of Kingston topped the bantams with a 90 while the other player to qualify is Louis Grenier, Napanee, Trenton with a 99. Garry Coulhup, Napanee shot a 104 and although he did not qualify got in on the awards.

Forty-seven youthful golfers from the Bay of Quinte, Kingston, Cobourg, Peterborough, Port Hope, Trenton, Napanee and Picton clubs took part in the play.

Five Bay of Quinte players turned in good cards under the existing circumstances. Besides Gary Bowerman in the junior division were Wayne Mountford who just missed qualification with an 81; Sonny Macdonald who shot an 82 and Clyde McFarlane who carded a 92. Jim Dahl shot a 95 in the juvenile division. Quinte had no entries in the bantam class.

Rain swept over the course after six holes of the afternoon had been played, and fell steadily throughout the play. Ill-luck dogged the clubs of Bowerman who missed five short putts on the wet greens.

The qualifying round was staged under the regulations of the Ontario Golf Association with T. A. Carruthers well-known Quinte golfer handling the arrangements and the round in a highly capable manner.

Handsome prizes were presented to the first three players to finish in the three divisions by Mr. Carruthers following play. He was assisted by the club pro George Balas. The prizes were donated by the O. G. A.

The Ontario junior final championship is comprised of the one out of every eight boys in each of the nine districts in the junior and juvenile age groups, and one out of every six in the bantam group. The winner will represent Ontario in the Canadian junior championship at Scarboro on July 16.

The Ontario-Quebec team matches at the Toronto Golf Club on Wednesday, August 6 is a new event this year. The Ontario ten-man team will be the two lowest scorers of each age, 18, 17, 15 and 14 and under in the Ontario junior final championship.

HOLT CONFIDENT

MONTREAL (CP)—Mike Holt, South Africa's light-heavyweight champion, arrived in Montreal Friday and confident he can take the British Empire title from Yvon Durelle. The New Brunswick fisherman from Baie Ste. Anne is expected around the middle of next week to finish off training for the 15-round fight July 16 in Montreal Forum.

Art Wall Jr. Leads Pack in Rubber City Open

AKRON, Ohio (CP)—Quiet Art Wall, Jr., who grips his clubs as he would a baseball bat, Friday fired a 67 for a 36-hole total of 139 to lead by one stroke at the halfway mark in the $22,000 Rubber City open golf tournament.

Back only one stroke of Wall is Toronto's Al Balding, who also carded a 67 today for a 139 total. Balding tied with Faruk Phillips, the Australian Open champion from Sydney, U.S. Open champion Tommy Bolt of Paradise, Fla., and Jackie Nicklaus, 18-year-old amateur from Columbus.

Jerry Magee of Toronto shot a 70 Friday, which with his 70 card Thursday gave him a 140 total, eight off the pace. Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., shot a 78 after a 71 Thursday, giving him a 147 total and ousting him from the field of 60 professional qualifiers.

Wall, who hasn't won a tournament this year, but has three second place credits, scored seven birdies as he added 67 to Friday's 72 over Firestone Country Club's 6,660-yard par-71 c'se.

Despite his sharp shooting the gallery divided most of its attention between Nicklaus and Sam Snead, veteran hillbord of Philadelphia, four - time U.S. Negro champion, Clifford fired a 74 for a 146 total.

Short of the tournament, for a 136 total.

Sifford eased into a four-way tie at 134 with Mike Souchak, the long hitting Texan from Groesinger, N.Y., Wesley Ellis Jr., the metropolitan champion from Ridgewood, N.J., and former national Open champion Jack Fleck of Rochester, Mich.

Yuke, Russky Out of Action So Joe Calls It 'No Contest'

Yukon Eric should not take deep breaths when he is ready-ing himself for the kill.

He inflated himself a little too much at Memorial Arena last night, hurt himself and frustrated an on-the-beam decision.

It happened a little past two minutes of the third fall in the tag-team match in which the Yuke and pedner Whipper Billy Watson had more or less toyed with the towariches from Minsk, the Kalmikoff brothers.

The Whipper had taken on the initial job of giving Karol, the more heavily bearded of the bewhiskered Russkys, a neat lesson in thumps, bumps and lumps, and was doing a man-size job.

Then enter Eric. He picked up where the Whip had left off, and allowed a slightly dazed but determined Karol to pummel himself off the Alaskan torso while the Yuke was gathering his strategy.

The Russky walked right into it. The first thing he knew he was bunny-hugged with the crushing arms generally these days hoisted aloft for the dreaded Kodiak Krunch, a hold that has caused many a pachyderm to yelp "uncle".

Unfortunately for the Yuke he was standing too close to the ropes. The Russky up aloft was wiggling like a "before" picture in minnow — and Eric lost his balance.

Karol squirmed a trifle too far to port, and the topheavy Yukon lost his balance. Karol, or was it Ivan, came a crash-

Aussie, Welshman Play Off For British Open Golf Title

ST. ANNES, England (CP)—Peter Thomson of Australia and Dave Thomas of Wales meet in an anticlimactic 36-hole playoff for the British open golf title in a match forced by their nerve-tickling, record play Friday.

More than 30,000 spectators—weather permitting—are expected to watch the medal play.

Both the 28-year-old Australian veteran who has played in top tournaments all over the world and the 23-year-old Welshman who never has won a major title appeared to have the Open in their grasp during the final round of Friday's 36-hole final.

Instead, they both finished with 72s—good par record for this classic, but not good enough to win.

Thomson went into the final 18 with a 205 total and a two-stroke advantage over Thomas after shooting a brilliant four-under-par 67 in the third round.

Gallery observers promptly conceded the title—Thomson has won three previous times — but And for the first 14 holes of the final round it appeared they were right.

INTO A BUNKER

But on the 452-yard 15th, Thomson ran a 6-iron off the green and straight into a bunker. It took him three more to get out and Thomas, a large six-foot, three-inch, 240-pounder, made it in four and the crowd was elated.

Thomas then birdied the 16th to go in front by one stroke, but the long Welsh, the Australian pulled even again, holing out in four to the Welshman's five.

Thomson missed by inches a putt on the 18th green that would have given him the title. Both took a four.

The previous 72-hole record for this tournament was 279, set by Bobby Locke of South Africa at Troon in 1950 and equalled by him at St. Andrews last year.

Bowdry Wins Over Luedee

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Jesse Bowdry, the savage puncher from St. Louis, scored a technical knockout over Jerry Luedee Friday night in the eighth round of their scheduled 10-round light heavyweight fight.

It was the first time that Luedee, a tree surgeon from New Haven, Conn., had lost a fight by a knockout since starting his professional career.

Both fighters were bleeding from the nose and Luedee also had a deep cut over his right eye at the end of the fight.

Bowdry rushed eighth among the light heavyweights, went to work on Luedee's face and head in the opening round, then concentrated on a body attack which left Luedee gasping for breath by the end of the sixth round.

Shapely Teen-Age Girl Star Of New TV 'El Coyote' Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ken Murray wonders why no teen - age girl is a star on television.

Of course, the sage showman is doing more than wondering. He's got a trick up his sleeve, and her name is Muriel Davis.

Ken has abandoned the gags for a while to turn producer. His labor of love is a proposed TV series called El Coyote. It stars veteran actor George Brent and young Rita Davis, one of the strongest and shapeliest of this year's high school graduates.

Muriel was national AAU champion gymnast and youngest member of the last U.S. Olympic team. On her, the muscles look good. But she's smart, too.

HIGHEST I.Q.

"She had the highest I.Q. in the history of the school she attended here," Ken boasted. "The school offered to sponser her in a scholarship to any college she chose."

But if El Coyote makes good on the TV circuit, she'll have no time for college. And it appears to have a good chance. Muriel plays the daughter of a frontier editor (Brent). She doubles secretly as the masked El Coyote, who arrives in the nick of time to foil the villains.

It's all good, clean fun, and Muriel does some gymnastics that haven't been seen since the days of Douglas Fairbanks, Sr.

"I think it's time there was a young girl star in TV," Murray argues. "Most of the other gals are over 40. I'm not knocking it, because I'm over 40 myself. But I think the young people deserve to have someone to look for."

Meanwhile back at the parallel bars, Muriel continues to keep in trim. She works out three or four times a week in local gymnasiums and has hopes of retaining her amateur standing and making the 1960 Olympics. An Indianapolis girl, she is living at the Murray home in Beverly Hills along with Ken's wife and two young daughters.

"Show business, I like it," she says.

AT THE PARK — Robert Mitchum and Keely Smith (noted TV songstress and wife of Louis Prima) have top roles in the drama of moonshiners, "Thunder Road." The picture will open Monday at the air conditioned Park Theatre for its first Belleville showing. TV NOTEBOOK

by John Wettlaufer

As any TV repairman will tell you, not all frantic service calls require hours of expert probing before the offending set can be coaxed back to action.

On occasion set-owners have been unable to get their favorite program for the simple reason that the set wasn't turned on.

In some instances knobs loosen through usage to the extent that although they appear to function normally, they fail to actuate the switch. Ridiculous as it may sound, absent-minded souls have been known to go through every motion of tuning in a picture except to turn the set on.

On the other hand, there are instances where "dead sets" have been turned on but did little to cause the family because they weren't plugged into the wall outlet.

Speaking of dead sets, if your receiver has actually given up the ghost, don't despair — repair. CIRCLE TV SERVICE knows all the tricks in the book for giving old sets new ideas. For honest and completely thorough work which leaves nothing undone, try CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St. — phone WO 8-6791; in Trenton phone Zenith 6-3800.

EISENHOWER'S

To the president's list of possible topics, Dulles added two others as his weekly press conference — economic problems and joint defence of the North American continent. Dulles said he hoped the Ottawa conferences would produce "some useful results."

The presidential visit comes amid rising congressional interest in Canada. Two months ago a House of Representatives foreign affairs subcommittee began work on a fact-finding study of Canada-U.S. relations with a report originating the American people and their government for their lack of interest in Canada and things Canadian.

Two weeks later, the Senate foreign relations committee held a one-day hearing on relations with Canada in an effort to uncover the real causes of the growing Canadian resentment against the U.S.

Senator George D. Aiken, Vermont Republican, in a lengthy speech reviewing the testiments, reminded the Senate last week that in the United States "we do not adequately define itself "without relying heavily on the co-operation which Canada alone can offer."

GOVT. WILL LAY

The attorney-general said although there were widespread sales and transfers of shares by various individuals, there has been no evidence of influence being exerted affecting any decisions of provincial or municipal authorities in relation to the project.

CALLS FOR PROBE

Ontario CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald called for "a full public investigation" into the situation.

He said Mr. Robert's report "is a devastating blow to the integrity of public administration in Ontario."

Mr. Wintermeyer said there was no reason his name should be coupled with those of the cabinet ministers. He said when he bought his stock it was "on the open and above-board way." He was a private member at the time and said after he became party leader he disposed of his stocks "and nobody was sent in the bargain."

Mr. Wintermeyer, who said he is considering a request by the premier to retain his seat, said he had been guilty only of indiscretion in buying and selling stock in the corporation.

He said Mr. Kelly had obtained a small quantity of the gas shares for him because Mr. Kelly previously lost money on a stock tip from Mr. Kelly. He sold the stock at a profit. Later, he bought more shares on the open market, again at a profit, and profit.

"I feel very badly about this matter," Mr. Mapledoram said, adding that as soon as he became aware of the premier's directive regarding stock ownership, he sold his own shares.

"I can assure you," he said, "that my connection with the shares of this company arose completely innocently under the circumstances outlined. I had no dealings with the management of this company.

"My dealings were entirely with Mr. Kelly on a friendly basis. The other transaction was on the open market in May, 1957. I did not speculate because of any special information I had in friendship," the premier added. any way concerning Northern On- ario Natural Gas Company Limited."

The premier's acceptance of ed "Dear Dave," said that Mr. Mapledoram's actions were indiscretions but that his acquiring of the shares did not place him under any obligation to the company. Mr. Frost said he agreed with Mr. Mapledoram that the minister had not erred his connection with the government in any way.

"I am loath to accept your resignation arising out of an indiscretion which resulted from a

ANSWER THIS QUESTION!

Would you give your neighbor the returns that you receive for the milk from one of your cows, as breeding fees for your herd each year?

THAT WOULD BE ABOUT $300. TO $400.

It's Not Likely You Would!

Then why not sell your herd sire today and breed your cows artificially. At the most he is only saving you your service fees.

STIRLING

Testimonial Dinner Held For Teacher

STIRLING A testimonial dinner was held recently in honor of Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn (the former Nellie Montgomery) who has taught grade 3 in Stirling Public School for the past 22 years. She is completing 40 years in the teaching profession.

Baskets of roses and peonies decorated Stirling Community Hall where approximately 150 people enjoyed a turkey dinner with all the trimmings, served by Rebekah Lodge No 311, catered for the event.

The tables were decorated with pink roses and white peonies and the color scheme was carried in pink and green The head table was centred with roses and flanked by silver candelabra with green tapers.

Several relatives attended, and included a brother, Mr. W. Montgomery, and Mrs. Montgomery of Belleville and two sisters, Miss Laura Montgomery, Stirling, and Mrs. L. J. Stuart, Millbrook. There were also Meiklejohn members of the clan from Havelock, Marmora, Springbrook, Burnbrae, and other points.

Staff members of the public school and folk from every walk of life in the village and county area, as well as a few grade 3 pupils with their parents, attended this dinner.

Mrs. Meiklejohn was presented with a double corsage of roses on this auspicious occasion by her grade 3 pupils.

Following a toast to the Queen, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, of Hawdon circuit, gave the invocation.

Mr. Edwin Warren presided over the dinner program and spoke briefly. Mr. Robert Patterson rendered a lively stage song which included "Seeing Nellie Home".

EXTEND CIVIC GREETINGS

Mr. H. R. Tompkins, a junior member of Stirling Council, brought civic greetings in the absence of Reeve J. V. Holt. He welcomed the large audience and extended special greetings to the out-of-town folk.

In referring to Mrs. Meiklejohn's 40 years in the teaching profession, the speaker said those were the days when emphasis was placed on the "Three R's". Down through the years it has been Mrs. Meiklejohn's privilege to mould the character of the younger folk who were in her grade 3 class. Many people in the audience are grateful for the lessons in citizenship that their children and grandchildren learned in the classroom. Mr. Tompkins said:

"It is a great privilege to have the chance to pay tribute on behalf of the members of Stirling Council to this honored lady", he stated.

The chairman then introduced Mrs. Meiklejohn's brother, two sisters, and sister-in-law, and eulogized the family for their mark in the teaching profession. All are teachers working at Fenelis, Cobourg and Millbrook respectively.

He then read a telegram of congratulations from Mr. and Mrs. Allan Meiklejohn, of Hamilton, Ont., also a letter of greetings and congratulations from Miss Cora E. Bailey, Peterborough.

Mr. G. W. Nelson, district public school inspector, expressed his admiration and spoke of the enviable record of 40 years of teaching, and over half of it in one school. He outlined Mrs. Meiklejohn's work over the past years and voiced sincere thanks for her devotion to duty.

Miss Carol Ray sang a vocal selection and later a group of 10 girls rendered two selections, one of which was "School Days", Mrs. Renee Glendining was the accompanist.

Mrs. Meiklejohn, in her reply reminisced and told of the various courtesies of the school board. She also pictured her attempt at teaching in her first school in 1918. She said teaching was a rewarding profession and she had never regretted her choice.

She voiced grateful thanks to all those responsible for the dinner, program and gifts, and invited everyone to visit at her home. In closing she said she would "now have plenty of time to be neighborly".

Mrs. Meiklejohn expressed grateful thanks to the boys and girls for their kindness and gifts.

On Friday morning all of the pupils of Stirling Public School held a special party on the lawn and presented Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn with a table lamp on the occasion of her retirement. She voiced grateful thanks and several snaps were taken of the group.

At the close of school on Friday the staff convened in the teachers' room and enjoyed a half hour of friendship after which Mrs. Meiklejohn was presented with a walnut step table.

At the close, those in charge served strawberry shortcake.

LEBANON VOLUNTEERS

Lebanon citizens are being issued with arms to protect themselves against the rebels threatening the government of Camille Chamoun. A truce has been agreed upon between insurgents and government troops that artillery would not be used, so the government is trying to turn that to advantage by enrolling volunteers into a militia. Many have asked for rifles and automatic weapons to join in house-to-house operations.

ADMITS PLACING MICROPHONE IN PARLEY ROOM

Goldfine Shocked By Conduct

WASHINGTON (CP)—A congressional investigator admitted early today that he placed a microphone near Sherman Adams, assistant of industrialist Bernard Goldfine to overhear what was being said.

Representative Oren Harris, the Democratic chairman of the House of Representatives subcommittee looking into charges that Goldfine tried to influence government officials with gifts, called an emergency session to consider what to do about the investigator, Baron L. Shacklette.

The discovery of the hidden microphone was made after midnight when reporters were summoned to a press conference by adviser of Goldfine. The original plan for the meeting with reporters was cancelled after it was disclosed.

Shacklette admitted wiring the microphone to a connecting room to eavesdrop on Jack Lotto, a publicity man for Goldfine.

He said Harris told him to find out, as he put it, who was tapping telephone lines of subcommittee members.

BEFORE ARRIVAL

Lotto and some assistants said they discovered the microphones before the reporters arrived.

Shacklette said Harris told him he had told Shacklette to "see what you can find out" since Mr. Harris said he still does not know whether his telephone has been tampered with.

Goldfine, gift-giving friend of Sherman Adams, charged "Gestapo tactics" when he learned of the incident.

"I'm shocked beyond words by such disregard for conduct by official representative of a congressional committee," Goldfine said after conferring with Lotto and Goldfine's Washington lawyer, Bernard Goldfine.

Goldfine issued immediate orders for him to engage no more out of the hotel. His own suite was on the second floor, six below Lotto's.

Dozen Boats and Two Piers Destroyed in Boston Blaze

BOSTON (AP)—A spectacular waterfront fire destroyed two piers, two warehouses, about a dozen small vessels, 10 trucks and several loaded freight cars early today.

Two firefighters were injured while battling the blaze. Fire officials estimated it caused $1,000,000 damage.

One of the piers, about 500 feet long, collapsed into the water in two sections, each time sending up a sizzling roar of flames 200 feet high.

The warehouses on each of the piers were used for storage of empty crates and wood cartons.

The south Boston annex of the Boston naval shipyard is boy active waste.

quarter of a mile from the fire across the bay and city fire fighters kept the blaze confined to the piers.

About a dozen fishing boats tied up there were destroyed before they could be towed to safety.

Rescue craft succeeded in towing away four barges moored nearby. All four were slightly damaged, but not beyond repair.

Two of the four were slightly damaged, but not beyond repair. Two of the four barges are used for the disposal of atomic waste in Boston harbor. Capt. George C. Perry, who operates them, said both were free of any radioactive waste.

Joint Parliamentary Group For Canada, U.S. Possible

OTTAWA (CP) — Historic steps to establish a direct channel between the law-making bodies of Canada and the United States may be taken by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker in confidential talks to open here Tuesday.

Mr. Diefenbaker, describing the leadership talks as moves to eliminate differences and misunderstandings between the two countries, Sunday night expressed hope they will lead to the creation of a joint Canada-U.S. parliamentary committee.

The purpose of such a link would be to keep a constant watch on problems arising from between the neighboring domains and prevent them from reaching the fast action if friction between the two countries reaches the danger point.

The current main body developed for trig purpose is the Canada - U.S. economic and trade committee made up of four cabinet members for each side. But this committee has met only about once a year and so far has not proven of any significant value in carrying out its major job of acting on problems that arise before they reach the state of public flare-ups.

In fact, public aggravations between the two countries have increased in the last few years, rather than diminished. Mr. Diefenbaker, appearing in the CBC television program News Magazine with Mr. Eisenhower, will discuss ways of bringing about more frequent meetings of the cabinet body.

But it seemed he was banking more on early meetings up of the committee on Congress and Parliament. Under the American system the executive, Congress and government are separate entities. The president and his cabinet do not sit in Congress. They can recommend laws and amendments, but it is up to the two American houses of parliament, the House of Representatives and the Senate—to decide whether to pass them. The president has no power over congressional bills but he seldom does.

Then a committee of Canadian and American law-makers may be created which would provide greater opportunities to appeal directly to the American Congress. Such a body was positively proposed such a venture last month when he spoke at Wesleyan University, Middletown.

Lebanese Premier Produces Evidence of Infiltration

BEIRUT (CP) — Premier Sami Solh today produced a new list of rebel captives which he claimed is proof of Lebanon's charges that President Nasser's United Arab Republic is helping the Lebanese rebels. He appealed to the world's conscience" to put the blame for the eight-week-long rebellion on U.A.R. intervention.

Solh issued a statement in his capacity as foreign minister as an atmosphere of tension lay over Beirut and security forces braced themselves for the possibility of a big battle inside the capital. Explosions and shooting rocked Beirut Sunday night and sporadic firing continued today.

The premier made public a list of 50 Syrians and Lebanese rebels he claimed were captured smuggling arms into the country. The government charged they were trained in neighboring Syria, a U.A.R. province. Solh said United Nations observers, who reported themselves unable to find clear evidence of U.A.R. intervention, would be invited to question the captives.

Solh again expressed disappointment that the UN observers had failed to find evidence of "massive infiltration."

The majority of parliamentary deputies and ministers now appear convinced fighting here can only be ended through an internal settlement.

This opinion has been reinforced by publication of the 21 United Nations observer report which gives no support to the government claims of "massive intervention" from neighboring Syria.

The immediate aim of Sunday's cabinet meeting was to try to find a presidential candidate acceptable to both sides.

The hope now is growing here that the insurrection can be brought to an end with the election of a new president by the chamber of deputies July 24.

Slippery the Sea Lion Comes Home To Cheers of 50,000 London Folk

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Slippery, the celebrated sea lion, who left London to paddle home to the Pacific, is back in the swim at Storybook Gardens.

All he's got to show for his two-week bid for salt-water freedom is a few scars and a continent full of fans.

They brought him back to the Children's Zoo on Sunday, a sadder but wiser sea lion, before a crowd of 50,000 cheering citizens who welcomed him "home."

Slippery was driven home 300 miles in a station wagon Sunday afternoon and paraded through streets of London as an estimated 50,000 cheered. With Slippery was a two-month-old puma named Lucky, presented to London by the Toledo zoo as a goodwill offering.

At a welcome-home banquet Mayor Allan Johnston of London presented Phil Skeldron, head of the Toledo zoo, with a framed Storybook Gardens map. Skeldron presented keys to the city of Toledo to Mayor and Slippery.

The $200 reward posted by the London Free Press for Slippery's return was presented by C. P. Gore, assistant managing editor, to Mr. Skeldron and Capt. Robert Graver of the Sandusky police in Ohio.

They promptly handed the cheques to chairman Elmo Curtis of the London public utilities commission as a donation to the zoo.

Thus the saga of Slippery's flight to freedom ended. Even the hero seemed content to be back in his salt water pool.

Author of Threat Note Again in Mystery Class

LONDON (AP) — The author of a threat to drop an atom bomb on Britain has gone back into the mystery man class.

A 34-year-old Royal Air Force lieutenant — discharged for mental instability a year ago — has retracted a confession that he wrote the letter.

William Stanley Whaley, now a jobless Royal Air Force veteran, made the bomber's offer to give up three of her children, had the bomb ready, allegedly started adoption proceedings.

At last week's council meeting he made an about on behalf of the woman who said she would "do anything to save the Lord" and "5, 9 and 5 to anyone who could provide them with a home "with all of it."

Following publication of the letter Whaley was to say he was in touch with councilor Mrs. Cecile Nash, who had been the author on behalf of the woman. He went over, picked up the boys and says he has been in touch with the proceedings right away.

The council told Mrs. Bechard she is estranged from her unemployed husband and can no longer support them.

Other calls came from New Zealand and from various parts of California. The California woman who called offered to pay all the expenses of a committee to come to California to investigate her fitness to care for the children.

Petition Asks Jail Governor Be Removed

HAILEYBURY, Ont. (CP) — A petition being circulated in this Northern Ontario town and in nearby Cobalt asks the removal from political influence as governor of the Timiskaming district jail.

The petition is based on claims that jail staff members and prisoners were ill-treated.

In Toronto Col. C. H. Basher, chief inspector of reform institutions, said he had not heard of the petition.

Last week one guard was fired and three other guards and a matron suspended, pending investigation.

At that time Col. Basher said the action was the result of an inquiry held at the prison some time ago. The investigation inquiry questioned 49 witnesses and took statements.

Col. Basher said today his department had no reason to consider removing Mr. Martyn, appointed governor 18 months ago.

He said that the inquiry asked the staff members to give an opinion on the governor's work. "Every one stated the excellent job, told the inquiry Governor Martyn was a good efficient governor," Col. Basher said, since, "But they also agreed he was very strict."

WINDSOR BANDIT TAKEN IN BUSH NEAR KINGSTON

Bruce Saunders Back Behind Prison Walls

KEPLAR, Ont. (CP) — Windsor bandit Bruce Saunders, 36, who scaled a 30-foot wall at Kingston penitentiary Thursday, is back within the massive prison 10 miles southeast of here.

He surrendered quietly at 8:30 p.m. Sunday after police made a 24½ — hour search of a nearby wooded area.

Penitentiary officials had reported Saunders bitter since he was wife visited him with a man, seeking a divorce.

Mexico Elects New President

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Handsome Adolfo Lopez Mateos, brilliant labor minister in the last government, was elected president of Mexico Sunday in probably the quietest vote in the nation's history.

The ruling government Party of Revolutionary Institution (PRI) candidate, 46, had won by a landslide—somewhere between 70 and nine—of every ten votes. No figures were announced.

Lopez Mateos' victory over leftie manufacturer Luis Hector Alvarez had never been in doubt. The PRI and its predecessors have never lost an election since they took over in a revolution in 1929.

Mexico also elected a new Congress of 60 senators and 162 deputies. The PRI said it retained control by an overwhelming majority.

Lifetime of Research Shows Viruses to Be Cancer Culprit

LONDON (AP) — Viruses, the scientist used to say, seem to be the basic cause of cancer.

In a lifetime of research, Dr. Francisco Duran - Reynals produced point after point of evidence that viruses could be the culprit or at least the most important factor.

His theoretical viruses might sleep harmlessly in the body for years, then suddenly touch off an injury or a change in the body's chemistry—accidently awake them to alter the living cells and start cancers.

The Spanish - born American scientist was to have spoken in the seventh International Cancer Congress which opened here today attended by nearly 2,000 scientists from 80 countries.

But Duran-Reynals died a few months ago, a victim of the very disease he spent his lifetime studying and more scientists are swinging to the virus theory of cancer, the Nobel prize-winning Duran-Reynals' lifetime.

Research workers in several countries is adding to the picture that viruses could be involved in at least some kinds of human cancers. If they are, perhaps vaccines or other chemicals against cancer can be devised.

Another main attack is aimed at producing anti-cancer drugs based on discoveries of the tiny biochemical differences between cancerous and healthy cells. The idea is to get the drugs to join the machinery of the cancer cells.

This approach has led to drugs that have had some successes against a few, kinds of cancer.

Firemen's Union Makes $10 Levy For Diesel Fight

Plan All-Out Campaign To Keep Diesel Firemen

MONTREAL (CP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (Can.) has called on its North American members to pay $1.00 a month for the next 10 months to finance an all-out campaign against railway moves to eliminate firemen from diesel yard and freight engines.

The union's international president, H. G. Gilbert of Cleveland announced the special assessment in a personal letter to all his members last June 16.

"As a result of our recent experience on the Canadian Pacific Railway, it is now evident that we must institute and carry out an intensive campaign of education in connection with our diesel program and related issues," Mr. Gilbert said in the letter.

FULL SUPPORT EXPECTED

"I know we will have the full support of every brotherhood member in this and win the fight ahead but, to finance this all-out campaign it is necessary to levy a grand lodge assessment of $1.00 a month, beginning Aug. 1, 1958, payable by all members in active engine service."

The union called a three-day strike against the CPR last May over the diesel firemen issue, and a similar walkout by the 7,000-member Canadian National Railways is before a conciliation board now.

The conciliation hearing on the CNR dispute is to be resumed until next month.

In the letter, Mr. Gilbert said that "only in unusual circumstances has the international president found it necessary to communicate personally with all the individual members of the brotherhood."

ABOUT 2,000 CANADIANS

The letter, he added, was made necessary by the "certainty of a severe struggle" confronting the brotherhood. It is about 90,000. Some members, however, are not in active engine service. The Canadian membership is about 9,000.

"We must face the facts and he prepared to defeat all efforts of the railroads to eliminate the jobs of our members on diesel-electric locomotives and similar power," the letter said.

"The time has arrived when we must rid ourselves of any complacency, because the defeat of the railroads on the premises are crystal clear and will require the greatest measures of resistance on our part."

In Cleveland, a spokesman for the brotherhood's union described the special union levy as "an organization affair, pure and simple."

Eldorado Head, R.J. Henry, Dies

OTTAWA (CP) — Roy Henry, who left Northern Ontario country six years ago to join and eventually head the government's multimillion-dollar Eldorado Mining and Refining Company, died Saturday night.

The 60-year-old mining engineer died in hospital two weeks after suffering a heart attack, and only two months after becoming president of the Crown company responsible for buying and disposing of all uranium produced in Canada.

Germans Plot Third War, Says RAF Author

LONDON (AP) — A leading British airman says the late Ernst Heinkel told him Germany is plotting a third world war against the three allies — this time with the Soviet Union on the German side.

Air Vice-Marshal D. C. T. Bennett of the RAF made this statement in a book, Pathfinder, published recently.

Bennett, 42, was commander of the RAF pathfinder planes that led British bombers to their targets in the Second World War.

The marshal said Heinkel, designer and builder of many of the third Reich's warplanes, outlined the plot to conquer the world in a burst of alcoholic ingenuity at a luncheon he gave Bennett in Germany several years ago. Heinkel died, on his 30 at the age of 70.

Bennett quoted Heinkel as saying the Axis leaders and plans were:

German aircraft designers and other technicians would go to the Soviet Union voluntarily and work their way into key posts.

Germany would pretend to accept total defeat and disarm while the Western allies until it could build up a new army and air force.

A "go home, Yanks" campaign would then begin and attempts made to cause differences between the United States and Britain. Once the Americans were persuaded to withdraw Germany would dominate Europe.

Then Germany would make a military pact with the Soviet Union to form United Europe to launch a new war of conquest.

"We are not going to be beaten a third time," Heinkel was quoted as saying.

Honor Guard Will Accompany Chief's Body

TORONTO (CP) — A guard of honor of nearly 100 will accompany the body of Chief Constable John (Jock) Chisholm from North Bay United to Riverside Cemetery in suburban Weston today.

Chisholm, 62, shot himself through the head Friday in wooded high North Bay.

The band of the 48th Highlanders, units of the militia district, the RCMP, provincial police, Detroit police, CNR and CPR police will furnish the escort to form the guard.

Hundreds of policemen and friends visited the chapel during the weekend. An official said the force was too full to estimate.

A registered letter mailed by Chief Chisholm shortly before he shot himself to coroner Dr. Gordon Gilchrist, is his sister.

Its contents were not disclosed. Dr. Gilchrist said the letter, would lay only that the letter was written in a suicide note in any short and "of no interest to anyone." The letter might shed some light on the reasons for the chief's death.

Meanwhile, The Daily Star said Saturday there is no new trace of two cash and valuables removed in recent weeks by Chief Chisholm.

The newspaper said detectives checking the chief's office said they have failed to find any trace of the receipt which the chief was known to have been working on for more than two months.

Lost in Bush At Mazinaw Lake For 24 Hours

The Ontario Provincial Police and a Search and Rescue plane from Trenton Air Station teamed up on Sunday to locate a 20-year-old Belleville man lost in the woods near Mazinaw Lake for 24 hours.

Ernest Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Arthur Young, 4 Pine St., became lost after going for a walk near the family cottage on Mazinaw Lake on Saturday afternoon. When he failed to return police were notified and the Search and Rescue plane was called in Sunday.

The search plane was spotted about 4.30 Sunday afternoon as he waved his shirt from a small island in Farrell Creek, Lake, about six miles from the Young's Mazinaw cottage.

Provincial police from Kaladar then went in to the lake and brought Young out in a motor boat. Other than being a bit hungry Mr. Young was reported in good shape.

"Apparently he had seen our plane circling and when he first waded or swam out to a small island in the lake and waved his shirt to attract our attention," stated Cpl. Gordon Stout of Belleville O.P.P. headquarters, who accompanied the Search and Rescue plane.

Police at Kaladar went part way in by jeep and walked the rest of the way to bring Mr. Young out from the lake.

Mr. Young had got mixed up in his bearings and walked in the wrong direction when he attempted to return to Mazinaw Lake.

U.S. Tourist Made Happy By Honesty of Two Families Who Find Purse With $1,000

An American tourist, Mrs. Sophia Gedrim, of Brandywine, Conn., was made a happier woman Saturday through the honesty of two Bay of Quinte district families and through the co-operation of local police who returned a lost purse containing over $1,000 in cash.

The woman had left her purse containing the money on the Outlet Beach Saturday evening and turned over to police at Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hayman, College Street, Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Adams of Picton, had gone with their families to the Outlet Beach Thursday afternoon. They noticed a purse on a handbag resting in the sand near where they set down their equipment but thought it belonged to someone in swimming.

But several hours later after they had had their swim and lunch the purse was still on the sand and most of the bathers had gone home. So they picked up the purse, checked for identification and turned it over to the police at Picton.

"It was really fabulous", noted Mrs. Hayman when questioned by the Ontario Intelligencer over the weekend. "We counted the money and there was $1078 in all, most of it in $100 and $50 bills.

When the lost purse turned up Mrs. Gédrim notified police at Picton of the loss and then apprised her family of it.

When the lot purse turned up police notified the border crossing points for the American party to be stopped.

The party was stopped as they crossed the St. Lawrence at Cornwall and Saturday Provincial police from Picton down the line to Cornwall relayed the cash laden purse to its owner.

Belleville OPP Play Prominent Part in Capture

Provincial police from Belleville headquarters played a major role Sunday in the capture of escaped convict Bruce Saunders of Windsor, who late Sunday afternoon was spotted at Loughborough Lake, about 15 miles north of Kingston.

Saunders gave himself up to without a struggle to O.P.P. Constable Gordon Oliver of Belleville, one of a cordon of police officers who surrounded the area after the convict had originally been spotted by a Kingston penitentiary guard spending the day at the Kingston district lake.

The guard called the warden at Kingston penitentiary, who called in police.

Provincial Police from Belleville, Kingston, Napanee and Sharbot Lake were called in to surround the area. Officers from Belleville were Staff Sgt. H. S. Gall, Corporal Gordon Stout and Constables James McBride, J. F. Shanks, Gordon Oliver and Ivan Tinkess.

The last Belleville at 7.00 o'clock and Saunders was in custody at 8.30.

Constable Oliver, working with Constable Tinkess, spotted Saunders as he hid in a swampfield and went in to make the capture.

As the officer approached with shotgun, Saunders threw up his hands and said "don't shoot." He was unarmed and offered no resistance.

The convict, who a year ago, made an unsuccessful attempt to break out of Hastings County jail, made good his getaway from Kingston penitentiary by forcing a skylight and use of a rope to scale the prison walls.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Speculative issues provided the push as the stock market moved ahead amid the heaviest first-hour trading in over two years.

The volume at 11 a.m. was 3,119,000 shares, compared with Friday's first hour of 1,461,000. Not since April 30, 1946, when 3,142,000 shares traded, has the market been over such a volume. At one point in the first hour the tape was running eight minutes behind floor transactions.

Index changes, however, were slight. Industrials, golds and western oils were narrowly ahead and base metals slightly off.

Among the speculatives New Hosco was the pace setter, adding $1.50 at $6.00. New High Ridge, adding 25 cents at 38 and Wilmay ahead 12 cents at 43. Joined with New Hosco in turning over more than 275,000 shares in the first hour, Rockwin added 43 cents at 130.

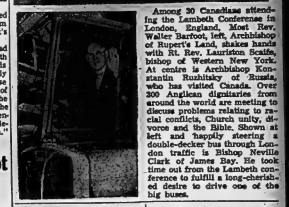
Leacock's Home At Orillia Scene Of Dedication

ORILLIA (CP) — The late Stephen Leacock's summer home on Old Brewery Bay has officially become a national historic site.

After the humorist died in 1944, the rambling white stucco house grew shabby in a field of weeds while townspeople tried to raise $50,000 to preserve it as a literary monument.



Then bought it—along with a collection of 30,000 books, pictures, letter and manuscripts for $35,000.

This spring, once the national historic sites and monuments board had declared the home a historic site and granted $12,000 to help restore it, the Orillia board of parks management and the Stephen Leacock Memorial Home board went to work on the building and its broad lawns and gardens.

Saturday dignitaries gathered and in a manner ranging from light to heavy like Leacock's writings—remembered him.

Premier Frost said he had been most impressed not with Leacock's humor but with his serious addresses to audiences in the Orillia Opera House during the reciprocity election of 1911, when he was campaigning for Conservatives and later at the Conchiching conference on Geo. Ezra Park "when he made a devastating analysis of socialism."

Among 30 Canadians attending the Lambeth Conference in London, England, Most Rev. Walter Barfoot, left, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, shakes hands with Rt. Rev. Lauriston Scaife, bishop of Western New York. At centre is Archbishop Konstantin Rushkisky of Russia, who has visited Canada. Over 300 Anglican dignitaries from around the world are meeting to discuss problems relating to racial conflicts, Church unity, divorce and the Bible. Shown at left and happily steering a double-decker bus through London traffic is Bishop Neville Clark of James Bay. He took time out from the Lambeth conference to fulfill a long-cherished desire to drive one of the big buses.

Prince Charles Suffers Reverse In Deal for Sweets

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles has suffered an inglorious reverse in a big deal to straighten out his shaky finances at the school candy shop.

This financial crisis in the life of the nine-year-old heir to the throne took place at Cheam, his boarding school in nearby Berkshire.

The Queen bought her son $1 spending money for each three-month term.

Like the other boys, the prince keeps it at what is called his tuck or candy shop.

With three weeks left in the term, Charles discovered he had no money left in the bank.

The resourceful prince thought up a way out of his tricky predicament. He staged a sale of some of his belongings.

Aware that there was an excellent opportunity to buy royal souvenirs cheap, other schoolboys flocked to Charles' sale.

It was all highly dignified. Delighted with the result, the prince visited the candy shop once more.

But he wasn't allowed to make purchases.

Miss Margaret Cowlieshall, in charge of the shop, knew that the prince had exhausted his candy funds.

There was a polite inquiry. The Prince had to return the goods. His friends had to return their purchases.

And the boy who will be King has to starve.

In sending Charles to school with other boys, the Queen and Prince Philip have insisted that he be treated the same as any other student.

He was.

Allan Smith New Assessor In Trenton

TRENTON — Mayor Ross Burtt called a special "council-of-the-whole" meeting Friday night to choose another man for the town assessor post.

The meeting, held in the board room of the Municipal Building, came one week after the council had met and had agreed on the hiring of Robert Singleton, all personal contentions, for the job of assessor.

However, during the week the town fathers had received a letter from Mr. Singleton asking a rate of pay considerably higher than had been tentatively agreed upon. The council felt it was too much to pay for the job and decided to cancel any further discussion, or signing of any agreement with the then new assessor.

At the committee meeting on Friday night the council requested town clerk - treasurer O. W. Larry to get in touch with Al Smith of Belleville, who had applied for the job but had been turned down in favor of Mr. Singleton, to see if he was still available for the post.

Mr. Smith agreed to come to Trenton rather than take a post with the director of assessment for the province of Ontario. He will take over his new duties in Trenton as soon as possible.

It was reported that Mr. Smith has had several years of experience as assessor in the city of Belleville and is familiar with the districts of this area.

It is expected a full report on the whole matter will be given at the council meeting tonight.

All councillors, with the exception of Ray Fox, were present at the special meeting Friday. Mayor Ross Burtt and town clerk O. W. Larry were also present.

STEPS GOING UP

TRENTON — Work on the steps to the top of Mount Pelion is progressing and it is not expected to be too long before this project of the Trenton Parks Board will be completed. The steps will run from the first level to the top at an angle up the very steep hillside. The steps are made of railway ties and there will be a landing on the way up with a bench for resting. Two men have been hired to put the steps up and are under town gardener Bart Boers. Chairman of the project is Parks Board member Claude Smith.

RIVER ACTIVE

No fires and no serious accidents were reported over the week-end in Trenton. Traffic was fairly heavy but it was felt the cool weather kept many motorists off the highway. It had little effect, however, on boating enthusiasts who launched over the hundreds in the Trent River and the Bay of Quinte. Several American boats also checked in at the docks to re-fuel, or spend some time here. One large yacht spent the weekend in port.

CEASE WELL DIGGING

The last test drilling for wells to boost the town water supply has proven unsuccessful and Board Chairman Bert Atkinson reports this will be the end of it. The Public Utilities will now turn to expansion of their filtration plant and reservoir system in order to add to the town's supply. About seven test holes had been put in various locations around Trenton, with one inside town limits, but all had failed to produce a good or abundant supply of water.

TENDERS CALLED

Tenders have been called for the painting of the interior and the auditorium and exterior of the Grace United Church in Trenton. Specifications may be obtained at the parsonage, 82 Dundas Street East. Tenders will be received by D. H. Parkinson, 4 Princess Street to July 15.

COUNCIL TO MEET

Trenton town council will meet tonight in the board room of the municipal building in their first regular session for July. It is expected that several items will be reported on but now a lengthy meeting is not anticipated. Two major items which will be heard will be on the new combination pumper and aerial ladder truck for the fire department and the new street flusher, which is under investigation. Since the council approved the new fire truck, Fire Chief Clarence Greer and two of his men, along with Councillor Lloyd Worrall, have visited various centres but it is not known if the companies have submitted a price. Councillor Charles Hilton said yesterday he will report briefly tonight on what he has found out on flushers.

TENNIS MATCHES

Batawa teams were the big winners in a regular league match of the Bay of Quinte Tennis League held in Batawa last Thursday. They lost only one in the ladies division and this was through default. They played teams from Point Anne.

In the men's singles, Bill Mushlauer of Batawa, defeated Bob Burley of Point Anne 6-4 and 6-1. In the men's doubles, Batawa's Bill Templeton and Eric McAdam downed Point Anne's feat Thorold Horwood and Guy Fraser of Point Anne 3-6, 6-3, 6-1. Karl Kleinops and Joe Pacas of Batawa downed Jack Hoffman and Albert Lennox, Point Anne 6-4, 6-2. In the ladies' singles, Mrs. Templeton of Point Anne won by default over Paula Mitas of Batawa. In the ladies' doubles, Frieda MacDonald and Helen Johnson of Batawa downed Jacqueline Hall and Jenny Bilansky of Point Anne 3-6, 9--7, 6-2.

U.S. Navy Robot Will Recognize Its Surroundings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy announced the partial development of an electronic robot it says will be able to make some of the functions of the human brain.

The navy calls it "perception." At least another year will be required to complete the first pilot model, the navy said, but its principle and concept already has been demonstrated successfully by using a large electronic computer.

When it is fully developed, the machine is expected to be able to "perceive, recognize and identify" its surroundings without any human training or control. It differs from the usual computer in that it does not have to be fed facts and figures about them.

Among the potential uses to which such a robot eventually may be put, the navy spokesmen said, are these:

Automatic landing systems and automatic pilots for aircraft; automatic reading of printed or written characters by machines; verbal commands; automatic undersea or submarine navigation; library books—and recognition of musical compositions.

The latter, the system closely parallels, by electronic means, the "selective reception or 'similarity' functions of man's mind." It would operate in much the same way as a person who can recall brain areas work together to provide the human function of recognition.

Prince Philip's Travels Under Fire in House

LONDON (AP) — A socialist member of Parliament is creating a stir by criticizing the travels of Prince Philip.

Leslie Hale, M.P. from Bolsit of Scotland asked the air minister who paid for a 880-mile flight Prince Philip made in a week up just to play in a polo match.

"I want to know if the expense of the flight was borne by the air ministry or not," Baird told the House of Commons last week. If it was, I think the public has a right to know what the cost was."

The 32-year-old Scotsman mentioned Prince Philip by name in his original request filed in the House of Commons. The Speaker refused to accept that because direct references to members of the Royal Family are prohibited in the House.

Baird then rephrased his request to omit the prince's name and filed it again.

The particular trip was made June 29. Prince Philip and the Queen were on a royal visit to Holy Island, off the coast of Northern England.

Prince Philip got word that the Windsor Park polo team, which he captains, had been riddled with injuries and might be short of players for a championship match in Southend, about 340 miles away.

He made a hurried flight, but in time to lead the club to victory. After the match, he hopped a plane back to rejoin the queen.

Hog Producers May Appeal Court Ruling

TORONTO (CP) — Charles McInnis of Iroquois, president of the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-Operative, said Sunday night the association's board will meet here today to decide whether to appeal a provincial Supreme Court ruling that the hog marketing plan is not valid.

Mr. McInnis, K. I. Ferguson made the ruling Friday when he prohibited a magistrate from hearing charges laid under the marketing legislation against Clarence and Gordon Knight, Blenheim hog growers.

Mr. McInnis said the producer organization will continue to direct and sell all hogs produced in Ontario and sold for slaughter. He said the decision, however, might temporarily prevent magistrates from hearing charges laid under the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act.

Mr. Justice Ferguson ruled the act invalid because a vote did not precede amendments. Mr. McInnis said more than 86 per cent of the producers favored the plan in 1945 and that the basic principles were not changed.

The plan with further amendments is scheduled for a vote July 26.

EXODUS AND GENESIS

The announcement from Ottawa last week by Defence Minister Pearkes that the RCAF Air Training Command at Trenton will be transferred to Winnipeg next year and that Air Transport Command at Lachine, Quebec, will replace it, should not be met with alarm among citizens of this district, particularly by those residing in and near Trenton.

It was reported that there will be no noticeable increase or decrease in the number of service men and women stationed near Trenton with the departure of air command and the arrival of another.

Since August 31, 1931, when RCAF Station, Trenton, was officially opened, the nearby town, in fact the whole Quinte district, has benefited, financially and culturally, by the presence of the Air Force personnel. It was not until the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan went into effect early in World War II that the Trenton air station became a large formation within the framework of the RCAF. After the war the number of personnel stationed at Trenton was reduced somewhat when the service discharged thousands of its wartime service men and women. However, at about the time of the Korean War, the RCAF began increasing its strength and the Trenton air station became the largest RCAF station in Canada.

The local transfers did not come as a surprise in some local quarters. Rumors had been circulating for at least a year. This newspaper heard of them first in 1957, but when a reporter tried to get confirmation of them, he was unsuccessful.

Before the June 10, 1957, federal election rumors were floating about that No. 6 Repair Depot, also at Trenton, might be transferred after the elections. However, that rumor did not materialize. In this particular move the repair depot is not involved. It is a satellite of Air Materiel Command at Ottawa.

The transfer of Air Training Command will see the departure of many familiar personalities, among whom will be Air Vice-Marshal J. G. Bryans, air officer commanding Air Training Command; Air Commodore J. B. Harvey, chief staff officer, numerous other senior and junior officers and hundreds of airmen and airwomen. All of these people have contributed in some way to the progress of the Quinte district. They will be missed.

With the arrival of Air Transport Command, however, some officers and airmen who are well known in the Quinte district will set up housekeeping locally and will continue to uphold the fine traditions of Canada's youngest armed service as their predecessors did.

DROUGHT SOLVES A PROBLEM

Drought has hit the Prairies. Hon. Gordon Churchill, Federal minister of Trade, calls the situation a disaster. He says he will be to many Western farmers, who will find the earth withholding that rich increase which has made the Canadian West one of the world's major granaries. But in one sense the reduced yield of grains will not be an unmixed blessing.

It may well result in solving what was recently regarded in many circles as Canada's Number One agricultural problem - - her huge surplus in wheat.

One point, though, should perhaps be noted. The federal treasury is like poppa - - it always pays. This year drought relief payments may rise to a record to forty million dollars - - to farmers who haven't enough grain. Not so long ago carnivals were being voiced that the treasury advance cash to farmers who had too much grain - - and couldn't sell it.

Incidentally this farm-held grain, which was looked on as such a burden a short time ago, is now a blessing. The Canadian Press says that some farmers "without farm-held surpluses" may find themselves in trouble.

No true farmers ever welcomed drought, ever felt joy at the sight of parched fields and shrivelled crops, but if they can avoid a shudder at the high cost of drought relief some politicians may be willing to grant that Mother Nature often has a way of solving, in her own good time, some of the problems she has herself created for man.

IT SOMETIMES HAPPENS

His wife's away and every night
We see him coming down the
Does
The same time that he always
Does
Whom she's at home to cook
his meat.
He sits upon his porch till nine
And then goes silently to bed;
It sometimes happens man does this
In spite of all that has been said.

Before he leaves the house at morn
He waters every plant and flower,
He feeds the bird and mows the lawn
And works around for half an hour;

And through the windows we can see Him washing dishes every day;
It sometimes happens that a man
Will do these things when she's away.

When she comes home, she'll find the place
As clean as when she went away;
No dirty dishes will she see,
No room will be in disarray.
He swept and dusted Sunday
morn,
And washed the windows, I declare;
It sometimes happens this way,
though
Such incidents, perhaps, are rare.

A Banker Turns Reporter

Ottawa Journal

We have been reading a report by Mr. James Muir, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, on what he saw and heard during a visit to China. It is first class reporting, factual, balanced, good in structure, so good in fact it reads as though that of a trained newspaper man, and is for news paper work instead of banking he must surely would have been one of the world's great reporters. Here is Dr. Johnson's "pen, ink or curiosity" interviewing, marshalling into pyramid form things most people want to know about China. The position of religions and free speech; the attitude of the communist government; public and private health and sanitation; industrial and social progress; employment and the cost of living; the amazing attitude of the people towards war and peace.

Mr. Muir was not misled by facades. He saw Christian churches open, heard bells on Sunday, went to mass in a large Catholic church where there was a congregation, noted, however, that the clergy were all Chinese, and says: "So far as I could see all clergy must be Chinese, and if this is so, this is a very conclusive answer against them real".

Nor was Mr. Muir misled by the fact that the communist regime mouths being merely "agrarian reformers" in the sense that Soviet communism differs fundamentally. Thus:

"China is a socialist state, a managed economy adhering to the teachings of Marx with modifications to meet Chinese reality. The State is supreme. Other elements must therefore be can't be really free."

But this socialist state surprised Mr. Muir:

"The growth in industry, the change in living standards, the modernization of everything and anything, the feats of human labour, the use of brain power to describe and still give the word-picture is more than I can seem. All-I can say is that it must be seen to be believed, It's an overwhelming."

The "almost fanatical" drive toward hygiene and physical culture is a study in itself, says Mr. Muir: he saw one fly, he was told, in Canton in August, while rats have been exterminated and bub-bub diseases like cholera and the commodities was good, and are acutely clean.

Americans, they are still low; for vas' millions there is not the ex-ception of North Americans, now. Yet "the lot of these people is better than it was, and there is hope that "for millions more one sees contentment, happiness and work would believe more freedom from oppression and strife than previous generations had known."

Mr. Muir rejects the belief, clung to so tenaciously by some, that the Chinese Communists are not last. Thus:

"Unless the whole scene is a dream, and one's senses of observation and appraisement are less than useless, then we think the vast majority of the people of China have a government which is improving their lot, a government in which they have confidence, a government which stands no chance whatever of being overthrown, a government quite obviously indicates a political position which will bear the very souls of some western powers, and which at some stage is going to have to undertake some face-saving problem in more normal times it would be difficult to believe that anything resembling war is desired in China if the Communists in China such a development would have to be taken into account in any plans for improvement they are trying to bring about."

Mr. Muir's conclusion is impressive, and impressive with such a ring of logic we would like to think it will be read and pondered by Canada's public men. This:

"As mentioned earlier, 25 per-cent. of the world's population live in China; maybe in 20 years they will be one-half of the world. Their present rate of progress is beyond description but they have, as we have said, a million miles to go before the masses have a semblance of a decent standard of living. Their saving rate, however, if one can picture a future nation of one billion people—skilled, educated, industrialized, and with a capacity for work that beggars description — the high-cost of economy of the West is eventually in for revision. The West will want no part of the political and economic philosophy that governs such States — but I wonder if we had a similar experience as a people how we would feel about it? The answer seems to be clear.

"Regarding the so-called 'recognition' of China in the political sense, that just does not ace how six hundred million people, which may be a billion before too long, can be given by

White Boys Praise Negro

Christian Science Monitor

Ernest Green was one of eight Negroes enrolled in Little Rock's Central High School. Along with other students he became a copy of the school's yearbook as June approached. According to the school custom, students write comments in one another's books — shaky but friendly messages in the case of seniors. And Ernest was a senior and hoped to graduate.

Fourteen of the about 2,000 white students wrote in Ernest's book. Here are quotes from their messages:

"I'm sorry about the test and passed it. May you always have this much courage . . . Your friendship has meant a lot to me. May God bless you richly.

. . . I have admired your courage this year, and I'm glad you made it through all right . . . I really admire you. Good luck in finding a real nice fellow . . . It has been a sincere pleasure to have known your friend. May God always guide you and keep you safe."

Ernest did graduate. And as he walked under the platform lights he braced himself against those that were came. "Like a bomb," he said, "that was a dud."

More Southerners than Northerners—or people in other lands—will understand this seeming contradiction between prejudice and regard in person-to-person relationships and difficulties in accommodating race to race with mutual dignity. But so long as the first exists, resolution of the second is not hopeless.

The fact that something like this graduation could happen means that recognition of individual worth does cross the color line—just as Christ does after all, it is the way to problem.

HOLD ON AND KEEP GOING

Are you a good starter but a poor finisher?

If so, you are amongst a numerous company. Statistics show that most business ventures fold up at last with loss to all involved. The happy beginning stories and gay reception followed some years later by recrimination between two sides and divorce, illustrate how often people start well, go along most happily for a while, and then totter and fall by the wayside.

A good start, a poor finish! And for every good start and poor finish, there is a poor start and good finisher. Excepting for a few things which happen in the world of nature, there are no occurrences apart from people. When a situation breaks down, this means that an individual has broken down. It is people that fail, not events. And people fail because we cannot carry to a successful finish the things we started with high hopes.

Once in a while, events transpire which render success impossible. But this is infrequent. Usually, when situations appear to have failed, a person has failed, and not infrequently, that person is myself.

But we are never to become discouraged by failure, for failure is a part of life. It is intended to be educative. It is meant to teach us something.

Don't mope. Don't repine. Learn something from life's failures. Learn.

Beggar Gave Premier Tip

Kurier Israelski, Tel Aviv

A beggar walked into Ben-Gurion's office in Jerusalem and said he wished to see the prime minister. When told that this was impossible, he dropped to the floor and began to scream repeatedly at the top of his voice: "My wife and children are starving!" Ben-Gurion refuses to help me!"

The commotion brought the prime minister out of his private office, and upon seeing the prostrate beggar, he motioned him to rise, gave him $15 and said: "It does not pay to be so noisy, my friend. If you hadn't made such a scene, I might have given you more."

"Excuse me, Mr. Prime Minister," said the beggar, pocketing the money, "you may be a great statesman in the world, but you do not know anything about begging."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

OUTDOOR GARDENING HAS ITS HAZARDS, TOO

You remember the story about the old fellow who studied all the accident statistics and decided that to be safe he'd better not stay at home, better not go up and down stairs, and better not ever get in a bathtub — because those were the places where so many accidents happened.

With this in mind, we will now proceed in today's hygienical lecture about working in your back yard. Gardening is fine, pulling the grass, or pulling weeds, or spraying, or whatever) is good for people. It makes 'em tired and sleepy 'em out in the fresh air, keeps them from fretting over things that are going to turn out all right anyway, and doesn't put any undue strain on the hearts, lungs and muscles of those of us who prefer useful occupations to rock-n-roll.

Here, however, are a few suggestions concerning the aspects of gardening that require some caution (other than being careful not to slip in the bathtub afterward).

You rarely get a serious wound in the garden if you are suitably cautious about keeping toes and fingers out of the power lawn mower, which, indeed, is worth thinking about. That's a serious hazard to careless people. Usually you get little nicks and scratches from twigs, thorns, sharp tools, and bits of glass in the weeds.

First aid for these consists of washing them with soap and water to stop the bleeding. Let the blood wash away impurities. In addition, the while blood will wash away, it usually successfully, with any germs.

Then wash the wound carefully with soap and water. Use an antiseptic if you want to. That's optional. Soap and water does pretty much. If you have a scrape, abrasion or a bruise, you'll want to protect it. Use a clean dressing for it, however simple, and if it is a finger, use a finger cot. Any finger cot. Dirt and moisture will filter through a bandage and even through work gloves.

TOXICS IN CHEMICALS

Second (or maybe first!) hazard is insecticides — the best insecticides, sprays and weed-killers are likely to contain some poisonous. Commonest are DDT, arsenic, pyrethrum, nicotine, etc. Handle them with respect. Keep off the kiddies, etc., whenever possible. If you make solutions of them, and don't use the whole batch, label what is left over and above and keep it out of the reach of children. Better, discard its she alley if you're not sure. Be careful of carnivorous ants, sneezes, or odd swellings, from me apparent reason, see if they coincide with work in the garden. Handling such common plants as evergreens, rhododendrums or many other ordinarily harmless plants will bother a few people. Remember that the "rose fever" and "grass fever" are allergies common enough to warrant having names in the medical lexicon. And I haven't the world's ill.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If you make friends with an infant wild animal this summer, in your sojourn in the woods, you should remember a couple of certain deaths.

Fear, not trust, is the basic law of the wilds. If you make friends with a baby raccoon, fox, deer, beaver, you have hardly half nurtured at summer's end before it has become afraid of you, and that it should have feared like death because of the human scent.

Remember a squirrel, or a deer, mouse or any of the birds to come out in the open to accept your gifts of food, and as soon as your dangerous presence is removed, some other animal, maybe the owl, weasel or fox will pounce upon the little creature that never should have been taught by you to forget the rule that eternal secrecy is the price of life.

The lands and forests officers all across Canada are asking the public not to pick up the young, other juveniles that they may encounter in their summer woodland holidays under the impression they have been deserted. Hardly a week goes by at most forestry stations but some nobody does nail turn up with such an infant, asking the foresters to take charge of it.

It was not deserted. The pitiable mother was somewhere close by, watching as its baby was kid-

Cobourg Tightens Grip on Second With 6-3 Victory Over Trenton Jrs.

Cobourg Merchants blasted three home runs on Saturday night as they tightened their grip on second place in the Belleville and District softball league with a 6-3 victory over the Trenton Legion Juniors.

The Merchants scored all their runs early, two in the second, three in the third and a single in the fourth, good for their eighth win of the season. Trenton plated one in the third and made it fairly close with two in the eighth.

Rolly Campbell returned to the victory trail after a couple shaky performances on the Cobourg hilltop. He allowed just four hits to gain his third victory of the campaign, three of these in the third inning and another in the eighth. He struck out ten while passing three.

While the Merchants collected only six safeties off a trio of Trenton hurlers half of these were circuit blasts. Jack Bevan clouted a homer in the second to score the initial run of the game. Then in the third Brian Hart and Burke Clarey hit back to back jacks with the sacks empty to make it 4-1.

Hart was relief pitch leg to Cobourg's second run. They scored another on 2 hit batter, wild pitch and Campbell's base hit while an error and Brian Hart's single closed their scoring.

Trenton put together base knocks by Doug Alexander, Bob Burns and Roger Ivake for a single marker in the third. Three miscues, a free pass and Drake's safety gave them their final pair.

Ron Wannamaker started and took the loss on the Trenton mound. He was relieved by Gord Maroney in the third who was in turn replaced by Howard Cole in the eighth Maroney struck out five in his stint while the Merchants picked up a total of six walks.

Brian Hart with a homer and single was the lone Cobourg player with two hits Clarey and Bevan had their home runs while Dick Turpin and Rolly Campbell gathered singles.

Roger Drake picked up half Trenton's base hits; the others split between Doug Alexander and Bobby Burns.

Lineup: Trenton — Long, Drake, Kennedy, Austin, Asselstine, Mosam, Alexander, Burns, R. Wannamaker, Maroney, H. Cole, Williams, L. Wannamaker.

Cobourg — Turpin, Boncardo, B. Hart, Clarey, Bevan McSporran, Campbell, J. Hart, Fisher, O'Brien, Edgell.

Adenauer Party Wins Election In Biggest State

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) — An election victory for Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats in West Germany's largest state was seen today as an endorsement of his plans to provide the country's new army with atomic weapons.

The Christian Democrats regained control of the provincial parliament of North Rhine-Westphalia Sunday in the first popular test of the nuclear armament program. It has become West Germany's hottest political issue since Adenauer's party won the national elections again almost 10 months ago.

Only the provincial administration of this big industrial and agricultural state was at stake, but the opposition Socialists keyed their campaign to Adenauer's plans to accept the Atlantic Alliez' offer of nuclear arms.

The Socialists claimed atomic armament would put West Germany so squarely in the Western camp that all hope of reuniting with Communist East Germany by negotiations would be lost. They raised the spectre of atomic warfare, while the Christian Democrats played on fears of communism and hammered home their theme of post-war prosperity.

The Christian Democrats moved from 89 seats in the 200-member provincial Parliament to firm control with 104 seats. The Socialists advanced, but not as far, from 76 to 81 seats.

LOSE IN POPULAR VOTE

Adenauer's party actually lost five per cent of the popular vote from its high point in the state in last September's general elections. The Socialists gained almost six per cent from last year's low of 33.5 per cent. The Christian Democrats polled 50.5 per cent.

The principal loser was the Free Democrat party, which dropped from 27 seats to 15. The Free Democrats joined with the Christian Democrats in a coalition government in 1954 but suddenly switched two years ago and allowed the Socialists to take over.

Two splinter groups, the neo-Nazi German Reich party and the Catholic Centre party, lost their seats taken by polling less than five per cent of the popular vote. The Communists have been outlawed for two years.

Pointed Toes, Spike Heels Not Good Shoes

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Long-pointed toes and spike heels of latest shoe styles could result in a crop of corns and foot ailments says a veteran woman foot expert.

Miss Beryl Laird of London, reporting after 37 years as a chiropodist, says the shoes have a drastic effect on the back and nervous system.

"People don't attach enough importance to their feet, or realize how much pain and ache can be caused by them. Headaches, backaches, exhaustion, tiredness, irritability—all can have their origins in the feet."

Women, she says, should wear shoes like men's—shoes that are long enough and wide enough for the foot, and are flat - heeled. Housewives can bring foot troubles by wearing old run-over high-heeled dancing shoes around the house.

Massage, cream and foot powders are "just a waste of time and care. "People look after their hands with cream and massage, but their poor feet — they never give them a thought."

Old Patterns Being Sought For Celebration

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — The past and enemies may be fashionable today "outside" but in the Yukon, women are scurrying about for old patterns.

During August, they will don the styles and fashions — waisted blouses and high necklines of the days of 1897. The occasion is the celebration of the Yukon gold rush jubilee.

It is 50 years since the first women came with their men over the mountain trails from the west coast, down old portages and rivers to the Klondike in the gold stampede of 1898.

JUBILEE COSTUMES

The Whitehorse chapter of the IODE is supervising the making of costumes for events lined up for the jubilee and Yukoners are digging through family trunks to find some of the true old-time accessories.

Ostrich plumes, broad-plumed hats, beautiful Paris ball gowns worn in the days of the Gay Nineties, even high-button boots are coming out.

One of the first events requiring a "98 costume is the grand opening Friday July 25 at Whitehorse. This starts the program for a big week.

Whitehorse artist Bob Eriam has roughed out sketches for the Yukon ball scheduled for August 1 in the civic centre and Jubilee Coronation Park. Sonny Dawrice, is filled with special plans for this and other events.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Among other events during August will be sourdough suppers in the Old Log Church now Christ Church Cathedral, where Robert Service once was a member of the vestry, gay street carnival and other pioneer gatherings.

Several events will took part in the "98 week rush — of "98 weren't real dance hall girls. Or at least 150 women "in the 1897 at least 150 women "in good people" were in the Yukon or the Klondike, and went through the privations of that first tough winter of 1897-98.

As inscribed in the early records, the girls came to Yukon women included "the thirsties of woollen hosiery and gloves, the fair sex canvas & sleeping bags lined with sheepskin, sweaters and several suits of the heaviest woollen goods available."

This summer, the women of 1958 will trek to the Klondike, too. But they'll go in cars, on buses, by plane, train and boat.

'Evacuation Pack' Can Be Stored in Convenient Spot

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Cut off from the normal utility services, water and food supplies, what do you do?

You plan for tomorrow, say federal civil defence officials, and you fill your "evacuation pack."

The federal CD organization has just completed its first pamphlet on recommended contents for evacuation packs. The pamphlets will be distributed by provincial civil defence co-ordinators.

FAMILY PACK

The pack can be made up for a family, stored in a convenient spot and, with food items and water replaced at intervals to keep them fresh, is always ready for any emergency, says dietitian Helen Sackville, a civil defence expert on emergency feeding.

Experts at armed forces rations, nutritionists, home economists, dietitians and health services officials have drawn up the list of essential items a housewife should select for the pack. Miss Sackville said in an interview.

There is nothing elaborate about suggested items for the pack. No scientists are Publicates of kitchen cupboard supplies such as evaporated milk, canned citrus juices, fruit, vegetables, soups, meat and fish.

Budgeting a pack for one adult for seven days costs $7, Miss Sackville said. The food can be stretched to last longer in an emergency.

WELL-PACKED

An important point is that all water and food must be in tightly-covered containers. An inexpensive nylon shopping bag, a cardboard carton, an old suitcase or a picnic hamper will do for the pack itself.

The essential food items—with the exception of instant coffee and tea bags—can all be eaten cold if necessary.

No dehydrated foods that need water for preparation are among the items suggested.

However, water and other liquids are of prime importance, said Miss Sackville. A person can survive longer without food than without water.

Two gallons of water for each member of the family is recommended, or two quarts of water for each person if the pack is to be stored in a car trunk or carried.

HANDY ANYTIME

While the evacuation pack idea was developed mainly for use in case of a nuclear attack when families might have to leave home quickly and for shelter for a number of days, CD officials say the ready-pack has many uses.

Along with water and food—and a can opener — the pack should contain blankets, essential medicines, a first-aid kit, safety matches, candles, a flashlight and perhaps a non-electric-type heating unit.

Such a pack, the officials point out, can be useful in many emergencies, such as being stranded on the road on a holiday tour, or for fishermen and hunters, be long trips.

Would you like to meet some of the Allan Cup champions?

Enter the Corby Library Reading Contest and meet the Macs at the party, August 23.

The contest begins (tomorrow!) July 5.

To enter, all you must do is come to the juvenile department and ask to join. You will be given a paper hockey stick with your name on it to place on a special map. On this map are the names of the towns and cities where Belleville played hockey this year. To move your hockey stick, you must read certain books. For example, to move from Belleville to Kingston, you must read one fiction (reader's choice) and a book about Canada or some other country. The requirements are of a general nature allowing you to choose books that will interest you.

You have seven weeks to read the necessary number of books. Contest ends August 22.

If you reach Kelowna you may come to the party, some of the Macs will definitely be there.

Since the Macs did more than go to Kelowna to win the Allan Cup, you must do something a little extra to become a winner. This extra stunt will be kept secret until you reach Kelowna.

It is hoped that all the boys and girls will enter this contest, especially delighted for them. For further details about the contest please come to the children's department, Corby Public Library.

Hillcrest P.S. Honors Three Staff Teachers

The Dominion Day observance at Hillcrest school on Thursday morning served a double purpose. A fine program was presented by the senior pupils and gifts were tendered to three staff members. Two of these, Mrs. Boate and Mr. Faulkner, are leaving the school, while Miss Leadley is being married.

The address to Mrs. Boate was read by Karen Jenkinson, and Linda Slappey presented the gift of a tooled lace tablecloth and a pair of pillowslips.

Wedding gifts to Miss B. Leadley include d an electric kettle from the pupils and a lace cloth from the staff. Brenda Woods addressed appropriate remarks to the bride-to-be and tendered the gift. Mr. Faulkner and Mrs. Ketcheson did the honors on behalf of the staff.

An address to Mr. Faulkner was read by Jean St. Denis and the gift of an initialled onyx ring was presented by Shirley LeFort.

All of the recipients graciously expressed their thanks for the gifts.

Calgary Negro Girl First to Graduate in Law

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Violet King of Calgary, first Negro Canadian woman to graduate in law, has experienced more prejudice as a woman in a man's field than she has racial discrimination.

"I've been discriminated against, not because I'm a colored, but because I'm a lawyer—a field some feel a woman shouldn't be operating in," she said Thursday at a citizenship seminar attended by 64 persons from various race, religious and ethnic groups in Canada.

"That's the resistance of the male in a field he has dominated for 1,000 years," said Vernon Trott, a human relations expert from Toronto.

"There's also the feeling that a woman is marking time until she marries, that she isn't going to stay long," he said, referring to what he called the fact there were few women department heads.

Miss King said the "battle for equal pay for equal work represented not so much a desire for more money among women but a desire for status."

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

SHOULD SHE TAKE SOCIAL INITIATIVE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband was transferred here by his company about two months ago, to a position as junior executive. We were able to rent a quite attractive small house, joined the church of our denomination here, and in general have been happy and fortunate in our social contacts. However, one thing does bother us. At several informal parties we have met and had pleasant talks with my husband's "chief" and his wife, and they have been cordial. But they have not invited us to their home, have not mentioned this when we saw them.

We are quite accustomed to entertaining nicely, though simply and informally, and my inclination is to invite them to dine with us at our home. But my husband insists I "watch my step," that I must let them make the first move in entertaining. I really don't think they are snobs, but of course I really am as my husband says, they are much older than we are and have lived for many years in this community, and his position is important in the company. Your advice, please?

Reader

My advice: follow your husband's sound advice. For the wise reasons your husband gives, you must wait for the chief and his wife to take the initiative in either calling on you or inviting you to some occasion (it need not necessarily be to dine with them). Their first social bow to you will give you the cue as to your return-procedure.

GODPARENTS ANNOUNCING ADOPTION OF CHILD

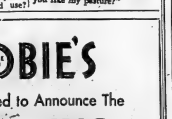
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have a very special problem, and we would very much appreciate your advice. Several months ago my only sister and her husband were killed in a motor accident. They left an only child, a lovely and lovable little daughter, four years old. She is not only my niece, but also my goddaughter, my godchild. We have no children. Since the death of her mother and father a h e has been living with us, and now all arrangements have been made for us to adopt her.

Because of several circumstances (for example, her father had many relatives and friends, social and professional, here and in England and on the Continent) we would like to send formal cards, and quite a few of them, announcing that we have adopted the child, and her new name. I have never seen this done. Would it be correct? If so, will you please suggest a form we could use?

Thank you, so very much, Mrs. Beeckman, for your help.

— "Adopitve" Parents



Sending these plain, formally-worded announcements would be correct, and I agree with you that, under the circumstances, they would be very practical. (I do suggest, however, that they do tell or write the news to your relatives and to close friends of your sister and of yours.)

The card might read:

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hill announce that Elizabeth Grace Blake has been adopted as their daughter and will hereafter be known as Elizabeth Grace Hill

(Because of the circumstances, you could not, of course, use any of the usual phrases used in adoption announcements: "have the happiness to announce," or "take pleasure in announcing," or "happily announce.") If you wish, you might insert a line after the child's name, reading:

born on the first of May, 1954

"Where the matter — don't you like my pasture?"

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies.

Rose E. — My sister is making a fool of herself, over a man.

Gertrude F. — I can't help it I love him.

Rose E. — I am 36 and have been married eight years and I feel well qualified to give a little advice to my 23-year-old sister, who is making a fool of herself over a man who doesn't give a hoot for her.

Gertrude has been in love with Arnold for nearly two years. She has been through every trick in the bag before she managed to get a date with him. Finally she got one. They have been going steady for about a year and a half, but nothing seemed to be coming of it.

At last Gertrude decided to take the plunge and do the proposing herself. I advised her against it, but she went ahead anyway. The answer was something like "Well, I'm not sure yet. Give me time to think it over."

I told Gertrude she should have her head examined when she insists upon seeing him after that. That girl doesn't know a slap in the face when she got it.

Gertrude F. — Maybe I am a fool, I don't know. I just can't help myself. I have never before so drawn toward any man and I don't think I could ever feel this way about anyone else.

Arnold has explained to me that he has a lot of responsibilities in his family. His father is dead and he is the oldest. Maybe it is just an excuse, but I can't help realizing that he does have a difficult problem and he has to think things through.

I am very sorry if what my sister says is true — that I've made a fool of myself and cheapened myself by doing the proposing. But I wanted so much to know where I stood. I feel that Arnold likes me very much and could love me if he gave himself a chance, but he is afraid of the responsibilities of marriage.

I am willing to work for several years before we get married, but Rose says I'd be making a worse fool of myself.

The Council: No, we don't think Gertrude has made or is making a fool of herself by pursuing the man she believes she loves, but possibly she is wrong to put all her eggs in this fragile basket.

Anyone who proposes — man or woman — runs the risk of being refused or getting an indecisive answer. This is not an insult or a slap. Many women have done the proposing and gotten affirmative answers and gone on to happy marriages.

But a woman who is hardly enough to do the proposing must be hardly enough to accept a rejection without too much bitterness and upheaval. She has no reason to feel she has "cheapened" herself.

Since Arnold feels he needs time to think things over, Gertrude might as well make good use of this time herself. She ought to think things over and consider what it would mean to be married to a man who is rather reluctant about taking the plunge.

Such a man is likely to feel he has been trapped into marriage. Instead of appreciating the sincerity and strong character of a woman like Gertrude, he might feel resentful of her when the ordinary and inevitable problems of married life arise.

There are only possibilities. We don't know Arnold. Gertrude does. She should try to study him a little more through the cool eyes of reason instead of the rosy glasses of love. She should, at the same time, take another look around at other men she knows. If s h e finds that there is someone she may find someone more worthy of her love. Arnold's desire for a change in his life may be for the best for both of them.

Tall, Cool Thirst Quenchers

by Mary Moore

I'm in the right mood to write this for my Sunday School class of teenagers — 25 strong — are descending on my back garden barbecue at 6:30 tonight.

The recipe for Spiced Fruit Punch makes 2 quarts which would serve 15 people one 8-oun ; glass each. To have ample for 25 I am doubling it. It was given to me by the New Brunswick Home Economist. When I made it up I experimented with a few variations which are listed.

SPICED FRUIT PUNCH

(Makes fifteen 8-ounce servings) Two and one-half cups orange juice, 1-3 cup strained lemon juice, 1-4 cup lemon juice, one 20-ounce can pineapple juice, 2 cups water, 6 whole cloves, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-4 teaspoon allspice, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon honey, 2 large bottles ginger ale. Combine orange juice, lemon rind and juice, pineapple juice, water, spices, sugar and honey. Cover and let stand in warm place 3 hours. Strain over an equal amount of cracked ice. Add ginger ale and serve at once. Variation No. 1: Instead of 2-1-2 cups fresh orange juice you may use 1 6-ounce can fresh frozen orange juice and 2 1-4 cans water. Variation No. 2: If desired, a syrup may be made of the sugar and water and instead of ground spices whole spices may be simmered in it for 10 minutes and then strained out. Add to all remaining ingredients as above.

I feel ever so organized in the hot weather when there is a jar of lemon syrup ready for use in the refrigerator. It is a good starter when you go to the kitchen for cool drinks for drop-ins.

LEMON SYRUP

Two cups boiling water, 1 cup each sugar and lemon juice, the grated rind from the lemons used before squeezing (of course), Boil together the water, sugar and rind 5 minutes. Strain, cool add lemon juice and bottle. When needed, fill glasses 1-3 full of syrup, add an ice cube and fill to top with ginger ale.

Here's one for those spasmodic cooks — like your husband or kiddies who want a showy product with a minimum of effort. Cook a cool your guests will be reaching before the tray is passed.

CHERRY CREAM SODA

(Serve 4) Grind sweet cherries and measure 1 cup and sprinkle them with 1-4 cup sugar and stir well. Measure 1-4 cup into each of 4 glasses. Add 1-4 cup light cream or top milk to each. Don't worry if it curd-

Puss'n Boots—made from fresh, whole fish

These fresh-caught fish are cooked from Canadian coastal waters into savoury casseroles, where the whole fish is preserved into Puss'n Boots Cat Food.

...gives your cat Sparkling health and beauty

THE secret of a cat's health and disposition is in its feeding. According to biologists, the best single food you can give your cat is whole fish. Not just any part or scrap of fish. There's an important scientific reason for that word "whole". It's really an exciting story for any cat owner who wants a healthy, contented and good-looking pet.

Only Whole Fish has Life Balance

In a living fish there's a balance of those mysterious elements which nature uses to sustain a healthy, thriving organism. When whole fish is prepared for cat food, those elements are retained intact, just as they were in the living fish. The fillets supply rich proteins. The liver and glands yield precious vitamins. The bone structure provides calcium and phosphorus. From various parts of the fish come iron, vitamins, calcium, manganese and all those vital food elements which nature uses to sustain full vitality. That's why cat food made from parts or scraps of fish is not enough. When almost any part supplies something valuable, your cat needs all those nutrients, in nature's own life balance. Only the whole fish supplies them all.

Puss'n Boots is made from Whole Fish

Our business is cat food. Puss'n Boots is not made from parts of fish or scraps. By a process exclusive to fish, with nature's balance of nutritive elements intact as they were in the living fish. Valuable cereals are added for flavor and all round nutrition. You couldn't duplicate the food value in Puss'n Boots whole fish even if you went to endless trouble buying and cooking and mixing for your cat. But all you have to do is open a can of pressure-cooked, Dandy-to-serve Puss'n Boots.

YOU CAN GIVE yourself a pleasant surprise by feeding Puss'n Boots regularly to your cat. In three weeks or less you'll see a more frisky pet, with a livelier step, a sleeker look, a more contented purr . . . more of all those lovable qualities you want in your pet. Try it!

Compare your cat's food with Puss'n Boots. Only Puss'n Boots is so well balanced . . . nourishes so completely!

Do You Feed HAMBURGER? Hamburger has a high amount of body-building protein and blood-building iron.	But HAMBURGER lacks energy-giving carbohydrates. It is deficient in vitamins A and D.	PUSS'n BOOTS not only furnishes body-building protein and blood-building iron, but has an abundant amount of carbohydrates for energy and vitamin A for keen eyesight.
Do You Feed KIDNEY? Beef kidney has a good supply of growth-giving protein, fat for energy, niacin for healthy skin.	But BEEF KIDNEY lacks manganese, one of the nutritive factors responsible for normal reproduction and healthy kittens.	PUSS'n BOOTS not only supplies niacin for smooth, healthy skin and fat for energy, but also the vital reproductive manganese, so necessary to the mother cat and her kittens.
Do You Feed SALMON? Salmon (canned) has body-building protein, blood-building calcium and vitamin D.	But SALMON (canned) lacks vitamin A, so necessary for good eyesight and science counts very little carbohydrates.	PUSS'n BOOTS not only has the calcium, vitamin D and calcium, but contains vitamin A as well as valuable carbohydrates.
Do You Feed MILK? Milk has growth-giving proteins, calcium for strong bones and teeth, riboflavin and vitamin.	But MILK lacks iron, the mineral that's so important for good rich red blood.	PUSS'n BOOTS not only has riboflavin for silky fur and vitamin for sight, but also iron which supplies the blood-building iron which milk lacks.

Thomson Wins British Open, Fourth Victory Sets Record

ST. ANNES ON THE SEA, England (CP)—Australia's phenomenal Peter Thomson today was sitting squarely beside such golf immortals as Harry Vardon, Walter Hagen and Bobby Locke after winning a 36-hole playoff with big Dave Thomas of Wales Saturday and his fourth British Open in five.

Emerging from an 18-months slump, the 28-year - old world traveller from Melbourne shot rounds of 68 and 71 over the Royal Lytham and St. Annes course for a 139 to win by four strokes.

Thomas, struggling from behind most of the day, fired a 69-74—143. The two had wound up regulation play Friday tied at 278 over 72 holes.

Thomson, who has finished 1-2 in the last seven British Opens, put three wins on a string in 1954, 1955, and 1956 before Locke, South Africa's master putter, dethroned him last year.

TOPS JONES

Thomson's record tops even Bobby Jones, famed United States grand slammer, who was only three British opens.

After Thomson's 1956 win the Aussie went into a slump that few persons—especially Thomson —could understand. Beaten for the Australian title last year, he failed to win a major tournament until he found range here at St. Annes.

First prize was worth $2,800 to the Aussie. Thomas, who stands six-feet - three and weighs 240 pounds, received $1,820.

Minor Baseball

Four games were played in the pewee section of the Bellville Minor baseball association on Saturday.

The Yankees defeated the Red Sox by an 9-1 score, Giants shaded Dodgers 4-3, Parkdale squeezed by the Indians 5-4 while Braves defeated the Tigers 12-6.

Yankees scored their victory behind a no-hit pitching performance but the report turned in on the game did not list the pitcher's name. The winners scored runs in the first three frames while Red Sox got their lone in the third.

Red Sox	001 000 0	1—0—2
Yankees	212 130 x	9—9—2

Dennis Reid was the winning pitcher while Glancey took the loss in Parkdale's victory over the Indians. No line score was turned in on this game.

Giants spotted the Dodgers a pair before coming back for victory. Bobby Boyle was the winning hurler with ten strikeouts while Denard fanned five and accepted the loss.

Giants	001 210 0	4—7—3
Dodgers	020 000 0	2—4—2

Braves rallied for ten runs in the final three frames to down the Tigers. Hallam pitched the victory while Moffat was the losing pitcher.

Braves	011 023 5	12— 9—8
Tigers	022 110 0	6—10—6

Segura, at 32 the oldest player in the tournament, stroked his way through a field of six of the world's best players without a defeat.

Young Joey Jay Stops Braves Losing Streak

By CHUCK CAPALDO
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dropping a child into water to teach him to swim may have its drawbacks, but a baseball version of this sink-or - swim philosophy worked wonders for Joey Jay and the Milwaukee Braves.

The 22-year - old righthander stopped the National League leaders' losing streak at five games Sunday with a four-hit, 3-0 shutout over Pittsburgh's Pirates.

It was only his second victory in five decisions. His first victory also was a 3-0 shutout, in six innings over St. Louis. In between he dropped 3-1, 3-1 and 1-0 games —which just goes to show the mileage this former bonus baby can get out of two runs.

Jay, who pocketed $40,000 for signing with Milwaukee five years ago—then almost quit baseball because he felt like a bum on a log—owns a fabulous 1.05 earned-run average for his five starts. His ERA is 2.25 year-all, including four relief jobs in which he gave up seven runs.

The about-face in Jay's pitching fortunes occurred during his first start at St. Louis June 13. In the sixth inning of that rain-shortened game Jay had a 3-0 lead. The Cards had one on with two out. And the ever-dangerous Stan Musial was at the plate.

NEVER IN A GAME

"Del Crandall signalled for a changeup. I almost died. I'd thrown the pitch some in the bullpen, but never in a game. I figured if Del had guts enough to call for it, I had guts enough to throw it. We got Musial out on the pitch and won the game."

"Later on," Jay continued, "I read where Stan said I looked pretty good because I could get the change over the plate for a strike."

Jay, who stands 6-4 and weighs 205 pounds, has been using the change-of-speed pitch ever since with excellent results. It's a fine foil for his fast ball and curve, as he proved again in Sunday's game with nine strikeouts.

Crandall, the NL's all - star catcher and a veteran at 28, said he gambled on Jay's changeup because "you've got to find out fast what a young pitcher's got."

"I didn't know whether he'd been working on a changeup or not," he added. "But after all, he's a major league pitcher. He hadn't been getting anybody out as a reliever. When one of his pitches aren't working right on a given day, you've got to try something else."

Senators Seek Owner Opinion Regarding Move

BALTIMORE (AP) — The recent shifting tides of major league baseball continued to roll today with Washington Senators taking a sounding on their possible movement.

Calvin Griffith, president of the Senators, will ask the other American League owners how they feel about continuing to play in Washington.

Washington is last in the American League standings and more important to other operators, last in attendance. Visiting teams are paid according to each ticket sold.

One Washington director claimed at the last board meeting that visiting teams barely made expenses. The directors instructed Griffith to ask the owners today at their meeting in conjunction with the all-star game their reaction to a move out of the capital.

Minneapolis, Minn., Houston, Tex., Dallas, Tex., and Toronto have been mentioned as likely new homes of the Senators.

INNER STRUGGLE

An internal struggle has been going on the last couple of years over an itch for Washington to join the search for greener pastures. In the last four years, American League franchises have been moved from St. Louis to Baltimore and Philadelphia to Kansas City. The National League joined the upheaval this year when the Dodgers and Giants were moved from New York to California.

The urge for change hasn't stopped there. Both American League recently, are expected to hear talk about expanding to 10 from eight teams. In this connection, the National League will hear a report on an idea for New York City to build a stadium as a lure for return of a franchise.

William Shea, representative of Mayor Robert Wagner, will make the New York sales pitch.

"We must get the promise of a franchise," Shea said. "If we do, we will promise the National League a park."

Hope of improved attendance has been the motive behind the recent franchise moves. It is the burning one in Washington where only 457,079 fans paid to see all home games last season. The draw is only 83,000 better so far this season and more likely to decline than go up from now on.

NEWS TO HIM

League President Will Harridge, to preside over the club owners' meeting here, said Sunday night: "Frankly, this is news to me."

Also expressing surprise at the talk of Washington moving were Del Webb, co-owner of New York Yankees, and George Medinger, vice-president of Cleveland Indians and a member of Webb's committee.

Griffith said some American League teams are "sick and tired" of the small take bonus checks in Washington. Other directors evidently are putting the pressure on Griffith to move. Last winter he promised stockholders "We are going to stay in Washington as long as we can, as long as I live."

Cooper Next On Kramer List

WIMBLEDON (CP) — When will professional tennis impresario Jack Kramer tap Australia's Ashley Cooper on the shoulder?

That's the question asked around Wimbledon's plush green acres today after the 21-year-old Aussie captured the men's singles title.

If Cooper added the American title to his Australian and Wimbledon laurels, Kramer could hardly resist him, experts said.

In recent years Kramer has skimmed the cream off the amateur game. Frank Sedgman, Ken Rosewall, Lew Hoad, Rex Hartwig, and Tony Trabert all have quit the amateur game for the gold of the professional business.

The movement of the amateurs to the professional circus meant this year's Wimbledon had a second-class look about it.

And it immediately brought cries for an open tournament—amateurs and professionals competing on equal terms.

Missing Pitcher Returns to Leafs

MONTREAL (CP) — Don Johnson, Toronto Maple Leafs wayward pitcher, returned to the International League baseball team here Sunday after disappearing in Rochester Thursday night.

Leafs general manager Rudie Schaffer said the big righthander was fined an undisclosed amount plus four days' pay. Schaffer said Johnson gave no reason for his disappearance "but he was repentant."

It was the fourth time Johnson has left the team without permission in two years.

Weekend Fights

Brooklyn — Jose Torres, 161, New York, outpointed Wes Lowery, 156, Allentown, Pa., six.

Kenosha, Wis.—Bob Sinda, 185, Madison, Wis., won on disqualification after second round over Leory Duez, 215, Detroit.

Havana—Rudell Stitch, 142½, Louisville, outpointed Kid Fichique, 147, Cuba, 10.

Dark-Horse Hurler Becomes Bosox Ace; Giants Cut Braves' Lead

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The player-picked performance-not-reputation "dream teams" of the American and National Baseball Leagues will focus the eyes of the baseball world on Municipal Stadium, Baltimore, tomorrow when they clash in the 25th annual all-star game.

After the voting schemozzle last year when Cincinnati fans plugged the ballot boxes — and the National team with Redlegs Commissioner Ford Frick decided on something new— and left it squarely to the players to pick the teams, with reservations.

The "reservations" proved to be nine Yankees who crafty Casey Stengel rushed into the American League breach, and six Milwaukee Braves after like action in the National loop by wily Fred Haney who will mentor the club of the senior circuit in the diamond classic.

Since the late Archie Moore, a Chicago sportswriter, inaugurated the series back in 1933 the annual classic has been productive of many thrilling episodes.

It was the greatest of them all, Babe Ruth, who "kicked off" the series. His two-run homer won it for the American League 4-2 with Connie Mack besting John McGraw in the managerial duel. The junior league dominated the series for a number of years, then the National gradually forged into the picture until the stanza to date is A.L. 14, N.L. 10.

In the series that has scintillated with outstanding diamond feats, that of Carl Hubbell, the Giants' sensational hurler, is still the Number one shining light.

Playing in the Polo Grounds, New York, before 48,000 fans, the National League mound star struck out five American League batting aces before retiring at the end of the third for Lou Warneke. Hubbell whiffed Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin in succession, in the first and second innings.

The "The Splendid Silver" Williams, who was passed up in the player selection, but "reinstated" by Ole Case, was a standout in two of the classics, and by his current performance could make it a third tomorrow.

The Red Sox batting ace homered on the 1941 game at Detroit with a two-out three-run homer in the last half of the ninth. In the 1945 game when the American League slaughtered the foemen by a 12-0 count, Williams slugged a Rip Sewell blooper into the right field bull-pen after slamming one into the centrefield bleachers off Kirk Highe.

By a strange quirk of baseball fate, the diamond career of the one and only Jerome "Dizzy" Dean was ruined in one of these midsummer star-spangled set-to's.

It happened in the 1937 game played in Washington when the American League shellacked its rivals 8-3. It was the last half of the ninth and Earl Averill was at bat with two out. Averill drove a blistering liner directly back to the mound. The ball assisted off the great man's foot leaving a fractured digit in its wake. Dizzy endeavored to pitch before the injury was healed, changed his style of delivery and permanently injured his arm.

As was to be expected with such a glittering array of batting stars on the respective lineups, home runs have played an important part in the diamond epics.

Two saved the day for the Nationals in a rain-stopped five-innings affair in Philadelphia when Eddie Robinson hammered a solo effort in the first inning for the Nats, but the foemen came back with a pair in the fourth. Then Hank Sauer with one on, got held of a Bobby Shantz shoot to fire it out of the park to give the senior loop the lead, and victory.

Red Schoendist won the 1950 game for the Nats with his extra-inning homer off Ted Gray. That was the day Ted Williams fractured an elbow and Tribe spectacular catch of Ralph Kiner's homer bid. Willie Mays tapemeasured one of Whitey Ford's shoots in the National League's 7-3 win in 1956, while Al Rosen's bat sparked the American 11-9 victory in Cleveland in 1954. Stan the Man Musial broke up a 12-inning game in Milwaukee with a mammoth clout to give the Nats a 6-5 victory.

Davis Cup

Canada Assured of Victory Meets United States Next

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's Davis Cup team, assured of victory with a 4-1 lead over Cuba in their first-round North American zone tie, has a routine cleanup job to do today in the two concluding singles.

Then they contend with their next opponents, the United States.

The outcome of the best-of-five match against Cuba was decided Saturday as Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and Don Fontana of Toronto barely extended themselves in coming through with a 6-2, 6-4 win over youthful Raul Karman and Adolfo Mineso.

That clinched the round and set up the strong possibility that Canada would sweep the round in the sixth victory over Cuba in eight meetings since 1954.

Bedard, 29-year-old Canadian champion, and Fontana, ranked No. 2, outclassed the inexperienced Cubans in the doubles as they did in winning the two opening singles Thursday in straight sets—Fontana beat Karman and Bedard crushed Mineso.

Bedard plays Karman today in the first of the two final singles and Paul Willey of Vancouver, third-ranked, will likely substitute for Fontana against Mineso now that the result has no bearing on the outcome of the round.

The Canadians, in playing a Cuban team that must be considered second-rate by international standards, looked extremely good. But they won't find the Americans so easy when they open their three-day series here Thursday.

A crowd of less than 500 at the Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club saw Bedard and Fontana eliminate the Cubans by winning the doubles without once losing their service just as they did in the first two singles.

Bedard was the steadying influence for the Canadians, particularly when Fontana went off form in the first 1-0 doubles set Saturday. By the time Fontana recovered, the Cubans had gained confidence and made a fight of it in the third set.

The four all held service until the seventh game when the Canadians managed to break through.

Delock Tames Yankee Clubs With Seventh Straight Win; Milwaukee Nips Loss String

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In spring training, Ivan (Ike) Delock was just another name on the Boston Red Sox roster. Manager Mike Higgins had plans for him but only in relief roles . . . No. 2 behind lefty Leo Kiely.

Today as Higgins takes inventory during the season's half-way turn, he shudders to think where his second-place Sox would be without Delock. He not only has blossomed into a starting pitcher but he has become the team's biggest winner and the ace of the staff.

The 28-year-old right - hander won his seventh game without defeat Sunday as the Red Sox defeated New York Yankees 10-4. It was Boston's first victory over the American League leaders since April 16 and only the second in eight decisions this season.

Despite the defeat, the Yankees remained 11 games in front of Boston and Kansas City, tied for second. The As were beaten by Cleveland 5-1, Detroit slipped Chicago 3-1 and Washington came from behind to shade Baltimore 4-3.

In Saturday's action, Cleveland beat Kansas City 8-5, Baltimore defeated Washington 3-1 and Chicago downed Detroit 8-1. In the other games, Boston and New York ended in a 3-3 10-inning tie when play was halted by the curfew.

NOT ALL THE WAY

Delock, who got his first starting chance April 20 and got go all the way as he had done in his two previous starts.

After limiting the Yankees to four hits through seven innings, he was whipped for three more hits in the eighth, including Mickey Mantle's home run.

He received credit for snapping the Yankees' five - game winning streak, however, when Kiely replaced him with two runners on base and one out and retired the next five batters.

Delock, counting his last four decisions in 1957, now owns a string of 11 successive victories.

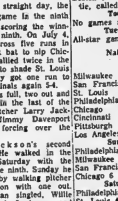
Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen paced Boston's 13-hit attack against loser Don Larsen and five relievers. Each collected three hits, Williams rapped his 14th home run and Pinky Higgins drove in two runs to raise his league leading RBI total to 68. Jackie has hit .in-the-.290's in his last 15 games.

Jim Bunning racked up his fifth straight victory with a six-hit performance for the Tigers against the White Sox.

Frank Bolling got three of Detroit's seven hits off loser Dick Donovan. The second baseman doubled home a run in the fourth and scored what proved to be the winning run on a single by Billy Martin.

HITS THREE -SINGLES

Larry Doby continued his batting rampage for Cleveland, rapping three singles in four times at bat, scoring once and driving in a run. He has had 13 hits in his last 17 times at bat since returning to the regular lineup.



Rookie Gary Bell hurled a seven-hitter for his third victory in his first complete game in the majors. Ted Kazanski, who had beaten the Indians three times, was the loser.

Julio Becquer's two-out pinch single in the eighth drove home Rocky Bridges from second with the run that enabled the Senators to snap a 3-3 tie with Baltimore.

Relief pitcher Dick Hyde assured Washington of its first home victory against Baltimore since May 27, 1957 by retiring the side straight Orioles in the ninth. Russ Kemmerer was the winner. Jim Lemon lashed two singles and his 19th homer, driving in two Washington runs.

35 YEARS AGO... LOU GEHRIG MADE HIS FIRST MAJOR LEAGUE HIT WHEN HE PINCH-HIT A SINGLE FOR CHICK HOFFTGER IN THE 9TH INNING OFF THE BROOKS' ELAM VANGILDER. THE GIANT YANKEE "IRON HORSE" WENT ON TO BAT 340 IN HIS 17-YEAR CAREER.

Bobby Thomson of 1951 playoff fame is gone. So is Dusty Rhodes, pinch hitter extraordinaire of the 1954 champions. But the Giants are still pulling off ninth inning heroics. That is one of the reasons why San Francisco continues to hound Milwaukee, hanging on only one game behind the league-leading Braves today.

For the third straight day, the Giants won a game in the ninth inning Sunday, scoring the winning run in the ninth. On July 4, they poured across five runs in the ninth turn at bat to nip Chicago 6-5. They tallied twice in the ninth Saturday to win 5-4.

With the bases full, two out and the score tied in the last of the ninth, relief pitcher Larry Jackson plunked Jimmy Davenport with a pitch forcing over the winning run.

It was Jackson's second straight loss. He walked in the winning run Saturday with the bases full in the ninth. Sunday he got in a jam by walking pitcher Red Worthington with one out. Whitey Lockman singled, Daryl Kirkland forced Lockman and Willie Mays drew an intentional walk filling the bases. Jackson's first pitch to Davenport hit him in the back.

SPLIT WITH REDLEGS

Philadelphia's Phillies extended their winning streak to seven, defeating Cincinnati 4-3. The Redlegs won the second game of the doubleheader 11-4. The Brewers broke their five - game losing streak as Joey Jay hurled a 3-0 shutout over Pittsburgh. Chicago's Cubs, behind the one-hit pitching of Dick Drott and Don Elston, defeated Los Angeles 6-2.

In other games Saturday, Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 8-5, Pittsburgh downed Milwaukee 4-2 and Chicago whipped Los Angeles 7-1.

The Sunday struggle at San Francisco saw five home runs hit. Lockman and Kirkland hit successive homers off Jim Brosnan in the first inning. Leon Wagner homered for the Giants in the fourth. Catcher Hobie Landrith hit one for St. Louis in the fifth and pinch hitter Don Noren slashed a four-bagger in the top of the ninth to tie the score at 4-4. Jay, for his 22-year-old, bonus righthander, throttled the Pirates with only four hits for his second victory in five decisions.

BATS IN TWO

Wes Covington batted in both Milwaukee runs with a single in the fifth and a rome run in the seventh, both against Curt Raydon. The Braves left fielder also drove in both Milwaukee runs Saturday.

Cal Neeman drove in three runs with a double and single and Ernie Banks got three hits in the Cubs' second straight triumph at San Diego as Jack Harshman got his fourth in 10 decisions. Carl Furillo drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh as the Cubs scored the 1,000th RBI for Furillo.

Gus Bell rapped four hits and drove in four runs to pace Cincinnati's 15-hit attack in the second game victory after the Phillies had equalled the National League's longest winning streak of the season in the opener. Rookie Jim Ray Semprock limited the Redlegs to five hits for his 10th triumph as the Phils made it seven in a row in the first game. Dave Philley paced the 15-hit attack against six pitchers with four hits and three runs batted in.

Bob Turley, Friend Possible Starting Pitchers In All-Star Classic

Well-Rested Pitching Staffs Await Nods of Casey, Haney; Righthanders Get 1st Call

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — For the first time in recent years, the managers of the all-star baseball teams will have a stable of well-rested starting pitchers for Tuesday's silver anniversary game.

None of the 15 pitchers—eight in the National and seven in the American League—Stengel of the New York Yankees and Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves started Sunday. A few years back, it seemed everybody on the roster worked on the final day of regular play.

Stengel, the perennial boss of the Americans who hold a 14-10 series edge, sounded off last year at St. Louis when he looked at the morning paper and saw that the pitchers he wanted to use weren't available. That was one reason Jim Bunning of Detroit got the honors all over Early Wynn, then with Cleveland.

Old Case had things under control this year as he picked three men off his own Yankees staff that had been making a shambles of the league race. He was able to use to it that fine 1-0 pitching duel since beating Washington Friday with a three-hitter.

Turley, a 20-game winner who pattered his style after Don Larsen's, is the top winner in the majors with a 12-3 record. He has completed 11 of 16 starts, including four shutouts. In his last outing, Turley allowed two singles and walked two, forcing a run, before he got anybody out. He allowed only one hit the rest of the day.

LEANS TO FRIEND

Haney also has been close-mouthed about his pitching selections. However, he leaned toward Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, the 1956 starter at Washington where he pitched three scoreless innings.

To convince the boss, Friend beat Haney's own Milwaukee team Saturday for his 10th victory.

The preponderance of right-handed hitters in the starting lineups, selected by the players' votes, makes it desirable to start a righthanded pitcher on each side.

Stengel, whose Americans are favored 13 to 10 in the American League ball park, has Early Wynn of Chicago, Ray Narleski of Cleveland and his own relief man, Ryne Duren, as other righthanders. To face lefthanded hitters, he has southpaw Whitey Ford of the Yanks, Billy Pierce of Chicago and Billy O'Dell of Baltimore.

If Haney wants to use righthanders, he has Bob Purkey of Cincinnati, used briefly in relief Sunday, Larry Jackson of St. Louis, Don McMahon of Milwaukee and Dick Farrell of Philadelphia, in addition to Friend.

Jackson started early in the year but has been used only on relief lately. McMahon and Farrell are relief pitchers. His lefthanders are his own Warren Spahn, Johnny Podres of Los Angeles and Johnny Antonelli of San Francisco.

SOUTHPAW HITTERS

Stan Musial of St. Louis, playing his 15th all-star game, and Bob Skinner of Pittsburgh are the only lefthanded batters in the National's starting lineup. Nelson Fox of Chicago and switch-hitting Mickey Mantle of the Yanks are the American duties against right handers. The players who receive 50 per cent of the gate and radio-television receipts for their pension fund, will be paying extra special attention to this game.

Commissioner Ford Frick junked the usual fan vote and turned the balloting over to the major league players, coaches and managers for this year. They left out men like Ted Williams of Boston, Yogi Berra of New York and Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee but the managers picked them when they named the remainder of their 33-man squads.

Bob Cerv, the starting left fielder of the American, had to confine himself to pinch hitting for Kansas City recently because of a broken toe and a hand injury. Earlier in the season he suffered a broken jaw in a home plate collision. Cerv insists he'll be ready.

Tony Kubek, Yankee shortstop expected to see service later in the game, took treatment Sunday after injuring his right instep in batting practice Saturday.

Tony's Defeat Point Anne 4-1 In Four-Way Pitching Duel

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Oshawa Tony's ace hurler nudged Point Anne's top flingers a four-way mound duel Saturday night emerging with a 4-1 victory over the Oz Pointers in a well-played exhibition tilt before a large crowd.

International stars Charlie Justice and Norm Bagnell throttled the Point Anne bludgeons with three hits, two of them bunts, while Al Carkner and Pat Maracle yielded seven clouts to the OASA senior "B" champions.

Justice duelled Carkner for the first five innings giving up two hits and one run striking out three. Bagnell toiled the remaining four frames being touched for a lone bunt and whiffing seven.

Carkner was rapped for five of the Tony's seven safeties three of them in the first innings good for two runs. He struck out three and issued the only two walks of the game. The Tony's bunched two hits good for a run off Maracle in the eighth, three of them fanning in the four innings he worked.

Justice committed the only error of an otherwise airtight fielding game. He clowned a throw of Davy Jones bunt in the second loosing the ball wild. Jones was later thrown out stealing second.

Mroczecek's towering two-run homer featured the Tony's three-hit attack in the first inning. The belt drove home Lorenco who had singled. McDiarmid followed with a single but Carkner whiffed Booth to retire the side.

Carkner stifled the Tony bats until the fifth when Lorenco scored after a walk and a passed ball and Mike Jordan's sharp single to centre.

Mroczecek's double drove home Lorenco who had singled in the eighth for the Tony's final score.

Charlie Kingston broke the Justice egg in the third when he laid down a perfect bunt. The Oz Pointers lone run came in the third when with one out Doug Hull drove a Justice shot over the centrefielder's head for a home run. Justice settled down and retired the next two batters.

Only thirteen Oz Pointers faced Bagnell in the four innings he worked, Cam Buskard, relief outfielder, laid down a bunt with two out in the eighth but nothing came of the effort.

Mroczecek's homer and double sparked the Oshawa attack with Lorenco good for two singles. M. Jordan, McDiarmid and Pitcock were the other Oshawa hitters.

The Tony's were the guests of the Cementmen at a social get-together in the plant following the game.

The teams: Tony's — J. Jordan, Lorenco, M. Jordan, Mroczecek, McDiarmid, Booth Nelson, Tuite Pointek, Logeman, Justice, Bagnell.

POINT ANNE — Carr, Wardhaugh, D. Hull, Batchelor, Gilmour, Jones, Kingston, J. Elliott Jr., J. Elliott Sr., Goyer, Soules, Buskard, Carkner, Maracle.

The score: —

Point Anne	000 100 000 1—2—0

Bisons Drop Another Pair To Red Wings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, last year's runner-up for the International League championship, are being headed deeper in the cellar.

After being outhit in a double-header July 4 by Montreal Royals and losing two, they were clearly outclubbed Sunday and lost two more.

Gary Blaylock of Rochester Red Wings tossed a brilliant one-hitter, the only safety being Luke Easter's seventh-inning single, to beat them 5-0 in the first game with a doubleheader. In the nightcap, Dick Ricketts beat them 7-2 with a four-hitter.

The Red Wings bunched all of their four hits into one inning for their runs. After two men were out in the fifth Roy Smalley, Ronnie Amaro and Blaylock singled to load the bases. Loren Babe then followed with a bases-clearing double.

In the second game, Rochester broke a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth inning by getting four hits and five runs to wrap up the game.

OTHER RESULTS

Havana Sugar Kings shelled Richmond Virginians 7-0 and 13-4 and Columbus Jets edged Miami Marlins 5-4 in 18 innings and then had their second game rained out. A doubleheader between Toronto Maple Leafs and the Royals was postponed because of rain.

"Next time you try to get away with a splitter, get rid of your gum first!"

On Saturday, Montreal edged Toronto 5-4, Rochester beat Buffalo 6-5, Richmond defeated Havana 8-3 and Miami shut out Columbus 4-0.

Emilio Cuchs blanked the Virginians on Five hits in hurling his fifth shutout of the year. The Cubans sent 11 men to the plate in the third inning and five scored to wrap up the game.

In the second game, Havana used the big inning again to beat the Virginians. They tallied five runs in the first and then closed out the scoring in the seventh by pushing across six more. Ellis Chacon led the attack with four hits, one of them a home run in the third inning and five scored in each ninth and 10th frames against Satchel Paige for the victory. The game was held up an hour and 47 minutes in the 10th inning by rain.

Leo Rodriguez scored the tying run in the ninth after doubling and then batted home the winner in the extra frame.

Big Sturgeon Hooked in Niagara River

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Ralph Butler of nearby Stamford celebrated his 33rd birthday Saturday by hooking a 100 - pound sturgeon in the upper Niagara river.

He said he was drifting in an outboard motorboat off Navy Island, hoping to catch a few bass, when he felt his line snag.

He started the motor, took another look and headed toward the island. The sturgeon headed itself on the shore trying to break away from the hook. Butler, his father and another Stamford resident, killed the fish which measured five feet nine inches.

Art Wall Wins Rubber City Open In Playoff

AKRON, Ohio (AP) A good memory helped 34-year-old Art Wall Jr. to his first golf tournament victory in 16 months.

The six - footer from Pecono Manor, Pa., teamed with Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla. in a sudden-death playoff Sunday after they had tied in the $22,000 Rubber City Open with scores of 209—par for the course—for the 72-hole test.

Wall won the playoff with a birdie on the second extra hole. Later, Wall said:

"On the final round my two playing partners, Mike Souchak and Jack Fleck, had putts on that second hole just like the one I had against Dow. I didn't see how he back that way for a year or so, but I noticed that both Souchak and Fleck missed their putts about an inch to the left. So I just let him straight at the middle of the hole, ignoring what looked like a bend in the green, and the ball went in for the birdie that wrapped it up."

It was a tough one for Finsterwald to lose. He went into the final round four strokes behind and was still three strokes back of Wall with three holes to go. He birdied each of the last three, climaxing his spurt with a 40-foot putt on the 72nd hole to force the playoff.

Wall picked up $2,800 as he won his fifth tournament in nine years of campaigning. Over the regulation 72 holes on Firestone Country Club's 6,200-yard par 71 layout he had 12 birdies and one eagle and only four bogeys.

It was the 17th time in about 2½ years that Finsterwald had finished second in a tournament. Four times this year he has been a runnerup.

Two former national Open champions, Jack Fleck of Rochester, Minn., and Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., made their best showings of the tour as Fleck scored a 223 to pick up $1,000 for sixth place and Mayer posted a 274 which gave him a seventh place the worth $850.

Hinton Haas of Birmingham, Ala., scored 275, good for $730 and his first tournament money.

Arnold Palmer, the defending champion and leading money winner from Latrobe, Pa., fired three straight 68s after an open 74 and had the 276 added $630 to his winnings, pushing his take up to $39,300.

Toronto's Al Balding got his finger in the tournament pie—coming out with $450, tied for 37th position. Balding carded 73 Sunday to finish a 278 total. Jerry Magee of Toronto finished out of the money with a 285.

Wayne, Hawks May Produce First Cinerama Story Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The box office TNT team of John Wayne and Howard Hawks may be first to get a story film on the wide, wide screen.

Actor-producer started the big-screen revolution five years ago, film makers have yet to put a story film on the big, semi-circular screen." The three-camera process has been used merely to present glorified travelogues. With the result that interest has diminished with each new presentation.

Even Lisenbricole, which made improvements on the three-image process, came forward with a travelogue for its first film, Windjammer. The lack of a strong story disappointed many reviewers.

Now Hawks and Wayne have the idea of presenting a story in one of the big processes. They teamed before in the winner, Red River, and are now making Rio Bravo.

PLAN ON WESTERN

"I think the time is ripe for putting a story on that big screen," producer-director Hawks said. "Wayne and I have a story which I think would work—a kind of western.

"It won't be easy. You've got to have a very special kind of story for the screen—one that gives you a variety of backgrounds."

Hawks is being independent about his plans. He favors the Cinemiracle process, but declines to discuss the script with its backers. "If we want to use your process, we'll use it." he told them bluntly.

SIGN OF TIMES

That's the way it is in the movie business these days. If you have a legendary producer-director like Hawks, a No. 1 star like Wayne and a good script, you can write your own ticket with any company in town.

It's good to see Hawks back in action. He has been missing from the Hollywood scene since making Land of the Pharaohs. It was a near - miss and soured Hawks on the movie business.

"I thought I would quit, and I did for a while," said the director of Sergeant, Bringing up Baby, To Have and Have Not, Gentleman Prefer Blondes and other hits.

"But then I got bored and decided I might as well be doing what I know best."

AT THE McCARTHY — Hedy Lamarr has narrowly missed injury in this scene from Universal-International's drama, "The Female Animal." Her rescuer, George Nader, playing an obscure movie extra, also is being lifted to his feet. Besides these two, the story of conflict between mother and daughter also stars Jane Powell and Jan Sterling. "The Female Animal" opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, 2nd. feature in color is "The Gypsy and the Gentleman", featuring Melina Mercouri and Keith Mitchell.

AT THE BELLE — Anne Baxter and Richard Todd co-star in Warner Bros. "Chase A Crooked Shadow", a thriller which is the first Belleville showing, opening tonight at the Belle Theatre. The 2nd. attract. feature "The Green-Eyed Blonde" co-starring Susan Oliver and Linda Plowman.

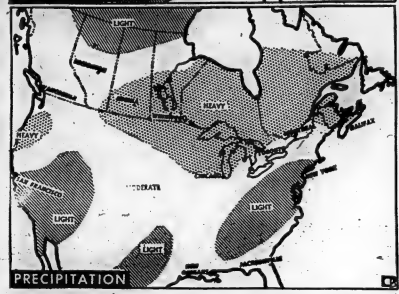
RHINE YIELDS SECRET NAZI WEAPON



German Rhine boatmen and a policeman look at a wartime German one-man submarine that was found in the Rhine river near Emmerich. The craft probably belonged to a former German Wehrmacht secret command group of 40 men, that operated in that area near the end of the last war. The command had planned attacks on the Rhine river bridges in Holland. One of the last "secret weapons" of the Nazis, the one-man craft carried two torpedoes which were hooked left and right to its body. Still in good shape, the craft shown here will be turned over to the new German navy.

Allan School Holds Special Flag Ceremony

RAWDON — Special service was held Friday morning, June 27, at the Allan School, Mount Pleasant Section, under the direction of the teacher, Mrs. G. L. Morton.

The service was opened with devotional exercises.

The guest speaker, Mr. William Sutherland, of Stirling, was introduced and she gave a graphic picture of a child's life in England. She was a teacher in England and also told the children how proud and happy they should feel to live in this free land of Canada with all its many advantages.

At the close of her talk the children were asked to participate in a question period and Mrs. Sutherland endeavored to answer their queries.

A film, "Beautiful Britain," gave a scenic picture that was interesting.

The group then went outside and gathered around the flagpole to sing "O Canada."

Rev. W. G. Fletcher dedicated the new nylon flag and it was hoisted to the top of the pole to fly in the breeze for the balance of the ceremony.

Following a period of silence, the children repeated in unison "The Oath of Allegiance," and then sang the national anthem.

The children then re-entered the school room and received their report cards and a treat from their teacher, and then the "happy holidays" began.

Canada Passes 17 Million Mark In Population

Increase of 459,000 Over Last Year Seen

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population has passed the 17,000,000 mark.

The bureau of statistics said today in its annual census estimate that the population at June 1 stood at 17,048,000, an increase of 459,000 or 2.8 per cent over the figure of 16,589,000 at the corresponding date last year.

The 12-month increase was below the record gain of 508,000 from June 1, 1956, to June 1, 1957. This was due to decreased immigration and an estimated rise in emigration which outweighed an increase of about 24,000 in natural increase—excess of births over deaths.

However, the year's increase was well above the average increase of 414,000 for the five previous years between the censuses of 1951 and 1956.

The population gain in the two years since June 1, 1956, over the census of 16,081,000 was just 30,000 short of 1,000,000.

EVERY PROVINCE GAINS

All provinces registered population gains, including Saskatchewan which had a small decline between June 1, 1956, and June 1, 1958.

Saskatchewan's population at June 1 of this year was estimated at 988,000, up 2,000 or one per cent in the year. In the previous year, it had dropped by 2,000.

Ontario had the largest numerical gain with an increase of 181,000 to 5,405,000, for a rise of 3.5 per cent. Quebec recorded the next largest gain, rising by 128,000 or 2.6 per cent to 4,894,000 from 4,766,000.

British Columbia was third with a growth of 59,000 to 1,544,000 from 1,487,000. The B.C. percentage gain was 3.8, the largest among the provinces.

Alberta was fourth with an increase of 41,000 or 3.5 per cent to 1,201,000 from 1,160,000. It was the only one of the four largest provinces to show a greater gain than in the previous 12 months.

13,000 IN YUKON

Population estimates for the remaining provinces, with last year's figures in brackets:

Newfoundland 438,000 (426,000); Prince Edward Island 100,000 (99,000); Nova Scotia 710,000 (700,000); New Brunswick 577,000 (565,000); Manitoba 870,000 (860,000);

Population of the Yukon Territory was estimated at 13,000, up 1,000. The Northwest Territories also registered a similar gain to 20,000.

The proportion of Canada's total population in Ontario rose to 31.8 per cent from 31.6 at the time of the 1951 census.

GRABS $849,500

CINCINNATI (AP) — James Walker, 31, charged with grabbing a bag containing $849,500 in securities from a bank messenger, was described in court by the prosecutor today as "a man who doesn't think, and has been doing stupid things all his life," state police said. He remanded for psychiatric examination. He was grabbed by bank guards immediately after the theft.

Chief Chisholm Buried Amidst High Tribute

TORONTO (CP) — Chief Constable John (Jock) Chisholm, who last week took his own life when mentally overwrought and in ill health, has been given the largest funeral ever accorded a Toronto policeman.

More than 2,000 persons Monday overflowed the North Parkdale United Church. Another 10,000 lined the streets along which 16 mounted police headed a guard of honor a quarter of a mile long, as the funeral procession wound its way to the cemetery where another 500 waited.

Inside the church, an entire section was given over to representatives from police departments throughout Canada — and some from the United States.

Rev. Milton R. Anderson, a friend of Chief Chisholm and his family for years, conducted the service and read a glowing eulogy.

A FRIEND OF MAN

Of the 62-year-old police chief who shot himself through the head at noon Friday in west-end High Park, he said:

"Chief Chisholm was a friend of man. He was a man with a great intuition, a man who loved Canada and Toronto. He was a man who loved to see its people have abiding and righteous, a man who lived a life of sacrifice.

"He was a man who gave a vast quantity of his body and mental energies for the welfare of Toronto citizens."

Weather Delays Release of Men Held by Rebels

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP) — Poor communications were reported delaying release of North Americans still held by Cuba's Fidel Castro's rebels. Thirty-three Americans and one Canadian still are held.

Rear-Admiral R. B. Ellis, commander of the U.S. naval base on Guantanamo Bay, said Monday he has still there had been no hitch in the release arrangements. But the men are scattered among camps in the east Oclan mountains and jungles, and it is taking much time to collect them to be picked up at one point.

Ellis has been sending a helicopter to make the pickup when a navy plane of the white clock marker panels laid out in jungle clearings.

The Canadian still held is Richard Sargent of Toronto, a sugar mill executive.

MOVES CAR; TOO BAD

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mrs. Margaret Hayward moved her car so she could listen to a baseball game on the radio while doing a sunbath—but she moved it too far. It rolled through the double doors of the Hayward garage, through the back wall and into the neighbor's home. Damage was set at $1,500.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Temperatures rose to the mid 80s over Southern Ontario, and about 10 degrees less in Northern Ontario Monday. Some showers were reported throughout the province. A slowly moving weather system is expected to leave Southern Ontario Tuesday night bringing pleasant sunny weather on Wednesday.

PAGE OF NORTH GROWTH SUBJECT OF LONG DEBATE

Minister Wants Bold Imaginative Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — The pace to be followed in northern development has emerged as a main area of government and opposition disagreement in a Commons debate about national growth.

Diefenbaker must not be deterred from a bold, imaginative policy," Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton said Monday.

Opposition Leader Pearson counselled "moving vigorously but moving carefully."

The differing views came during the first of a two-day Commons debate on national development. The Liberals and the CCF each moved a motion of non-confidence.

Mr. Pearson presented the Liberal one urging government concentration on "planned, declining investment, of a "balanced pattern" of national development, affecting settled areas as well as the North.

Deputy CCF House Leader H. W. Herridge, member for Kootenay West, called an amendment asking long-term low interest loans to small business.

CLAIMS NEGLECT

Each party is being sovereignty over the North and economic figure require action that will benefit not only a small federal government, Mr. Hamilton declared.

He spoke of "national chagrin" being engendered by the fact that Canadians go to the Russian or United States publications for information about their own North; that, unknown to Canadians, foreigners had both northern ports visited during the coronation.

He deplored what he called a approach to the exploitation of "vast northern wealth, indications of big investment by private industry were crowding in the wake of road and rail plans for the North—a trend of benefit to all Canada.

Mr. Pearson said that the "famous vision carried about the country by Diefenbaker during the last election campaign was an "adapted version of earlier Liberal plans.

Charge Father Assaulted Son, Box Is Exhibit

GUELPH (CP)—Donald Mann, a widowed father of three, was charged Monday with assaulting his five-year-old son, Gordie, and causing actual bodily harm.

On display in court as the charge was laid was a wooden box five feet long, 18 inches wide and 16 inches deep. No explanation for the box was given to the court.

The box was open lengthwise. Two boards were nailed across it, one secured at each end, the other nailed at one end only and broken in the middle.

Mann, 34, was remanded for a week. Magistrate A. S. Mitchell granted $500 cash bail over the objections of Crown Attorney J. M. Kearns.

Queen Suffering From Acute Sinus Attack, Goes Back to Palace

LONDON (AP)—The Queen is suffering from an acute sinus attack accompanied by a fever, Buckingham Palace said today. The illness has forced her to cancel a tour in Scotland and return here. An announcement added:

It said she was taken ill aboard the royal train Monday night after a busy day of official engagements in the Renfrewshire area of Scotland. Plans were being made immediately for her to return here. She and Prince Philip had planned to return to London tonight by air.

Philip remained in Scotland to complete the visit.

The Queen, 32, has suffered a sinus condition on several recent months. In May she was forced to remain indoors for a week and spent a number of days in bed.

She suffered what was called a feverish chill and was ordered by her doctor to stay indoors for several days while at the royal country estate at Sandringham in January.

In December, she was confined to Buckingham Palace briefly with a cold. Last August she was treated for a cold complicated by a sinus infection.

Today's announcement said the glands of the sinus cavities are inflamed.

One of the Queen's party reported she had a temperature of about 100 and that her voice was affected. There were no further details.

The Queen's physician in London, Lord Evans, was consulted by telephone and advised that she come back to Buckingham Palace.

Greta Goede Given 7 Years For Abducting Reitman Boy

MONTREAL (CP) — Greta Goede, 46-year-old housewife, was sentenced today to seven years in penitentiary for the abduction of 2½-year-old Noel Reitman.

Judge Lucien Gendron said, after hearing representations by defence counsel and Crown Attorney Jean Drouin, that the seriousness of the crime called for a long sentence.

"I have no doubt that she is insane, whether or not she may be pronounced so under law," said Judge Gendron.

Mrs. Goede said through the hour-long court proceedings without visible emotion.

The Reitman boy, heir to a big women's apparel chain-store business, was taken June 8 from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Reitman.

The parents were absent at the time, and the boy had been left with Mrs. Goede, employed by the Reitmans. When they returned home the child and maid were gone. A ransom note demanding $10,000 was found.

Three days later the boy was found in Ottawa in care of Peter and Rose Lesiuk, taxi driver, with whom the child had been left by a woman who asked he be looked after while she went shopping. The next day Mrs. Goede was arrested in Toronto.

After pronouncing sentence Judge Gendron said he hoped departmental proceedings would be undertaken as soon as possible. Mrs. Goede was born in Germany and came to Canada as an immigrant.

Fire Bomb in Beirut Store Kills or Injures 30 People

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An incendiary bomb wrecked Beirut's leading department store today, killing or wounding at least 30 persons.

Roaring flames quickly whipped through the building, evidently trapping some of the occupants. At least 100 employees usually are in the store, which was doing a big sunday business when the bomb went off.

The bomb was in a delivery truck parked in front of the building.

It was the worst act of terrorism in Beirut since a bomb exploded in the crowded market May 28, killing six and wounding 20 persons. Extremists among Lebanese rebels have been using bombs to try to enforce a general strike called in an effort to paralyze the government.

Pinetree Radar Line Range To Be Increased by Govt.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Pinetree radar line cannot detect some Russian bombers but modifications now are under way to enable it to deal with any bomber that crosses it, Canada.

Defence Minister Pearkes indicated the weakness in the southernmost of the three air-defence warning lines is an appearance Monday before the Commons estimates committee.

But an RCAF spokesman, amplifying Monday night on the minister's remarks, said the low-altitude range is being increased. The higher altitude would enable Pinetree to deal with bomber threats.

Mr. Pearkes Monday raised the possibility Canada soon will have American - made anti-aircraft guided missiles.

Other points emerging from his appearance before the committee:

1. Improvements are being contemplated to make the CF-100 all-weather jet fighter effective against the latest Russian bombers.

2. Canada is trying to sell the CF-105 jet interceptor to other countries, especially the United States, in a move to lower its cost to Canadians.

3. Canada and the U.S. is going ahead with efforts to set up a system for detecting intercontinental missiles, although not under a formal joint agreement.

Pinetree's main function is to detect Russian aircraft spotted and direct interceptors sent out to meet them. Its present and projected altitude range are a defence secret.

The northernmost DEW line, built entirely by the U.S., would give first warning of bomber attack, while the mid-Canada line, built jointly by Canada and the U.S., would pin down the direction and supply information on the number of planes involved.

The RCAF spokesman said Mr. Pearkes was referring primarily to the air-Canadian Pinetree line when he indicated the existing system could not detect some Russian bombers. This did not rule out the possibility the other lines could detect any Russian bombers.

The Pine tree modifications were part of improvements constantly going on to ensure the air-defence system could handle any bombing threat, the spokesman added.

The minister said there have been consultations between Canadian and U.S. defence officials on the advisibility of installing stations in Canada for the Bomarc, a U.S.-made ground-to-air guided anti-aircraft missile. There had been no direct offer of such missiles from the U.S.

The advisibility of installing the missile stations would be discussed in the fall when the Canadian cabinet had to decide whether to go ahead with production of the CF-105 for RCAF use.

GRANT GOLDFINE POSTPONEMENT FOR APPEARANCE

Chief Govt. Prober Fired by Committee

WASHINGTON (CP)—Bernard Goldfine today was granted a one-day postponement in his testimony to a House of Representatives sub-committee. The Boston industrialist said he was physically and mentally exhausted.

Representative Oren Harris, chairman of the subcommittee investigating agencies that Goldfine made gifts to win influence in government, granted a request for postponement but warned: "We are going to expect co-operation."

Roger Robb, Goldfine's lawyer, told the subcommittee the doctor he consulted by microphone near a hotel suite occupied by the industrialist, said Goldfine's theft of some papers had left him with little energy and needed time to prepare for questioning.

"He has every expectation he will be able to appear tomorrow," Robb said.

INVESTIGATOR FIRED

The subcommittee Monday night fired an investigator caught using the microphone.

The 67-year-old Goldfine pleaded "I need a rest after the ordeal" and said he thought his aides found the hidden microphone, detached it and left it there. Robb said it may have produced, and charged theft of some of Goldfine's papers record from a hotel room.

Roger Robb, Goldfine's counsel, said a postponement was granted at a hearing. Chairman Oren Harris (Dem.-Ark.) said the request would be given reasonable consideration if it is backed up by doctors certificate. Robb did not say whether one would be produced.

Goldfine held the witness stand for two days last week in Harris subcommittee inquiry into alleged federal favoritism to Goldfine because of Goldfine's friendship with President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide, Sherman Adams.

PROMISED TO TELL

The Boston industrial and real estate millionaire returned Sunday night promising to tell the congressmen, at last, about fifty-000 worth of uncashed cheques. Then the fireworks began.

Goldfine aides caught the subcommittee's top investigation, Baron B. Shackelford, eavesdropping from an adjacent hotel room Monday night. Shackelford's hotel was found with a microphone and recording machine.

Rep. Congressman Harris, the committee chairman, announced an inquiry by the justice department, the FBI and the Washington, D.C., police.

Russians Drained Blood From Dog, Then Revived It, Says U.S. Doctor

Start Four-Day Fence-Mending Visit To Canada

Expect Informal Talks To Cover Many Points

OTTAWA (CP) — President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles arrived in Ottawa by air today, starting a four-day, fence-mending visit.

The President's aircraft, Columbine III, landed on suburban Uplands airport at 10:55 a.m. EDT after a two-hour flight from Washington. The weather was dull and skies overcast.

Governor-General Massey, Prime Minister Diefenbaker and top Canadian officials were on hand to greet the presidential party.

21-GUN SALUTE

As the four-engined aircraft taxied smoothly to a stop a battery of artillery fired a 21-gun salute and bands played the chief of state, the Columbine showing up against the puffs of smoke on the field-pieces along the runway.

Shortly at 11 a.m., the plane's door opened and Mrs. Eisenhower stepped forward, followed by the president.

Mr. Eisenhower gave her his arm and together they slowly walked down the ramp to the tarmac. Mrs. Eisenhower then greeted them and turned smilingly to Secretary Dulles, who also called them in Ottawa almost a year ago. Mrs. Dulles was with her state secretary.

Slowly, to Mr. Massey's right and flanked by a U.S. military aide, the president walked to a saluting base and stood at attention, his hat folded across his breast, as the band played the Star-Spangled Banner.

CHILDREN CHEER

On alighting from the aircraft, the president shook hands with Prime Minister Diefenbaker who said: "I am very happy to see you."

The president is expected to try to allay some of the Canadian suspicions, and give assurance on specific trade matters causing concern in Canada.

Mrs. Martha Frankel, 35, is having her marriage to Ferenez Frankel, Bronx, N. Y., annulled because she wishes to return to her first husband, Joseph Unger of Montreal. Martha and Joseph were married in their native Budapest, Hungary, and shortly afterward were taken by the Nazis to separate internment camps. Both were convinced the other was dead and Joseph immigrated to Canada in 1953. Martha reached New York after the Hungarian uprising of 1956, then heard of her first husband alive and well in Montreal. After establishing contact with one another, they decided to appeal for annulment of their present marriages.

Ferenez Frankel, who married Martha in Budapest in 1948 says he will not stand in her way if she wishes to marry Joseph Unger.

Rotarians Tells Of Trip, Events At Convention

Belleville Rotarians were treated to a graphic glimpse of what goes on at an annual Rotary International convention Monday when they had as their guest speaker, fellow Rotarian and vice - president of the club Fred Wilson.

Mr. Wilson, accompanied by his wife, attended the 49th annual convention of Rotary International as a local delegate. The five-day convention was held last month in Dallas, Texas.

The speaker briefly described the trip to Dallas, some of the highlights of the convention, the entertainment and famous Texas hospitality provided delegates by the host club, and also threw in some humorous anecdotes to amuse members.

Entertainment provided the approximately 15,000 delegates from 55 countries included a gigantic barbecue, a concert presented by pretty TV stars, dinners at the homes of members of the host club, friendship dinners, a rodeo, and the President's Ball.

Special entertainment activities were also provided for the children of Rotary delegates attending the convention.

"It was amazing the number of children who proudly showed their parents to this convention," Mr. Wilson said.

Highlight of the convention was the election of Rotary International president for the '58 - '59 Rotary year.

Guest speakers included Robert C. Hill, U. S. ambassador to Mexico.

Other convention activities included special assemblies and panel discussions on various aspects of Rotary and associated work.

One panel discussion concerned teen-age driving habits, complete with demonstrations, said Mr. Wilson.

CHOSEN EACH YEAR

Among the issues under discussion at the convention was the controversial question of whether to locate a presidential district in the annual slate of officers. Under the present system a new Rotary International president is chosen each year.

"This question was laid over for next year's convention, but I feel certain we're going to have a president-elect in the near future," Mr. Wilson stated.

In closing Mr. Wilson thanked his fellow club members for sending him as their local delegate to the convention.

The speaker was introduced by Don Corporon and thanked by Ernie Burnham. He was presented with a Rotary carnation by president Jack Yarwood on behalf of the club.

Prior to Mr. Wilson's address, president Yanover expressed the club's regret in the loss of a fellow club member, well-known local photographer Walter Eurich. McCormick. One minute of silence was observed in memory of Mr. McCormick who died recently.

Congratulations on behalf of the club were extended Rotarian Bob Tanner by president Yanover. Mr. Tanner was recently promoted to manager of Electronic Development Division in the Recreation Branch of Northern Electric Research and Development Laboratories.

Long distance Rotarian was Jim Campbell, of Kelowna, B.C., who stated he hoped Belleville would raise enough money to send the Mace to Europe next year by being back the World Championship.

'Y' Day Camp At Oak Lake Is Successful

The Y.M.C.A. Day Camp sponsored by the Y's Men's Club opened on Monday with a very successful day.

Campers and staff returned home singing after a day filled with all kinds of exciting new experiences. The bus left the 'Y' in the morning at 9 o'clock and arrived at the camp at Oak Lake where the opening ceremony took place. The campers divided into their own groups which were later to be christened with names such as Beavers and Slickers.

The program in the morning was partly assigned in the care of craft groups, while others went off to explore their new surroundings. All met in a group for the swim period, which was supervised by the counsellors and the camp director.

The boys were eager as they received their bottle of milk and their lunch off to eat in their own particular fellowship and lunch the boys remained with their groups for a short rest period. After the noon meal they told stories or played quiet games so that they could get up their strength "to bounce back into the activities of the day.

The afternoon saw two groups engaged in a ball game while another group started on the camp craft skills such as knot tying and lashing. Others were out tracking down chipmunks and birds. To finish the day off everyone went for another short swim and headed off to camp with their packed lunch for home. Homeward bound all were singing a ballad while new things ahead of them and of the daring exploits of the day.

Gently opened today,

And there we found daughter Olive, son-in-law Dan and family.

ROSE — In loving memory of our dear husband and father July 8th, 1956.

Time flies and days of yesterday that I spend the night by your side,

In my memory of those happy days

Memories never we once knew,

And always every evening, I peer over a year,

Of wandering back to when you are not here,

Sadly remembered by wife Nellie.

SNARR — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Ernest Snarr, who passed away on July 8th, 1956.

Gone from our home and gone from our sight

Gone to rules your smiling face

But you will be remembered

None on earth can take your place,

Sadly missed, happy forgotten,

How cruel the memory still.

But God saw you suffered

The world can never fill

Lovingly remembered by wife and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank Drs. Russell and Henry Bateman, nurses, nurses' aides and staff of the Belleville General Hospital, also General Hoag and neighbours and friends for all cards received, flowers and visits given to me during my stay in hospital.

Stock Exchange Has Record Day Of His History

TORONTO (CP) — Speculative interest at today's stock market opening declined somewhat from Monday when dealings swelled volume to the biggest day in the Toronto stock market history.

Volume began picking up within the first half hour and the high-speed ticker tape lagged three minutes behind floor transactions.

RECORDS TOPPLED

Hectic excitement Monday toppled all trading records.

Triggered by a drill-hole find ing of New Hosco early last week, the speculative fever burst wide open as the volume soared to 1,- 609,000 shares, heaviest in the Toronto Stock Exchange's 38-year history.

The previous record volume was set May 16, 1956, when 1,- 564,000 shares were traded when the Chibougamau copper find in Quebec.

In 1956, however, the trading was more a result of fact than speculation. A rich body of copper-gold ore had been found and stocks responded with neat gains and big volumes.

SOARS AHEAD

Results of the drilling were announced a week ago. New Hosco soared more than 100 cents to $3.15 in four sessions. Other Rouyn-Noranda issues also did hefty near New Hosco, churned ahead.

START FOUR-DAY

it is Mr. Eisenhower's fourth visit to Canada and his first since 1953. He came to Ottawa in 194 as chief of the U.S. Army staff, in 1951 as supreme commander of the Allied powers in Europe and again in 1953 as president.

LARGELY INFORMAL

His current visit will be largely informal but both he and Mr. Diefenbaker have indicated they plan to discuss the problems which periodically arise in relations between the two countries.

These include U.S. curbs on imports of lead and zinc, Canadian tariffs on imports of lead and zinc, disposal of wheat surpluses and Canadian studies aimed at diverting out of the Columbia River surplus power needed in the northwest United States for power development.

These are other problems, Mr. Eisenhower said in Washington last week, including plans for "right out on the table" to see whether men of good will could find ways of solving them. He declared himself willing to discuss the differences with the Canadian prime minister wishes to bring up.

Mr. Diefenbaker indicated Monday in a Commons statement that he has no intention of holding cursions world-embracing.

Besides domestic problems, he also expects an exchange of views on the current position vis-a-vis the cold war and probably the prospects for the long-delayed summit conference and the general picture on disarmament, including Western proposals for international inspection of talks between Canada and the U.S.S.R.

PLAN MEETINGS

Mr. Eisenhower will preside at the 82-year-old prime minister Mr. Diefenbaker's residence and another Thursday in the latter's office in the East Block of the Parliament Buildings.

Following his arrival today, the president lunched privately at Government House with Governor-General Vincent Massey. Later, he will drive to Mr. Diefenbaker's home for informal opening talks and, tonight, he and Mrs. Eisenhower will be the guests at dinner at a state dinner to be tendered at Government House by the Governor-General.

Wednesday, Mr. Eisenhower will place a wreath at Canada's National War Memorial and attend a joint session of the Commons and the Senate, lunch with the prime minister at the Country Club and attend a reception at the U.S. Embassy.

He is scheduled Thursday to receive members of the U.S. Embassy staff, hold his second formal meeting with Mr. Diefenbaker and his cabinet ministers, golf at the Ottawa Hunt Club and be host at a state dinner that evening.

The presidential party returns to Washington Friday.

Two Britons Shot to Death In Famagusta

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Two British soldiers were shot to death in the east Cyprus port of Famagusta today.

The first official announcement did not attribute the killings to EOKA, the Greek Cypriot underground. But there was speculation the shootings were in retaliation for the death of two Greek Cypriots killed by British soldiers who fired into a crowd of demonstrators at Aygyrou Saturday.

An EOKA broadside laid on the graves of the two Cypriots carried the inscription "Your graves will be avenged."

The soldiers were shot in the crowded shopping centre of Famagusta's Greek sector. Moments after the shots were fired shopkeepers hurriedly closed up and shoppers and bystanders rushed for cover.

Since the struggle over the future of this British crown colony began, 108 Britons have now been killed.

Trenton Almost Two Towns Says Fire Marshal's Report Offering Help in Training

TRENTON — The town of Trenton is, by virtue of the Fire Marshal's annual municipalities, a report from the Fire Marshal's office states. The report was read at last night's council meeting by Councillor Lloyd Worrall, chairman of the protection to persons and property committee.

The survey of the town was made some time ago by Inspector H. Mallory in regards to the fire department here and the report in full was signed by D. Low, chief of the Ontario Fire Services Division.

In his letter Mr. Low states: "From our experience the only way a municipality can properly maintain its fire department is by gradual and steady improvement in the facilities rather than to wait until a great many costly, revolutionary steps have to be taken at one time. Our district instructor, H. Mallory, is being instructed to visit Trenton and Belleville and will be readily available to your chief for any members of your department for training in all phases of fire fighting for the use of equipment and volunteer firemen under the Fire Act. The fire facilities are fully trained in the most modern techniques of fire fighting."

SERVICE IS FREE

"He is always at your fire service for any training required in any fire department problems he may have. This is a free service to all fire chiefs in municipalities and is the only way in which a fire department can hope to keep itself at the peak of efficiency in carrying on operations until every member of the department is a properly-working cog in the machine."

In explaining why his office is interested in Trenton and municipalities, Mr. Low said:

"We find that on the west side of the river there are four schools, six churches, one community centre, over seventy per cent of the service stations, the C.P.R. yards, the main station, and station a short commercial area seven large industries and the town hall and fire station. On this oil course are the residential sections.

"On the west side we find five schools, nine churches, one community centre, over seventy per cent of the service stations, the C.N.R. yards, the main station, 15 large industries, the main commercial area, post office, and town hall.

AERIAL LADDER NEEDED

"The fact that your narrow main street, Dundas Street, divides the two most populous areas with most of this being 3-storey buildings I feel would be enough for the purchase of an aerial ladder without the nine schools, 11 churches, three community centre, etc., where overhead water direction would be a definite requirement in the event of a serious fire in any of those buildings.

"It would appear also that the water pressure on the east side mains out should go over 60 pounds pressure per square inch. Your present and any reasonably sized fire would require pumping. Apparently on the west side of Dundas Street that the water pressure does reach, at varying times, 70 psi and drops as low at 40 psi, at other times. It would appear from this that a booster pump for the commercial area during times when your pressure is normally 70 psi would require pumping from a static supply either in the lake or river.

"The first recommendation suggested by Inspector Mallory on his survey is that the municipality make a survey of its water supply and the location of hydrants be checked to show static pressure, flow pressure and residual pressure.

KEEP PRESENT PUMPER

"The second recommendation is that a fire pumper with a 625 IGPM pump be purchased. This is a recommendation where, especially with an understaffed department, rapid evacuation of the building necessary, the aerial is definitely needed for the use of elevating platforms from the spread of fire in your heavy commercial area and also for the rescue of persons trapped at any major fire which may develop. Also I would strongly suggest that none of your present pumping equipment be disposed of as it is definitely necessary in case of a major fire or a second fire occurring while one is in progress.

NEED SECOND STATION

"The third recommendation is that a station be considered for the east side of the river which would house the aerial. Having had many occasions to travel through your community during the summer months and even during other times it is quite apparent that any manual operation on the main street and the bridge is such to seriously delay any calls from your present fire station to the east side of town. We are also advised that the present bridge will be out of service for a considerable time this summer. As there would appear to be considerable property on the east side of town, which may later be developed it would seem to be good business to secure a fire station site now which can adequately cover the east side of town and could have Dundas Street, Marmora Street and Sidney Street all providing reasonably good access in any direction. One unit should be housed in this section at all times and my suggestion is that if suitable, the tank of the present 500 GPM pumper could be enlarged, in which case this pumper could be purchased and fit with a minimum crew until the arrival of assistance from the headquarters station, and could possibly handle a great deal of the fire in the early stages without having to hook up to the hydrant system.

URGES MORE SEW

"It is also recommended that the permanent personnel by increased to 12 men as soon as it is financially possible and that the volunteer personnel be increased to 16. This would permit a permanent personnel on each platoon of a 2 platoon system with four men on duty at all times and my suggestion is that duty exclusive of the chief, excepting during periods of vacations or holidays. This is an absolute minimum and I may point out to you that Underwriters' Association report on the protection of the Town of Trenton dated October 14, 1947, at which time they recommended 10 permanent men.

Following the brief discussion on the Fire Marshal's report, Councillor Lange moved a letter be sent to the Public Utilities Commission that the report of the commission look into the water pressure in regards to the report.

Councillor Worrall also asked the approval of the council for the issuing of tenders for uniforms, etc., for the town firemen, which was in accordance with their request.

He also told the councillors that the specifications on the combination pumper for the town will be ready on Friday and he felt the council would like to see them before they were sent out for tenders.

Visiting Editor Thanks Town For Hospitality

TRENTON — Michigan publisher, Vidian L. Roe, of the Fremont Times-Indicator newspaper is back in his home state praising the hospitality of Trenton.

A member of the recent U.S. Press Tour through the Province, Mr. Roe expressed his feelings in a letter to Mayor Ironson, president of the local Chamber of Commerce.

"I am writing to you to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to your organization for making our stay in your fine city an enjoyable and pleasant one. The hospitality you showed is completely of those with whom I came in contact during our brief stop-over in Trenton only helped to whet my appetite for more and I am looking forward at their best to make me feel most welcome to return soon.

"Many contrary to others in your group my thanks in helping to make our U.S. Editors Goodwill Tour of Ontario a most pleasurable one."

WARNING TO SPEEDERS

The other day, at Dayton, Ohio, a young housewife posted herself on a street with a sign "Speed Trap Ahead." Exasperated policemen, finding speeders scarce and discovering the cause, arrested her for interference. Dayton's city prosecutor, however, advised police they had no case. It was held that the young housewife was actually doing the real work of the police, helping them to prevent violations of the law. Not only did she escape paying a fine, but she actually made a net profit of one dollar, paid to her as a legal consideration against any damage claim for false arrest.

The Ottawa Journal views this development with approval, particularly as it comes a few days after the Journal had expressed "some tortured sympathy for the plight of a young man fined in Milwaukee for warning away motorists from a police radar crew."

"There seems to be little difference between official signs which say 'Speed Electrically Timed' and the action of the private citizen who gives similar warning," observes the Journal.

The difference may be small . . . but it is important. The official warning, "Speed Electrically Timed," if it "has any effect at all, has a tendency to keep motorists from breaking the speed laws at any time within the boundaries of the municipality displaying the sign. In this it is fulfilling the most important function of a police force, preventing the violation of the law. We are in full accord with the theory that prevention, besides being better than cure, is also preferable to punishment.

The difficulty with the sign-displaying private citizen is that his warning reduces speeding only at a specific time, in a specific place. True, at this time and at this place he, too, prevents a violation of the law. We doubt though, whether the effect of his sign is as long-lasting as a fine in court would have been. The sad voice of experience whispers that the speeding motorist, slowing down for the sign, will speed up once again once the speed trap is safely passed. The memory of a court appearance lasts longer and may result in the easing of pressure on the accelerator many miles and even several months later. Possibly, the Ottawa Journal and the Dayton city prosecutor to the contrary, we don't think that Dayton housewife earned either commendation or a dollar bill.

JAZZ NOW "GOOD MUSIC"

Mitch Miller is a man with experience. He not only served as host and music commentator for CBS's radio broadcasts of the Newport, R.I. Jazz Festival, but he is also talent and music chief of a major record company. In addition to his he is the father of three teen-agers. So when the man talks about rock 'n roll it just makes good sense to listen.

Rock 'n roll is not the fault of subteenagers who listen but of disc jockeys who play nothing else, he says. Expose your children to all forms of music, in the same way that you endeavor to convince them to try something else besides hotdogs for supper. As a last resort tell them you like rock 'n roll, for then they will figure it must be square.

Mitch said: "Once the kids get a taste of good music, they outgrow 'comic book' music and behave like normal human beings." To substantiate this claim he says that jazz is becoming increasingly popular among youngsters beyond high school. "Never underestimate the taste of the kids."

One point strikes us, though. We remember jazz when it was popular this first time around, and that time it was not regarded as "good music" and those of us who liked it were the targets for just the same kind of criticism now faced by the rock 'n roll crowd. Now we are not disputing Miller's evident contention that jazz is a higher form of music than rock 'n roll, but if history repeats itself there will emerge a form of music which will make rock 'n roll accepted as good by comparison, just as rock 'n roll has made jazz acceptable among the medium-hair fraternity.

Although we should like to live to a ripe old age, in the face of this possibility we don't know whether the effort will prove worth it.

THE MUCK-RAKER

Who is it nothing ever suits?
The muck-rake man.
Who looks for fly specks on all fruits?
The muck-rake man.
Who views an issue rosy-red and says the while he shakes his head:
I see one with a worm instead"?
The muck-rake man.

Who holds that no man here is good?
The muck-rake man.
Says all would do wrong if they could?
The muck-rake man.
Who finds no fault to find men Rawe?

Nor seeks to praise the deeds they do,
But merely holds up vice to view?
The muck-rake man.

Who might be useful, if he would?
The muck-rake man.
Might turn his trenchant pen to good?
The muck-rake man.
Might strengthen virtue and her cause
By giving her deserved applause
And seeking merit more than flaws?

Make Salt Water Fresh

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Man's age-old dream — to convert sea water, easily and cheaply into fresh — edges steadily towards reality.

A small California city, Coalinga in the parched Central Valley, this week became the first in the nation to go into the desalting business. It ordered a treatment plant from Ionics, Inc., of Cambridge, Mass. Operations start by fall.

Coalinga will get its pure water with help from electricity and a process termed electrodialysis. The price per 1,000 gallons will be $1.65 — can hardly be termed cheap. Still, it will be seven times less than the present outlay of hauling portable water in by rail.

Abroad there are desalting developments afoot of even greater potential. In Israel's Negev, the southern desert area a $250,000 salt water converter is undergoing. It would combine both evaporation and freezing (long known in the Arctic as the way to separate salt from sea). Hope is cost will be about 30 cents per 1,000 gallons.

South Africa, too, is making progress in this field. A $1,000,000 plant in Welkom in the Orange Free State is expected to make liquid gold out of water from ancient brackish residue of gold mine workings. Its output will be 4,000,000 gallons daily, to cost only 29 or 30 cents each 1,000.

Indeed, the technical gains everywhere have been such that the United States Department of the Interior recently authorized a $200,000 gallon per day converter for the Virgin Islands. Solar water "reactor shore" converters there literally are a dozen processes under development for conversion.

It is, of course, vastly easier to purify brackish whater (containing from 1,000 to 5,000 salt) than it is to tackle sea water (3½ per cent salt). Ironically, however, it will be the much poorer. Solar stills tend to produce scale deposits and on little excessive amounts of both glass and space.

Science in its efforts to find new ways of developing precious water has tricks other than desalting. We can now spread thin films of cetyl alcohol (a sunburn lotion ingredient) on inland reservoirs and lakes. It cuts evaporation so sharply that thousands of dollars are saved by "sealing in" the water. We also know how to "make" rain fairly reliably.

The highest hope, though, could be to tie a hydrogen fusion process — which gains its heavy hydrogen from the sea in the first place — to a distillation plant.

Such a link — even though presumably hydrogen fusion remains to be fully realized — promises the true miracle of unlimited fresh water from the inexhaustible oceans. We'll live to see it, most of us, this salvation from the seas.

Diplomatic Immunity

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Diplomatic immunity is a type of legal privilege enjoyed by the members of embassy staffs and the staffs of certain other international organizations in London were entitled to it. The list of those offices and staffs in London included such organizations as NATO, the International Labor Office, the Wheat Council, the International Monetary Fund, the World Meteorological Organization and the Universal Postal Union.

Even more surprising was the revelation that the wives and families of the officials shared these rights or privileges.

Apart from the legal privileges which have been used to cover rent bilking, indecency offenses and the evasion of support payment to the mothers of illegitimate babies and to the drivers of people killed in road accidents, there are considerable financial privileges. These include exemption from income tax, exemption from Customs duty on goods for personal use (while a recent case showed gives the opportunity to do some profitable smuggling), and exemption from car licence duty and certain illness costs.

This is a practice that in our view has no justification whatever. If an official of a foreign country breaks the law of the country he is in, he should be just as subject to the law as any native. His job should not save him from the consequences of his acts, some of which work may be hardship on the native victim.

SLAVERY STILL WITH US

We often speak of slavery's having been abolished. Of course, it has never been abolished and never will be.

There are still vast sections of the earth where men are treated as a social institution. In addition to slaves definitely so classified in certain parts of the world, we can say that practically everybody behind the curtain is experiencing slavery. So the institution of slavery itself is actually in existence.

Of course, the greater amount of slavery exists in areas where men and women are accustomed to enslave themselves. We are all, more or less, in the toils of some servitude. Some people have been brought into a world with emotional pre-dispositions which make their lives distraught, frustrated, and full of anxiety. Still others are victims of the bondage of prejudices a n d thought forms so well defined that they cannot break the attitude without having it motivated by these predisposing forces.

The worst form of servitude, however, is of a moral and spiritual variety. People who have no religious faith, either because they don't want it or because through some misfortune they have not come under the proper religious influence, are in servitude to one who has a moral weakness or addiction of any variety. It is slave.

Alcohol, dope, sensuality, and avarice each sweep over untold millions. Slavery is still with us.

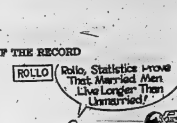
LOOK FOR THE GOOD



There are many people who seem to delight in the practice of criticism. Never have I ever tryied to discover something about another that they can use as a basis for finding fault. How a happier world this would be if people only looked for the good in others — and spread the news all about!

Think of the increased power all nations would have if they made it a point to hunt for the good in other nations instead of a fault-finding under suspicion, and wondering whether to trust them or not.

People who are forever looking for the good in others never fail to have a multitude of friends who trust and love them. Friends don't just happen. They are discovered and then cultivated by

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 8th, 1938

Mr. Sam Herity of Detroit, Mich, is spending his vacation at his old home at Moira.

Mr. James Andrews, Coleman Street, has left for the Ontario Athletic camp at Longford Mills where he will be a swimming instructor for the next two months.

Bob Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Wilson, Chatham Street, won the third annual Belleville Kinsmen Club Kid-Car Derby Tuesday evening. Upwards of seven thousand spectators lined the route of the race and there was considerable excitement.

Unemployment rolls show little change according to information given today by officials of the unemployment office here. There are 150 women and 345 men on the unemployment register at the office. This shows little change from Act. as the figures are about the same.

Completing nearly thirty years of service with the Massey Harris Company, Mr. George E. Steward of this city was tendered a testimonial banquet upon his retirement at the Queen's Hotel, Tuesday evening. Several prominent officials of the company and many representatives of the company throughout this district, were present. Mr. Stewart was presented with a handsome Chesterfield chesterfield and Mrs. Stewart received a bouquet of beautiful roses.

The Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion of Fort William, was today elected leader of the National Conservative Party at the convention in Ottawa. He is the 8th leader of the party since 1927. Dr. Manion was Minister of Railways and Canals in the last Bennett government and was defeated in the 1935 campaign.

The old high school building is at last being demolished and in a few months will entirely vanish and will be replaced by a modern collegiate institute and vocational school building. A Toronto wrecking company paid the sum of $2275.00 for the right to raze the building and they will dismantle the material salvaged as they see fit.

Miss Gertrude Alford sailed from Montreal on Saturday on the steamship Andania for Scotland and England. She will visit Major and Mrs. A. B. Blake-Forster, formerly of Toronto, and now of Chichester, Sussex, and also relatives in Devonshire.

Mr. A. Bernard Collins, barrister, spent yesterday in Brockville.

From our file copy at this time in 1928: The Hon Hugh John Macdonald, leader of the Conservative Party in Manitoba, was a passenger on the Canadian train that has called at this port last evening en route to Montreal. Mr. Macdonald Hugh John, who would be recognized immediately by those acquainted with the features of his famous father, possesses all Sir John's personal magnetism and his faculty for remembering names and faces. He was shown by the train a greeting extended by him to some old friends who boarded the boat to see him and by the kind enquiries after other old acquaintances who formerly resided in this city.

The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Farrelly died this morning at his home on Victoria Street where he lived retired. He was born 81 years ago in County Cavan, Ireland. In 1871 Monsignor Farrelly came to Belleville from Lindsay at the invitation of the late Archbishop Lynch. The point is that we have my advice on this one: Why not ask your family doctor if there's a psychiatrist in your area who handles such cases? Then see if perhaps you and he together on one visits may not be enough to give you some very valid ideas as to how to look for help in finding your husband?

True, this may sound like a "luxury" but if a few visits intelligently used, can give you a way of solving the problem, the "luxury" becomes a very worthwhile investment. The important

PSYCHIATRY SUGGESTED FOR HUSBAND WHO SLEEPS TOO MUCH

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a wonderful husband and would like to help him. He needs an abnormal amount of sleep. He gets up at six in the morning, he returns home around seven. By the time supper is over, he would like to go to sleep. Regardless of how long he sleeps, he always wants to be tired. - M.T.

Poor man, something is bothering him. You've had doctors check him over and they haven't found anything wrong in body or eyes. Where to look then? I say in the mind.

The other night I read a rather learned discourse, on the subject of people who use sleep as a means of avoiding something that worries them. This is something that most active doctors have encountered in their regular observations of life and people. It is encouraging to see that some of the experts have examined this strange human phenomenon and found that it is based on phychiatric fact.

The point is that you people will use all the various faculties we have to make life as comfortable as we can. Much of this is automatic, and we don't realize we are doing it. But it is so, all the same.

Now the easy thing for me to say is, "Send your husband to a psychiatrist and I dare say the answer will appear within a reasonable time." That's true, but there aren't enough psychiatrists. The point is that you people will try to be shrewd and get some of the answers for ourselves.

IS IT TOO EXPENSIVE?

It's like moving into another house. You want to change the color of the living room. Obviously you don't want to hire an interior decorator — but we can't all afford that.

But some of us say we can't afford it before we even ask how much! So here are my advices on this one: Why not ask your family doctor if there's a psychiatrist in your area who handles such cases? Then see if perhaps you and he together on one visits may not be enough to give you some very valid ideas as to how to look for help in finding your husband?

True, this may sound like a "luxury" but if a few visits intelligently used, can give you a way of solving the problem. The "luxury" becomes a very worthwhile investment. The important delivery in Tilbury!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At a small northern hospital, I was permitted to watch a major surgical operation, and the most interesting thing I saw was t h e scrub-up in which the two doctors, the old one and the young one, engaged before approaching the operating table.

This scrub-up of surgeons is a sort of ritual. There is something almost religious in it. It reminded me of some of the ritualistic actions of the clergy before t h e altar, or, say a priest in a crowded waiting room, or a train, or a delivery as if he were alone in the world.

The scrub-up takes seven-eighths of an hour. No less, no more. With their arms bare, the doctors lave and bathe their hands, forearms, and elbows. With stiff brushes, they scrub and scrub, minute after minute, lifting their hands in a curious gesture, to let the hot water run down the arms and off their bent elbows. When they have scrubbed so many minutes, they rinse the hands afresh with antiseptics, which is just before the operation had a sour, disagreeable, sterilized, over which another odor is drawn.

"You make me feel," I said, "as if my hands were filthy."

"So they are," said the old doctor. "After a hand wash, your patient may be fairly clean, but the lips and insides of your fingers, your nails, are foul. Not to scratch a memorable bible."

"Holy smoke," I said.

And they let me watch through a glass window.

Revises View Of Education

Ottawa Journal

The foundations of our ivory tower from which we have proclaimed ourselves model modern education, have been shaken by an Ottawa youngster.

This is the note he left a Journal subscriber:

"I am only sorry but I have no more papers left but I have a further left. I do not no where to by one:

"I am ofte sorry."

We are sorry, sorry too that he didn't have a Journal to deliver but the subscriber's thoughtful note gives him completely and so do we.

Sincerity shines through bad spelling and we'll be ofte sorry and surprised if this young man thought I hope to get across to you is this: If we're going to be smart about life and its problems, we will do better to get rid of the idea that psychiatry is only for "insanity", whatever that means. The greatest use we will have for psychiatry will be in solving the problems that sometimes develop among ordinary people. The doctor is to keep people healthy, not to step in and make some sense when things have been allowed to go too far. It's exactly the same way in psychiatry!

Dear Dr. Molner: My father is 58 years old and recently we noticed his lips turn blue or purplish. He is otherwise ill. He was a symptom of something serious and I would you advise me to have it checked? - Mrs. P.S.

Likely yes, it is a symptom of something, but I can think of enough causes so I wouldn't feel right in suggesting single one. My answer, therefore, is yes, have your family doctor check him over.

R.T.: No, trying to treat yourself is not safe, because penicillin may cure gonorrhea but serve to mask the singular syphilis which could be present at the same time although not be known.

Do you have a problem with old people? If so, write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a copy of my pamphlet, "What To Do About Elderly Folks," enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Women Want Newspapers

Sudbury Star

Many are the reasons that people in towns and cities want a small daily paper in their homes. We venture to say that none is as unique as that of Tilbury, Ont.

This weekly newspaper that serves the community, the Tilbury Times, sums it up this way in an editorial: The women complain that their husbands drop into the post office for the mail, toss all the soap coupons and other advertising notices into the wastepaper basket, forget the prayers and letters to the store or other articles around the house about them."

We hope that the women in Tilbury get a sympathetic hearing from the post office department at Ottawa. The forgetting of letters we can understand. Where is the man who has not received a letter in his pocket for days, yes, even weeks! But to forget the newspaper!

By all means let there be home delivery in Tilbury!

Briefs on Visit

OTTAWA (CP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker likely will exchange autographed personal photographs during the United States president's four-day visit in Ottawa, which starts today, Mr. Diefenbaker's, taken in color by the National Film Board in his oak-panelled parliament Centre-Block office, is framed in Canadian leather, dyed blue and with the Canadian coat of arms stamped in gold.

Extra customs officers were assigned to nearby Uplands airport to clear the baggage of the press planes scheduled to land before President Eisenhower's personal aircraft, Columbine III. Special vehicles were arranged to transport the reporters to the spot where Mr. Diefenbaker waited for Mr. Eisenhower.

The Senate's large railway committee room was transformed into a press room to accommodate U.S. reporters assigned to cover the presidential visit. Typewriter tables were set up for 20 reporters, while others of the 60 expected probably will work in their hotel rooms. Seven telephone pay-stations have been set up, and mimeograph equipment has been installed to handle press releases.

A special telephone switchboard has been installed in the Chateau Laurier Hotel by Col. G. J. McNally, White House communications officer, to keep the president in touch with Washington during his four - day Canadian visit. Col. McNally's switchboard links the hotel — beside Parliament Hill — with Government House, where Mr. Eisenhower is to stay, with the U.S. embassy here, the press room in the Parliament Buildings, and with the White House.

Presidential press secretary James Hagerty conducted his first Ottawa briefing of the visit Monday night. It was for photographers, outlining arrangements for their "coverage." The impression was that they will have more latitude than customary in Ottawa for a visit by a chief of state.

The initial survey of four U.S. secret service agents, assigned here to supervise security arrangements for the Eisenhower visit, has been swelled to 20. Customs examiners said their baggage was cleared in the same way as any other visitors to Canada.

Civil servants whose office buildings are on routes to be travelled by the Eisenhowers while in Ottawa are to be allowed "moderate" time off to see and welcome the visitors.

Canada accords presidential press secretary James Hagerty more honor than he gets at home. The program for the four-day Eisenhower, visit to Ottawa lists him as "the Honorable" James Hagerty, a title to which Mr. Hagerty is not entitled at Washington.

Pipeline Plan Opposed by Major Company

TORONTO (CP) — A plan for a pipeline to carry oil from Alberta to Montreal was opposed here Monday by an oil company and another pipeline.

Imperial Oil gets another chance today to tell the Borden commission on energy why it is against the suggestion for an 1,250-mile $400,000,000 line to feed Alberta's crude to the eastern market.

R. A. Brown, Jr., president of Home Oil Company of Calgary, told the commission Monday that work on the line could start this winter.

He said the line would cut the cost paid by Montreal refiners for Middle East and Venezuela crude. It would also help the owner of the present west-east line, Interprovincial Pipe Line Company, trim the cost of delivering crude oil to Toronto and Gartia.

Interprovincial countered with the statement it could supply oil to Montreal for less outlay.

The new line would stretch 36-inch pipe from Edmonton to Superior, Wis., where, Mr. Brown said, it would supply Interprovincial with oil for the Sarnia-Toronto markets.

TO THE EAST

A 34-inch line would run from Superior to North Bay and Montreal, which would be receiving 467,000 barrels of oil a day by 1965.

Mr. Brown said start of the line depends on the government being able to halt Montreal refiners into using the Canadian crude instead of imports.

Imperial, one of the bigger users of crude in Montreal, said the line was not economical.

President J. R. White said the introduction of Alberta crude into the Montreal market would result in embargoes and quotas and could "well lead to some form of price control."

Imperial, which helped build Interprovincial and Trans Mountain pipelines, would not accept "financial obligations for a fifth pipeline, which we are not convinced is economic."

Interprovincial said it could run a line from its system in Northern Michigan crossing into Canada at Sault Ste. Marie and on to Montreal.

Work on the 34-inch line could start within a year. It would cost only $150,000,000 against the $400,000,000 for a new cross-Canada line and could supply Montreal with 200,000 barrels of crude a day.

CBC Radio Broadcast On Shrine Pilgrimage

TORONTO — A special half-hour radio program on the pilgrimages to the shrine at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec, will be on the CBC Trans-Canada network, July 16, at 10.30 p.m.

Montreal broadcaster Marion McCormick will describe the pilgrimages marking the 300th anniversary of the shrine built in 1658.

Guardians of the shrine, near Quebec City, expect 3,000,000 persons will visit Ste. Anne de Beaupre during the tercentenary celebrations, being held May 1 to October 12.

History of Ste. Anne de Beaupre dates from 1658, when Louis Guimond, a crippled farmer, placed three small stones in the foundation of a chapel built by sailors who had survived a ship-wreck. According to tradition, Guimond was cured.

House Briefs

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans are being completed of the old abandoned Welland Canal at Thorold, Merritton and St. Catharines, Transport Minister Hees informed W. K. McMillan (L—Welland) in the Commons Monday. Tenders would be called in the next few months.

The government is considering recent representations regarding imports of American war surplus equipment, Revenue Minister Nowlan said Monday in reply to Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) who had mentioned specifically protests about two shiploads reaching Canada via Japan.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the question of whether the government will act soon to complete an all-Canadian St. Lawrence seaway as suggested by Premier Frost of Ontario, is too complex for an "off-the-cuff answer." He was replying to Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) who had asked his prime ministerial comment on Mr. Frost's suggestion.

Trade Minister Churchill said Monday the question of a trade agreement with Red Communist China is a matter for consideration. However, he described as "press speculation" reports he plans to visit Red China. Mr. Churchill said Canada hopes to promote trade with all countries "and if possible with Red China.

MONTREAL — Trans-Canada Air Lines announced today that its Douglas DC-8 Jetliners will carry 127 passengers in each plane — 28 in the first class section and 99 in the economy cabin.

The DC-8, which made its maiden flight May 30 at Long Beach, California, will be operated by TCA on transcontinental and trans-Atlantic routes. Six of these Jetliners will go into service in 1960.

Each section — first class and economy, will have its own double lavatories (which will have flushing toilets for the first time in any TCA airplane), cloakrooms, inter-communications and public address systems and music in flight.

There will be four doors, two for passenger loading and two used for servicing the aircraft. The huge cargo compartment will accommodate some five tons of freight and express and mail.

Works on Three-Year Plan To Improve Lives of Aged

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Joan Good of Toronto says she's sure old people are happy.

Mrs. Good, 36, wife of a Baptist Church minister, is executive secretary of the Ontario Society on Ageing, newly-formed body to plan to improve the lives of old people in Ontario.

The society was started as a result of an Ontario conference on ageing last fall. Its members have passed concerning the lives of elderly people in Ontario. Its objectives are to stimulate public interest in the aged and to act as a link with government departments, municipal offices and organizations interested in elderly folk.

POOL OF EXPERIENCE

"Canada is neglecting its most valuable raw material in failing to use its old people," she said in an interview. "Arbitrary retirement at certain ages and lack of organization are losing our greatest talent and ability—knowledge backed by experience."

By talks with public officials and speeches to interested groups, Mrs. Good hopes to make communities aware of the needs and potentialities of old people.

"We must make a scientific investigation of how to use the experience of old people and how to find them new work to do," she said. "Scientific investigation so far has been more concerned with keeping them breathing."

Mrs. Good informs communities of the need to train or retrain older workers. She also tells groups about clubs and recreation for the elderly, about special housing requirements for old people, and about pensions.

CLERICAL FAMILY

She comes from a church-working family. Her father and grandfather were both Methodist ministers. Born in Hamilton, she spent most of her childhood at Collingwood, Ont. She holds a degree in political economy from McMaster University.

Mrs. Good came into social work by the depression years, she says.

"My husband died; I had two children to support, and I was living in no better conditions than the people I dealt with through the welfare department in Toronto," she said.

Later she became a court liaison officer with the enforcement division of the wartime prices board. In 1946 she became secretary of the Toronto welfare planning division on old age.

"This job," she said of her work with the Ontario society, "is a tremendous challenge because it involves so many people in so many fields, in large area, and so many different conditions. What I hope to remind people of is that we are all getting older, and that improved conditions will benefit ourselves."

Children Will Benefit by New Legislation

LONDON (Reuters) — About 20,000 children a year, victims of broken marriages, will benefit from a bill which became law in England and Wales Monday with the granting of the royal assent.

The bill does three things:

1. No decree, either in divorce or judicial separation, will be made final until the court is satisfied about the future welfare of the children.

2. A court welfare service will be set up to assist the judge when he is faced with difficult decisions by investigating the background of the family life.

The bill does not apply to Scotland or Northern Ireland which have their own laws on such matters.

Says Women Can Run Home, Job Same Time

VANCOUVER (CP) — Neva Elliot of Portland, Ore., says any woman worth her salt can run a job and a home at the same time.

Here to attend a convention of the Advertising Asfociation of the West, of which she is legal counsel, Miss Elliot wore a pink two-piece dress, lace-trimmed white sweater, pearl earrings, large gold pearl bracelets and diamond chip dinner ring.

"This isn't the way I usually dress," she explained. "It's just for the convention.

"I don't think I'm always dressed to the teeth. It's good business. It is important that the professional woman to look as if she knows something — even if it's only her phone number and her age."

MANY TALENTS

Miss Elliot is a prize-winning poet, a luncheon speaker and greeter.

As legal counsel in western advertising she writes an outspoken monthly review of what's going on in government and law that might affect advertising.

"I got interested in advertising as a hobby, joined the Women's Ad Club of Portland. Its main activity is the Mystic Order of the Rose. No, it's not a gag. It means giving large bouquets of roses to newcomers at the city. I do quite a lot of that.

"To me advertising is a profession. It effects tastes and standards too much to be just commercial."

Mrs. Asa Cook rendered a beautiful solo, "In the Garden," and Mrs. R. Clarke gave a splendid reading, "What Kind of A Neighbor Are You?" A good neighbor is one who guards her neighbor's reputation with the same care as her own; one who overlooks the faults of sickness, not with sympathy, but with a helping hand, and a bowl of soup.

A poem entitled, "Be Friendly On the Way," was read by Mrs. C. Hagerman followed by an article on "Incense Taxes" by Mrs. Ella Stratton. Mrs. R. Fox gave current events.

PORRITT — HOUSTON

Baskets of white Shasta 'mums and candelabra adorned the chancel rail in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, June 28th, at 4.30 p.m. and white satin bows centred by tiny, white flowers, marked the guest pews, for a lovely summer wedding, when Grace Annabel Houston, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. John F. Houston, and the late Mr. Houston, was united in marriage to Charles Russell Pierrit, of Tweed, Ontario, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Porritt. The Reverend Harry M. Davis, pastor of the church, officiated.

During the wedding processional, Mr. S. Russian Girls Take to Trousers And Lipstick

LONDON (Reuters) — Russian girls are taking to lipstick and trousers, Sir Frederick Dixon, chairman of the Town and Country Planning Association, said Monday night.

Osborn recently led a party of six British town planners to Russia. He said: "Moscow's building has 3½ times the living space a person possessed with Soviet homes, he said.

Thurlow-Tyendinaga C.C.E. Elects Officers at Recent Meet

The annual convention of Thurlow-Tyendinaga Council of Christian Education was held recently in Bethel-Zion United Church. The president, Mr. David Martin, Corbyville, presided for both sessions. The theme of the meeting was "Understanding Ourselves in Thou Readest?"

A most impressive worship service was given by a class of girls from Foxboro Sunday School, which initiated the beginning for the convention.

The different departmental reports were well given by the secretaries which showed that much work had been done in all Sunday Schools.

Guest speakers at the convention were Mrs. J. A. Murray of Toronto, secretary of children's work of C.C.E., and the Rev. J. S. A. Spearman of Wesleyan Methodist Church, Belleville.

The congregation was divided into two groups for study. Mrs. J. A. Murray led the group of leaders interested in the teaching of children and Mr. Spearman led the group of leaders who were teaching or working with teen-agers. These discussion groups were most lively and interesting.

A bountiful supper was served by the ladies of Bethel-Zion.

EVENING SESSION

The evening session began with a devotional by the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton. Courtesies were extended on behalf of the committee by Mrs. Selden Hagerman, of Corbyville.

The chair read the report of the nominating committee and the following officers were elected and installed by the Rev. R. J. McCrea.

Past president, Mrs. Frank Martin, Corbyville; president, Gordon Roth, Hallway; 1st vice-president, Harvey Sprowl, Marysville; 2nd vice-president, Floyd Milton, Junction; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. O. Bertrand, Belleville; children's work, Mrs. Selden Hagerman, Corbyville; junior work, Mrs. Lois Bradshaw, R.R. 4, Belleville; boys' work, Mrs. R. J. McCrea, Cannifton; young people, Mr. Floyd Milton, Cannifton; adult department, Mrs. Gordon Roth, Hallway; missionary department, Mrs. Russel Rita, Corbyville; temperance department, Mrs. Cecil Hubble, Foxboro; leadership training, Mr. Fred Prindle, Foxboro.

Mrs. J. A. Murray addressed the convention in the evening, her subject was "The Bible According To You." "The word of God is not to be measured by words alone. Your class must be a channel of God to you," she stated. "Why are you teaching Sunday School? Why did you choose this particular age group to teach? Our own faith will radiate into outgoing to those boys and girls.

"Did you ever think of yourself as a newspaper, where boys and girls may read?

"Editorial page — what you believe. Social page — time spent in not helping boys and girls.

Financial page — "Do we spend all without giving to God?"

"Then the funnies — the joy we have in helping boys and girls know God.

"Page of ads — every product has a slogan. What is your slogan? 'I, Thine in spirit of the Kingdom of God and the rest shall be added to you'."

Mrs. Murray gave her address by telling a most impressive story of a girl who was morally troubled and could not get along with her mother. She felt like her life was within herself.

A day's swept on and she kept Christ by her side, she found that her job became more pleasant, harvey home and became a joy just as the lives of all of us can be altered and made happier by the presence of Christ in our everyday life."

Mr. Ken Gordon, the new president, closed a fine convention with the benediction.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: HELP YOURSELF TO GOOD MANNERS

Good manners are a kind of courtesy at buffet-service. Spread before you, for your choosing, is a generous collection of charming things to do and say. All you need do is "help yourself"!

GROOM'S MOTHER HAS SOME QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is to be married soon, and he has asked me to ask you several questions.

1. Who gives the bachelor dinner? When is it given?

2. Who pays for the orchestra for the reception?

3. Is it the groom's responsibility to pay for all the flowers? Does the groom buy the altar flowers? Could we offer part of the altar flowers to our church for Sunday service?

— M. L.

1. Traditionally it is the groom who gives the bachelor dinner, if one is given. Today this dinner is omitted more often than not, many questions regarding this considerable expense as unnecessary. A bachelor dinner is given a few evenings before the wedding. In some communities this dinner (or it may be an informal evening party) is planned by, given by, and paid for by, the men in the wedding party and other men friends of the groom.

2. The bride's parents, the host of the wedding, pay for the orchestra for the reception.

3. No, it is not the groom's responsibility to pay for all the flowers. He should pay for these flowers: his bride's wedding bouquet; and her going-away corsage; corsages for both mothers; boutonnieres for the best man, ushers, and for both fathers. (In some communities the groom pays for the flowers for the bridal attendants.) He does not pay for the altar flowers; these and other flowers for the church decoration are the responsibility of the bride's parents. You would have to consult with the bride's mother about your idea to send part of the altar flowers to your church, and if your request is granted, you must make all arrangements to have the flowers delivered to your church.

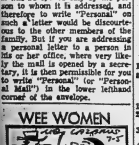
WHAT SILVERPIECE TO USE WHEN EATING ICE CREAM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one goes to a more or less formal dinner (or luncheon) in a home, what is the correct utensil to use when eating ice cream?

— S. R.

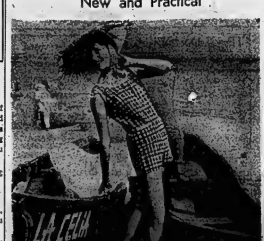
You eat the ice cream with whatever utensil the hostess provides. It is may very well be a teaspoon or a dessert spoon, or it may be an ice cream fork. Or if it's a complicated ice cream dessert, perhaps with a special sauce, you may find that the hostess "provides the excellent "double silver service," dessert spoon and medium-size fork. This double-service may be brought in on the dessert plate, before the dessert is passed; or with today's more informal service, you may find that these two pieces have been placed parallel to each other above the place-setting: the handle of the spoon to the right, the handle of the fork to the left.



WHEN IS IT PERMISSIBLE TO WRITE "PERSONAL" ON LETTERS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please answer this question about which we are having a real discussion: Is it ever right to write "Personal" on the envelope of a letter? If so, please explain under what circumstances.



— Jean and John

When you address a letter to a person's home it is assumed that it will be opened only by the person to whom it is addressed, and therefore to write "Personal" on such a letter would be discourteous to the other members of the family. But if you are addressing a personal letter to a person in his or her office, where very likely the mail is opened by a secretary, it is then permissible for you to write "Personal" (or "Personal Mail") in the lower lefthand corner of the envelope.

"Good! One more raise and we'll be able to afford the way we're been living."

Olga R. — I am one of that unfortunate tribe — the "golf widows."

We have been married 25 years. Our three children are grown and one is married. I had long looked forward to this time of our lives as the period when my husband and I could start enjoying our second honeymoon.

I thought we might travel, do things together. Well, we do travel — to the golf course. I have grown to hate my rival — the golf clubs.

I enjoy the game, but I feel there are other things in life to enjoy. I want to see the world. To Fred the world is a golf course.

* * * *

Frederick R. — What is the sense of spending thousands of dollars just to do something because everyone else is doing it? That's the way I feel about travel. I don't like museums, strange foods, packing, unpacking, dragging yourself around when your feet are tired.

As far as I'm concerned, Olga should go on some of these trips she has a yen for. She could go with her sister or one of her women friends. She says she does not want to leave me alone, but I could be perfectly content without her for a little while.

America is good enough for me any day!

The Council: We wish we knew the ideal way around this sand trap, but we're stymied.

The attempt to find an ideal solution would be a little like aiming for the 19th hole and we think Olga ought to try to adjust to accepting an answer that would be a little below par.

She should not deprive herself of the fun she has looked forward to. It may be a little disappointing to have to give up her dream of travelling with her husband, but how many of our dreams are fully realized, anyway? Two women travelling together will have more fun than a woman with a reluctant husband.

It is possible that when Olga comes back from her trip and tells of the places she has seen and the good times she has enjoyed, Fred will begin to feel a little bit of a duffer. He may suddenly catch the wanderlust from her.

It is also possible that after a short time at a "travel widower's" Fred will begin to realize how difficult it is to accept the role of a second fiddle to a hobby. He may become more willing to compromise.

To other "golf widows" who are uninterested in travel or unable to consider it, we would suggest the same basic solution. If you can't beat 'em, be the beginning of much richer living for you.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Up and coming Harold Carter hopes to make some decided changes in the heavyweight picture when he clashes with seventh-ranking Nino Valdes in the Spokane Coliseum tomorrow night.

Carter, a Sunday school teaching heavyweight, makes no bones about his ambitions. "I'm going to crack into the top ten," he insists. But the towering Valdes also has a heavy stake riding on this battle. An impressive win for the Cuban could mean a crack at Patterson. In Havana they've scrapped up a cool quarter-million for the heavyweight champion if he will defend his crown against Valdes down there.

Young Carter recently returned from the army, and picked up his ring career right where he left off. Last month he decisioned 9th ranking Willie Besmanoff in Madison Square Garden and would like to add another raised heavyweight to his record.

Valdez has long been prominent in the heavyweight picture and has long been after the electrifying victory that would set up a title shot. This fight, he feels, may be the one.

Carter, ten years younger than his Cuban opponent, is as methodical as clockwork in his clamber-clout style, but Valdes if he doesn't lose his head, has the weapons to break up his surges. He is one of the best punchers Carter has met to date, and the youngster is no slouch at this style himself. He fights 60 per cent of the time with his head on the left shoulder of his opponent.

Valdes is superstitious and refuses to wear black trunks in the ring. Thinks he'll be held up his fight with Ezzard Charles for more than an hour before they yielded and gave him white trunks. He also refuses to wear a black tie.

Carter who lost in the Golden Gloves finals to Floyd Patterson, Brooklyn, and Holmes that pair of Joes, Walcott and Louis. He teaches Sunday School in New Jersey and in Linden, N.Y. Familiar with the classics, he reads poetry and speaks German fluently. When he is not training or fighting he manages a restaurant owned by his father.

THEY ASKED FOR IT!

Somebody writes in and asks if these wrestling fans who become "over-emotioned" and feel they can seek the whammy out of their pet villain when he is committing near mayhem on "the good guy" have redress if the villain forms and hangs a harpsnagger on them when they are restricianling at the ringside.

Outside of trying to separate a warring man and spouse we know of no surer way of asking for trouble — and perhaps a shiner or two. If any fan, or group of fans, who feel there is safety in numbers get riled and take a wallop at the Gene Kiniskis of the "rassle" world, and get sorked for their trouble, they may as well go home and figure what a tough world it is!

They have no comeback, legal or otherwise. When they march to the ringside, fists clenched and cheeks set, with fire shooting from their eyes to wreak personal or collective vengeance on the villain, they are merely inviting disaster and are entitled gratis to every lump that comes their way whether it be 250 pounds of pachyderm, or a hamlike fist.

Some members of this frantic fannery react differently to the pugilistic breed. The other night in St. Catharines one became incensed when Gene Kiniski started to strangle Whipper Billy Watson with the referee's belt.

The frantic fan whipped off his own belt and tossed it to the Whipper. He never did get it back and had to walk home grimly clutching the top of his trousers. On the same show another fan provoked by Kiniski's villainy tossed his wallet, complete with his week's pay, at the villain. The wallet missed its mark and sailed over the ring into the seats at the far side. Some thirty seconds the wallet came flying back — you guessed it — minus the cash.

Speaking of wrestling, an action-packed card is on tap for Friday night. The special feature will be the midgets, Little Beaver and Cowboy Bradley versus Cupid and Sid Eaton. The cocky Lisowski brothers will be on deck in single bouts, Reggie taking on the Hindu sensation, Darah Singh in the main bout and Stan clashing with the popular Timmy Geohagen in the opener.

GHOSTS AT POINT ANNE

Raied America's top clowns in their special line, the Iowa Colored Ghosts, a softball circus if ever there was one, will be the guests of the Point Anne Cementmen at Ox Point tomorrow night.

The colored softball stars besides being all-stars in the legitimate sense put on a rollicking show that is guaranteed to have bleachers in stitches. Their famous slow-motion calisthenics is to be seen to be appreciated. They settle through shadowball, pepperball and rowboat stunts that are as fantastic as they are funny.

But it won't be all clowning. These Ghosts are diamond champions in their own right and fandom will have the chance to not only see diamond comedy at its best, but softball "as she is played" in top circles south of the border. Game starts at 8.45.

Fullmer Wins Over Hegerle

WEST JORDAN Utah (AP)— Gene Fullmer, former world middleweight boxing champion, administered a savage body attack to young Jim Hegerle Monday night to win a unanimous 10-round decision.

There were no knockdowns, but Fullmer slipped off balance in the eighth round after missing with a wild right. Fullmer also slipped in the sixth after Hegerle stung him with a left jab.

The victory protected Fullmer's fourth ranking in the middleweight division. It was his 40th victory. He has lost four. Hegerle suffered his ninth loss in 51 fights.

Casey Counters With Mick; American League Is Favored To Win 15th All-Star Classic

By JOE REICHLER

BALTIMORE (AP) — A record big-league Baltimore crowd of more than 50,000 was expected to pack Memorial Stadium today for its first look at the underdog National Leaguers in the annual all-star game.

Although the nationals appeared to boast the stronger starting lineup, the Americans were 14-to-10 favorites to win their second straight and their 15th since the spectacle originated in 1933. There was no game in 1945. The odds-makers based their claim on the American League's stouter pitching and a better bench, led by Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox and Yogi Berra, New York Yankee.

The only disinterested person appeared to be the weatherman, who forecast showers late in the afternoon. Since the game was scheduled to start at 1 p.m. EDT, it was hoped the rain would hold off long enough to get it in. If it should pour, however, they'll try to play it at 8 p.m., or Wednesday, either at 10:30 a.m. or in the afternoon.

An added feature was the resumption of the rivalry between last October's world series managers, Fred Haney of Milwaukee Braves and Casey Stengel of New York.

EARLY SURPRISES

Haney hurled a couple of early surprises, naming Warren Spahn, his own lefthanded ace, to open the mound duel for the National League, and selecting Willie Mays, the New York Giants' slugging centre fielder, as his leadoff batter.

Stengel soon nominated his veteran righthander, Bob Turley (13-3), to start for the American League, countered with a surprise of his own, announcing Mickey Mantle, the Yankees' strong boy, as the No. 2 hitter.

Stengel also named Gil Hodges, Jackie Jensen and Bob Cerv of Kansas City Athletics as his third and fourth batters. Jensen and Cerv were once members of the Yankees. So was outfielder Gus Triandos of Baltimore, the seventh hitter in the American lineup.

The pitcher, the 27-year-old Spahn (15-6) was perhaps the biggest surprise selection the American League batting order is packed with righthanded hitters. Only Ferris Fain of Chicago White Sox is the only southpaw swinger among the 16 players from either side of the plate.

Haney, in his first all-star managerial appearance, gave several reasons for his unorthodox mound selection.

"Spahn has proved through the years that he is just as effective against lefthanders," he said. "He is against lefthanders," he said.

WELL RESTED

"A good pitcher doesn't worry what side of the plate a batter hits from. Also, Spahn is well rested. He hasn't pitched since Friday and if the Braves were playing a league game today, he would be my pitcher.

"Besides, it is a real big ball park, and Spahn likes it to work in a big park."

Haney said he doesn't expect to make too many changes once he gets what he considers his arrangement in there.

"I'll probably use three pinch hitters. And I'd like to get them in front of Mays. That's why I put him in the lead off spot. He's the hottest hitter in our league and I want him to come to bat as often as possible. I'm here to win, not to shuffle players."

Stengel arranged his starting lineup with plans for extensive changes. He'd like to get such sluggers as Williams, Berra and Al Kaline of Detroit Tigers in as quickly as possible.

"I don't get paid for coming down here," he snapped. "And I'm not in the pension fund which gets all the money. I come here to win me an all-star game and to beat the guy which I didn't do in the world series."

Asked why he decided to bat Mantle second and Cerv in the cleanup spot, Stengel replied:

"Who's Mantle's replacement in centre field? Kuenn (Detroit's Harvey Kuenn). You want him hitting fourth? And who is Cerv's replacement? Williams. Am. I going to bat him eighth and put him in there for his fielding?"

KEEP PLANS SECRET

Neither manager revealed his pitching plans after the third inning. Each said it depended upon whether he is ahead or behind.

A good guess is that Haney will follow with Bob Friend of Pittsburgh Pirates and Dick Farrell of Philadelphia Phillies or Don McMahon of the Braves.

Stengel was almost certain to use Billy Pierce, White Sox southpaw star, and his own Ryne Duren, sensational rookie righthander who has been averaging a strikeout every two batters in relief.

The game marked the 15th appearance of Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals' great first baseman, who batted third for the Nations behind Pittsburgh's Bob Skinner and ahead of Milwaukee's Hank Aaron. Ernie Banks of Chicago Cubs, Frank Thomas and Bill Mazeroski of Pittsburgh, Del Crandall and Milwaukee Braves' Spahn rounded out the National League lineup.

Behind cleanup hitter Cerv for the Americans came Bill Skowron, New York; Frank Malzone, Boston; Triandos; Luis Aparicio, Chicago and Turley.

Ti-Cats Start Early Training

HAMILTON (CP) — More than 50 candidates for spots as rookies on the Hamilton Tiger-Cats—the Big Four Football Union's Grey Cup champions — turned out Monday night as a week-long training session opened.

They went through a solid three-hour workout under head coach Jim Trimble and aides Indian Jack Jacobs, Ralph Sazio and Glenn Dawson.

Trimble said he felt the majority of the 'fine candidates were to small and those that had size didn't show much agility.

Included in the group were 14 members of the Tiger-Cats' team at Brantford. Als included were the usual number of boys out for coaching tips to use next fall during school games.

Whitey Ford Tops in ERA In Majors

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed (Whitey) Ford of New York Yankees and Allan (Red) Worthington of San Francisco Giants are the mid-season pitching leaders in the major leagues' earned run competition.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press show that Ford paces the American League with an E. R. A. of 1.63. He has yielded only 23 earned runs in 127 innings.

The lefthander has won 10 games and lost three while pitching three shutouts. Whitey led the circuit with an average of 2.47 in 1955.

Worthington, who has won five of his last six games for a season's mark of 6-3, leads the National League with 2.57. A year ago the right-hander wound up with a 4.32 average after 158 innings.

This season Worthington has allowed 37 earned tallies in 91 innings.

TURLEY SECOND

Hustler Bob Turley of the Yanks is second to Ford with a percentage of 1.80. Turley is the All-Star starter in victories with 12, shutouts with four and strikeouts, 90.

Sam Jones of the Chicago Cubs is third with 2.33 and Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox is fourth with 2.64. Pierre is followed by Jack Harshman of Baltimore with 2.72, Ray Moore of Chicago with 2.76 and Frank Lary of Detroit, 2.97.

Rookie Curt Raydon of Pittsburgh, runner-up to Worthington in the National League, has given up 23 earned runs in 71 innings for 2.92.

Sam Jones of St. Louis is third with 3.05. Jones has won only five games but has struck out 104 to paces the loop in strikeouts with 89.

Behind Jones comes Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, 2.13, Robin Roberts of Philadelphia, 3.13, and rookie Ray Semprech, also of the Phillies, with 3.15.

Baseball Team Goes on Strike

PANAMA—CITY, Fla. (AP)— Fourteen members of the Panama City baseball team were on strike today. A spokesman said they will not play until deposed manager Joe Tipton is reinstated and more expense money is provided.

The players refused to go to Fort Walton Beach Monday night for an Alabama-Florida League game despite Tipton's pleas that they make the trip. Only three members of the batsplace club or club declined to join in the strike. They were shortstop Al Rodriguez, catcher Fred Velasquez and pitcher Steve Nunez.

Tipton was fired as manager Sunday night and replaced by Charlie Grant, veteran minor league infielder. Grant was formerly a second baseman with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League.

League president Sam Smith of Dothan said San Francisco Giants with whom Panama City has a working agreement, are sending a representative to talk with the players. They ignored a reminder from club president Sam Martin that they might be banished for not even attempted baseball.

WILL NOT PLAY

A spokesman for the players, who asked that their names not be used, said they will not play until Tipton has been reinstated. He listed other grievances, which included a demand for more meal money and for more expense money.

Smith said: "To my knowledge, Panama City is paying the same $2.50 daily food allowance specified by the Class A baseball code."

Martin said his players are getting what other clubs pay in expense funds.

SIGN AGREEMENT

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—The Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League and New Haven Blades of the Eastern Hockey League Monday signed a working agreement for the 1956-57 season. The pact gives Rangers two farm clubs in the American League. They also have a working agreement with Buffalo.

Davis Cup

Predicts Win for Canada Over 'Weak' U.S. Players

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's Davis Cup team captain plunked himself right at the end of a limb today and predicted a victory for his team against the United States in their Inter-American Zone semi-final competition.

"This is the year," said Lorne Main. "The Americans are at their weakest and we're at our strongest."

Was it only a forlorn hope, considering that Canada hasn't beaten the U.S. in 11 previous meetings?

Not when it's backed by the best player on the five - man American team.

Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, took one look at the selections and pre-viewed:

"Let's face it—we could lose," MacKay— disturbed over the selection of a virtually untried U.S. team, said in New York on his return from the Wimbledon tennis championships "the pressure really will be on us."

CRUSH CUBA

Main's and MacKay's comments were made after their defeat of Sherbrooke, Que., blasted Raul Karman 6-2, 6-1, 6-3 and Paul Willey of Vancouver crushed Adolfo Alfonso by the same score Monday to give Canada a sweep in its round against Cuba.

The Canada-U.S. winner will meet Argentina in the zone final for the right to advance against the European Zone victor to decide the ultimate challenger against the present cup holder, Australia.

The Canadians took the two concluding singles over Cuba Monday after clinching the round by winning the doubles Saturday and the opening singles Sunday. It was their sixth win over Cuba in eight Davis Cup meetings.

Bedard, Canada's top-ranking player, disposed of Karman, youthful Cuban champion, in 60 minutes.

In the process he lost one of his sparring partners. Karman is the only member of the Canadian players had a previous meeting with Mineo, 16-year-old Cuban junior champion.

The U.S. team, headed by captain Perry Jones of Los Angeles, is due to arrive here today to besides MacKay ranked No. 5, the players are Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., No. 8; Sam Giammalva of Roanoke, No. 10; and unranked Earl Buchholz Jr. of St. Louis, 1956 Wimbledon junior champion, and Jack Douglas of Stanford University.

The matches will be played at the Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club and both teams will work out there today and Wednesday. The draw for the Thursday's opening singles will be made Wednesday. The doubles are scheduled for Friday and the two concluding singles Saturday.

American League Owners Want Senators to 'Stay Put'

BALTIMORE (AP) — American League club owners and lawmaking senators have made it plain they want the baseballing Senators to remain in Washington.

Calvin Griffith, president of the capital's baseball team, broached the possibility of shifting to Minneapolis or elsewhere but dropped the idea after a closed session Monday with the directors here for the all-star game.

Griffith wouldn't commit his club to stay in Washington forever. He said no businessman can make such a promise. But for the time, at least, say move is out.

What the league owners said was not officially reported. What the non-playing senators in Washington had to say is a matter of record.

Senators William Langer (Rep.—N.D.) said there ought to be an investigation. Sen. Karl Mundt (Rep.—S.D.) said talk of depriving congressmen and their neighbors of big league baseball might cause second thoughts about a sports bill pending in the Senate.

ALLOWS FREEDOM

The moguls should allow baseball, football, basketball and hockey plenty of freedom to operate while they investigate commercial activities to anti-trust laws, Rep. Hinshaw (R-Calif.) passed it. A Senate subcommittee begins hearings Wednesday.

The baseball men have become regular basement tenants in the investigation. Their current pooding position—last—in home gate receipts prompted Griffith and club officials here to question whether their predecessors' investment in Washington 58 years ago was still worthwhile.

Others apparently told them it was—that the Senators should abandon thought of transferring to Minneapolis or anywhere. The Minneapolis scene time ago guaranteed Griffith a 1,000,000 paid admission season and a first or three-years if he would relocate there.

Word around all - star headquarters was that Tony Yawkey, president of the Red Sox, and likeminded officials argued baseball belongs in the capital. They also were understood to have settled the feeling had, in view of the Senate hearings and what officials have termed a club owners' stampede.

RECEIVE BIDS

Earl J. Hilligan, head of the baseball commissioner's office, said several weeks ago that he had received from cities desiring major league status and that cities like the National League there had been no conversation about baseball at the all-star game.

At a separate meeting, the National League voted to—not committee to look into prospects for expansion to 10 teams. The American League voted down Yawkey's appeal for another team for replace its departed Giants and Dodgers.

The resolution referred to the five clubs pending a report by Mayor Robert Wagner of New York.

The mayor told league officials the site was fully ready to put up $12,000,000 for a baseball park and charge reasonable rent.

Wagner, probably ready to recoup from New York's loss of the Giants and Dodgers to California, said the city has prepared to erect a 22,000-seat ballpark in readiness for a franchise.

Lou Perini, who transferred the Braves from Boston to Milwaukee six years ago, said in a letter rejected any idea that referred to a committee was a brushoff.

Perini also heartily endorsed consideration of granting a franchise in Canada, preferably Toronto, but he said Montreal is a good baseball. In fact, he said, Montreal had the baseball park available for night baseball six years ago he would have gone there instead of Milwaukee.

Americans Send 'Untried' Team Against Canada

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States is taking a $60,000 gamble in sending a virtually untried team against Canada in the semi-finals of the North American Zone Davis Cup tennis competition, this weekend.

That's because when I read the makeup of our team while I was at Wimbledon," said Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, who heads the squad leaving for Toronto today, "my immediate reaction was 'Oh, no.'"

The American Davis Cup committee chairman, a former Ohio bright new Davis Cup faces for the assignment in Toronto Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Besides MacKay, members of the team are Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., Sam Giammalva Jr. of Houston, Tex., Bushnell Jr., of St. Louis and Jack Douglas of Stanford University.

TWO UNKNOWNS

MacKay and Reed, fifth and eighth respectively, are the lone survivors of the top 10 in the U.S. named to the team. Giammalva is ranked 14th, Bushnell and Douglas are unranked.

Bucholz, 17, won the junior boys title at Forest Hills last Saturday, but has had no Davis Cup competition. Douglas, a member of Peruvian Alex Olmedo for the U.S. college crown, is a complete dark horse.

Omitted, for one reason or another, were the country's top four players—Vic Seixas, Dick Savitt, Herbie Flam and Gil Shea—and Tony Trabert, Richmond, ranked No. 1 in 1957.

Also passed over were Ron Holmberg, No. 6, Tom Brown, No. 7, Bernard Bartzen, No. 9, and Hamilton Quillen, No. 10.

Some of the players obviously were disappointed.

But the fact remains the U.S. still is playing Davis Cup tennis on its reputation of the past.

If the U.S. fails to gain the semi-finals, it will lose the $60,000 which comes from the matches in tennis - made Australia, the team which has kept American tennis going.

MacKay and Giammalva probably will get the singles assignments against Canada's tough, experienced pair, Bob Bedard of Toronto and Bob Bedard, of Montreal, who combined to win most of Cuba Monday.

Durelle Hurt But Fight Will Go on

MONCTON (CP) — Yvon Durelle, British Empire light-heavyweight boxing champion is nursing a right hand injured while flailing near his home at Bale Ste. Anne, N.B. But he says it won't stop him from beating Mike Hall in their title bout in a title fight in Montreal Wednesday, July 14.

"It may bleed a little," Durelle says. "But what's a little blood?"

Durelle did some "fishing last weekend. When he returned here he began to continue training, the third finger on his right hand began to swell. He said it was underneath and behind the nail. "I caught it in a net," Durelle said, "maybe that's it! Now, of course not."

CONFIDENT

Durelle regards the Holt bout as the most important of his career. He says he is confident of his chances of getting into a ring with world champion Archie Moore.

"Durelle says he isn't planning for Moore yet.

"What I will do is no secret to me. I'll go in and fight. I don't know anything about the boy, but if he runs, then I catch him. It should be a good fight.

"I've got good confidence I'm going to take him. These fellows who come over here have a lot of plans. They say they'll beat you and then go ahead. But they have to make those plans work. Yvon has other plans for him. It doesn't matter what they're now Holt fights."

Durelle said he's never trained harder for a fight. So far he has had almost all sparring partner Teddy Poole of New York five times.

Hamilton Nips Petes 13-11

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Limgins came from behind Monday night and then go ahead to win victory over Peterborough Petes to an Ontario Lacrosse Association game.

Willie Logan paced Hamilton with four goals. Jerry Ivan Thomas picked up a pair.

Petes jumped to an early lead and were ahead 5-3 early in the first period and 8-3 midway through the game.

Hamilton put on the pressure, caught up and in the dying minutes went ahead to win.

Canada's Empire Games Team Settles Down to Training

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. ATHAN, Wales (CP)—Canada's British Empire Games team settled down to training on the Welsh soil today under the sharp eye of manager Bob Osborne of Vancouver who says he doesn't intend to rule his charges with an iron hand. The Games are 10 days away.

The Canadians arrived in Liverpool Monday aboard the liner Empress of England from Montreal and reached this village about 17 miles west of Cardiff by special buses a few hours later.

Osborne, with assistant managers R. E. Herschorn of Montreal and Jack Flayman, Regina, said he had decided not to subject the 36-strong team to any stringent to an exceptionally heavy discipline schedule.

"It all depends on what sport each individual is engaged in, but mostly the team will be up at about 10 and asleep about 11," Osborne said.

The team got a special set diet, but of course that depends on the individual schedule and taste. Smoking, too, will depend on the individual and we won't clamp down a no-smoking rule.

The track and field, swimming, wrestling, boxing, fencing and boxing and wrestling competitors all were here as well as the cyclists. They will be joined by the lawn bowlers who made spectacular travel arrangements.

Meanwhile, the 36 oarsmen on the Canadian team travelled straight from Liverpool to Lake Padarn, 200 miles north at Cardiff.

The Canadian oarsmen planned to be out on the water today. Among them were Jim Wallace, city of British Columbia's eights and fours, both with excellent international records.

The UBC men won a gold medal in the fours at the 1952 Olympics and captured second place in the eights. Many of them are back this year.

Osborne wouldn't guess how many gold medals the Canadians would win here, but "we'll certainly take some home."

The Canadians were distinctive in their brilliant red blazers and training outfits—other teams already here are clad mainly in green and white outfits.

Within an hour of their arrival, many of the Canadians hooked up with grass-tracked Australians and South Africans to trade maple leaf badges for kangaroo and springbok ones.

But the cyclists had no time for that. Clad in their track suits, they mowed off out of the camp for a machine - gun practice session in the gathering dusk. Other athletes jogged around the camp's grounds.

Athletics is represented in Canada at the 1954 Vancouver Games, said only a few members of the track and field team will everyone trained on the Empress of England when the weather was suitable.

Argos Open Training Grind Strong Contending Team Aim

TORONTO (CP) — A strong contending team to wipe out the dismal memories of the last two seasons was the target of Toronto Argonauts when they opened their training grind Monday for the Big Four Football League season.

The Argos are tired of finishing in last place and missing the playoffs and hearing the talk of their despairing fans. It has been six years since Argos won the Big Four title and the Grey Cup and in only one season since then have they made the playoffs.

Coach Hamp Pool and managing director Lew Hayman hope that the team's crumbling fortunes have ended and that the lessons they learned in their first year as the club's leaders in 1957 now will pay off for them and the fans.

BAD START

They all figure nothing could be more worse than the 1957 season. Argos lost their first seven games and didn't really get back like a football team until the second half of the schedule when they won four of their last five encounters.

It's been them hope for this year and since then Pool and Hayman have been working in a systems-like rebuilding job. They have discarded the players who weren't up to their standards and have imports on the basis of quality rather than quantity and added Canadian players to provide a weak homebrew brigade.

Last year's imports brought in nearly 50 imports over the season in an effort to come up with a winning team. This year the club's imports are being brought back and if new ones prove good, been added. Sixteen Canadians are returning and Pool has picked 14 homebrews from players in the training camp for further tryouts.

The new imports include quarterback Bobby Jack Oliver and centre Larry Cowart from Bay-lor University and fullback Norm Ford, a passing ace from Hardin-Simmons College.

Ford and Ron Parrish of Linfield College will battle homebrew Gerry Doucette for the quarterback job. Doucette ended up as the first-string quarterback season after four imports had little success and Pool has said he considers Doucette potentially the No. 1 man until someone beats him out of the job.

The other new imports include Keith Patterson of Kansas University, a brother of Argos' assistant Hal Patterson of Montreal Alouettes; Jesse Mercer, centre of Middle Tennessee State College; halfback Dave Mann, who led the National Football League in kicking last season while with Chicago Cardinals; defensive backers Ralph Athens and Bill Hu-singer of California; halfback and tackle Ivan Kaminsky, formerly with Baltimore Colts and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Returning imports include tackle Sam Delaney, who joined Argos in mid-season last year from New York Giants and became their top fullback; centre Mac-Mecan Schriewer, Pete O'Garro and Henry Cain; end Lowell Wilson; C. R. Roberts, Dick Shatto and Corky Tharp.

Argonauts announced Monday the signing of Gerald Philp, 26, who brought in as a backfield support but eligible as a Canadian. Philp, a two-way halfback, was born in Windsor but played for United States a year later. He attended Northern High School in Detroit and for the last two years has been with Hamilton Tigers.

There are two entries from Montreal and two from Waterloo in the 72-hole event. The field is from Ontario. Ontario golfers have won the event every time since the tournament was started in 1948.

The Canadian Standard Trophy is awarded to the four best gross scores and is given as a provincial title. Low net prize will also serves as the qualifying round for the championship flight. The 16 top scores in the field day continue Friday and Saturday for the CLC Trophy.

Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan have already named their representatives. Royals, Leafs Split Verdicts; Bisons Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The old axiom that pitching is 75 per cent of baseball, proved itself in the International League Monday night but pan submerged the fact that the Royals better be some fielders and hitters today if they're going to win.

Shoddy fielding helped Miami Sunny to knock off Rochester Red Jets. The Marlins won the first game 4-3, then booted away the nightcap 10-3. Manager Boyette took the second game of a doubleheader from Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 after dropping the opener 7-3.

Richmond Virginians defeated Havana Sugar Kings 10 and but false Bisons scored four unearned runs to knock off Rochester Red Wings 7-6.

Columbus and pitcher George McDonnell held a 1-0, one-hit lead over Miami through five innings of the nightcap but a home run by Frank Herrera started the Jets on the way down. Columbus had scored in the first inning.

Montreal maintained its five-game lead at the top of the league as Babe Birrer pitched them to a 5-hit nightcap victory for his ninth win against three losses. He had eight-hit support from his mates, all off loser Don Johnson (7-7).

TIMELY HITTING

Archie Wilson and Stan Jok did the damage for Miami in the first opener. Wilson hit a two-run single in the fifth and Jok another run batted in in the fifth with a sacrifice fly, Jok slashed his three-run homer in the seventh to spark a four-run Toronto inning.

Jack Crinan won the opener with a seven-hitter, despite Jim Rarick's wildness. Rarick issued 10 walks, but fanned Havana to six, hits for his fifth win in seven starts and second straight shutout. Jerry Lynch's homer was the only score.

Babe Amaro committed two errors that helped the Bisons to their four unearned runs.to end a five-game losing streak.

Bobby Morgan hit a three-run homer for Buffalo.

Britons Hope To Regain America's Cup

ISLE OF WIGHT (AP)—Seventeen British yachtsmen are living on the Isle of Wight in dream of bringing the America's Cup back to Britain this September after 101 years.

This yachting trophy has been the U.S. property since 1851 — ever since the U.S. schooner America won it in a race around the Isle of Wight off this island town. There have been 15 unsuccessful British challenges to win it back, the last in 1937.

Now these 17 Britons are set for a challenge in a new $12,000 yacht called the Sceptre. The challenger is the America's yacht—yet unnamed—will be off Newport, R.I.

The 17 include four of the 17 Britons will go to the United States to help sail the boat, one public accountant and a naval leading seaman.

"I don't say Lt.-Cmdr. Joe Brooks, the Sceptre's navigator and one of the 17, "that anyone who wanted to apply for a job in the crew was able to do so. We have the best crew for the Sceptre. There was none of this amateurism business."

SAILING MASTER

As a result of this program, it now is virtually certain that Lt.-Cmdr. Peter Scott-Kerr of the Royal Navy will be the helmsman and navigation skipper of the 12-metre yacht. Kerr, 32, is a big, cheerful sailor with a broken nose. He is a former pupil of Prince Philip and formerly was navigation officer of the prince's yacht Bluebottle.

The only member of the crew to have sailed before in an America's Cup race is businessman Sir Hugh Fitzherbert, who with Endeavor I, the yacht which challenged unsuccessfully in 1934. He is 50 now, but will be the helmsman and navigator as a reserve.

There is a professional core of three seamen — Jim Skurace, Keith Mann and Colin Ryan.

Skurace, 50-year-old seadog, is the professional skipper of the Sceptre. He has made a living for years running yachts for millionaire owners in the Mediterranean and West Indies.

The Sceptre is 72 feet long. Her lowering, aluminum mast will carry sails of a new man-made fibre. She displaces about 34 tons and has 1,000 square feet of sail. Soon, is of lead. Below, there's a galley and sleeping space for six men.

A syndicate of 11 wealthy British yachtsmen are financing the project.

Feast for Fish, Problem for Man

Some people, it seems, simply do not appreciate a fish. The man which a kind Providence has seen fit to send them. Instead, they do all they can to undermine it by works of nature, evidently not realizing that they are simply unfortunate in having the very thing which they seek to eradicate. The particular blessing which prompts this observation is known, in the Middle West, by the local name, "stale fly."

Here in the east this fly, a group of flies, is known variously — shad fly, coffin fly, fish fly, or more properly, the May-fly drake. It is a large insect, as aquatic insects go, grayish-black in a beautifully colored. The fish regard it with high favor as it appears in vast numbers at one time.

The larva of the May-fly drake makes its home on the bottom of the lake or stream which it inhabits. While it grows from egg to maturity it is not generally available to the fish, but once it has reached adulthood it is, as the evidence, emerging from t h e mud, makes its way through the bottom and moving about. Then the feast begins.

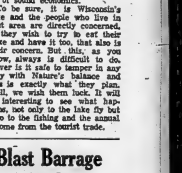
As the time approaches, in the late spring and summer, for the May-fly to emerge, the water will crack its symphal coat, and within a few minutes of the first crack the nymphal cases were in without seven or eight inches high, ready to burst open at the first gentle surf.

Of course, at night any light attracts these insects. Then they are a nuisance. For example, from the widewalk in front of the motion-picture theater I saw an enormous swarm of them, which flies into bushel baskets. But not all of them go inland. Mostly they stay near the water where they will deposit their eggs as nature had intended, thus insuring future generations.

My son, then in his middle teens, and I looked at this bounteous hatch of May flies and wished most sincerely that a few Pennsylvania streams were similarly blessed. There the May-fly hatches are spotty and few and far between.

To be sure, it is Wisconsin's lake and the people who live in it say some of the most wonderful bass fishing in the world. If they wish to try to eat their words, they will not be long in their concern. But this, as you know, always is difficult to do. 'tenn', and I looked at this way with Nature's balance and wished most sincerely that a few Pennsylvania streams were similarly blessed. There the May-fly hatches are spotty and few and far between.

To be sure, it is Wisconsin's lake and the people who live in it say some of the most wonderful bass fishing in the world. 'tenn', and I looked at this way with Nature's balance and wished most sincerely that a few



Well, we with them luck. It will be interesting to see what happens to the May-fly in the bed also to the fishing and the annual income from the tourist trade.

Now comes news from Wisconsin that is having to cope with the "fish fly." In the news release which came to me, they are referred to as "a serious and unpredictable plague annually the residents of towns bordering on Lake Winnebago. The Wisconsin Conservation Commission plans to do something about the fish flies.

Aided by the biologists of t h e University of Wisconsin and Oshkosh State Teachers College, an organization called Lake Fly Research, Inc., will investigate a safe method to eradicate the lake fly if such a thing can be done without endangering the fishing.

On reading the news release, I wrote to Hon. L. P. Voigt, Conservation Director, questioning the wisdom of such a move. After all, you don't kill the cause that lays the golden egg. Wisconsin is one of the most attractive states and the annual tourist income represents the money crop. Most of these folks come to Wisconsin for the fishing.

Mr. Voigt replied to my letter. He assures me that his department is not going to kill the larva of the lake-fly as a fish food and that he has no intention of "permitting artificial eradicating of the fly until we have learned positively that such an operation would not be harmful to fish life."

The way we see it is this — lake flies have been in Lake Winnebago long before the advent of the white man and they were aware of the lake fly when they first came. We don't hope that any wish to eradicate this Heaven-sent item of fish food. To one who has fished from 600 to 1,000 May fly drake, this plan does not sawor of the wisdom of Solomon.

Bobcat Bludgeons Blast Bengal In 20-9 Victory Over Frankford

FRANKFORD (Special) — Belleville Rockets climbed to within striking distance of Belleville and District Softball League standing last night and at the same time set a seasonal record by whipping the tail-end Frankford Merchants 20-9. The game was halted at the end of seven innings.

The loss was the tenth consecutive for the Merchants who have yet to win a game. Belleville led the league with a 2-0 victory over Bengal in a game halted at the end of seven innings.

Rockets' 20-run total was the scorer's nightmare from the first inning. Belleville batters drove in runs in the initial frame with Frankford coming back for three in their half. The Rockets had another big fifth inning, good for six runs, and seven of the merchants bagged five in the sixth.

Rockets' seven-six hits produced the 29-run total while ten errors, five by the losers, were recorded. Ten issued by the Bobcat pitcher, contributed to the confusion.

Bobby Hull hurled his fourth victory of the season for the Bobcats, giving up 11 hits, fanning two and passing ten. Bob Hunter stayed on the Frankford hill, allowing 13 hits, whiffing three and walking four.

Catcher Earl Cousins led the Bobcat attack with a home run and a single, four-baggers for Crawford followed closely with a homer and two singles apiece. Bobby Hull helped his own cause with three singles. "Wimpy" Brown banged two safeties with the others divided among Bob Beer, Faulkner, Don Lake, Paul Russell and "Bep" Guidolin.

Jason Field continued his torrid hitting with a three-baggers pace for the Merchants, hammering out two singles. Bill Rankin chipped in a trio of one-baggers with Rose-Dafoe,

Former 'Mrs. Peepers' Back On TV in Daytime Serial

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Lucy's little Ricky, born on television by deliberate coincidence with Lucille Ball's own son, is probably broadcasting's most famous child. A close second, however, was the infant due in the Robinson Peepers household when the Wally Cox show disappeared forever three years ago.

Like Lucille Ball, the heroine of Mr. Peepers was expecting a child in real life when she was playing an expectant mother on television. Unlike Miss Ball, however, Patricia Benoit in real life was way ahead of her TV part.

"When Mr. Peepers stopped," she explains, "his child was not due to be born for some time. They didn't even reveal the Peepers were going to have a baby until about four months before the baby arrived. We certainly had some problems with camera angles."

In the past three years, Pat Benoit (pronounced ben-wah') has been seen interestingly on television, but she has been busy, in private life Mrs. Peter Swift, wife of a magazine executive, she now is the mother of Jerry, 3, and Nicholas, seven months, and has had roles in two Broadway shows.

Now she's back to work again, heroine in a daytime serial called Today is Yours, weekdays at 2 p.m. EDT on NBC. Pat started as Nancy Hemis, a school nurse, on the Cox show, later becoming Mrs. Peepers after that famous wedding. In Today is Yours, she is still involved in schools, this time as assistant high school principal, a divorcee with a young son.

"I'm glad to get back to work after a year at home with the children," said Pat. "I enjoy taking care of them, but frankly I missed the stimulation of work. You can get so busy picking up toys, folding diapers and taking the kids to the park that you forget there is anything else in the world. And the other women you talk to think of children all the time. I even found that I wasn't reading books any more.

"With this I'll be home most of the time. And I've got a fine young woman to take over for me during the daytime so I can have time to study my lines and go to rehearsals."

Ernie Ford's Nearer the Cross Album Among Best Sellers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Amid the rock 'n roll and show tunes on the best selling list, one record album stands out like a beacon. It is Tennessee Ernie Ford's Nearer the Cross.

No stomping beat. No sophisticated lyrics. Just solid, old-fashioned hymns sung with simple reverence.

There's another Ford album among the best sellers. It's called Hymns and it has been on the list for 78 weeks, a phenomenal record.

Ernie isn't smug about these achievements, but he's certainly happy. They are the result of a steady campaign of his to bring hymns to mass audiences.

"As long as I've been in show business — and that's not very long — I've been trying to promote hymns," he remarked. "It seemed to me that here was a great form of expression that was being overlooked.

"I don't mean it merely for religious purposes. I just felt that it was a crime to overlook these wonderful melodies and the fine messages they convey.

"You just don't know what a battle I had putting them over. When I tried to sing hymns on my TV show, they told me, 'You just can't do it. You can't take your audience when they're way up there and bring them way down.'

"Why, that was ridiculous to me. How can you bring an audience down with a hymn?"

When he finally won his point, the TV minded came up with a big production number to accompany his hymn. Singers and dancers all over the place.

"Now let's just cut out all this glamorized stuff and just sing the hymn," Ernie declared.

That's the way it was presented, and he continues to do his hymns in a simple manner. Many of the hymns, even torn-out copies of their favorite hymns.

"I find new ones, by just glancing through the books," Ernie said. "And we do them just as they are written."

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Much vital data is within easy reach so obtain it quickly. Forget about your superiors. It is secondary to the important work that has to be done which will insure a better future. Your partners are more interested in your brain.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Any practical or monitary matters should keep you active in A.M. Then get the advice of authorities and use own good mind to know where to make improvements both in modus operandi and physical structures.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Ap aaaeble is most eager to make a change which would not benefit you at all. Just quietly say that you will consider it very seriously. Then off for some sports, or other relaxation.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — It is best you get down to the correspondence, sales, purchases, other vital matter today, relegating any social life to the background. Use maximum speed and high degree of accuracy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Your plans are most attractive and practical at the same time, but a comrade would endeavor to force you to make them conform more to his or her ideas. Do not permit this. P.M. excellent for parties, sports, etc.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — While this is only the middle of the week, it is wise to put house, business surroundings in order, as well as take care of any details in connection with holidays. Forget any social affairs and concentrate on practical ones.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A.M. complete outstanding detailed work, shopping, etc. Then look into new agreements and plans with partners, kin. While others are resting on yesterday's contracts, see that you make new additional ones.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A day for inspecting your holdings, seeing where you can get a larger revenue from them, where to make repairs, embellishments, etc. Also devise a better way of operating and setting up finer bookkeeping system.

If your child is born today ... The delightful child born today is the type who will be fascinated by just about everything new that comes into his or her horizon. But naturally, the interest will wane just as quickly. If you do not teach your child to discriminate and to complete tasks once begun. However, the chart is excellent for any profession where a variety of interests are composite parts of the whole.

Hog Producers Will Appeal Court Ruling

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hog Producers' Association will appeal an Ontario Supreme Court ruling that could mean that all provincial marketing plans, says association President Charles McInnis of Peterboro.

Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson made the ruling Friday that can be prohibited a magistrate from keeping charges laid under the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act against Clarence and Gordon Knights, Ontario hog drovers. Gordon Knights died in May.

Mr. Justice Ferguson ruled the hog plan invalid because a vote did not provide amendments, as stipulated in the Marketing Act.

G. F. Perkin, co-operator and markets commissioner, said the ruling could void all provincial marketing plans set up under the Marketing Act and administered by the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board.

The hog plan, in operation since 1953, developed from a plebiscite in 1945. Through it a producers' co-operative seeks to control marketing of all Ontario hogs.

FAVORED FLUME

Mr. McInnis said Monday that more than 86 per cent of producers voted for the plan in 1945 and that the basic principles were not changed by the amendments. The plan, with further amendments, is scheduled for a vote July 25.

Mr. Perkin said Mr. Justice Ferguson's ruling could void all plans because, while they were all established with a plebiscite, there have been amendments since without a vote. Tobacco, fresh peas and sod quotas have been taken within the last year.

The Marketing Act itself, under which all the plans were established, was struck down by the Supreme Court of Canada in January 1957.

PACE OF NORTH

He urged "systematic assessment for the North. Metals and other minerals abounded there but they would, in many cases need a big flume, be compatible with plentiful supply closer to civilization.

He questioned whether Canada's economy now would benefit greatly from a rush of northern development. Other regions must not be sacrificed, he said, returning to previous suggestions for a national scientific commission to promote, sponsor and co-ordinate scientific development and research.

Mr. Hamilton said the govern-

Orangemen Get Ready to 'Walk' On Glorious 12th

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"Walks" by the dozen will be staged across the Dominion July 12 as Orangemen honor the 368th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. Toronto's, by all indications, will be the biggest.

Orangemen and women, 8,000 strong, from the city's four lodges will march five miles to the flutes and drums, brasses and pipes of 50 bands to celebrate the victory of King William II over James II in 1690.

They will parade at the Cenotaph for a wreath-placing service at 8:45 a.m. and at 9:30 will begin to wind their way around the city hall en route to the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

Mayor Nathan Phillips and E. Handy Small, member of Parliament for Toronto Danforth will be the speakers.

Over the rest of the country smaller parades and festivities will be in progress. In Montreal, lodges will combine with Lachute, Que., and speeches and sports are planned for Hammond's Grove, Lachute. Sunday evening services will be held in Christ's Church Cathedral, Montreal, and some 900 members are expected to comprise the city's biggest Orange gathering.

COAST CELEBRATION

At Vancouver the parade will be 700 strong. Six bands will supply the music and the best dressed women members will receive prizes.

In the afternoon there will be sports and other activities at Stanley Park, where the parade, expected to be led by T. W. Robinson, grand marshal of British America, will end.

Quebec City has nothing arranged but 30 miles southwest at Inverness, Orangemen will hold a small parade featuring "King Billy" on a white horse.

In New Brunswick three main parades are scheduled for Lorneville, Sussex and Newcastle Creek.

Eastern Ontario celebrations will be held in Pembroke where members of 111 lodges from North Bay to Ottawa including some western Quebec counties will hold a massed parade.

More than 10,000 spectators are expected for the procession of gaily decorated cars, "King Billy" on his horse and floats. Special trains and buses have been chartered to bring members and their families to the festivities which are being held in conjunction with Pembroke's centennial week.

Hundreds of Canada's most active orangemen have flown to Ireland for Belfast's parade and the tri-annual meeting of the order in Derry City.

MARRIED IN JAIL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The bride and the groom were married in the Dallas County jail. Newspapers carried their wedding picture and the story of a touching jailhouse romance. Today, police said, they'll file another bad cheque charge against Frankie Koepp. A dress shop employee, seeing the picture, recognized the wedding gown as one for which she was paid with a cheque that bounced.

Long brought the meeting to order and after a piano solo by Marilyn Hall, Mrs. Richard Twiddy read the address. Dennis Crowe and Judy Pitcher then presented Mrs. Frost with an overnight case, for which Mrs. Frost responded by saying she was very proud to be the honored guest and she would treasure this gift among her precious souvenirs. Mrs. Frost assured them she would still have an interest in the children and would follow them through public school, high school and university.

Mrs. Frost said one of the highlights of her life had been brought to a heartfelt climax. All sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

BICKERING HELPS REDS -- EISENHOWER

REVIEW WORLD SITUATION

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and President Eisenhower discuss the possibility of a joint Canada-United States combine on defence at the first of their informal talks during Mr. Eisenhower's Ottawa visit. This first discussion was held at the Prime Minister's residence. (CP Wirephoto.)

Canadian and U.S. Joint Defence Effort May Be Strengthened by Cabinet Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and the United States may strengthen their joint defence effort through a new committee of cabinet members, it was explored informally by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Creation of such a committee, which Canada supports, was suggested while the two leaders conferred for 95 minutes in Mr. Diefenbaker's study at 24 Sussex Street Tuesday afternoon, five hours after the president arrived from Washington for his first visit in five years.

Briefing officers quoted Mr. Diefenbaker as saying he found the 67-year-old president in "very great good humor." It appeared likely the U.S. would accept the idea of a joint cabinet defence committee.

Still to be settled is whether the cabinet members should be added to the existing joint defence board, made up of permanent, non-political military figures or whether they should be built into a separate body.

MEET AGAIN TODAY

U.S. State Secretary Dulles and External Affairs Minister Smith, who sat in on the leadership talks along with the ambassadors of the two countries, will meet again today at 3 p.m. EDT. Undoubtedly more details of this defence plan will be explored.

Finance Minister Fleming, Trade Minister Churchill and Agriculture Minister Hamilton also have been invited into today's talks, indicating that discussions may range on economic matters, as Canadian irritations over the American surplus wheat disposal program and restrictions on imports of oil.

While House press secretary James Hagerty Tuesday night said these domestic economic issues were not discussed at the initial Eisenhower-Diefenbaker talks which ranged mainly on the Communist economic threat and Western efforts to meet that threat.

The day went without mishap.

As the two leaders began their three days of confidential discussions, various disarmament proposals were aired along with continental defence measures and Canadian - American defence commitments under the North Atlantic alliance. Mr. Dulles touched briefly on his visit to Paris and his talks with Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Mr. Diefenbaker also brought up his proposal that the U.S. change its laws so that Canadian subsidiaries of American companies would not be prohibited in trading with Communist-China in non-strategic goods. There was no indication on how Mr. Eisenhower reacted. However, it was understood from officials later that the U.S. is not expected to make any immediate change in its laws.

Today, on the second day of his Ottawa visit, after addressing the two houses of Parliament, Mr. Eisenhower will confer privately with the Canadian cabinet, after a country club luncheon and a U.S. Embassy reception.

This may be a tough day for a man not in the best of health. One of the old Eisenhower zip appeared lacking as he stepped from his four-engine Columbine III plane at 11 a.m. EDT Tuesday.

13 Charges Against Gas Company Laid by Crown

TORONTO (CP) — Thirteen charges have been laid against three officers and one former officer of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company Limited following an investigation by the Ontario attorney-general's department.

Attorney-General Roberts announced last week charges would be laid. Five informations were sworn out yesterday before Justice of the Peace John Little in magistrate's court.

Three former Ontario cabinet ministers, Philip T. Kelly, mines, Col. William Grieve, public works, and Clare Mapledoram, lands and forests, all resigned from the cabinet because they held shares in the company.

The charges under the Ontario Securities and Corporations Acts, were laid by the Ontario Securities Commission against President R. K. Farris of Vancouver, executive vice-president C. Spencer Clark of Seattle, Wash., Matthew C. Deans of Toronto, a director, and Herbert L. Mackenzie of Calgary, who company officials said served as treasurer without pay from 1954 to 1956.

The first information alleges Farris and Clark were responsible for the company trading in its own account in securities without filing a prospectus with the commission.

The company, Farris and Clark are charged in the second information for trading by the company in the securities of Canadian Delhi Oil Limited without first filing a prospectus.

The third information is against the company's three directors for failing to insure the company kept proper books of account. The fourth information is against Mackenzie for failing to keep proper account books and records.

Man and Rescuer Are Marooned 600 Feet Above Floor of Canyon

ANTONITO, Colo. (AP)—Rockslides and dizzying heights have thwarted the rescue of two men trapped on a narrow shelf of rock jutting over a canyon, 600 feet deep.

One of the men, Don Bewley, 22, went to the aid of the other, who apparently has clung helplessly to the ledge since last Friday.

Searchers who trudged into the remote southern Colorado region Tuesday found the broken body of a man identified as William E. Garver, 39, auditor for the University of New Mexico.

Garver and John Sanders, 35, were returning from a fishing trip when they apparently fell from a perilous mountain trail five days ago. The man on the ledge 600 feet from the bottom of the canyon has identified himself as Sanders to members of the rescue team.

Bewley scrambled down a low-hanging rope to Sanders' side Tuesday. He gave the trapped man food, drink and water he had had in four days. Bewley volunteered to join the marooned man despite the danger of jagged rocks sawing into the rope which supported him.

Rescue groups had written off any attempt to reach the man from above because of the danger of starting a cascade of loose rock.

Stalled by the precipitous canyon walls, rescuers called on an army helicopter. Its first rescue attempt was turned back by turbulent air in the canyon.

LESAGE DEMANDS QUEBEC ELECTION OR GAS INQUIRY

Royal Commission Request Is Repeated

MONTREAL (CP) — Hon Jean Lesage, Quebec Liberal party leader, says public opinion insists that Premier Duplessis either establish a royal commission investigation into a provincial gas transaction or call a general election.

The premier has so far refused to set up a royal commission, Mr. Lesage told a press conference Tuesday night.

"Therefore, a general election is a must if the public is to be informed of all aspects of the transaction. The Liberals, if elected, would conduct an inquiry immediately."

The transaction involved the sale of Quebec Hydro's Montreal household gas-distributing system to the privately-owned Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

Mr. Lesage's demand for a royal commission investigation followed a series of articles published by the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir which said a $20,000,000 market coup marked the transaction. The corporation has said there was nothing irregular in the sale.

NAMED MANY

Le Devoir has named seven cabinet ministers, one former cabinet minister, the lieutenant-governor of the province, five legislative councillors and Premier Duplessis' private secretary as shareholders or former shareholders of the corporation.

At a press conference July 3, the Liberal leader asked the premier's Union Nationale government to resign and call a general election in view of Mr. Duplessis' refusal to establish a royal commission.

Mr. Duplessis has not yet commented on the demand for an election.

But Mr. Lesage announced Tuesday night that a convention of the Liberal party would be held in Sunday to choose the first Liberal candidate for the election he has demanded. The Liberals would hold such meetings throughout the province over a three-month period.

Soviet Embassy Gets Two More Bomb Threats

LONDON (Reuters) — The Soviet Embassy has received evidence to the British foreign office photostat copies of two more anonymous letters threatening bomb attacks from American airmen stationed in Britain, a spokesman for the foreign office said.

One of the letters signed "W" as was the first letter sent to the subject published last week. It bore the postmark Great Yarmouth, Norfolk, 7:30 p.m. July 6.

Great Yarmouth is an east coast port 40 miles north of Ipswich. The second letter, postmarked Ipswich 9:15 a.m. July 5 and was signed with a code but he was a member of a crew of the plane.

The Soviet Embassy today handed over photostat copies to an official of the foreign office and at the same time showed the originals.

Youths Granted Probation After Dynamite Threat

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Two Bowmanville Peterborough youths who admitted they had threatened to dynamite CPR trains unless they were paid $25,000, were placed today on two years probation.

Convicted on charge of attempted extortion were Robert Ellsworth Barry, and Wayne Elmer Dorrington. They had both pleaded guilty.

Nothing Like Honest Angler Says Lucky One

WINDSOR (CP) — There's nothing like an honest fisherman says Angelo Lombardo of Windsor.

Most of them exaggerate the catches, but Tuesday when Angelo received a wallet containing $50 lost in Trail, B.C. two weeks ago, he decided not everyone exaggerates a catch.

A British Columbia fisherman had lost his wallet and sent it to him here.

British Plane Is Shot Down Inside Yemen

LONDON (AP) — A British fighter plane was shot down and crashed inside Yemen, the foreign office announced today.

A spokesman said Yemeni forces fired on troops of Hertfordshire Regiment patrolling Aden protectorate Tuesday and the fighter plane was shot down as it returned the fire. It was not clear whether the pilot survived.

The incident is being reported to the United Nations by Dag Hammarskjold, the spokesman said.

There have been many border clashes between Yemen, a medieval kingdom in the southeast corner part of the Arabian Peninsula, and the British protectorate of Aden.

States Canada Stands to Gain By U.S. Methods

OTTAWA (CP) — President Eisenhower told Canada today that in some ways she stands to gain—rather than lose—as a result of U.S. methods of disposing of surplus farm commodities.

In his address to the Canadian Parliament, he gave three reasons why he thinks Canada would benefit from U.S. shipment of surplus farm goods, such as wheat, overseas.

"First and most evident of all," he said, "many hungry people around the world have had food which they otherwise would not have had.

"Secondly, had these products remained in dead storage they would have had a depressing influence on the world market and world prices.

"Finally, the funds which we have been enabled to make available to recipient countries should be long run in the sale of vast hoards of living and creative arranged markets for us — goods—particularly U.S. barter arrangements—has been "largely unexplored."

"Increasingly close consultation between officials of our two governments has ironed out many misunderstandings respecting our surplus disposals. Your government knows in detail what we are planning. I assure you that it is our desire and intention to keep the doors of consultation fully open."

There must never, the president said, be "a final word between friends."

Spikes Rumors Greece May Quit West

POLA, Yugoslavia (Reuters)—Greek Foreign Minister Evangelos Averoff Tuesday spiked rumors his government may quit the Western camp.

His arrival here for talks with the foreign ministers of Yugoslavia and the United Arab Republic brought conjecture that Greece might swing over to the brand of neutralism pursued by Presidents Tito and Nasser.

Proponents of this theory argued Greece would be prepared to step out of NATO because of its quarrel with Britain and Turkey over Cyprus.

On his arrival here from Athens, Averoff declared:

"Greece is a country which is firmly on the side of the West. But this does not prevent us from enjoying with countries belonging to no blocs."

DEBATE REACHES NAME-CALLING STAGE IN HOUSE

National Development Issue Smouldering

OTTAWA (CP) — The continuing debate between Progressive Conservative and Liberals on the gulf-smouldering election issue of national development policies has reached the point of name-calling in the Commons.

"Don't be so downhearted and pessimistic about Canada," Works Minister Green, in effect, admonished Opposition Leader Pearson Tuesday.

"It's sad to see such a powerful person shedding crocodile tears all over the Commons," said Mr. Green.

From the opposition side, Mervyn Hardie (L—Mackenzie River) later shot back "baloney," in referring to the government's readiness to resources program for Northern Canada. Roads should come next — not before — northern resources are proven and ready to be developed, he said.

All this was before the sure-fire government majority knocked out two opposition motions of non-confidence by votes of 171 to 51 and 170 to 51.

ASKED "BALANCED POLICY"

The Liberal motion, supported by the CCF, called on "a balanced policy of national development" that would "maximize economic growth" and promote social advancement in settled areas.

The CCF group added an amendment to extend long-term, low-interest loans to small businesses, which found Liberal support.

The votes on the two motions would have been identical except that J. Eugene Bissonnette (PC—Quebec West) entered the chamber mid-way through the second roll call — on the Liberal motion — and his vote switched.

During the debate Mr. Green said the Liberals have a "very pale imitation" of the government's national development policies which he described as wise.

He jibes at the Liberal and CCF parties for their opposition to other motions of non-confidence.

"We may be witnessing the first exciting hours of a courtship between these two forlorn parties," he said.

Canadians had complained that certain arrangements under the American wheat barter program had caused an increase in their commercial Canadian markets, but Mr. Churchill felt that "basis for there objections has been largely removed."

TWO WILL CONSULT

Consultations between the two governments had removed many misunderstandings, the Canadian government was aware in detail what we are planning." The door to consultation would be kept fully open.

Student, Nurse Killed in Crash Near Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — A University student and a nurse, both 23 years old, were killed Tuesday night when their automobile collided head-on with a car on the Trans-Canada Highway 15 miles west of here.

Dead are Leo Pharand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Pharand of neighbouring Eastview, who was studying for an engineering degree at Ottawa University, and Claudette Gobeil, daughter of Charles Edward Gobeil, librarian of the Supreme Court of Canada. Miss Gobeil, who lived with her parents in a hospital with minor injuries suffered when his car overturned on the highway after the collision.

The girl was thrown 400 feet into a field, and Pharand landed in a ditch. Both were pronounced dead on the scene.

Economic Battle Could Decide Global Struggle

Address to Parliament Stresses Co-operation

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today called for a new Free World economic policy that would "extend a measure of prosperity everywhere."

He made the suggestion in the Commons as he introduced President Eisenhower to a joint sitting of Commons members and senators.

"I believe," said Mr. Diefenbaker, "that the nations of the Free World now joined in defence must, on a global basis, launch a new and challenging policy in the economic field designed to extend a measure of prosperity everywhere.

"The need is imperative. The forces of communism will not wait for time is running out" UNITED IN DEFENCES

Referring specifically to Canadian-American relations, Mr. Diefenbaker said: "We are united in our defences which have no aggressive purpose. We can be no less united in economic objectives."

Each country in forming its economic policies, while looking primarily to the well-being of its own people, "must as never before take into account, for the effects of such policies on the economic welfare and interests of all other countries."

At another point the Canadian leader said to Mr. Eisenhower: "Mr. President, our two lands have a glory of their own—the glory of two peaceful nations forward together, not complacently but with a humble pride, and joined in fraternal friendship extending through a century of trial and storm.

"We may thank God that our nations know nothing of unsectarian persecution or fears and above all desire that the peaceful and co-operative relations between us will become the portion of all mankind."

ELOQUENT SALUTE

Mr. Diefenbaker made an eloquent verbal salute to Mr. Eisenhower's wartime leadership of allied forces.

Under his leadership "the legions of freedom marched when liberty was under siege and so man knew where shelter lay."

Mr. Eisenhower's "wisdom, humanitarianism and prestige are once more humanity's hope for freedom and peace," he said.

On international affairs, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Communist world "is using as its massive economic global offensive of aid and trade."

It was an offensive, not to secure profits in a bookkeeping sense nor for immediate military gains of trade for Communist peoples, the Socialist whose success will be measured by the degree to which the souls, hearts, intellects and aspirations of the recipients will be subverted to the service of communism.

To meet this new and ever-enlarging phase of the Communist threat, new methods were needed to expand world trade, to increase the financial flow of liquid reserves for such expansion and to help in raising the living standards of under-developed or underveloped countries.

"Finally, I speak for all Canadians in saying that for these purposes Canada stands prepared to assume her full share and to make her full contribution."

His statements were included in a text of his speech issued to the press before delivery.

MOTHERLESS DUCKLING TRAVELS FREE

Anything can happen to a taxi driver, and Douglas Macintosh has a hatful to prove it. Driving along a Toronto street, he saw a mother duck struck by another car. He noticed seven ducklings, who were following the mother, run for cover in grass beside the road, picked up and gave them a free ride home. One of the ducklings perched on the mirror, above, and as a free rider travels on the "no fare" sign.

Brokers Say Pot Could Boil Over Again

TORONTO (CP) — Trading was quieter Tuesday on the stock market but some brokers say the pot could well come again today.

The speculative fever which created a frenzy of excitement Monday and produced the heaviest volume in 106 years of stock market trading in Toronto subsided Tuesday.

In its place was profit-taking as investors sold to pick up gains resulting from Monday's climbs by most low - priced speculative mines.

The final volume, however, was still much higher than usual. Sales totalled 12,534,600 shares, sixth heaviest in Toronto's history. Monday's total was 15,699,000.

Some brokers thought the speculation was over and trading would return to a more normal pace. As recently as June 30, the volume was a little more than 2,000,000 shares.

New Hosco was the spark which set the explosion. A week ago the company announced a new find.

The stock of New Hosco skyrocketed from 60 cents a share to $3.18 in four days. It continued to climb Monday, closing at $6 after touching $7.25. Tuesday, it lost 30 cents at $5.70 and also lost leadership as most active stock, a role it held for the five previous sessions.

Consolidated Hollinwell, a 1,090,000 - share trader Monday along with New Hosco, was the most active stock, losing 33 cents at 62 cents amid a turnover of 847,500 shares. Wiltsey-Coughlin dropped 17 cents to 37 cents with a turnover of 818,600 shares.

Visit Effort To Smooth Things Over Says Times

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times, commenting on President Eisenhower's visit to Canada, says it is "in the nature of an effort to smooth things over."

"It is the opposite of fence-mending." The Times says, "since no do not want to find ourselves good neighbors by building good fences to separate us from Canada." It adds:

"The Canadian grievances are real and specific, and they are imposed on an equally genuine national fear. This is the tremendous stake that American investors have in Canada's industrial structure . . .

"These are factors of nervousness and suspicion on the part of Canadians. We tend to forget that Canada had reasons to fear American aggressiveness in the past. Anti-Americanism is as old and deep-rooted an instinct among Canadians as anglophobia was for generations in the United States . . .

"In sort, President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have picked a good time to go to Ottawa and they are eminently right in trying to persuade Canadians that we may have disagreed at times but we have a full appreciation of our dependence on Canada and our need for Canadian friendship."

PRESS PARLEY BY NINE AIRMEN IS POSTPONED

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) The United States Air Force has postponed a press conference by nine airmen released by the Soviet Union, saying they were too tired and exhausted to face the press today.

An air force spokesman said he could not say if or when the press conference would be held.

The Russians returned the airmen Monday and they arrived here from Tehran Tuesday.

Ottawa Gives "Ike, Mamie" Warm Welcome

OTTAWA (CP) — The capital gave the Eisenhowers a good-natured morning greeting today as warm as the weather.

The biggest and by far the most demonstrative crowd so far jammed Confederation Square in downtown Ottawa as the president and his wife, Mamie, paused at the National War Memorial to pay their respects to Canada's war dead.

The president, under whose wartime generalship many Canadians fought and died, himself carried a wreath up the six steps to the base of the monument.

He paused for several seconds in the bright sunshine, his black homburg held against his chest. Then he wheeled on his heel in smart, soldierly fashion and returned to his place beside his wife and Canadian Veterans Affairs Minister and Mrs. Brooks.

The crowd, estimated at close to 10,000, clapped and cheered as Eisenhowers arrived in a limousine.

When the 15-minute ceremony was over, the crowd cheered and applauded again and a man's strong voice cried: "Atta boy, Ike."

There was more applause as the Eisenhowers pulled away for Parliament Hill, where the president addressed a joint gathering of Commons members and senators in the Commons.

The fifth information alleges Farris and Clark caused 16,000 shares of the company to be issued to Continental Investment Corporation Limited in the name of Lac and Company at $1.50 a share and 1,000 shares to be issued to F. E. Shaw, president of Twin City Gas Company, an affiliate, contrary to the Securities Act.

The investigation arose after the appointment by the legislature of Ontario CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald that more than $16,000,000 has been made in paper profits by early investors. This was followed by disclosures that cabinet ministers and several municipal officials held shares in the companies.

Premier Frost ordered the attorney-general's investigation while Mr. MacDonald called for a royal commission.

ADMITS THEM DENIES, WRITING BOMB LETTER

William Stanley Whales, 34, of Ipswich, Eng., an out - of - work farmhand, confessed in writing a letter saying an American pilot would drop an atom bomb near England. Whales reportedly said he identified himself as an American airman stationed in Britain to draw more attention to the wrongs he feels were heaped upon him by the Royal Air Force. The letter was addressed to the Russian embassy. Later Whales denied writing the letter, saying his purpose had been accomplished.

Sees Hopes Reds May Agree to Inspection Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — President Eisenhower said today he sees recent Soviet communications strengthen hope that Russia might see the worth of an Arctic inspection system as a means of removing fear of surprise armed attack.

For Canada and the United States, he told Canada's Parliament, such a system would "add immeasurably to our security" against a sudden Soviet aerial attack across the top of the world.

"Possibly it might also pave the way for still further measures of arms control and even some reduction of the burden and danger of these armaments."

The president said both Canada and the U.S. will continue to strive for that objective in the Western proposal for an aerial Arctic inspection system.

Then he added:

Recent Soviet communications have strengthened our hope that they will come to see that by such a system and basis for their professed fears of an attack across the pole will be removed."

Arctic inspection was discussed Tuesday by the president and Mr. Diefenbaker in the opening phases of their informal talks here and presumably will be dealt with in their later conversations.

Commies Win Most Seats in Finn Election

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — An official recheck of figures has shown the Communists won the most seats in parliament in Finland's general elections.

The new count Tuesday gave the Communists 50 seats to 49 won in the second running Social Democrats. It earlier had been announced the Social Democrats also won 5 posts.

Although the Communists made the biggest gains, there apparently was no chance they would form a government.

The Agrarians, who have dominated most post-war coalition cabinets, finished third in party standings with 48 seats.

The remainder of the seats in the 200-member, single-chamber parliament were split this way: Conservative Unionist 29, Swedish Minority 14, Finnish People's 7, Independent Social Democrats 3.

Council Approves $500 Grant To Beautify Burial Grounds

TRENTON — Town council approved of a $500 grant to the new board for the Mount View green cemetery to help them in getting the burial grounds beautified, after three of the members of the board appeared before the councillors at their regular meeting on Monday night.

Speaking for the delegation, Bernard Webb, councillor of Murray township and former reeve, told the Trenton officials most of the people buried in the cemetery were from Trenton and that the condition of the cemetery was also a responsibility of the town. He said for the past four or five years there has only been a part-time caretaker and at present the entire township was in a deplorable condition.

He said at present there is absolutely no care-being taken of the cemetery, regardless of what owns it and that the present board has obtained permission from Toronto authority to farm it and get the necessary funds to clean the place up.

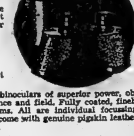
He said the trustee of the former group are now before the courts and that the Murray township got a letter authorizing the new board to take over. He said they have been holding off any work until the accounts have been settled. But in the meantime things were found to be "quite a mess" at the cemetery. He said, for instance, in some cases "persons have been buried in the wrong lots."

He said that Murray township has donated the sum of $500 to the new board, but the bookkeeper and they were asking for a donation from the town of Trenton to help in the purchase. He said a new rate structure will be set up, but that must be first approved by Toronto.

Councillor Vagn Lange moved that Trenton grant the $500 and was seconded by Councillor Lloyd Hilton. Mayor Bird said it should be understood the grant is for this year only and that he felt the cemetery should be put on a paying basis through lot prices and in this way it would pay for itself.

Councillor Hilton suggested that some of the town get-togethers be able to assist in getting the place back into condition. Men of the people buried there were from Trenton.

There was a brief discussion on perpetual care and how the funds are used for this.



Cliff Gunter, also a member of the cemetery board, spoke briefly as did W. H. Hanson, retired railway man and now secretary of the new board.

Mr. Gunter thanked the council for hearing them and that they appreciated the help in future in giving them the grant. He said the board will do all in its power to bring the cemetery back to the beauty spot it was at one time.

Members of the new cemetery board who are representing the Methodist Church are Cliff Gunter; public utilities commissioner Bernard Webb, councillor of the township, and W. H. Hanson, secretary-treasurer of the board.

Representing the town of Trenton are W. H. Ireland, Gerald Weaver and Jack Vanalstine.

Legion to Soon Reach Target In Membership

TRENTON — Special committee reports were presented at the Legion Branch Executive Committee meeting recently.

Membership committee chairman Carman Livingstone reported that approximately 100 applications for membership are on file and being processed as quickly as possible. He stated that the final membership will shortly exceed last year's record high and that this year's target of 800 members would undoubtedly be reached.

Orval C. Smith, chairman of the house committee, advised that drapes for the north and west walls of the canteen were immediately and that the installation of an electric hand drier would commence shortly.

Branch sports officer W. H. "Bill" Mills stated that an all-star Pee-Wee baseball team would represent Trenton in the Provincial Legion play-offs at Thorold this year.

Wally Graham, Legion Service Officer, reported that the annual carnival would be held on the Memorial Park, Trenton Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 15th, 16th and 18th.

Chairman of finance L. C. "Harry" Devonshire informed the committee that branch finances are in excellent shape and that all financial obligations regarding the yearly bond redemption and bond interest had been satisfactorily met.

Plan Record Poppy Campaign

TRENTON — Although the annual Canadian Legion Poppy day is still approximately four months away, plans are already in progress to make this year the largest and most successful campaign on record.

The reason for the unusually early preparations is quite simple. Although only eight weeks will be allowed for the last campaign, which was reasonably successful financially, more money has been spent on relief and assistance to veterans, their families or dependents, than was collected.

The Branch No. 110 Poppy Fund is carefully scrutinized to ensure that no unnecessary funds remain after each day's distribution, but still the amount spent since last November has exceeded the total for any previous year.

Poppy chairman Bryce will shortly announce the names of this year's committee and it promises to be a most active and aggressive organization.

Mount Pelion Steps Reported Nearly Finished

TRENTON — The steps to the top of Mount Pelion have nearly been completed it was announced at the Parks Board meeting held in the Board Room of the Municipal Building last night.

Reporting to the board on the steps, Claude Smith, who is in charge of the project, said there were only a few more to be put in and then the railing could be built. At present 75 railway ties have been used and about eight more will be ordered today to complete the job.

Ted Parker, chairman of the board, told the meeting it was commendable that the job had been completed in a week. Two men, under the direction of the town gardener, Bart Boers, did the job.

The board was very particular in the designing of the steps and had them go up the face of the mountain in the form of a giant "S". In this way there is a gentle slope which will enable elderly people to go up and down the stairway easily. There are also two landings where benches will be placed so people can sit and rest should the gentle climb be too difficult for some.

Hand rails will also be built on the sides of the steps and those who wish to use them. They will be made from concrete posts and railing which will be salvaged from the band stand in Hanna Park. The band stand will be torn down because it is no longer safe and is to be a danger to children.

When the steps have been completed a number of trees will be prepared and the shrubs will be planted the first of next year.

Following the meeting in the board room the Parks Board then adjourned and went to Mount Pelion to view the steps and other work done.

WALL WORK HALTED

The short business meeting in the municipal building heard a report that no further work has been done on the retaining wall presently under way. The 1959 grant of $5,000 was made with the plans for the wall may be changed slightly with the curbing being moved back to facilitate the driveway through it.

Should the wall, or curbing, be built along the present line of the Park Board property at Gilmour Hill it would be necessary to fill in a gap to keep the road open. There is also a hydro pole which would cut into the overhead clearance.

The committee in charge of the park will meet on Friday to work this week.

Miss Marion Baker reported that the necessary signs have been ordered and will be placed in Hanna Park when they are finished.

Discussion was also held on the watering of the grass and flower beds in Coltrell Park and this was left for further study.

Bill Ireland gave a brief report on play equipment at Hanna Park and informed the meeting they were unable to get metal teeter-totters because of the size of the pipe which forms the base and that wooden ones have been ordered to replace those which were broken last year. He said the "slide" has also been repaired, as have the swings.

Present at the meeting were Ted Parker, chairman, Miss Marion Baker, John Sayler, Bill Ireland and Claude Smith.

Legion Finances In Good Shape

TRENTON — The regular monthly meeting of the Legion Branch, No. 110, executive committee was held in the board room of the new Trenton Legion Memorial Hall on Monday evening, with thirteen officers present and the branch president in the chair.

The financial report presented by treasurer W. J. B. McLaren, showed brench finances in excellent condition and was adopted as read.

Committee reports were, without exception, encouraging and optimistic and indicated that the branch can expect a record year financially and in membership.

Chairman of finance, L. C. "Harry" Devonshire stated that a tentative budget for 1959 would be presented to the general body for approval in December of this year and that the question of a full time secretary-manager would also be decided then.

It was decided to hold the annual Poppy Campaign this year on Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11th,—and the branch president was authorized to arrange for an outstanding speaker of national importance.

It was unanimously agreed that the recent national increase in Legion per capita tax would be absorbed by the branch and that the cost of membership in Branch No. 110 would remain at $5.00 annually.

THE "ADOPTION" OF ADC

It is hoped Canadians do not disapprove too much of the government's agreement to place the RCAF's Air Defence Command, including all radar units, under the control of the North American Air Defence Command in the United States.

Much as some Canadians dislike the idea, it is actually one of the best things that ever happened to this country in view of the "shrinking" size of the world.

A decade ago Canada was thousands of miles from Russia. The distance remains the same, but the fact is that Russia now has some comfort aircraft that can fly those thousands of miles in a few hours time. The U.S.A. has competitive types of planes, but Canada has not.

Canada's Air Force is comprised of nine combat-ready interceptor squadrons at home plus an assortment of other aircraft and commands. Its strength is approximately 51,000 men and women, the largest of the three Canadian armed services.

A few years ago when the RCAF's fighter squadrons were equipped with piston-engine Mustangs of World War II vintage and "speedy" Vampire jets, the threat from Russia was not as great as it is today. Therefore, it was understandable that Canadians then wished to remain aloof from U.S. control of their Air Force. But the world situation has changed.

Perhaps if the Western world had listened to Sir Winston Churchill when he warned us about the Russians, we would not today be forced, through circumstances, to throw our aerial defence system in with that of our southern neighbor.

Although the "scramble" signal will be given to Canadian fighter squadrons in Canada by NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colorado, the RCAF retains the right to direct its squadrons during actual combat.

Under this new defence system Canadians will have "official security." Before, American radar teamed up with Canadian radar to keep watchful eyes on our northern air routes, from which direction the Russians are said most likely to come - - if they ever do.

It came as no surprise to Canadians to learn that U.S. bombers from Strategic Air Command have been flying over this country for some time. Nor should it be unduly shocking to have learned that American fighters have intercepted Canadian aircraft over Canadian soil. We should be very thankful that the U.S. has acted as a big brother to us, for more than one interceptions could have been made with enemy planes. It is much larger than the RCAF and is generally much better equipped to handle any sudden emergency.

However, here is one thing that should ease the current shock wave. The RCAF's CF-100 jet interceptors are as good as any that have been built to date in the U.S., Great Britain or Russia.

THIS IS POLIO PREVENTION WEEK

The Rehabilitation Foundation for Poliomyelitis and Orthopaedically Disabled has proclaimed this week as Polio Prevention Week. Hon. Mackinnon Phillips, Ontario's minister of health, has appealed to all persons under 40 years of age to seek immunization. Since January 1 of this year the Ontario Government has made polio vaccine available to all physicians without charge. Very few persons over 18 years of age have been vaccinated and 40 per cent of recent polio cases have occurred in persons between 18 and 40 years of age. During the first few years that the Salk vaccine was available the emphasis, and rightly so, was on providing immunity for school children. Now, however, there is sufficient vaccine to extend this protection to adults up to the age of 40. When a person reaches that age it is likely that he or she has acquired immunity. In actual fact, though the one fatal case occurring in 1958 to date was a 43-year-old father of three young children and other members of his family had had their polio "shots."

JUST FOLKS

THE REASON

She was pretty as a picture,
In her bathing suit of blue,
'Twas a costume most becoming,
And the maiden knew it, too.

But she plunged into the water
With a very graceful dive,
Without shrieking for a hero
Who would rescue her alive.

She could float upon the billows,
And beneath the surface stay
For three minutes in succession;
Like a porpoise she would play.

In the water while the other
Maidens shrieked and ran in fear;
Ashe even wet her tresses
And got bubbles in her ear.

Much we marvelled at the maiden
Who so different seemed to be
From the other laughing lassies
Who went splashing in the sea.
She went swimming just for swimming,
For she clearly loved the water.
Then we found she was a native;
Not a cliffied resorter.

London Goes Continental

...The Times of London ...

How do you explain to a foreigner that you can wash up the tea things but that you can't wash up the baby? How can you convey the feeling that "I saw a man with deep-seated eyes" is not English?

How can you correct an essay on the English climate which ends with such extreme delicacy as this: "It is better to like to look at your English fires very much, but they make the front side very warm, and leave in coldness the reverse."

This is the time of year when our university city takes on the color of a Continental town. For so long during the winter pall of leaden skies, howling winds and dripping trees, it emerges in the full glory of its beautiful green lawns and gay gardens sloping down to the river. Young men and women, no longer wrapped in dreary duffle coats and flapping black undergraduate gowns, are now bright in summer clothes, with their girls rolled into bundles in their bicycle baskets as they ride carelessly across the handlebars.

But it is not the native element that gives the city its Continental flavor. Every year this city is host to hundreds and thousands of young foreign students. They come from all over the world — white, black, brown, yellow — in dirndls, saris, trousers, jeans, slacks, sloppy Italian knitwear, tight American sweaters — with long, loose flowing hair, short bristly cuts, pony tails — bizarre or ordinary — you can't mistake them. They come to learn English, every language school is full.

Most of these young people come for a minimum of six months, but a year's stay is not unusual. At home, they are students, doctors, secretaries, librarians, nurses or just gay butterflies who want a good time.

And a good time they certainly have. The language schools are social centres as well as coaching establishments. They have their canteens, reading rooms, common rooms, dances, sport and outings. The young foreigners are the communities of meeting English students, of going into their homes and colleges, of exchanging visits in their own country.

The open market is a Tower of Babel, but the traders with their stalls of fruits and vegetables, reflecting the color and taste of the visitors, are patient and smile indulgently. They are used to young foreign students. So are

Ambitious Aim for Holiday

...Winnipeg Free Press ...

Summer comes to Manitoba with sufficient regularity for us all to take her visits pretty much for granted. Sometimes she seems unnecessarily coy and temperamental as she nears the international border on her journey northward to the pole. But when she does make up her mind to stay, she brings a delightful retinue, clears the barometric atmosphere, and makes our prairies in a blaze of glory, she has not the slightest difficulty in persuading us that her presence was worth waiting for.

It is also worth preparing for. To many of us one of the most gratifying signs that summer is approaching is the "Holiday" in which, now that the summer solstice is upon us and July is just around the corner, we are all observed on almost any shop or office notice board. Not the least of life's pleasures is the pleasure of anticipation. And who knows how many family conferences had been held, how many plans considered and rejected, how many hoarded savings counted, how many summer cottages reconditioned, how many cars tuned, and how many bank accounts consulted — before these typed vacation "Holiday" notices appeared, stores and plants and offices could be closed down? The wide campaign of Manitoba's summer holidays is embodied in these alphabetical lists of names and columns of bracketed numbers.

But "there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip." Few campaigns are ever carried out in their entirety, and few with even the best laid plans. It would be a wise policy for the time to judge the value of the summer holidays is next October. There may even be something of an argument advanced by Aldous Huxley's Mr. Scogan, "it's in the nature of things." Mr. Scogan to his hosts and fellow guests at Crome, "your holidays can't help being disappointments."

The essence of a holiday is change, and Mr. Scogan's pessimism's premise and one can hardly disagree with him. Therefore the theme of Huxley's new "Platonic Holiday or Holidays," would provide us with variety and the absolute change. But it is precisely this that nature makes impossible; we are encumbered with all the old familiar baggage of our prejudices, limitations, frustrations and complexes.

Mr. Scogan was of course quite right. For inasmuch as the essence of the sort of ideal that he was talking of is its unattainability, our failure to attain it need hardly make us feel depressed. Quite the reverse. Inspired it is just this that makes living such a fascinating business. No one ever saw the ideal holiday looking back on his whole life; but it is always up ahead, to be approached.

It was not summer holidays, ideal or otherwise, that Arnold Toynbee had in mind when he worked out his elaborate thesis on "withdrawal and return," but the whole meaning and purpose of a pleasant summer holiday come within the compass of that phrase. Gautama Buddha's withdrawal from the old, unchanging world in which he had grown up, a withdrawal from which he would return to change that world may seem a far cry from a Manitoba family's two-week vacation at the beach. But the similarity is more important than the difference.

Toynbee is able to range over the field of human achievement and show how significantly often the poets, mystics, philosophers and statesmen have made their

Do Not Bruise Poison Ivy

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Those who have been victims of poison ivy will be cheered by a report and demonstration in New York credited to Dr. Albert M. Kligman of the University of Pennsylvania. Even the most sensitive person may safely handle poison ivy endlessly without harm — if he is careful not to bruise it. Crushing and bruising nothing to worry about if one is gentle. SWIMMING AFTER MEALS, MORE HAZARDOUS THAN TAKING A BATH

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it harmful to take a bath after eating, and if so why? — H. F."

Trying to make like Sherlock Holmes, I suggest the bath question comes from somebody who, perhaps like Holmes, swimming in mind, wonders whether taking a bath is the same as going swimming right after eating. There are some differences.

The warning against going swimming until at least an hour after a meal is sound advice. Depending on circumstances, that even longer wait may be better. The danger, of course, is cramps.

I might point out that probably some of the drownings from cramps might be avoided if the person attacked would keep calm. But it's not easy to keep calm when you are suddenly seized with a cramp that doubles you up with pain.

Still, if I were a betting person has a chance of surviving if he can manage to roll more or less flat on his back, letting most of his body submerge except nose and mouth, and keep it but the nose. If the head can be allowed to fall "backward into the water, the buoyancy of the body will usually help to

King of Rackets Indicted Over Narcotics Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—Vito Genovese, once tabbed king of rackets in the U.S., was indicted Tuesday with 36 others in connection with an alleged international narcotics ring.

The squat, swarthy Italian-born mobster is reputed in underworld circles to be a leader of the Mafia; the Sicilian-spawned Black Hand Society. The Senate rackets committee last week pictured Genovese as amassing $30,000,000 in the rackets.

Genovese, 61, was arrested Monday. His name was one of 37 in a sealed indictment opened Tuesday. Nearly half the defendants were arrested June 4 in a federal crackdown on what was described as a multi-million dollar ring channeling dope into the U.S. from Europe, Cuba, Puerto Rico and Mexico.

The indictment outlined as major cities areas of the alleged operation New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Las Vegas, Nev.

CALLED TOP MAN

Genovese was held in $50,000 bail by Judge William B. Mersands after U.S. Attorney Paul Williams told the court:

"The government is ready to prove that he made all the big decisions as to the areas in which narcotics were to be sold and made decisions as to whom would have the concessions.

"He was the man responsible for seeing that any annoying competition would be eliminated. He is the number one control man in this conspiracy and he was referred to by all his underlings as the Right Man."

Each of the 37 defendants face prison terms ranging from five to 20 years if convicted.

TANKS LIKE GIN FIZZ

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP)—Americans are more concerned over the fizz in their gin than in the fizzles in their rockets, Dr. Winton H. Beavers, dean of the school of graduate studies at Potomac University, said Tuesday night. Americans are spending 10 times more on liquor each year than is being spent on basic research, he added.

Goldfine Says He Will Answer Relevant Queries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Goldfine says he is ready and willing to answer all questions of a House of Representatives subcommittee today — provided he thinks they are pertinent.

Representative Oren Harris (Dem.-Ark.) said "we'll just wait and see" whether Goldfine comes through with the co - operation Harris demanded Tuesday.

But conflict loomed. Goldfine's lawyers indicated their man would tell what happened to nearly $777,000 worth of his cancelled cheques which remained uncashed for years. But they also indicated he would stay mum on grounds it's not the subcommittee's business as to why the cheques were handled that way.

Goldfine first came before the subcommittee because of his records showing he gave favors and gifts to Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide, and other federal officials.

The group is checking to see if Goldfine sought — or received — special treatment by federal agencies.

GETS REPRIEVE

Goldfine got a one-day reprieve from questioning Tuesday after his lawyers complained the Boston millionaire's sleep had been shattered by spectacular events since his return to Washington Sunday.

In one middle-of-the-night incident the subcommittee's chief investigator was caught with a hidden microphone next to the hotel room of a Goldfine publicity man, Jack Lotto. The subcommittee sleuth, Baron Sharklette, quickly joined the ranks of the unemployed.

Then Goldfine's bookkeeper Mildred Paperman, reported that some documents brought down for the inquiry were stolen from her room in the same hotel.

JURY SPLIT

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—A jury split Tuesday on whether or not a minister, an evangelist and a church member were disturbing the peace by groaning, shouting and hand clapping at evening services. Charges of disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct were brought against the three by persons living near an evangelistic tabernacle.

CONFESSION SAVES MAN FROM EXECUTION

In Jefferson, Ga., James Foster wears a broad grin as he is told that a confession by a Bible-reading ex-policeman has given him a reprieve from death in the electric chair. The ex-policeman, Charles P. Rothschild, of Cairo, Ill., confessed at Columbia, S.C., July 4, to the murder in 1956 for which Foster was sentenced to die.

Says Bombers Keeping World On War Brink

LONDON (AP) — A Moscow radio commentator today charged that flights of American bombers toward Soviet borders are keeping the world "practically on the brink of war."

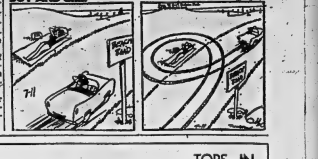
The broadcast renewed charge which the Russians pressed unsuccessfully in the United Nations Security Council three months ago.

Charging that American war planes make frequent "provocative flights toward Soviet borders," commentator Andreyev said:

"We could say we had to send our bombers toward the U.S. borders, and we would have a perfect right to do that to ensure our security. There might be a clash between atomic squadrons in the air and an atomic war would be touched off."

The broadcast asserted that "in spite of the provocations by the U.S. Air Command, our military plans are not flying in the direction of the U.S.A." but, he said, an American pilot might break under the "terrible strain" of piloting a jet bomber and release a bomb near the Soviet borders.

"The result is that the world is really practically on the brink of war," the commentary declared.



Woman Detained

MONTREAL (CP) — A 38-year-old woman was detained by provincial police Tuesday as a material witness in the hammer-slaying of her aunt, Mrs. Blanche Paxton, 78, Dorval, Que.

Lucy Desfardins, 40, a sister of the dead woman found Mrs. Paxton, beaten about the head, on the porch of her suburban Dorval cottage.

Mrs. Paxton died shortly after being admitted to hospital. Police found a bloodstained hammer in the cottage.

VALLEAU — SHAY

A pretty summer wedding was solemnized on Saturday, June 7th at three p.m. by the Reverend E. B. Gabriel, in St. George's Anglican Church, Halifax, N.S., when Joyce Rita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harold Shay, became the bride of Jack Arnold Valleau, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Valleau, of Belleville, Ont.

Mr. R. B. Elliott presided at the organ and Miss Jane MacLean, as soloist, rendered "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "Oh Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

The pretty blonde bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tricot. The full skirt fell gracefully over hoops and the bodice featured a bateau neckline outlined in seed pearls, the long sleeves ended in points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil was caught to the crown of seed pearls and rhinestones, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Barbara Shay, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a ballerina-length dress of buttercup yellow nylon. The skirt, worn over hoops was of tiers of lace and nylon. The strapless bodice was accented with a bolero, and she wore an open-crown hat of the same shade of her dress with matching mitts. She carried a Colonial nosegay of yellow and mauve 'mums tied with yellow streamers.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Donald Joseph Brown are pictured following their recent marriage in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville. BROWN — BUNTON

On Saturday, June 21st, at ten o'clock a.m., a very lovely marriage was solemnized by the Very Reverend Dean L. B. Garvin, in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, when Barbara Ellen Marie Bunton, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mr. Albert Edward Bunton, became the bride of Herbert Donald Joseph Brown, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mr. Herbert Brown.

The church was beautifully adorned with tall standards of white chrysanthemums, white gladioli and white peonies with white satin bows designating the guest pews.

The wedding music was rendered by the Reverend Sister Mary Bibiana, and the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in an original full-length gown of crystal white pure silk over taffeta, having a moulded bodice with short sleeves and a portrait neckline outlined by appliqued lace motifs encrusted with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. The very full skirt, also enhanced at the waist by lace motifs, fell over a wide hoop and ended in a full backward sweep. She wore matching elbow-length gloves and a halo of iridescent sequins and seed pearls held her elbow-length veil of French tulle illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweetheart roses and white stephanotis.

Miss Joanne Bunton, of Belleville, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Albert Bunton and Mrs. Robert Bunton, of Belleville, bridesmaids, were attired alike in waist-length pouffe gowns of azure blue pure silk over taffeta. The moulded bodices featured bateau necklines with short sleeves with delicate over - embroidery in flower design of matching shade on shoulders and this design was carried throughout the bouffant skirts. They wore shoes to match, short white gloves and coronets of azure blue shaded 'mums and carried bouquets of pale pink carnations centred with blue Shasta daisies.

Mr. Richard Brown, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Robert Johnston and Mr. Jack Ross, of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the dining room of the Knights of Columbus Hall. The bride's table was beautifully appointed with a white damask cloth and centred by an all-white, four-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Tall white candles in silver candelabra and the bridal bouquets added a delightful pastel accent.

Two brides a mother, for her daughter's wedding, chose an original afternoon-length gown of pure silk chiffon over taffeta in Rosewood shade, the soloist made her elbow-length gloves, and shoes in matching shade, and corsage of pink Artistocrat roses. The bridegroom's mother, assisting in the receiving line, was attired in an afternoon-length gown of pure nylon lace over taffeta with matching jacket, in teale blue shade, and with matching hat, shoes and gloves, and corsage of pink Artistocrat roses.

For the wedding trip, by motor, to Syracuse, Albany, New York City, Niagara Falls, Toronto, and Bigwin Inn, Muskoka, the bride travelled in a Paris Import ensemble consisting of a chemise of beige linen topped by a matching coat of handloomed mesh trimmed with linen and picture hat of beige hand-loomed mesh. Her shoes bag and gloves were of burnt orange shade and she wore a corsage of tawny gold roses.

Upon their return, the young couple will reside at 127 Dundas Street West, Belleville, Ontario.

Guests were present from Chicago, Quebec City, Montreal, Norands, Hamilton and Toronto.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the recipient of many lovely gifts at a shower given in her honor by Mrs. Albert Bunton and Mrs. Robert Bunton, and prior to the wedding the bridal party was entertained at a delightful rehearsal party in the form of a buffet supper by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brown, at their home, R.R. 1, Belleville.

Mt. View W.I. Marks 50th Anniversary

A delightful afternoon tea was held June 25th in the Sunday school room of Mountain View United church to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Mountain View Women's Institute. Despite the inclement weather there was an attendance of 150 from the branches of the county as well as local members.

The guests were received at the door by the president, Mrs. George Neal, and Mrs. Clifford Barber, county president. The room was beautifully decorated with tall standards of many colored powders, ferns, roses and other garden flowers.

ATTRACTIVE TEA TABLE

The tea table was most attractive with white damask centred with an anniversary cake surrounded by white tulle and yellow roses tastefully arranged by Mrs. Stan Barber and Mrs. Willet Barber. Gold and royal blue candles and yellow roses in silver vases completed the floral decoration. The silver tea service were presided over by Mrs. Will Barber and Mrs. Jas. Wallbridge and Miss Lily Anderson and Mrs. Ben Anderson.

Corsages of yellow carnations were presented to the charter members, Miss Lily Anderson, Mrs. James Wallbridge and Mrs. Will Barber, who are still active members of the Mountain View Women's Institute, and Mrs. Fred Mallory, Mrs. William Devern, Mrs. T. B. Fiddle, Mrs. Ed Stubbs, Mrs. Ira Pryore, Mrs. Richard VanWart and Mrs. S. Wheeler.

FIRST MEETING

To recall the first meeting, Miss Lillian Anderson said that her father, the late J. R. Anderson, had learned there were women's organizations in the provinces with the idea of starting a branch from the department came to the Anderson home and presided at the first meeting held in the Mountain View church. The first president was Mrs. Thomas Barber; vice-president, Miss Lily Sprague, and secretary-treasurer, Miss Jean Anderson. Directors were Mrs. Howard Anderson, Mrs. Hilloy Anderson, Mrs. James Wallbridge, Miss Lily Wallbridge, Miss Effie Herbertson and Miss Jean Allament.

The guests assembled in the church before the tea and were entertained by Mr. Robert Barber, the church organist, until they were invited for tea.

A social time was spent and the tea table was cleared to sign the Tweedsmuir history book, which was in charge of Mrs. Lewis Wallbridge.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

One of the most encouraging developments in Canada since the war is the tremendous housing growth in its various forms. A woman of France had an unique idea to ease the housing shortage of her home town of Dijon. She organized an association which she called "The Sewers of Dijon." She wanted to find a practical way of putting state credits to work for people of modest incomes, so they could build and own their own homes. Why, she asked herself, couldn't hours of labor be substituted for cash payment? The idea was fine but she found that it was difficult to secure official permission from a department in France as it is in any country. Officialdom shines clear of an unorthodox interpretation of the law. Finally she decided to go ahead without state credits in order to prove her plan. It took a great deal of courage because, in order to get the first twenty houses started, she had to persuade people that her idea was sound enough for them to put up personal donations as collateral. Birth is always accompanied by travail and the conception of the birth of her hopes this courageous member of the Dijon council experienced much opposition. However the team spirit caught on, progress was made and the news reached Paris. Officials were sent to inspect the experiment and what they saw, impressed them. A woman's idea, although new and different, was proven practical. It all started four years ago and 200 houses have been built, as many more are in the process of being erected and a long list of applicants waits. The idea has spread to other communities beside Dijon. Applicants sign up for 1500 hours of work in two years, then receive loan in cash, and submit to strict rules.

T & T will pass along other cases of women in action around the world in subsequent columns.

T & T is aware of the interest many of its readers have in the Hastings County Historical Society and we believe that you will be amazed at the amount of work that has been accomplished and will be pleased with the success so far. Nine months ago, a mere handful of people met in the Council Chamber of the city hall and started to lay a foundation for as historical house that will go on being added to over the years. An executive was elected under the presidency of Mr. T. G. Wrightmeyer. We received a progress report of what has been done in a few short months. First, the first three objectives are listed: (1) To preserve historical materials; (2) To display such material; (3) To arouse interest in the past by means of public meetings, newspaper articles, etc.

A few members lavaged documents from the County Court house which were car-marked for burning to make room in over-crowded storage rooms. A fine work was done because historical documents as far back as 1790 have been saved for posterity and important records of the county's history preserved. Vital statistics about the town of Deseronto have been acquired through the co-operation of Indian Agent Camsie and his staff. Records will now be saved revealing the history of Deseronto from the time it was known as Mill Point. Mrs. W. N. Ponton has contributed historical treasures of incalculable value from the documents, papers and records of her late husband, Lt.-Col. W. N. Ponton. The field these papers cover is vast and of great importance to Belleville, Hastings County and Canada. They deal with many topics, such as the Fenian Raids, the South African War and many others. This gift is in the process of being catalogued. Other large collections have been donated. Four public meetings have been conducted and a public display was shown in a shop window on Front St. For nine months, a terrific amount of work and success has been accomplished. The new executive, under the presidency of Mr. Gerald E. Boyce, looks forward to the society's first full year of activity with hope and anticipation. A drive is being made throughout the county for new members, donations or the loan of material of value in this historical county of Hastings. Anyone, anywhere in Hastings can secure membership cards from Mr. Boyce, 236 George St., Belleville. The present membership is 100 and the campaign is designed to greatly increase this number.

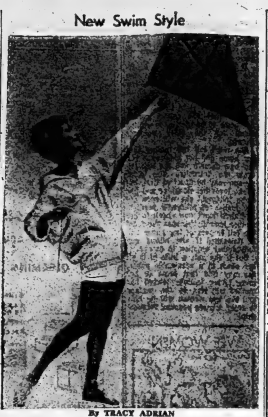
GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY PLANNED BY COUPLE'S EIGHT CHILDREN

Dear Mrs. Beechnut:

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of our parents is to be in late August, and we, their 8 children, are planning a party in their honor. The actual date falls on a Thursday, but we are following the advice you give, and are having the anniversary party on the Sunday following the date, rather than the Sunday preceeding the date. We have planned the party from your column, but we do have three special questions we would like to ask. After the Mass at 11 o'clock, we will have a dinner for the members of the family, and then the reception (buffet service) 4 to 6 o'clock.

1. At the reception who stands in the receiving-line with our parents? And how long does the receiving-line stand?

2. Will you please suggest an appropriate toast?



3. Is it all right to have a Guest Book? — Reader

A. There is no rule about who stands in the receiving-line on this occasion. Very often only the bride and bridegroom" receive the guests (the "bride" at the right of the "bridegroom"), and this can be very effective. Or your mother and father may stand first, to receive the guests, and then maybe their 8 children, perhaps in order of age. Those in the line should receive as long as guests are arriving. About this, a suggestion: Consider mentioning on your invitations only the hour to arrive, 6 o'clock say (very often done today); the reception could begin rather soon after, then all the guests greeted and welcomed, the buffet service begun, and at a given time the wonderful ceremony of the-cutting-of-the-anniversary cake.

2. An appropriate toast: "A toast to today's Bride and Groom . . . all golden wishes on this Golden Wedding Day. And God bless them always." Or: "A rising toast, please . . . to this and endearing couple who are so precious to all of us. May God's blessings be with them always. And we'll be looking forward with high hearts to their 75th Wedding Anniversary!"

3. Please do have a guest book . . . it will be a glorious treasure of memories of this great day!

New Swim Style

By TRACY ADRIAN

The new silhouettes have gotten right on the beach this summer in both play clothes and bathing suits. The outfit pictured today we thought was a particularly smart and wearable version of the new lines.

It is a cotton knit sun and swim suit that features a shirt with a rounded neckline and a long torso look. Beneath are matching shorts. Both are in an abstract black and white check.

Paved With Careful Spending The Road To Prosperity

by Mary Moore

It is with a little apprehension that I have been opening the mail this week, I am wondering if I am giving you too big a dose of economical recipes.

So, today I have changed my tune. The meat recipes I have are economical enough but the tempting part is their flavor. At a reception that I attended this week, served from a silver bonbon-trolley with a built-in heat compartment, were lovely morsels of hot finger food: batter-fried shrimp and scallops, bite-size cheese dreams, and an toothpicks balled bite-size pieces of chicken liver, bacon-wrapped. Everybody went into raptures over these little liver morsels, and the supply was gone in no time. It is worthwhile knowing how to prepare such a hit.

Also I have a liver patty recipe and a recipe for individual Salisbury steaks that call for hamburg meat. How would we ever keep house without it? These little offerings serve a triple purpose: they are quite unusual; they give you nutritious liver in a delicious new guise and two of them are economical.

BROILED LIVER AND BACON BITES

Cut raw chicken livers in thirds. Wrap each piece in a 2" strip of back bacon, overlapping the ends. Fix with a wooden toothpick. As you work place them on the broiler rack or in a ring on a pie plate. The number you do depends on whether they are to be part of a tasteful of appetizers or the meat part of your dinner. Allow one pound of chicken livers to serve 4 or 5 if they are for dinner. Place under preheated broiler and when bacon is crispening on top turn them over and lightly brown other side. The liver will be cooked. Serve at once.

CRISP LIVER PATTIES

One lb. liver — baby beef, calves', pork or lamb; ¼ cup each chopped onion and very fine cracker crumbs; 3 tablespoons milk, 2 slightly beaten eggs, teaspoon prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon each salt and monosodium glutamate, ⅛ teaspoonry Force liver through meat grinder while it is raw. This is a nuisance, but is helped if you follow it with the onion — 1 medium-sized one. (Then with a slice of bread which you should discard). Add all remaining ingredients. Melt 3 tablespoons bacon fat, and when hot drop liver mixture in by tablespoonfuls. Fry till browned on both sides. Make milk gravy with pan drippings and serve with mashed potatoes. Delicious.

WEDNESDAY

(See Tuesday's Column)
Piquant Jellied Salmon with Cucumber Cream Dressing; Dutch Rice; Buttered Sliced Roggenbrot; Raspberry Sherbet; Eleanor's Tempters; Iced Tea or Coffee.

INDIVIDUAL SALISBURY STEAKS

Mix together 1 lb. ground beef, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ cup milk. Divide into two parts. Mix 2 cups soft breadcrumbs, ¼ cup grated carrot, ¼ cup chopped celery, 1 minced onion, ¾ teaspoon poultry seasoning, 2 tablespoons melted butter. Shape half of the meat into a long strip. Cover it with the filling. Cover that with remaining meat. Cut these into 4 to 6 individual portions. Place on greased baking dish and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes.

Protect your Hopemobile during garnishing and rough work by rubbing them over a bar of soap before beginning the task.

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

A simple black crepe sheath with narrow shoestring shoulder straps is topped by a white organdy chemise blouse, adding up to a good piece of black and white style. The blouse has coin-size eyelet embroidery and solid white organdy collar and flaps. For the final touch, there is a long black streamer tie at the neckline.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two readers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mildred S. — I want to move away from Mother.

Lionel S. — She should tell her mother off.

Mildred S. — I am 25 and have been married eight years. I have three children and I'm o l d enough, I hope, to have a right to my own life.

My mother doesn't seem to think I have any rights at all. She thinks she still owns me and that what's mine is hers. She takes over my home and children whenever she feels like it. T h e other day four of her friends arrived at my house unexpectedly. They said my mother invited them and was supposed to meet them there.

I just don't feel I can take it any longer. I have begged my husband to pull up stakes and get to another community so I don't have to deal with my mother. He refuses to do this.

* * *

Lionel S. — It has taken me eight full years to get where I want in the firm I am working for. Mildred says I can get a job somewhere else. Maybe. But she doesn't understand how you have to fight to get into the position you want.

Besides, it seems crazy to me that we should have to move from a home we like because we have got to run away from a senseless old woman.

Why can't Mildred tell her off once and for all. When I tell her to do that she says, "Oh, I could never talk like that to my mother."

What it comes to is that because Mildred is too scared to talk back to her mother, we have to pay through the nose.

* * *

The Council: We agree with Lionel that running away to another community is no way to tackle the problem of a domineering mother.

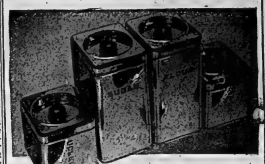
What's to stop Mother from running after?

This problem should be dealt with in a forthright manner. This does not mean to "tell Mother off" or even to "talk back." Drastic methods would not be necessary at all if Mildred were able to behave in a firm, clear-minded manner.

Unfortunately, Mildred is still a frightened child in relation to her mother. This may be partly her mother's fault, but it is also her own. She has been hiding a lot of the resentment she feels toward her mother deep in her heart. Some of it may be rightful resentment and some may be hurt to carry over from a pattern of early childhood.

It is time for Mildred to separate reasonable anger from the unreasonable kind and to face her mother honestly and plainly about those aspects of their relationship. She has every right to tell h e r mother that she cannot permit her home to be used as a wailing depot for the older woman's friends.

She must tell her mother that her home and her children a r e her own domain and she will tolerate no intrusion. The older woman may be upset at first, but if she loves her daughter and has any judgment she will soon see the justice of Mildred's position.



Mildred can't now speak to her mother honestly because she fears the full impact of her anger will be unleashed if she allows any anti-Mother emotion to escape.

But if she gets a little of it off her chest in a reasonable cause, she may find that some of her more loving feelings toward her mother will rise to the surface and the two women will be able to enjoy a more peaceful relationship.

River Valley Women's Institute Sponsors Children's Party

The annual Children's Day conference elected at Wallbridge. party, sponsored by River Valley Women's Institute, was held at the school house on Thursday. Approximately 25 ladies and 40 children attended.

Conveners were Mrs. Glenn Bush, Mrs. Roy Tucker and Mrs. Phillip Conley.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Ross Bush. Mrs. J. R. Donohoe presented her report. A letter was read regarding the introduction of Mrs. Marilyn Sauve as the new home economist for this district. She will assume her duties on August 1 and will succeed Miss Sandra Thibadeau.

It was decided the delegates expenses and one bar for transportation to the district annual will be paid by the institute.

Some discussion was held regarding an exhibit of antiques at Stirling Fair for centennial year. This will be fully planned at the September meeting. There will be no August meeting.

The ladies were asked for a cash donation in lieu of a basket to furnish a float for the Stirling Centennial parade. Mrs. Roy Tucker was appointed treasurer of this fund. Each member was asked to hunt up old relics to assist with this project, making the float a real community affair.

Mrs. George Hessman gave a report of the recent district annual held at Wallbridge. She said there was 100 percent reporting. The idea was stressed that "if you educate a woman, you educate a family." There were 537 institutes in Ontario who participated in the lamp-shade course. The summer 4-H Club project is "clothes closets up-to-date" and the autumn project is "cotions may be smart."

Thanks were expressed for this exercise report.

The district director, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, gave a few items of business and passed around a list of officers and were: boys dash, Bob Hanna; girls dash, Shirley McDonell; mixed race, Charles Heasman; teenagers three-legged race, Louise Zwidema and Marguerite DeBruyn; homemaker relay, Elaine Vandervoort and Alice de Bruyn; beau relay, Linda Ann Morrow and her group; shoe race, Mrs. Reg. Coombes. The winners were given suitable prizes for their efforts.

Refreshments were served by the convenors and their assistants, and the group enjoyed a social half hour.

USED BARE HANDS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon said Monday he may have been saved from assassination in Venezuela by secret service agents who used their bare hands to protect him from a mob. The vice-president and Mrs. Nixon took part in a ceremony at which eight of the agents received the treasury department's exceptional civilian service award.

Ridge Rd. P.S. Presents Farewell Gifts

On a recent evening, former pupils, pupils and community parents met recently at Ridge Road School to honor Mrs. Marion Wells, teacher, and Mrs. Mildred Morrow, music teacher, who are leaving the school section, with a farewell presentation party.

Mr. Cecil Nelson was chairman for the occasion, and conducted a varied program, with Mr. Grant Richardson leading in community singing after which the school children, accompanied by Mrs Morrow, rendered a selection of songs they had learned during the school year. Several delightful numbers were given by the Hammond girls and the Lott sisters with guitar accompaniment, also a most enjoyable solo by Miss Beverley McInroy. Mrs. John McInroy gave a humorous reading, and Grant and Marlene Richardson favored with an appropriate duet.

Following the program, Mrs. Morrow and Mrs. Wells were called to the front and an address was read by Helen Cleveland expressing the appreciation of the community for the years they had spent in the midst not only by those present, but by those who had passed to higher centres of learning for the fine training they had received in the Ridge Road School under the leadership of Mrs. Wells, both in everyday matters and in the higher things in life, which make for character. In appreciation, on behalf of the pupils, parents and friends, Judy Heath and Gary Reid presented Mrs. Wells with a beautiful set of aurora borealis necklace and earrings and casserole combination. A similar set was also presented to Mrs. Morrow by Judy Heath, with Mrs. Richardson expressing the thanks of the community to Mrs. Morrow for her fine instruction in music.

Both Mrs. Morrow and Mrs. Wells expressed their thanks for the lovely gifts and kind words of remembrance, stating that it had been a pleasure to work with the Ridge Road pupils.

Th evening was brought to a close with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," after which bountiful and delicious refreshments were served.

Business Women Will Look at Laws Governing Homes of Married Girls

By CAROLYN WILLET
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is to take a close look at laws governing the domicile of married women, especially with regards to women's rights in divorce or separation actions.

In a report presented to Tuesday's opening session of a four-day convention here, Liberal Senator Murial Fergusson of Fredericton said Canadian women generally lose their own domicile and take on that of their husband upon marriage.

After a marriage has broken up and the parties have separated, a wife is required to bring an action against her husband in whatever domicile he may have acquired since they parted.

"Even the provisions of the Divorce Jurisdiction Act of 1930 which permit a wife after two years to commence action in the province in which she was deserted do not give her anything like equal rights with her husband under the law as it stands today," Senator Fergusson said.

"RELIC" OF SUBSERVIENCE

Objections to the present laws governing the domicile of married women include the contention that it is illogical to retain "this relic of a wife's subservience to her husband," she said.

The United Nations commission on the status of women has recommended that a married woman should have the same right to establish her domicile as a man or a single woman, she said.

The 400 delegates supported Senator Fergusson's recommendation that a special committee be set up to study the question and recommend changes to give married women the same rights as single women and men.

Retiring President Maude Bayley of Brampton told delegates the federation's new national office now is open in Ottawa with Mrs. Eileen Williamson of Toronto as executive-secretary.

Mrs. Bayley also urged federation clubs to continue their campaign for more women senators. There now are five.

Sunday School Picnic

ST. PAUL'S MISSION

Approximately 150 adults and children enjoyed the annual St. Paul's Mission Belleville, picnic held recently at Birds Beach, Oak Lake.

Races, candy scrambles, and swimming were enjoyed by old and young, during the day's outing.

The picnic was organized by Mrs. James McKenna and Mr. Jimmy Zakos, and according to those who attended "each year it is better than ever."

For the past 25 years this annual picnic has been made possible through the assistance and generosity of the Houston Co. and Harry Smith Coal Co., who loaned trucks and drivers to transport the children to the beach.

St. Paul's Mission wishes to thank these two companies and also the management of the beach canteen for their assistance in making the picnic a success.

Mrs. Eisenhower Back in Capital With New Look

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Eisenhower has arrived in Ottawa with a new look.

She is 10 pounds slimmer than she was last winter and has made a slight concession to the "new look" by wearing colored hose.

However, she continues to shun the "sack look" for the more easy to wear natural line.

The wife of the United States president on arrival here Tuesday for a state visit was greeted and presented a bouquet of white orchids by Olive Diefenbaker, wife of Canada's prime minister.

Mamie Eisenhower wore a two-piece fitted suit of black silk flecked with small white flowers. She wore a tiny white hat and black accessories, including black-toned stockings.

Later at Government House, the governor - general's residence, she removed the suit top and wore only the cool-looking square-necked dress.

Mrs. Diefenbaker wore a beige linen suit with a bloused effect at the back, and a tiny tam covered with creamy petals and trimmed with brown velvet.

Three months ago Mrs. Eisenhower spent several days taking a beauty course at a secluded Arizona resort called Main Chance. The effects are noticeable.

She is 10 pounds slimmer and is wearing her hair shorter. The familiar "Mamie bangs" remain but her hair is combed back from her face and upwards.

Women's Activities

NORTHPORT W. A.

NORTHPORT — The Northport W. A.'s June meeting was entertained by Mrs. Murney Lindsay at the village hall. The president, Mrs. Duncan Smith, introduced the leader of the worship service, Miss R. C. Wallbridge, whose theme was "The Love of God in Action in Our Time", citing such practical evidence as the local work of the CNIB among the sightless, the work of the Humane Society towards abolishing cruelty in marketing and slaughtering of animals, towards stamping out disease among animals and the TB survey.

The aims of the society, as set forth in the constitution, were reviewed.

Mrs. Eric Foster gave a brief report of the WA rally in Picton, noting particularly the evidence of closer co-operation between WA and WMS and the evident awareness of the need for a deepening of the spiritual life of the congregation.

The president expressed appreciation for the generous contributions of the community in work and donations which had made the June food sale held at Gentile's, in Picton, a success, financially.

The immaculate condition of the hall and its gleaming floors, freshly painted walls and ceiling, now curtains and shades, improved kitchen and spic and span exterior delighted the members. Gratitude was expressed for the vast amount of volunteer labor of both men and women which has made this possible.

Tea was served at flower - decked tables by the hostess and her assistants, and a jolly visiting session concluded this pleasant evening.

No Dramatic Agreements Expected in Ottawa Parley

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Eisenhower and Secretary of States Dulles have come to Ottawa on a three-day visit that will certainly improve the international atmosphere on the North American continent.

It is quite unlikely there is anything seriously wrong with relations between the two countries. But in many Canadian quarters people think our friends are not as friendly as they should be and there is much talk of friction.

Neither Washington nor Ottawa officials want that sort of thing and it may safely be assumed that the main reason for the president and Mr. Dulles taking three days off for a friendly visit in Ottawa is to dispel the unhealthy thinking that has developed.

It would be wrong to expect any dramatic agreements or decisions from the meetings this week between the United States president and Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his ministers. That could only if there had been careful preliminary planning and negotiation. If such has been the case it has been a most carefully — guarded secret.

Thus it is unlikely the president will announce, for instance, that the U.S. wheat disposal program has been abruptly changed to protect Canadian export interests that our exports to the U.S. will be eased, nice and oil will not be discurbed by restrictions, or that there is not U.S. will join in recognizing Communist China.

In the talks here the president and Mr. Dulles are under a handicap not suffered by Mr. Diefenbaker. They administer the government of the U.S. but have no control over the law-making congress. It is beyond their control, dominated by a party opposed to the administration.

On the other hand, Mr. Diefenbaker is fresh from a general election that gave him more control over the legislative section of the Canadian government than any party leader has ever enjoyed.

Mr. Diefenbaker has urged a much closer relationship between the legislators of the two countries as well as between their ministers. This cause no doubt will be forwarded this week. The talks probably will have as their main purpose creation of a state of mind in which the two countries can co-operate to the greatest possible mutual advantage.

Apart from those affected by economic measures effective in the U.S., it is probable the main grievance of Canadians is that the U.S., from the White House and Congress down, takes Canada and Canadians too casually—too much for granted.

Any attempt now, no doubt, will be for President Eisenhower and his people to try to assure Canadians at all levels that they respect us, like us and want to know us better—and that they realize either country would be lonely indeed if that long border became anything other than a binding link of friendship and complete trust.

Cancer Cells Have Negative Electric Charge

LONDON (AP)—Cancer cells with a curiously strong electrical charge were reported today to the international cancer congress. British scientists reported the curious and apparently dangerous electrical charges in cancers.

The healthy cells stick together and don't go wandering off.

But cancer cells seem to develop strong negative electric charges. This could make them repel other cells, so they move about freely and spread to start cancers elsewhere in the body, said E. J. Ambrose and G. Easty of the Chester Beatty Research Institute in London.

They have been studying cells growing in tissue culture. The cells are kept alive and growing in glass tubes or plates.

The cancer cells gained increasingly strong negative charges as a tumor developed and as it grew. Then, and not able to spread, the scientists said. The negative charge became stronger than that of healthy cells. The cancer cells could be made to stick together by adding certain chemicals which carry a positive electric charge.

The research is helping to explain the chemical nature of changes taking place on the surface of cancer cells. It might prove useful as a method some day of stopping the spread of cancers.

Baie Comeau Sitting on Front Door of Great Treasure House Waiting for Boom to Start

BAIE COMEAU, Que. (CP)—Transmission lowers stride like spindly giants across the craggy countryside, trailing the power cables that carry Baie Comeau's lifeblood.

Like other communities in the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, Baie Comeau had been sitting at the front door of the great Labrador-Ungava treasure house of mineral and timber wealth, waiting for the boom to start.

Then it started its own boom with a potent formula for the future: Power and people.

Power and timber brought the Quebec North Shore Paper Company here in 1936, and the newsprint mill brought the people.

The town now has 12,000, with an equal number in nearby communities. Young men were leaving to find work elsewhere in 1955, when the formula was first proven. The Canadian British Aluminium Company Limited moved in to build a $100,000,000 smelter, providing 2,000 jobs.

And so it spread, the scientists said. The negative charge became stronger than that of healthy cells. The cancer cells could be made to stick together by adding certain chemicals which carry a positive electric charge.

The research is helping to explain the chemical nature of changes taking place on the surface of cancer cells. It might prove useful as a method some day of stopping the spread of cancers.

Major Oil Company Will Be Further Questioned on Feasibility of New Line

TORONTO (CP) — The Borden commission on energy today scheduled further questioning of major oil companies to determine whether an oil pipeline from Edmonton to Montreal is economically feasible.

The commission, under Toronto lawyer-industrialist Henry Borden, was to hear briefs from the British American, Shell and Cities Service oil companies.

The suggested 1,800-mile $400,000,000 pipeline from Edmonton to Montreal shaped up as the major topic but it was possible Shell might be questioned on its decision to reduce imports from Canada at its Anacortes, Wash., refinery.

The decision, coupled with general U.S. import restrictions, heightened interest in the pipeline, proposed by R. A. Brown, Jr., president of Home Oil Company of Calgary.

Construction of the line, which has been offered as a means for finding a new market for the hard-pressed Alberta oil fields, would depend on guarantees by Montreal refiners that they would discontinue taking oil from the Middle East and Venezuela and use the Alberta crude.

PREMIER SUGGESTS

" (Premier Manning of Alberta said in an Edmonton press conference Tuesday the eastern refineries should be required to take a substantial supply of Canadian oil if they refused to do so voluntarily.

(He suggested that with the cross - country pipeline assured, the federal government" could encourage the oil companies to sign long-term contracts for Canadian crude that would make pipeline financing possible.

'The premier said the companies could be told if they would not, or could not, make their own arrangements for taking a substantial supply of Canadian crude, they would then be required to do so by the federal"-government.)

Imperial Oil—one of the eastern refineries concerned—objected its appearances before the commission Tuesday, still firm on its stand that the line would be uneconomical. But it offered one hope for pipeline backers.

IF NO OTHER

Imperial would consider the line if no other markets were found for Alberta oil.

Imperial President J. R. White said, however, possible enlargement of the Ontario market should be explored fully and all other market possibilities should be exhausted first. The Canadian government should ask the U.S. to relax import controls on oil.

Mr. White said Imperial has no ulterior motive in wanting to keep foreign crude in Montreal despite the fact that part of it was supplied by an Imperial affiliate, Creole Oil Company.

FIRE LEVELS BUILDING

CAMPBELLFORD Ont. (CP) — Fire Tuesday night destroyed a two-storey frame warehouse at the rear of the A. D. Bennett Company, causing an estimated $35,000 damage. No injuries were reported. Firemen fought the blaze for more than two hours before bringing it under control. Campbellford is 25 miles east of Peterborough.

Montreal Mayor Assails Legality Of Gas Contract

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Drapeau, former Montreal mayor, has served notice on Trans-Canada Pipe Line Limited of Toronto that he will contest the legality of its natural gas supply contract with the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

He also told the provincial electricity board that he would present argument today to show that the contract was invalid because prices charged the corporation by Trans-Canada were not approved by the board in accordance with the law.

Mr. Drapeau is a leader of the Civic Action League which opposes a corporation application for a gas rate revision which the electricity board is hearing.

Indian Girl Badly Beaten

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (CP)—A young Indian girl found bruised and bleeding beside the CPR track and Spanish, 25 miles east of here, was reported Tuesday night in serious condition in hospital here.

The unidentified girl was seen falling out of a freight car by station agent K. E. Armstrong, who was about 18 to 20 years old.

A man, was also reported to have jumped out of the car but he disappeared. Police said the girl was badly beaten. She had a broken jaw, bruises and cuts to the face and head.

11-Month School Year For H.S. Teachers Proposed

KINGSTON (CP) — The possibility of an 11-month school year for Ontario high school teachers has been suggested by Education Minister Dunlop.

"We have some new ideas to work out in our educational system," Dr. Dunlop Tuesday told 120 men attending a secondary school principals' course at Queen's University. Among the problems, he said, were the length of the school year, teacher preparation, in - service training and how to deal with student leaders.

The five-week summer course at the university is sponsored by the department of education.

Dr. Dunlop said the extra month in the school year could be used to mark examination papers and prepare schedules, leaving the entire present 10 - month year for academic training.

He said teachers would be paid extra for the longer term and those wishing the two - month summer break for long study could arrange it.

Dr. Dunlop asked the principals to consider in their discussions ways of handling students who refuse to work up to their abilities, referring to them as "our loafers and laggards."

"Should they be thrown out on the labor market, possibly to cause harm there?" he asked. "Or should special trades schools be established for them? At the present many of them are clogging our classrooms, not working and in some cases preventing others from working."

President Lays Wreath on War Memorial

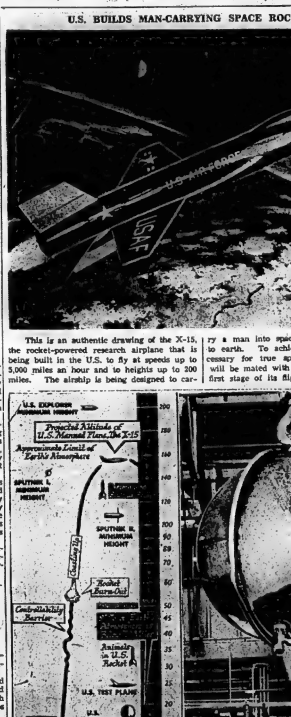
OTTAWA (CP) — The wreath that President Eisenhower was to place this morning at the National War Memorial is the handiwork of disabled war veterans.

The nine - pound wreath, 30 inches in diameter, was produced in the Toronto Veterait Shop, operated by the department of veterans affairs at Toronto's Sunnybrook Hospital.

The wreath is of magnolia and poppy leaves, interspersed with statice, a type of delicate fern. Six yards of red, white and blue ribbon form a large bow at the top. On each side of the bow are red and white artificial rosebuds and blue cornflowers. Clusters of maple leaves and poppies are at the bottom, with two 10-inch-long cycas leaves extending up on each side filling in the wreath's centre background.

Attached to the wreath is a card bearing the presidential crest and the inscription: "The President of the United States of America."

Teen-agers Beat Elderly Refugee To Death



NEW YORK (AP) — Four teen - aged muggers set on a 67-year-old refugee to death early Wednesday and severely injured his wife in a Brooklyn street robbery. The youths escaped with less than $5.

Less than an hour later, apparently the same gang of roving youths jumped another man a mile away. They left this victim, Julio Torres, 34, lying critically injured on the street but did not rob him.

The fatally beaten man was Vasil Krouglikoff, 67, assaulted with his wife, Maria, 57, as they were about to enter a subway station after visiting friends. The couple were Russian refugees who came to the United States a few months ago.

Their assailants were four Negroes who answered the same description as the attackers of Torres.

ECONOMIC

Canada had expressed concern over its huge deficit in American trade, a deficit amounting to a record $1,400,000,000 in 1957. But Mr. Eisenhower observed that the two countries are not state traders. American goods came into Canada simply because Canadians wanted to buy them.

"To try to balance our books once a month or once a year with every nation with which we trade would stifle rather than expand trade.

"I assume that Canada is as interested as we are in the expansion of world trade rather than in its artificial redirection."

Mr. Eisenhower added, apparently referring to statements of Prime Minister Diefenbaker who had suggested it would be a good thing if Canada could divert some of the American imports to British factories.

NEED VIGOR, EXPANSION

"Both our peoples want to buy and sell in a climate of economic vigor and expansion. An imbalance in trade with one country in such a climate, is usually balanced or largely offset by the state of the accounts with other trading nations."

This was the case with Canadian trade.

The U.S. had used so-called escape clauses under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade to increase tariffs only about a dozen times since 1951. In only one case had Canada been directly affected as an exporter.

"We have always conscientiously sought to take account of your interests as well as our own in seeking the best remedy to these problems. I am sure that a study of the record will bear this out."

While dwelling largely on Canadian-American economic problems, Mr. Eisenhower emphasized that the bigger problem is to overcome communism, particularly if its current economic offensive.

MOST DECISIVE AREA

"Our system of free enterprise is challenged throughout the world by a state-directed, state-controlled economic system. Indeed, that could well be the area in which the competition will be most bitter and most decisive between the Free World and Communist imperialism.

"We must never allow ourselves to become so preoccupied with the differences between our two nations that we lose sight of the transcendant importance of Free World co-operation in the winning of the global struggle."

With this, Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who introduced the president, agreed. The Communist world was waging an intensive economic global offensive of aid and trade designed to subvert free souls to communism.

WANTS JOINT EFFORTS

"To meet this new and ever enlarging phase of the Communist cold war," said Mr. Diefenbaker, "I believe that joint efforts are needed to expand world trade to increase the financial base of liquid reserves necessary for such expansion, and to help in raising standards of peoples in underdeveloped countries."

Canada, he added, was ready to do its share. Canada saluted Mr. Eisenhower as freedom's wartime leader and as one "whose wisdom, humanitarianism and prestige are once more humanity's hope for freedom and peace."

Eisenhower said Canadians need have no fear that the U.S. would turn away from its policy of fostering world commerce. Canadians had been worried about the large flow of American capital into Canada and its impact on foreign control of Canadian industry.

CORRECT DEFECTS

Mr. Eisenhower was sure that if there were any defects in this investment process "ways will be found to correct them." Yet he pointed out that Canadian companies controlled by Americans are controlled by Canadian laws.

"Moreover, these investments have helped you to develop your resources and to expand your industrial plant at a far faster rate than would have been possible had you relied wholly on your own savings.

"They have thereby helped to provide employment, tax revenues and other direct benefits. These funds have also helped Canada to finance with ease its recent surplus of imports from the U.S., a fact that is testified to by the premium of the Canadian dollar over the U.S. dollar."

His statements were included in a text of his speech issued to the press before delivery.

Massey Gives Eskimo Carving To Eisenhower

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Massey Thursday presented President Eisenhower with an Eskimo stone carving.

It was done by Thomasie, a leading Eskimo carver who lives with his wife and family in the village of Povungnituk on the east coast of Hudson Bay—one of the most northerly of Quebec settlements, lying on the 60th parallel.

The carving, seven inches high and weighing 14 pounds, represents an Eskimo hunter, with a full bag under his left arm, rising from the snow and slinging a Canada goose over his left shoulder with his right hand.

LOOKS FOR SHOES

DETROIT (AP) — Patrolman Glenn Apers spent three hours Tuesday studying the shoes of passing boys. He finally found the right one. The youth was wearing mis-colored footprints. He had walked in water-color paints scattered in the school yard by vandals who did $200 damage.

LESAGE DEMANDS

The announcement came on the eve of a tour which Mr. Lesage launches tonight at Actonvale, a tour to "inform the public about what the Liberal party has been able to find out" about the gas transaction.

Mr. Lesage also announced the appointment of Aicide Courcy, Liberal member of the legislature for Abitibi West, as the party's chief organizer.

The Liberal leader called "significant" the fact that Mr. Duplessis did not hold his regular weekly press conference last Friday although "he was in Quebec City." He stressed what he called "Mr. Duplessis' silence" about the transaction.

"What he is going to do we don't know," said Mr. Lesage. "He said only that he will take judicial procedures against Le Devoir.

"Mr. Duplessis wants to take action against the very ones who want to bring the matter to light."

BUS TRAFFIC

Canadian inter-city and rural bus systems carried 13,525,900 passengers in the first quarter of 1958, an 8.7 per cent drop.

Queen's Illness Not Serious Says Doctor

LONDON (AP) — The Queen, suffering from an 8-day sinus attack, spent a comfortable night but has cancelled all appointments for the rest of this week, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said today.

Her temperature, which had risen to 100 when the suddenly cut short e tour in Scotland Tuesday to return to London, fell during the night, her doctors reported. They did not say, however, if it was normal.

Cancelling the Queen's activities means she will not attend the garden party Thursday, at which Commonwealth debutantes including 40 from Canada, were to be presented.

A palace spokesman said Queen Mother Elizabeth is to be hostess in the Queen's place.

Doctors described the Queen's ailment as acute sinusitis, accompanied by a fever. They said it is not serious.

Senate Hearing On Pro Sport Starts Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate hearings start today on a bill to exempt major professional sports from the anti-trust laws. Mickey Mantle, Ted Williams and Stan Musial are among the lead-off witnesses.

The initial hearing by the Senate anti-trust and monopoly sub-committee was arranged to make it convenient for these and other baseball players to testify after Tuesday's all-star game in Baltimore.

Another scheduled witness is Maney Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, who piloted the American League all-stars to a 4-3 victory over their National League rivals.

The legislation covers professional football, basketball and hockey as well as baseball. It would exempt from anti-trust restrictions player drafts, contract options, trades, territorial rights and other practices in the four sports.

It would not apply, however, to such commercial activities as ticket sales and ball park concessions and rentals.

The measure, strongly backed by club owners, is the outgrowth of a Supreme Court ruling that professional football, unlike baseball, is subject to the anti-trust laws. The decision implied that other professional sports also have no exemption.

AT THE PARK — Mark Stevens, as a man out to revenge the murder of his family, traps the guilty man. "Gun Fever", a United Artists release, will open Thursday at the air conditioned Park Theatre. John Lupton, Larry Storch and Jana Lloyd co-star. On the same program is CinemaScope and Color, "Fort Massacre", starring Joel McCrea, Forrest Tucker and Susan Cabot. Both action hits are first Belleville showings.

Movie Column

Ricky Nelson Highest-Paid 18-Year-Old in States

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Meet Ricky Nelson, doubtless the highest-paid 18-year-old in the United States.

Ricky is the youngest of the talented Nelson clan. Not only does he appear on the Ozzie and Harriet TV show with his parents and brother David, but also sells millions of records and has drawn up to 26,000 people on singing appearances.

He's now making his first dramatic movie, playing a young gun slinger in Rio Bravo. Here is the result of a question-and-answer session:

Q. Pat Wayne said he read you're worth $1,500,000, is that true?

A. I don't know what I'm worth. I never see the money.

Q. Where is it — in the bank?

A. In the bank. I get it when I'm 21.

Q. What are you going to do with it?

A. Spend it.

Q. What do you live on now?

A. My folks give me money when I ask for it. I don't need much—about $10 a week.

Q. Are your personal appearances dangerous?

A. They can be. I lose some of my clothing now and then. I generally take along two ex-football players to protect me.

Q. If they're so rugged, why do you go on those tours?

A. I like to sing.

Q. Did you ever take any lessons?

A. No. I used to sing in a church choir. And I was a big fan of classical music when I was about 8.

Q. Doesn't it bother you to be constantly recognized wherever you go?

A. Sometimes it does. Especially in other towns, which I can't see much of because of the crowds. But it's not so bad here.

Q. Aren't you the singer who doesn't wiggle?

A. I don't move much on the TV show. On personals, I move a little more. I don't think about it much.

American Players Confident They Will Reach Cup Final

TORONTO (CP)—Tennis eyebrows have been raised over the squad for its Davis Cup tie with Canada this week, but non-tiers playing captain Perry Jones is confident his young charges will end up in the challenge round against cup-holders Australia.

"But we anticipate a very close and exciting series of matches," the tennis veteran from Los Angeles conceded in an interview Tuesday night.

Most tennis experts would agree with him. The U.S. team has been rated as one of the weakest in recent years and is virtually untried in Davis Cup competition.

And although Canada hasn't beaten the U.S. in 11 previous starts, Captain Lorne Main of Montreal has predicted a 3-2 victory for his team in the semi-final of the North American zone competition.

Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, main hope of American team, said earlier: "The pressure will be on us. Let's face it we could lose."

ONLY AMERICAN

MacKay is fifth-ranked in the U.S. tennis standings and was the only American to reach the quarter-finals of the recent Wimbledon singles championships. He was beaten by Mervyn Rose, Australian Davis Cup player who teamed with MacKay to reach the semi-finals of the doubles competition.

Besides MacKay, members of the U.S. team are Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., Sam Giammalva of Houston, Tex., Earl Buchholz, Jr., of St. Louis, Mo., and Jack Douglas of Stanford University, Stanford, Calif.

Reed is ranked eighth and Giammalva 16th. The others are unranked. Buchholz, 17, won the junior boys' title at Wimbledon—last week, but has had no Davis Cup experience. Douglas, a star footballer at Stanford who graduated Phi Beta Kappa, is a dark horse.

Canada's Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and Don Fontana of Toronto routed Cuba 5-0 in first-round play last weekend and will most likely carry the load against the Americans. The Canada-U.S. winner will meet Argentina in the zone final for the right to advance against the European zone victor.

Play starts Thursday at the Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club with the first two singles matches. The doubles are scheduled for Friday and the two concluding singles Saturday.

BRAMPTON (CP) — Ron Roy fired five goals Tuesday night to pace Welland - Crowland Switzons to a 15-11 victory over Brampton Jaycees in a Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game.

Don Baker scored three goals for the winners. Mike Damico, Doug Gordon and Skip Pearce got two. Joe MacNulty scored a single.

Bill Castator netted four goals for Brampton and Fraser Rock picked up three. Two were scored by Bert Russell, Jack Madgett, Harvey Madgett, Bill Wanless and Ralph McCormick.

Canadiens Swap Mazur for Elik

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens announced Tuesday they have acquired Boris Elik from Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League in exchange for Eddie Mazur, who has been with Rochester of the AHL. Both are leftwingers.

Elik, although 28, has been in pro hockey only two seasons, graduating from the North Bay Trappers. He was the AHL rookie of the year in the 1956-57 season. Mazur, a much-travelled pro, was a regular with the National Hockey League Canadiens several seasons ago and in the farm system since.

Three Fifths of Summer TV Programs Consist of Reruns

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Constant Viewer, if his television habits are rigid, is now in the midst of a 13-week period of reliving his past.

For every hour of new material he glimpses on his home screen, he'll see 90 minutes of repeated film and television shows.

And new material this summer primarily means people playing parlor games or answering quiz questions before a camera.
